Hi Rob and Ruthann,

I understand that this rule was not included in the changes you have previously sent out in the Perpetual Licensing Draft Rules, however one of my subject matter experts just brought to my attention that a level of care that is currently not being met, could be solved by a small addition to this rule.

Under R9-10-702, subsection 3 states:

“Whether the applicant is requesting authorization to provide:

- a. Residential services to individuals 18 years of age or older whose behavioral health issue limits the individuals’ ability to function independently, or
- b. b. Personal care services;”

We have this ability to reimburse for this service but under your current licensing rules it cannot be requested. We ask that you add it to R9-10-1802 so it can be requested in the Supplemental Application for Behavioral Health Therapeutic Homes as well.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,

Nicole Fries

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION (F19-0606)
Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 4, Live Wildlife

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 7, 2019

SUBJECT: GAME AND FISH COMMISSION (F19-0606)
Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 4, Live Wildlife

This Five Year Review Report (5YRR) from the Game and Fish Commission (Agency) relates to 26 rules in Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 4 regarding live wildlife. The rules cover a range of issues including, but not limited to: definitions, possession of wildlife, license requirements, and captivity standards.

The Council approved the previous 5YRR for these rules in December 2013. Based on the previous 5YRR, the Agency completed a rulemaking that substantially amended the rules in Article 4 in November 2015. The Notice of Final Rulemaking is located at 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

Proposed Action

For the reasons specified in the report, the Agency proposes to amend the following rules:

- R12-4-401 (Live Wildlife Definitions);
- R12-4-403 (Escaped or Released Live Wildlife);
- R12-4-405 (Importing, Purchasing, and Transporting Live Wildlife without an Arizona License or Permit);
- R12-4-406 (Restricted Live Wildlife);

- R12-4-407 (Exemptions from Special License Requirements for Restricted Live Wildlife);
- R12-4-409 (General Provisions and Penalties for Special Licenses);
- R12-4-410 (Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License);
- R12-4-411 (Live Bait Dealers' License);
- R12-4-412 (Special License Fees);
- R12-4-413 (Private Game Farm License);
- R12-4-414 (Game Bird License);
- R12-4-417 (Wildlife Holding License);
- R12-4-418 (Scientific Collecting License);
- R12-4-420 (Zoo License);
- R12-4-421 (Wildlife Service License);
- R12-4-422 (Sport Falconry License);
- R12-4-423 (Wildlife Rehabilitation License);
- R12-4-424 (White Amur Stocking and Holding License);
- R12-4-428 (Captivity Standards); and
- R12-4-430 (Importation, Handling, and Possession of Cervids).

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Agency cites to both general and specific authority for these rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The Agency states that the economic impact of most of the rules in Article 4 do not differ significantly from what was indicated in the economic impact statements from 2015 and 2017.

The Agency notes that the economic impact of R12-4-412 (Special License Fees) was originally anticipated to be minimal. However, the Game and Fish Department (Department) determined that the administrative burden of processing these special licenses is significantly higher than the revenue that the fees generate. A 2011 audit determined that the special licenses generated approximately $110,000 in revenue and cost the Department approximately $230,000 in resources in one year.

The stakeholders include the Agency, the Department, businesses that work with wildlife, and the public.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Agency indicates that the rules require numerous amendments. Once the amendments are completed, the rules will impose the least burden and costs to regulated populations.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

Yes. The Agency indicates that it has received numerous written comments/criticisms of the rules over the last five years. The Agency has adequately responded to those comments/criticisms.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Agency indicates that the rules are clear, concise, understandable, effective, and consistent with other rules and statutes. The Agency notes those rules whose clarity, understandability, or effectiveness could be improved.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Agency indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

No. Where the Agency indicates there is a corresponding federal law for certain rules, the Agency states that those rules are not more stringent than the corresponding federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

For those rules in Article 4 that require a permit, the Agency certifies that it is in compliance with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The following rules require a permit:

- R12-4-410 (Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License);
- R12-4-411 (Live Bait Dealer's License);
- R12-4-413 (Private Game Farm License);
- R12-4-414 (Game Bird License);
- R12-4-417 (Wildlife Holding License);
- R12-4-418 (Scientific Collecting License);
- R12-4-420 (Zoo License);
- R12-4-421 (Wildlife Service License);
- R12-4-422 (Sport Falconry License);
- R12-4-423 (Wildlife Rehabilitation License); and
- R12-4-424 (White Amur Stocking and Holding License).

9. Conclusion

Council staff finds that the rules are clear, concise, understandable, and effective. Council staff finds that once the Agency amends the rules identified above and in the report, the clarity and effectiveness of the rules will be improved. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

REPORT - ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

Under A.R.S. § 41-1056, every agency shall review its rules at least once every five years to determine whether any rule should be amended or repealed. Each agency shall prepare a report summarizing its findings, its supporting reasons, and any proposed course of action; and obtain approval of the report from the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (G.R.R.C.).

G.R.R.C. determines the review schedule. The Arizona Game and Fish Commission's rules listed under Article 4, Live Wildlife, are scheduled to be reviewed by April 2019.

The Arizona Game and Fish Department tasked a team of employees to review the rules contained within Article 4. The Department prepared a report of its findings based on G.R.R.C. standards. In its report, the review team addressed all internal comments from agency staff as well as comments received from the public. The team took a customer-focused approach, considering each comment from a resource perspective and determining whether the request would cause undue harm to the state's wildlife or negatively affect the Department's wildlife objectives. The review team then determined whether the request was consistent with the Department's overall mission, if it could be effectively implemented given agency resources, and if it was acceptable to the public.

The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by May 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in this report to the Council by May 2021, provided the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking or the current moratorium is not extended.

With this report, the Department also certifies its compliance with the requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1091:

1. The Department publishes an annual directory summarizing the subject matter of all currently applicable rules and substantive policy statements;
2. The Department maintains a copy of the directory and all substantive policy statements at the Arizona Game and Fish Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086;
3. The Department includes the notice specified under A.R.S. § 41-1091(B) on the first page of each substantive policy statement; and
4. The Department provides the directory, rules, substantive policy statements, and any other material incorporated by reference in the directory, rules or substantive policy statements. These documents are open to public inspection at the Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086.

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

R12-4-401. Live Wildlife Definitions

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-238, and 17-306

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish definitions that assist the regulated community and members of the public in understanding the unique terms that are used throughout Article 4. The rule was adopted to facilitate consistent interpretation of, and prevent the regulated community from misinterpreting, the intent of Commission rules.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The rule incorporates by reference the October 10, 2013 edition of 50 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife) and the October 10, 2014 edition of 50 C.F.R. 10.13 (list of migratory birds). The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference the most recent edition of the federal regulation incorporated by reference.

- 5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Enforcement of the rule manifests itself through proper administration. Enforcement is directed to a rule or an order in which a definition is used. It is not the term that is cited, but the violation. To the extent that the Department is aware, there have been no problems with enforcement. Providing definitions for the unique terms used in Article 4 assist the public, Department personnel, and members of law enforcement in understanding the contents and meaning of Article 4 rules.

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department is aware confusion exists in regards to the definition of "game farm." The current definition references terrestrial wildlife and parts of terrestrial wildlife. The game farm license stipulates the species and parts of wildlife that may be commercially farmed and sold by a game farm license holder. The Department intends to amend the rule to remove references to "terrestrial wildlife or the parts of terrestrial wildlife" from the definition of "game farm" to reflect changes made to R12-4-413 (game farm license) to make the rule more concise.

The Department is aware confusion exists as to who has the authority to complete a health certificate. The current definition of "health certificate" means a certificate of inspection by a licensed veterinarian. The Department intends to amend the rule to clarify that a health certificate may also be completed by a federal or state certified inspector to make the rule more concise.

Hybrid wildlife is defined under R12-4-401 and R12-4-422. The Department also proposes to amend the rule to exclude from the definition of "hybrid" all hybrid birds as defined under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA) under 50 C.F.R. 21.3 (definitions), revised October 1, 2017 to make the rule more concise.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Written Comment: July 23, 2013. The state of Arizona's current regulations regarding restricted live wildlife are significant, but in light of substantial evidence of the clear and considerable risks associated with the private possession of these animals, the state should further strengthen its regulations by adding additional species to the definition of restricted live wildlife and limiting the use of these animals. Wild animals that have the capacity to cause death, inflict serious injury and spread deadly diseases (such as big cats, bears, wolves, hyenas, non-human primates, and all species of procyonidae) should be designated as Dangerous Wild Animals and subjected to additional restrictions in Arizona's regulations regarding restricted live wildlife as set forth below.

Agency Response: The Department disagrees. The intent of the recommended defined term is to restrict public contact with and the breeding of "dangerous wild animals." Such restrictions are already in place within Article 4 and are implemented without the need for this definition.

Written Comment: July 23, 2013. Only institutions accredited by or affiliated with the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA) should be able to breed dangerous wild animals. The AZA is the only domestic organization that manages endangered species through Species Survival Plan (SPP) programs, which are based on the best available science to maintain genetic integrity of captive colonies as a hedge against extinction. Unlike the AZA's SPP, commercial breeding of dangerous wild animals to produce babies to attract visitors, to use for public contact activities, or to sell in the exotic animal trade is done without regard to lineage and genetic diversity or planning for the lifetime care of long-lived animals. Irresponsible breeding practices often result in inbreeding that produces animals that suffer from serious congenital defects, as well as cross-breeding of animals to produce curiosities such as "ligers." Insert a new definition for "zoo:" "Zoo" means an institution accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA), certified related facilities that coordinate with AZA Species Survival Plan (SSP) Programs for breeding of species listed as threatened or endangered pursuant to 16 U.S.C. § 1533, or facilities that are actively seeking accreditation or certification by the AZA.

Agency Response: The suggested definition fails to include licensing or recognition by the Arizona Game and Fish Department. Establishing a new definition of "zoo" under A.R.S. § 17-101 requires an act by the Arizona Legislature. The possession, propagation, and sale of wildlife defined as "restricted live wildlife" under R12-4-406 (restricted live wildlife) is strictly regulated under both state and federal law. "Dangerous" wildlife are restricted under R12-4-406. R12-4-406 further regulates the possession, propagation, and sale of hybrid wildlife resulting from the interbreeding of at least one parent species listed as restricted; this would include "ligers."

Written Comment: May 15, 2018. Under R12-4-420(B), there are four criteria to satisfy in order to meet the overall requirements for a zoo license. However, under subsection (J), there is a requirement that the facility state the days of the week and the hours when the facility is open for viewing for the general public. Many facilities that specialize in breeding for science, wildlife management, or conservation may not be open to the public as their focus may not be on public education or entertainment. This would still meet the criteria as defined under R12-4-401 (live wildlife definitions). However, there is a discrepancy in definitions as stated in the opening statement in R12-4-401. Under R12-4-401, "zoo" means any facility licensed by the Arizona Game and Fish Department under R12-4-420 or, for facilities located outside of Arizona, licensed or recognized by the applicable governing agency. Under A.R.S. § 17-101, "zoo" means a commercial facility open to the public where the principal business is holding wildlife in captivity for exhibition purposes. A.R.S. § 17-101 conflicts with R12-4-420(A) and subsection (B)(1), (2), and (4). A.R.S. § 17-101 uses an archaic definition of zoo from a time of traveling menageries. By using this archaic definition, it puts facilities that focus on research, wildlife management, and wildlife conservation at a disadvantage and burdens these facilities with a requirement to be open to the public. We request clarification of subsection (B)(1), "Advancement of science or commercial purpose (as defined under R12-4-401) for the maintenance of captive live wildlife (as defined under R12-4-401) management." We request removal of subsection (J)(8) or replace with "Animals will be held on a zoo license for science or commercial purpose (as defined under R12-4-401) for the maintenance of captive wildlife (as defined under R12-4-401), management, promotion of public health or welfare, public education, or wildlife conservation." We request a modernization of the A.R.S. § 17-101 definition that will bring R12-4-420 and A.R.S. § 17-101 in line with each other.

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Agency Response: Any modernization of the definition of "zoo: under A.R.S. § 17-101 requires an act by the Arizona Legislature. The current definition requires zoo licenses to be issued only to commercial facilities open to the public where the principal business is wildlife exhibition.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to clarify, adopt, and repeal definitions for terms within Article 4 rules. Because the Commission determined definitions alone have no impact on the Department or regulated community, the Commission anticipated the amendments would have little or no impact on the Department or persons regulated by the rule.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.

- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes definitions that assist the regulated community and members of the public in understanding the unique terms that are used throughout Article 4. The public benefits from a rule that defines terms referenced throughout Commission rules as they help to clarify the Commission's intent and foster consistent interpretation of Commission rules. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-401 as follows:

- Transfer the definition of "cervid" to R12-4-101 as the term "cervid" is also used in Articles 1 and 3.
- Exclude from the definition of "hybrid" all hybrid birds as defined under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA) under 50 C.F.R. 21.3 (definitions), revised October 1, 2017 to make the rule more concise.
- Incorporate by reference the most recent editions of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife) and 50 C.F.R. 10.13 (list of migratory birds).
- Remove references to "terrestrial wildlife or the parts of terrestrial wildlife" from the definition of "game farm" to reflect changes made to R12-4-413 (game farm license) to make the rule more concise.
- Clarify the health certificate may also be completed by a federal or state certified inspector to make the rule more concise.
- Repeal the definition of "person" as the term is already defined under R12-4-101.
- Replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-402. Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-238(A), 17-240, 17-250(A), 17-250(B), and 17-306

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish unlawful activities for persons taking and possessing live wildlife and the Department's authority to take possession of wildlife for a violation of the rule. The rule was adopted to protect native wildlife in many ways: preventing the spread of disease, reducing the risk of released animals competing with native wildlife, and preventing interactions between humans and wildlife that may threaten public health or safety.

A.A.C. 2558, September 16, 2016. This rule was amended on March 3, 2017 to clarify that a federal permit alone is insufficient when a federal agency or its employees perform activities with live wildlife that require a state permit. Many commenters believed the rule was amended to prevent the reintroduction of Mexican gray wolves into Arizona. The Department has issued USFWS multiple permits to release Mexican wolves into Arizona, and as recently as this year, the Department's permit authorized the Service to release or reintroduce Mexican wolves consistent with the jointly prepared and approved annual release plan.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on February 7, 2017. The rule was amended to clarify that federal agencies or employees are not exempt from obtaining a state permit or license when conducting any activity listed under R12-4-402(A). Through this rulemaking, the Commission codified what had been a common practice with government agencies. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would have no measurable impact on Department operations or government partners, as the Department's administrative process for special licenses and permits has been in place for over thirty years.

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the Department's authority to take possession of any escaped or released wildlife that poses an actual or potential threat to native wildlife, wildlife habitat, or to the safety, health, and welfare of the public. The rule was adopted to enable the Department to more closely monitor the use of wildlife in Arizona and to ensure proper management and conservation of the State's resources, particularly in relation to potentially competitive or threatening species or wildlife disease.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

In 2015, the rule was amended to establish the person who releases or allows wildlife to escape is responsible for all costs incurred by the Department associated with seizing or quarantining wildlife. The current rule uses the term "possessing," which has resulted in some confusion. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the person who releases or allows the wildlife to escape is responsible for all costs incurred by the Department associated with seizing or quarantining wildlife to make the rule more understandable.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to clarify and establish owner responsibilities and to allow the Department to seize, quarantine, or euthanize any wildlife that has escaped or is likely to escape and poses a threat to public health, safety, or welfare, wildlife populations or wildlife habitat until it is properly contained or rehomed; remove the reference to A.R.S. § 17-306; and provide additional options necessary for the evaluation of any situation where native wildlife protection and the safety, health and welfare of the public are concerned. The Commission anticipated the proposed rule would impact special license holders and owners by requiring the license holder or owner to bear the expense for the animal's care, however, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden.

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-238(A), and 17-306

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish lawful activities and limitations for a person importing, purchasing, or transporting wildlife or the offspring of wildlife taken without a Department-issued license or permit to prevent harm to native wildlife of this state or to endanger public safety. The rule was adopted to allow individuals to import wildlife not listed as restricted live wildlife and at the same time provide protection for public, wildlife, and livestock health.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes lawful activities and limitations for a person importing, purchasing, or transporting wildlife or the offspring of wildlife taken without a Department-issued license or permit to prevent harm to native wildlife of this state or to endanger public safety. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-405 to repeal subsection (E) to make the rule more concise.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-406. Restricted Live Wildlife

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(B)(8), 17-238(A), 17-255, 17-255.02, and 17-306

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish a list of live wildlife for which a special license is required in order to possess the wildlife and/or to engage in activities that may be prohibited under A.R.S. § 17-306 and R12-4-402 (live wildlife; unlawful acts). The rule was adopted to identify those live wildlife species that would pose a threat to Arizona's natural resources, public health as well as the health and safety if left unregulated.

When adding or removing a species from the restricted wildlife list, the Department bases its decision on the following factors:

- Protection of public health and safety;
- Biological impact on species and ecosystems;
- Consistency with federal, state, and county regulatory agencies; and
- Potential economic impact.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The rule incorporates by reference the October 1, 2014 edition of 50 C.F.R. 10.13 (list of migratory birds). The Department proposes to amend the rule to incorporate the most recent edition of the federal regulation incorporated by reference.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department is aware of some confusion as to whether the offspring of one restricted wildlife species and one nonrestricted species is listed as restricted under R12-4-406. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify hybrid wildlife is considered restricted when one parent wildlife species is listed as restricted.

Effective February 6, 2018, Article 11 (aquatic invasive species) was renumbered to Article 9. Subsection (A) references R12-4-1102 (aquatic invasive species; prohibitions; inspections; decontamination protocols); the Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the citation to R12-4-1102 with R12-4-902 to make the rule more concise.

The Department is aware of some confusion in regards to the hedgehogs. In December 2013, the rule was amended to remove the African pygmy hedgehogs, and hybrids of same, from the list of restricted live wildlife. The African hedgehog, Atelerix genus, is native to Africa. Adults range between 7 and 9 inches in length and weigh between 12 to 35 ounces. Hedgehog species that are not restricted include Atelerix albiventris, A. algirus, Hemiechinus auritus, H. collaris, and any hybrids of these species. The European hedgehog, Erinaceus europaeus genus, is native to the British Isles and other European countries. It is the largest of all hedgehogs with adults ranging between 9 to 14 inches in length and weigh between 28 and 42 ounces. It is characteristically brown in color with a furry underside and head. The European hedgehog, Erinaceus europaeus, and other wild hedgehogs are still considered restricted. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify which hedgehogs are not restricted; and indicate those species that pose a risk to native wildlife and habitat are restricted.

The Department is aware of some confusion as to transgenic species that are created using scientific methods such as genetic engineering. The confusion results from the statement, "a transgenic animal is considered wildlife if the animal is the offspring of at least one wildlife species." This statement does not account for genetically engineered animals. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify a transgenic animal is considered wildlife if the animal's genetic material predominantly originated from wildlife species to proactively address the possession of genetically engineered wildlife.

The Department is aware there are discrepancies between when the italicization of scientific names. The Department proposes to amend the rule to italicize all mentions of Genus and below, with no italics above Genus to be consistent with scientific naming standards.

The Department is no longer conducting Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A and, as a result, there is no need to restrict Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove Northern Bobwhite quail from the list of restricted species.

The Department is aware confusion exists because turkeys are on the list of restricted species, when many species are available for purchase at local pet and feed stores. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify the species of turkey that are restricted.

The Department also proposes to amend the rule to place the listed wildlife in alphabetical order and provide additional common names for certain species to make the rule more concise. The Department recognizes it is not always possible to provide an all-inclusive list of every of the order, family, or genus. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the common names are provided as examples only and are not all-inclusive of the order, family, or genus.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: April 11, 2014. It is my understanding that hedgehogs are prohibited and permits to own them are virtually impossible to obtain. I would like to request a legal process circumventing the current stipulations for licensure: restricted wildlife possession for the purpose(s) of the advancement of science, wildlife management, promotion of public health or welfare, or education. As a responsible pet owner, I would be willing to submit to inspections, etc., to ensure that I can adequately provide for the needs of a hedgehog. On that note, I would like to inquire about how many signatures are needed to legalize hedgehogs for responsible pet owners in Arizona. I want to bring to your attention that there is an ongoing petition to do so with 2,477 signatures as of April 11th at 2:00 pm at the url below. <http://www.petitiononline.com/3311786M/petition.html>

Agency Response: For many years it was illegal to possess a hedgehog in Arizona without first obtaining a special license; the Department does not issue a special license that allows a person to possess restricted wildlife as a pet. However, in December 2015, the Commission amended its rules to remove African pygmy hedgehogs, and hybrids of same, from the list of restricted live wildlife. In Arizona, it is lawful to possess a hedgehog. This recommendation was made in the Five-year Review Report approved by the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (G.R.R.C.) on December 3, 2013; and implemented through final rulemaking approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. It is important to note, European hedgehogs, and hybrids of the same, are still considered restricted live wildlife in Arizona.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to incorporate the online taxonomic authority Integrated Taxonomic Information System (ITIS); remove hedgehogs from the restricted live wildlife list to allow their use as pets; expand "restricted primates" to include all non-human primates in an effort to protect public health and safety; improve consistency between federal and state rules by listing all Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA) birds as restricted live wildlife; include the Red shiner, certain species of tilapia, paddlefish, sturgeon, Chinese mystery snail, and false dark mussel as restricted live wildlife; and include all wildlife listed under the Aquatic Invasive Species Director's Order #1 as restricted live wildlife. The Commission anticipated the proposed amendments would impact persons and businesses that sell the live wildlife that the Commission proposes to add to the list of restricted live wildlife as they will no longer be able to sell Red Shiner, five tilapia species (Oreochromis aureus, O. mossambica; O. niloticus, O. urolepis hornoru, and T. zilli), sturgeon, paddlefish, Chinese mystery snail, apple snail, false dark mussels, non-human primates to persons in Arizona without a lawful exemption or a special license. The Commission anticipated persons possessing wildlife under this rule might incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs are minimal, the required services may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. The Commission anticipated the proposed amendment that removed hedgehogs from the list of restricted live wildlife would benefit businesses that sell them and members of the public who would like to possess them for pets.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

Under A.R.S. 17-306(A) and R12-4-402 (live wildlife; unlawful acts), a person is prohibited from releasing wildlife into the wild without written authorization from the Department. During the past several decades, a deadly bacterial infection is appearing more and more frequently among wild tortoises, likely due to the release of infected tortoises in the wild. This bacterial infection, Upper Respiratory Tract Disease, attacks the tortoise's respiratory system and can be transmitted through sharing of burrows, or through the human handling of tortoises. Because this can occur when a person handles a sick tortoise and then unwittingly transmits the disease to a healthy animal, the Department proposes to amend the rule to specify a desert tortoise cannot be released into the wild to increase consistency between Commission laws and rules.

The rule incorporates by reference the January 1, 2012 edition of 9 C.F.R. 2.30 (registration), which involves the registration of facilities with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Department proposes to amend the rule to incorporate the most recent edition of the federal regulation incorporated by reference.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

The Department may allow a person to export a desert tortoise to an education or research facility or a zoo when authorized in writing by the Department. To shape a more efficient process, the Department proposes to amend the rule to specify who a person may contact in order to obtain that written authorization.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

In 1990, the desert tortoise was listed as threatened by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) and Arizona law has prohibited the removal of desert tortoises from the wild since 1988. Lawfully obtained desert tortoises may be privately adopted, but desert tortoise adoption in Arizona is subject to specific rules. The Department is aware that confusion exists in regards to under what circumstances a person may lawfully possess or export a desert tortoise out-of-state. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify when a person may lawfully possess and export a desert tortoise out-of-state. The proposed rule will prohibit a person from taking a live desert tortoise out-of-state unless authorized by the Department. In the alternative, the person may gift the tortoise to an Arizona resident or donate the tortoise to the Department's Tortoise Adoption Program. Exporting the tortoise to an out-of-state an education or research institution or zoo will also require Department authorization. The Department's Desert Tortoise Application clearly states that custodians of adopted tortoises may not remove them from Arizona and must return the tortoise to an approved Arizona adoption facility if they plan to relocate to another state. These amendments are proposed due to the amount of time and resources required of the Department and USFWS when a desert tortoise is found outside of its natural range. USFWS considers all desert tortoises found outside of the combined range of Sonoran and Mojave desert tortoises to be the federally-protected Mojave desert tortoise by similarity of appearance. USFWS and the state wildlife agency collaborate to try to determine the origin of the tortoise (Arizona, California, Nevada, or Utah). If it is determined the person possesses a Mojave desert tortoise, the person is cited for possessing a federally-listed species; USFWS and the state wildlife agency then return the tortoise back to the state from which it was exported. Because there is such a high probability the tortoise will be returned to Arizona, tortoises should not be removed from Arizona in the first place. For these reasons, the Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify a person may only export a desert tortoise to an education or research institution or zoo located in another state; and require a person who possesses a desert tortoise and is moving out-of-state to gift the desert tortoise to another person who resides in Arizona or donate it to the Department's Tortoise Adoption Program.

Under Commission Order 43 (reptiles), a person may lawfully possess one desert tortoise per person and the progeny of any lawfully held desert tortoise may be held in captivity for twenty-four months from date of hatching. Before or upon reaching twenty-four months of age, such progeny must be disposed of by gift to another person or as directed by the Department. The Department is aware of confusion regarding the number of desert tortoises a person may possess; some persons believe that they can lawfully possess as many as they like. The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference the Commission Order in which the possession limit for desert tortoise is established to make the rule more concise.

Under subsection (B)(10), a person may export, give away, import, kill, possess, propagate, purchase, trade, and transport restricted live wildlife without a special license for a medical or scientific research facility registered with the U.S. Department of Agriculture under 9 C.F.R. 2.30 (registration). Because transgenic animals are considered restricted live wildlife, under subsection (B)(10), the second subsection is redundant. The Department proposes repeal subsection (B)(13) to make the rule more concise.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to require persons who import wildlife into the state to possess a valid health certificate, as already required by the Arizona Department of Agriculture; prohibit persons from propagating lawfully possessed desert tortoises; clarify the live game fish exemption applies only to restricted live game fish; establish guidelines for the disposal of animals that die while in transport through Arizona; and clarify that medical and scientific research facilities, regardless of whether they are licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are exempt from special licensing requirements when working with transgenic animals. The Commission anticipated that the proposed amendments would impact persons and businesses that provide veterinary care or certified waste disposal facilities. The Commission anticipated a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip and costs to spay or neuter the animal were expected to be insignificant.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to allow a person to possess and transport live wildlife needed as evidence in pending legal proceedings without a special license; provide the Department with greater latitude in the amount of time it may allow a person to hold or transport wildlife for the Department; and replace "designated Department employee" with "Department." The Commission anticipated the proposed amendments would impact persons who hold wildlife for the Department as they will bear the expense for the animal's care until it is placed in a permanent home. However, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden because the person has already taken on that responsibility when they took possession of the wildlife

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

The rule establishes the requirements necessary to allow a person to possess and transport live wildlife needed as evidence in pending legal proceedings without a special license. The rule allows a person authorized by the Department to possess and transport live wildlife for up to 72 hours; possess wildlife held as evidence during the pendency of the judicial proceeding; or possess a live cervid on the Department's behalf. The public benefits from a rule that allow a person to continue to possess and care for wildlife while waiting for the judicial process to run its course. The Department benefits from a rule that establishes a method that ensures wildlife is humanely held as evidence in a court proceeding without having to take on the burden of caring for wildlife that was seized because it was unlawfully possessed. The Commission believes this is a reasonable burden because the person has already taken on that responsibility of the wildlife when they took possession of it. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-238, 17-240(A), 17-250(A), 17-250(B), 17-306, 17-332, and 41-1005

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish general provisions and administrative compliance applicable to all special licenses, as well as punitive actions that may be taken when a special license holder is convicted offense involving cruelty to animals, fails to remedy a noticed condition, or fails to comply with requirements of the rule governing the applicable special license or this rule. The rule was adopted to ensure Arizona's wildlife resources are placed into the care of persons who are capable of carrying out the permitted activities and knowledgeable in the care and handling of permitted wildlife.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The current rule only allows the Department to place additional stipulations on a special license at the time of issuance or renewal. The Department purposes to amend the rule to allow the Department to place additional stipulations on a special license believes it is necessary to have the ability to add or remove stipulations during the licensing period to address changing conditions that may arise.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the reference to "Scientific Collecting License" with "Scientific Activity License" to reflect changes proposed to R12-4-418 (scientific collecting license).

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-412 (special license fees) to clarify the fees for an initial special license and the renewal of a special license. In most cases, the costs incurred by the Department when processing a renewal of a license are anticipated to be less than an initial license because a license renewal should take less time to review. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish the circumstances under which an application for a special license may be considered the renewal of the special license.

Upon determining a disease or other emergency condition exists that poses an immediate threat to the public or the welfare of any wildlife, the Department may immediately order a cessation of operations under the special license and require the special license holder to ensure any contaminated or affected wildlife is tested for the presence of diseases or pathogens. Under R12-4-426 (possession of nonhuman primates) and R12-4-430 (Importation, handling, and possession of cervids) the special license holder is required to submit the results of any required testing to the Department. This information will guide the Department in determining future actions necessary to prevent the introduction and proliferation of wildlife diseases and protect public health or safety. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require all special license holders to submit the results of any required testing to the Department.

Each license holder is required to maintain records associated with the license and make them available to the Department for inspection upon request. The Department proposes to establish a time period of five-years for all records maintained by the special license holder that are subject to Department inspection.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Overall, the rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

When a special license holder fails to renew their special license, they are required to dispose of the wildlife held under the license in the manner directed by the Department, which may include export from this state, transfer to another eligible special license holder, or transfer to a medical or scientific research facility. Because the Department is responsible for all wildlife held in this State, the Department must inspect the license holder's facility to ensure wildlife was disposed of as directed by the Department.

Where a special license holder elects to terminate activities authorized by their special license, the wildlife must be exported from this state, transferred to another eligible special license holder, or transferred to a medical or scientific research facility. To ensure wildlife held under the license is properly disposed of and any required administrative processes are completed, the Department must be notified when a special license holder no longer wishes to conduct activities authorized under the special license. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a requirement that a special license holder notify the Department at least 30 days prior to ceasing wildlife activities authorized under the special license.

To obtain a permit to possess live wildlife in all but six states and for federal permits, an applicant must be at least 18 years of age. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require an applicant to be at least 18 years of age; except this restriction will not apply to the Game Bird Dog Training and Sport Falconry licenses.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department has documented cases where special license holders either illegally conducted surgical operations on wildlife without a veterinary license or did not seek appropriate veterinary care as required by the humane treatment standards established under R12-4-428 (captivity standards). Because the Department is responsible for all wildlife held in this State, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the Department to add or remove stipulations to a special license during the license period to ensure humane care and treatment of wildlife. The proposed amendment will enable the Department to treat a violation of Article 4 that involves a public health threat or a threat to wildlife welfare to issue a written notice to the special license holder with a request to remedy the condition, instead of having to issue three notices for the same condition within a two-year period before the Department can intervene in the event of a license holder's inaction.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

Two separate subsections address Department inspections of a special license holder's facility. The Department proposes to remove subsection (L) to make the rule more concise.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to combine all game bird license rules into one overarching game bird rule; require an applicant to affirm the information provided on the application is true and correct; expand the time-frame for which the Department may deny a special license to an

The Commission anticipated the proposed amendments would benefit the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department by clarifying rule language to ease enforcement, creating consistency among existing Commission rules, reducing the burden on the regulated community where practical, and allowing the Department additional oversight where necessary.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the general provisions and administrative compliance applicable to all special licenses, as well as regulatory actions that may be taken when a special license holder is convicted offense involving cruelty to animals, fails to remedy a noticed condition, or fails to comply with requirements of the rule governing the applicable special license or this rule. The public benefits from a rule that provides general provisions in one overarching rule because it ensures consistency between all special license rules. The Department benefits from a rule that allows Arizona's wildlife resources to be placed into the care of persons who are capable of carrying out the permitted activities and knowledgeable in the care and handling of permitted wildlife. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-409 as follows:

- Replace the reference to "Scientific Collecting License" with "Scientific Activity License" to reflect changes proposed to R12-4-418.
- Replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Establish the circumstances under which an application for a special license may be considered the renewal of the special license.
- Allow the Department to place add or remove stipulations to a special license during the license period to address changing conditions that may arise.
- Require all special license holders to submit the results of any required testing to the Department.
- Establish a time period of five-years for all records maintained by the special license holder that are subject to Department inspection.
- Enable the Department to treat the first violation of subsection (N) as a failure to remedy to allow the Department to take action more quickly when a special license holder commits an egregious violation.
- Repeal subsection (J) to make the rule more concise because inspections are included under subsection (L).

R12-4-410. Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(B)(8), 17-238(A), 17-240(A), 17-250(A), 17-250(B), 17-306, 17-332, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to import, possess, purchase, stock, and transport any restricted aquatic species designated on the license at the location specified on the license, including authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule was adopted to protect natural aquatic ecosystems from the introduction, establishment, and/or spread of undesired aquatic wildlife, while still allowing persons to stock aquatic wildlife for personal or commercial use.

The Department issues approximately 150 aquatic stocking and holding licenses on an annual basis.

The aquatic stocking and holding license is valid for a period of 20 consecutive days.

There is no fee for the aquatic stocking and holding license.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

The Department is currently working with various counties to allow them to stock, hold, and use endangered Gila Topminnow for vector control instead of nonnative mosquitofish. The Department accomplishes this transfer through the counties USFWS ESA Federal Habitat Conservation Plan, the Department's USFWS 10(a)(1)(a) permit, and an Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License issued to the county. Pima is the only county currently stocking Gila Topminnow for vector control. Because a county will need to hold and stock Gila Topminnow year-round and the license is only valid for a period of 20 consecutive days, Pima County has had to apply for and obtain 18 licenses per year. The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the issuance of an annual Aquatic Wildlife Stocking to government agencies that stock Gila Topminnow or other approved species for vector control.

The Department has determined the anticipated benefits of requiring an applicant to provide their Federal Tax Identification Number (FTIN) and, when applicable, their wildlife supplier's FTIN has not been realized. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the FTIN requirement.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to replace the reference to the "On-Line Environmental Review Tool" with "Online Environmental Review Tool" to reflect current terminology.

The rule was amended to require an applicant to further examine the potential for adverse impacts of stocking on existing wildlife species in the proposed area; require additional information about the proposed stocking location; and possess the license when conducting stocking activities and present it to a Department employee or agent upon request. The Commission anticipated any costs that may be incurred would be administrative in nature and believed to be insignificant.

personal or commercial use, while protecting Arizona's natural aquatic ecosystems from the introduction, establishment, and/or spread of undesired aquatic wildlife. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that protects aquatic wildlife from illegal stocking of restricted aquatic wildlife that may have a negative impact on native wildlife; or that may cause harm to recreational sport fisheries through biological interactions or parasite and pathogen transmissions. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a restocking license. In most cases, the costs incurred by the Department when processing a restocking license are anticipated to be less than an initial license because the Department believes the issuance of an aquatic stocking license should take less time to review as there would be no need for the required inspection(s) and background or reference check(s). The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-410 as follows:

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements necessary to allow a person to conduct a commercial live bait retail sales operation, to include authorized activities, permitted species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife and aquatic wildlife habitat. The rule was adopted to protect native aquatic wildlife from parasite/pathogen transmissions that may be carried by live baitfish while allowing a person to sell live baitfish commercially.

The Department issues approximately 15 live bait dealer licenses on an annual basis.

The live bait dealer license is valid until December 31st of each year.

The fee for the live bait dealer license is $35.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The Department proposes to remove mosquito fish and threadfin shad from the list of authorized aquatic live wildlife a bait dealer may lawfully sell. As a result of the Arizona Game and Fish Department's Statewide Sport Fish Stocking Consultation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Conservation and Mitigation Program conducted a statewide live bait use assessment to analyze the statewide use of live bait (including baitfish, crayfish, and waterdogs) and complete a risk analysis to identify recommendations for live bait management in Arizona. The Department evaluated the potential to minimize the risk and threats to native aquatic species, while continuing to maintain live bait use opportunities that have social and economic importance to the angling community. The Western Mosquitofish is native throughout the Mississippi River and its tributary waters, from the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana to the Gulf Coast and northeastern portion of Mexico. Mosquitofish were first documented in Arizona in 1925 and were first stocked by the Department in 1968. In Arizona, Mosquitofish have been directly linked to the local extirpation of at least three historical Gila Topminnow (Poeciliopsis occidentalis occidentalis) populations within a few years of introduction. The Mosquitofish is a voracious predator, feeding primarily on zooplankton and invertebrate larvae, it has been documented feeding on its own offspring, attacking adult fish of similar size as well as offspring of larger fish including Largemouth Bass and Goldfish. Threadfin Shad are native to watersheds of the Gulf Coast, including the Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Mississippi River drainages. They were recognized as a legal baitfish in Arizona in 1959 and permitted for state-wide use except for trout waters. In 1970, regulations prohibited the use of live bait in counties rather than stating "trout waters." Threadfin Shad are very sensitive to changes in temperature and dissolved oxygen, and die-offs are frequent in late summer and fall. Therefore, bait dealers usually do not hold and sell this species and anglers are able to collect these species from wild populations to use as bait. At present in Arizona, no live baitfish may be possessed while at any waterbody in Coconino, Navajo, Apache, Pima, and Cochise counties and all other counties have specific live baitfish regulations by waterbody or area. Mosquitofish and Threadfin Shad are permitted on all waters of La Paz, Maricopa, Mohave, Pinal, and Yuma counties.

The Department also proposes to amend the rule to add the following native species to the list of authorized aquatic live wildlife a bait dealer may lawfully sell: Longfin Dace, Speckled Dace (Rhinichthys osculus), Sonora Sucker, and Desert Sucker (Catostomas clarkii).

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

- 5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

The Department has determined the anticipated benefits of requiring an applicant to provide their Federal Tax Identification Number (FTIN) and, when applicable, their wildlife supplier's FTIN has not been realized. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the FTIN requirement.

- 6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to require an applicant for a Live Bait Dealer's license to remove Red Shiners from the list of authorized bait fish; include additional information regarding the common names of the live bait they propose to sell; and the physical location of the facility. The Commission anticipated the rule would have no impact on consumers because there are no registered live bait dealers that offer Red Shiners for sale as a baitfish. The Commission anticipated a person possessing wildlife under the rule would not incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements necessary to allow a person to conduct a commercial live bait retail sales operation, to include authorized activities, permitted species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife and aquatic wildlife habitat. The public and Department benefit from a rule that protects natural ecosystems, native aquatic species, and desirable non-native aquatic species from potential disease and parasitic introduction through the use of live bait fish; and harmful ecological impacts from undesirable non-native aquatic species. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The current live bait dealer's license is valid for a period of up to one year depending on the date of issue; the Department proposes to amend the rule to extend the time in which the license is valid from a period of up to one year to a period up to three years. Because the Department intends to implement an online special license application and reporting system, the Department proposes to remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife. These changes are proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department will continue to maintain oversight throughout the licensing period through the required inspections and reports. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Live Bait Dealer's License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-411 as follows:

- Remove mosquito fish and threadfin shad from the list of authorized aquatic live wildlife a bait dealer may lawfully sell.
- Add Longfin Dace, Speckled Dace (Rhinichthys osculus), Sonora Sucker, and Desert Sucker (Catostomas clarkii) to the list of authorized aquatic live wildlife a bait dealer may lawfully sell.
- Increase the amount of time in which a special license is valid from one to three years to reduce costs and burdens to the Department and persons regulated by the rule.
- Replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule.
- Remove the FTIN requirement.

R12-4-412. Special License Fees

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-333 and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish fees for the special licenses issued under Article 4. Live Wildlife; special license fees were previously included under R12-4-102 (license; permit; stamp; tag fees) which establishes fees for hunting and fishing licenses, permits, stamps, and tags. The rule was adopted to provide special license fees in the same Article that governs the Department's special licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend this rule to change the name of the White Amur Stocking and Holding License to White Amur Stocking License to reflect amendments made to R12-4-424 (white amur stocking and holding license); to offer a White Amur Restocking License instead of a renewal of the license to make the rule more concise; and eliminate the commercial and noncommercial licenses to increase consistency between rules within Article 4.

The Department proposes to amend the name of the Scientific Collecting License to Scientific Activity License and replace the two types of scientific collecting licenses (commercial and noncommercial) with the three types of scientific collecting licenses to reflect amendments made to R12-4-418 (scientific collecting license): academia, consulting, and personal/government/non-governmental organization. The Department proposes to require a $50 fee for all three types of licenses.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

When the rule was adopted it established a fee structure that would allow the Department to establish a lower fee for licenses that are renewed before they expire. Because the Aquatic Stocking and White Amur Stocking and Holding licenses are typically a “one and done” license and are only valid for 10 to 20 days, there is no renewal process for them. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clearly indicate these two licenses are not eligible for renewal.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule was adopted to simply transfer the fee information for all special licenses listed under R12-4-102 (license; permit; stamp; tag fees) to R12-4-412 (special license fees). Because the rulemaking did not make any changes to the special license fees, the Commission anticipated the rulemaking would have no impact on persons regulated by the rule.

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The purpose of the special license program is to enable wildlife management and provide information valuable to the maintenance of wild populations, education, the advancement of science, or the promotion of public health. A special license is required when a person, typically a business or educational entity, wants to possess, process, or handle a species listed on the Commission's Restricted Live Wildlife list. On average, the Department issues approximately 2,275 special licenses on an annual basis.

The findings of an internal audit and cost analysis of the Department's special license program determined the Department incurs significant administrative costs and burdens during the review and inspection stage of the special license issuance process. In 2011, the audit estimated the annual administrative burden of the special license program was approximately $227,991. As a result, a formal team was tasked with assessing each special license. The team evaluated the special license process from start to finish and benchmarked fees for similar licenses issued by other states. Out of eleven special licenses, one generates approximately $100,000 in revenue annually: White Amur Stocking and Holding license. Out of the remaining ten special licenses, five generate approximately $9,393 in revenue annually: Game Bird, Live Bait Dealer, Private Game Farm, Sport Falconry, and Zoo licenses. All of the remaining five special licenses are issued at no cost to the applicant: Aquatic Wildlife Stocking, Scientific Collecting, Wildlife Holding, Wildlife Rehabilitation, and Wildlife Service.

The Department receives no appropriations from the general fund and operates primarily with the revenue it generates from the sale of licenses, permits, stamps, tags, special licenses and matching funds from federal excise taxes hunters and anglers pay on guns, ammunition, fishing tackle, motorboat fuels, and related equipment.

The Commission directed the Department to develop fees with the intention of recovering the cost of providing a service now and into the future. Because the Department issues most all of its special licenses for no fee or at a very low fee, the Department proposes to establish or increase special license fees in attempt to recover the Department's administrative costs.

During the team's assessment of the eleven special licenses, two common discussion points were the fact that the Department does not charge an application fee for any of the special licenses despite the fact that the Department incurs significant administrative costs (i.e. application review, analysis of data provided, facility inspection(s), background or reference check(s)).

The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish an application fee of $20 for all special licenses. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish renewal special license fees at a reduced fee where appropriate. In addition, the Department proposes to amend the rule to increase the fees for special licenses where the administrative burden is greater than the fee for the license and the Department receives little or no benefit from the activities carried out under the authority of the special license.

The formal special license team's report provided recommendations intended to help offset the administrative burden associated with pre- and post-issuance administrative costs. The Department chose to implement the minimal fee increase suggested by the formal special license team.

It is important to note, while the Department is recommending either a fee increase or the establishment of a new special license fee, the Department is also extending the period for which a special license is valid from one year to three, unless the nature of the license does not support a longer time-frame: aquatic wildlife stocking (valid for 20 days nongovernment, one-year government), game bird field trial (valid for 10 days), and white amur stocking (valid for 20 days).

The Department did not receive any analyses.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted on January 1, 2014.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes fees for the special licenses issued under Article 4. Live Wildlife. The Department receives no appropriations from the general fund and operates primarily with the revenue it generates. Applying for a special license is voluntary and only a person who chooses to apply for a special license will incur those costs associated with that license and the purpose of the license. The public benefits from a rule that provides a comprehensive listing of special license fees. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule and allow the Department to recover some of the administrative costs from the special license program.

R12-4-413. Private Game Farm License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 3-1205, 17-231(B)(8), 17-238, 17-240(A), 17-306, 17-307(C), 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements necessary to allow a person to conduct the commercial farming, use, and sale of game species, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect native wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule was adopted to protect native wildlife from parasite and pathogen transmissions that may be carried by game species while allowing a person to farm, use, and sell game species and game species parts as a trade or business and for the conservation of the State's wildlife.

The Department issues approximately 10 private game farm licenses on an annual basis.

The private game farm license is valid until December 31st of each year.

The fee for the private game farm license is $115.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is not effective. While the rule is intended to authorize the issuance of a game farm license for the purpose of raising and propagating game species (principally game birds and, formerly, deer) it also authorizes the possession, sale, and use of mammals listed as restricted live wildlife under R12-4-406 (restricted live wildlife), including anteaters, armadillos, moose, primates (apes, baboons, chimpanzees, gibbons, gorillas, lorises, macaques, orangutans, spider monkeys, and tamarins), shrews, sloths, weasels, wild cats (including jaguars, leopards, lions, lynx, ocelots, servals, and tigers), and woodchucks. Allowing a person to possess these mammals for game farm purposes was not the intent of this rule.

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department has received private game farm license applications for armadillos, lemurs, and servals. These are not native game species and pose a public health and safety risk and a risk to native wildlife and wildlife habitat if illegally released or allowed to escape. In addition, many of these species require complex dietary, territorial, social, physical, and psychological needs that the general public is incapable or providing; often these animals are kept in deprived and inappropriate environments. It is not uncommon for the public to surrender unwanted restricted species to the Department, which then must provide veterinary treatment and find a willing wildlife sanctuary to accept the animal.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to align it with its original intent to allow a license holder farm, use, and sell captive pen-reared game birds. The proposed change will not impact the three currently licensed private game farms authorized to possess other species of wildlife as they will be able to renew their license for the wildlife currently held under the license under subsection (E) of this rule.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department is no longer conducting Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A and, as a result, there is no need to restrict Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A. The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow Northern Bobwhite quail to be held under a private game farm license in game management unit 34A.

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 (game bird license) during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

Under A.R.S. §17-250, a person who is in possession of wildlife or who maintains wildlife under a license issued by the Department is required to submit the wildlife or parts of the wildlife for disease testing. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to immediately report to the Department any mortality event that results in the loss of ten percent or more of the wildlife held on the facility and allow the Department to collect samples from the affected wildlife for disease testing purposes; these standards were chosen because they are the common standard for the livestock and pet trade industries; and signify an event outside of normal parameters and is indicative of a potential disease outbreak.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

In 2002, as a result of concerns over the spread of Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD), the Commission amended the rule to prohibit the possession of cervids under a private game farm license. Subsection (E) was adopted to provide a mechanism to allow a person who was previously authorized to possess cervids under the rule to renew the license, provided certain criteria are met. The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow a person who currently possesses mammals under this rule to continue to renew the private game farm license, provided the license holder is in compliance with all applicable requirements under R12-4-409 (general provisions and penalties for special licenses), R12-4-428 (captivity standards), R12-4-430 (importation, handling, and possession of cervids), and this rule.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to clearly state that the location information required under subsection (I)(4) is the location physical address or general location where the applicant proposes to conduct activities. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

Written Comment: February 20, 2018. Recently it was brought to my attention that I cannot breed and sell Mallard ducks. I can hold and train with them, but it is not legal to raise and sell them? The USFWS allows the raising and selling of mallard ducks. I think this rule should be changed to allow the breeding, raising, and selling of domestically raised Mallard ducks, provided the license holder is in compliance with the requirements of 50 C.F.R. 21.13 (permit exceptions for captive-reared mallard ducks), as amended October 1, 2017.

Agency Response: The Department proposes to amend the rule to authorize the possession of Mallard ducks to expand opportunities for private game farm license holders.

Written Comment: May 8, 2017. Add Oreortyx pictus (Mountain Quail) to the list of birds that may be held. Create a permanent license number or identification number for all special licenses to provide for better tracking and better consistency in reporting. Require an applicant to provide the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Premise Identification Number (PIN) instead of the Federal Employee Identification Number (FEIN). Some game farms are a limited liability company with no employees and would not have an FEIN. The USDA PIN provides the state with better record keeping, better controls on the health of the birds being imported, and ensures pathogens of concern are not introduced into Arizona through released game birds. The state can access this information through the USDA's National Poultry Improvement Program (NPIP). Remove the requirement that the applicant provide the information for each location where the wildlife will be held; the game farm owner cannot be responsible for this information. Consider requiring the applicant to provide zoning approval for conducting game farm activities to ensure the Department does not authorize something that is illegal based on another state or county law or ordinance. Add "if applicable" to subsection (I)(7). Add a requirement for the NPIP number from the vendor and the USDA form VS9-3 for game birds. There is a higher level of authority already regulating this via the USDA and the NPIP. Adding these requirements will ensure continuity with federal regulations and provide better tracking information for the state on birds entering and being released. The Department can use this information to eliminate the need for the health certificate currently required under the rule. These forms indicate USDA veterinarian has inspected the animal and provide better quality control than the currently required health certificate through blood testing which ensures disease is not introduced into existing wildlife. Ensure each facility is inspected annually (and as needed) by the attending veterinarian or USDA veterinarian. Also include the minimum criteria for the inspection. As a note, the current USDA and NPIP compliant inspections include the following: records checks (importing, breeding, disease blood testing, biosecurity), NPIP certification, blood testing for pullorum thyroid and/or avian flu. For the reporting requirement, add USDA PIN and flock number to improve tracking and data for the Department. Under subsection (M)(4)(e), add the address, city, state, and telephone number of the person who received the wildlife. Under subsection (N)(5), add "or by other federal governing body" to reference the USDA office in Phoenix.

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Agency Response: The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the possession of Mountain Quail to expand opportunities for private game farm license holders. Currently, a license holder is required to provide their Department ID; this number is sufficient for tracking and reporting purposes and will not result in added costs and burdens to persons regulated by the rule or the Department. The USDA implemented the PIN program to control and eradicate animal diseases through the identification of livestock (cattle, goats, sheep, and swine) being moved interstate. Game farms are not required to obtain a USDA PIN because wildlife are not considered livestock. NPIP is a voluntary state-federal cooperative testing and certification program for poultry breeding flocks, baby chicks, poults, hatching eggs, hatcheries, and dealers. NPIP was initiated to eliminate Pullorum Disease caused by Salmonella pullorum which was rampant in poultry and could cause upwards of 80% mortality in baby poultry. Game farms are not currently required to enroll in NPIP. Implementing this suggestion would apply another level of regulation, which would result in increased costs and burdens to persons regulated by the rule. In addition, implementing this suggestion would not result in better tracking and reporting for the Department. Under subsection (I), a private game farm license applicant is required to provide information applicable to the location where the private game farm license holder proposes to possess wildlife. This subsection applies to the applicant, not the game farm customer; and the applicant should know the minimum information required for the location where they propose to conduct activities authorized under the license. However, the Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the requirement for the location where the applicant proposes to conduct activities. The Department believes it is the applicant's responsibility to ensure they are in compliance with all regulations applicable to the type of business they propose to conduct. Requiring an applicant to provide zoning approval implies the Department will track and monitor compliance with the applicable zoning laws, which is not the Department's responsibility. Under R12-4-409 (general provisions and penalties for special licenses) subsections (C)(2) and subsection (G)(1), of this rule an applicant is already required to comply with applicable municipal, county, state or federal code, ordinance, statute, regulation, or rule applicable to the license. The Department does not believe it is necessary to append "Any other information required by the Department" with "if applicable." The Veterinary Services form 93 Report of Sales of Hatching Eggs, Chicks, and Poults is a certificate of inspection and is signed by any one of three state officials who are authorized to complete the health inspection and form. The form is comparable to the health certificate; the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow a person to submit a health certificate or other similar form that indicates the wildlife identified on the form appears to be healthy and free of infectious, contagious, and communicable diseases. Under subsection (K)(5), a private game farm license holder is required to ensure each licensed facility is inspected by the attending veterinarian at least once every year. The criteria for an inspection are provided under R12-4-428 (captivity standards). The Department may, at its discretion, inspect the license holder's records at any time during the licensing period. Because address and contact information is subject to change on a frequent basis for some persons, the Department believes requiring the name of the person who received wildlife is sufficient for Department purposes. Under A.R.S. § 17-102, wildlife, both resident and migratory, native or introduced, found in this state, except fish and bullfrogs impounded in private ponds or tanks or wildlife and birds reared or held in captivity under permit or license from the commission, are property of the state and may be taken at such times, in such places, in such manner and with such devices as provided by law or rule of the Commission. The Department cannot relinquish its authority to manage wildlife held under a license issued by the Department.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule was amended to clarify language regarding propagation; replace the term "Blue Grouse" with "Dusky Grouse;" clarify the locations where the Department will not issue a private game farm license to raise Northern Bobwhite quails; require an applicant to provide additional information on the application to enable the Department to more adequately evaluate the application for the requested activities; better regulate the use of "hybrid wildlife;" address sport harvest of wildlife held under this license; clearly state that, if breeding takes place, a private game farm license is issued to authorize only the breeding of wildlife species to the same species; clarify the Department will not issue a private game farm license if the escape of the proposed species could create a threat to native species and or habitat; and require the game farm license holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian. The Commission anticipated the benefits of the proposed amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighed any costs. The Commission anticipated a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor burdens associated with the requirement to submit an annual report even when authorized activities did not occur during the license year.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements necessary to allow a person to conduct the commercial farming, use, and sale of game species, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect native wildlife and wildlife habitat. The intent of the rule is to protect native wildlife from diseases and parasites that may be carried by game species while allowing a person to farm, use, and sell game species and game species parts as a trade or business and for the conservation of the State's wildlife. The public benefits from a rule that allows a person to legally farm, use, and sell or purchase game species. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that is understandable, protects native wildlife and wildlife habitat, and promotes the conservation of the State's wildlife. The current game farm license is valid for a period of up to one year depending on the date of issue; the Department proposes to amend the rule to extend the time in which the license is valid to three years. The Department will continue to maintain oversight throughout the licensing period through the required inspections and reports. Because the Department intends to implement an online special license application and reporting system, the Department proposes to remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife. These changes are proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law.

Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

Federal law, 50 C.F.R. 21.13 (Permit exceptions for captive reared mallard duck), establishes the conditions, restrictions, and requirements that allow captive-reared and properly marked mallard ducks to be possessed without a federal permit.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Private Game Farm License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-413 as follows:

- Limit the issuance of a private game farm license to the sole purpose of farming, using, and selling captive pen-reared game birds.
- Increase the amount of time in which a special license is valid from one to three years to reduce costs and burdens to the Department and persons regulated by the rule, excepting the field trial license which remains valid for not more than ten days.
- Authorize the possession of Mallard ducks to expand opportunities for private game farm license holders.
- Authorize the possession of Mountain Quail to expand opportunities for private game farm license holders.
- Incorporate by reference 50 C.F.R. 21.13 which establishes the conditions, restrictions, and requirements that allow captive-reared and properly marked mallard ducks to be possessed without a federal permit.
- Remove all mammals from the list of authorized wildlife to align the rule with its original intent.
- Allow a license holder who currently possesses mammals to renew the private game farm license, provided the license holder is in compliance with R12-4-409, R12-4-428, R12-4-430, and this rule.
- Clarify the location information required under subsection (I)(4) requirement is for the location where the applicant proposes to conduct activities. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.
- Allow a person to submit a health certificate or other similar form that indicates the wildlife identified on the form appears to be healthy and free of infectious, contagious, and communicable diseases to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.
- Require a person to immediately report to the Department any mortality event that results in the loss of ten percent or more within a seven-day period of the wildlife held on the facility and allow the Department to collect samples from the affected wildlife for disease testing purposes.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-414. Game Bird License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-238(A), 17-240(A), 17-306, 17-307(C), 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to possess, release, and take pen-reared game birds, to include authorized activities, permitted game bird species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. Under A.R.S. § 17-102, wildlife, both resident and migratory, native or introduced, found in this state, except fish and bullfrogs impounded in private ponds or tanks or wildlife and birds reared or held in captivity under permit or license from the Commission, are property of the state and may be taken at such times, in such places, in such manner and with such devices as provided by law or rule of the Commission. The rule was adopted to allow a person to lawfully conduct activities using captive pen-reared game birds listed as restricted live wildlife, while provide protection for public health, and wildlife health and habitat.

The Department issues approximately:

- Forty game bird field trial licenses on an annual basis.
- Eighty game bird field trial training licenses on an annual basis.
- Fifty game bird hobby licenses on an annual basis.
- Six game bird shooting preserve licenses on an annual basis.

The fee for the:

- Game bird field trial license is $6.
- Game bird hobby license is $5.

- Game bird shooting preserve license is $115.

There is no fee for the game bird field trial training license.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has received written comments in support of the rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department is no longer conducting Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A and, as a result, there is no need to restrict Northern Bobwhite quail reintroduction efforts in game management unit 34A. The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow Northern Bobwhite quail to be held under a game bird license in game management unit 34A.

Under A.R.S. §17-250, a person who is in possession of wildlife or who maintains wildlife under a license issued by the Department is required to submit the wildlife or parts of the wildlife for disease testing. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person who possesses a game bird shooting preserve or hobby license to immediately report to the Department any mortality event that results in the loss of ten percent or more of the wildlife held on the facility and allow the Department to collect samples from the affected wildlife for disease testing purposes. The "ten percent" standard is chosen because it is the common standard for the livestock and pet trade industries; an event resulting in a loss of ten percent or more of the total number of animals is outside of normal parameters and is indicative of a potential outbreak of disease. This requirement will not apply to persons who hold game bird field trial events or conduct game bird field training because these license holders possess game birds on a temporary basis.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

Written Comment: March 9, 2017. The new application form is not well thought out in some instances and ridiculous in some instances. A permit life of no more than 10 days, for each region where a person trains their game bird dog, means I will submit a new application every ten days; I would have to constantly reapply in order to train year round, in each region I might want to train in. Department staff takes several days to process the application, which is reasonable, but would I need to reapply every week in order to train every weekend or every other weekend? In addition, a proposed of $6 fee for each training permit means a prohibitive cost when added up as an annual fee, especially when multiple permits for differing regions are required; this would mean a cost of $156 if training every other weekend throughout the year in one region. This rule was amended from a reasonable situation where I obtained a free annual permit each year for each region to an expensive, cumbersome process. Not to mention the burden it places on Department staff. I view this current process as a bloated, bureaucratic process that just costs money and time and people will ignore it instead of participating. The three page long application forms is very frustrating to those of us who use the program. I ask the Department to take a step back and look at how simple the forms and process was before these new changes. The information you gather from me is still the same, it's just far more difficult for me to accomplish and much more of a workload on Department staff.

Agency Response: This comment was submitted in response to rule amendments made effective December 5, 2015. On April 7, 2017, as a result of a rulemaking petition, the Commission directed the Department to work with identified stakeholders to develop rule amendments that would result in an improved process and more customer-friendly approach for administering game bird licenses. The rule was amended as indicated under item #8. The amended rule became effective September 6, 2017.

Written Comment: May 16, 2017. I would like the rule amended to automatically disqualify anyone from getting a game bird license (hobby license) for the purpose of keeping game birds for pets. I do not think the public should keep native game birds as pets and the hobby license allows that. It is okay for a person to raise them for meat or to train a dog or falcon, but I do not believe the Department should be aiding in the pet trade of native game bird species. A person who is in the field taking game birds should be required to have a hunting license, even if the birds are captive pen-reared game birds. I realize it is a small group of people, but if a wildlife manager contacts a hunter in the field with dead mallards and they display a $6 training license, the hunter is probably going to have to answer some questions, which will be a waste of time for the wildlife manager and the hunter.

Agency Response: The game bird hobby license allows a person to purchase, import, propagate, give away, kill, transport, or export captive pen-reared game birds for personal, non-commercial purposes. The Department does not issue a special license for the purpose of possessing wildlife as a pet or for amusement or companionship purposes. Often, captive pen-reared game birds held under the license are used for the eggs they lay or the meat they provide. Because all manners of hunting involve the take wildlife, the Arizona Legislature defined "take" as it relates to live wildlife; under A.R.S. § 17-101(19), "take" means pursuing, shooting, hunting, fishing, trapping, killing, capturing, snaring or netting wildlife or the placing or using of any net or other device or trap in a manner that may result in the capturing or killing of wildlife. Because releasing captive pen-reared game birds for the purpose of dog training does not involve the actual take of wildlife, the Department has determined a hunting license is not required. Wildlife managers are familiar with game bird license activities and the applicable licensing requirements.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on September 7, 2017. The rule was amended to speak more clearly to the different species of game bird and different activities allowed under each type of license; clarify the Game Bird License only authorizes the license holder to use captive pen-reared game birds for any of the activities authorized under the license; establish a person conducting activities under a Game Bird Field Training license is not required to possess a hunting license; offer a Game Bird Field Training license that is valid until December 31 of the year in which it was issued; remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application when applying for a license when the applicant proposes to use more than one location to conduct activities authorized under the license; remove the requirement that an applicant provide the game bird supplier's Federal Tax Identification Number and the applicant's Federal Tax Identification Number on the application when the applicant will use the captive pen-reared game birds for a commercial purpose; clarify that only a person applying for a Game Bird Hobby or Game Bird Shooting Preserve License is required to provide a detailed description or diagram of the facilities where the applicant will hold game birds and a description of how the facilities comply with the requirements established under R12-4-428; remove the requirement that a Game Bird License holder have their facility inspected by a veterinarian at least once every year; remove the requirement that a Game Bird License holder retain records of copies of all federal, state, and local licenses, permits, and authorizations required for the lawful operation of the game bird activity; clarify that any activities authorized under the license may occur only at the locations and dates specified on the license; and require a license holder who wishes to conduct activities authorized under the license at a new location or a different date to submit an application to the Department. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit the Department by increasing efficiency in administering game bird licenses and provide an overall benefit to persons regulated by the rule by reducing the burdens and costs associated with the rule and providing better customer-service to persons seeking to conduct activities with captive pen-reared game birds in Arizona.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements that allow a person to possess, release, and take captive pen-reared game birds, to include authorized activities, permitted game bird species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The public benefits from a rule that allows them to conduct a variety of lawful activities using captive pen-reared game birds. The Department benefits from a rule that protects the public health, and wildlife health and habitat. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The current live game bird license is valid for a period of up to one year depending on the date of issue; the Department proposes to amend the rule to extend the time in which the license is valid from a period of up to one year to a period up to three years, except for the field trial license. This change is proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department will continue to maintain oversight throughout the licensing period through the required inspections and reports. Field trials are connected to the sport of hunting; they support the maintaining of hunting breeds of dogs which add not only to the sport of hunting, but also the conservation of our wildlife resources by facilitating more efficient game harvest. Field trials specifically involve dogs, horses, and game birds in an organized and judged event. They are outdoor competitions designed to mimic an actual hunt in the wild, with a focus on honing hunting instincts in domestic dogs. These events judge dogs on their field performance during particular events, thus an annual license is not warranted. The Game Bird Field Trial license applicant will also continue to submit a separate application for each date and location where a competition will occur. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to possess and care for restricted live wildlife lawfully taken under a valid hunting or fishing license, scientific collecting license, or wildlife rehabilitation license to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions necessary to protect wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule was adopted to allow for holding wildlife for approved activities for the benefit of wildlife, educating the public, and other activities that are consistent with the mission of the Department.

The Department issues approximately:

- One hundred twenty wildlife holding licenses for educational purposes on an annual basis.
- Five wildlife holding licenses for exhibition purposes on an annual basis.
- Fifteen wildlife holding licenses for humane purposes on an annual basis.
- Five wildlife holding licenses for scientific purposes on an annual basis.
- Five wildlife holding licenses for wildlife management purposes on an annual basis.

There is no fee for the wildlife holding license.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

The Department has determined the anticipated benefits of requiring an applicant to provide their Federal Tax Identification Number (FTIN) and, when applicable, their wildlife supplier's FTIN has not been realized. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the FTIN requirement.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

Throughout the rule, the terms "restricted," "nonrestricted," and "restricted and nonrestricted" are used somewhat indiscriminately. The Department proposes to amend the rule to increase consistency between when and where these terms should apply.

Under subsection (C)(2)(a), a wildlife holding license holder may permanently hold wildlife that is unable to meet its own needs in the wild; however, the rule does not establish who is qualified to make this determination. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify that only a licensed veterinarian may determine whether or not an animal is suitable for release.

The Department allows an agent to assist, or act on behalf of, the license holder. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the agent's role and responsibilities to make the rule more concise.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to make minor grammatical changes to make the rule more concise.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to allow the license holder to use an agent to assist the license holder in carrying out activities authorized under the license; allow an applicant to submit photographs instead of a diagram and detailed description of the facility where an applicant proposes to hold wildlife; and allow an applicant to submit a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee instead of a description of how the facility complies with requirements established under R12-4-428. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons regulated by the rule due to the reduction in burdens and costs associated with the rule.

taken under a valid hunting or fishing license, scientific collecting license, or wildlife rehabilitation license to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions necessary to protect wildlife and wildlife habitat. The public benefits from a rule that allows a person to continue to lawfully possess wildlife held under another license once the primary purpose for which the license was issued no longer exists. The Department benefits from a rule that allows a person to continue to possess and care for wildlife held under another license rather than bear the unplanned burden of either euthanizing the wildlife or providing veterinary treatment and finding a sanctuary willing to accept the animal. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The current wildlife holding license is valid for a period of up to one year depending on the date of issue; the Department proposes to amend the rule to extend the time in which the license is valid from a period of up to one year to a period up to three years. This change is proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Wildlife Holding License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-417 as follows:

- Clarify when the terms "restricted," "nonrestricted," and "restricted and nonrestricted" to increase consistency between when and where these terms should apply.
- Replace the reference to "Scientific Collecting License" with "Scientific Activity License" to reflect changes proposed to R12-4-418.
- Specify that only a licensed veterinarian may determine whether or not an animal is suitable for release.
- Increase the amount of time in which a special license is valid from one to three years to reduce costs and burdens to the Department and persons regulated by the rule.
- Replace references to "educational organization" with "educational institution" to increase consistency between rules within Article 4.
- Replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Remove the FTIN requirement.
- Clarify the agent's role and responsibilities to make the rule more concise.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-418. Scientific Collecting License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-234, 17-238, 17-240(A), 17-306, 17-332, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to use live wildlife for purposes related to the advancement of conservation, education, science, and wildlife management, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health and safety and existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule was adopted to permit a person to collect, capture, mark, or salvage wildlife for scientific purposes.

The Department issues approximately 305 scientific collecting licenses on an annual basis.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

There is no fee for the scientific collecting license.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The Department offers three types of scientific collecting licenses: personal, consultant, and government. The Department proposes to amend the rule to further refine the license types replace current Scientific Collecting commercial and noncommercial license types with personal/government/non-governmental organization, consulting, and academia license types for statistical purposes.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

Under R12-4-309 (authorization for use of drugs on wildlife), a person who proposes to use drugs on wildlife must obtain permission from the Department before using drugs on wildlife; there have been instances where an applicant assumed they could obtain this authorization through the scientific collecting license. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify that a person shall not administer any drug to wildlife without advance approval from the Department to increase consistency between Commission rules.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the name of the Scientific Collecting License to Scientific Activity License to reflect amendments made to R12-4-418 (scientific collecting license). This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to make minor grammatical changes to make the rule more concise.

The Department allows an agent to assist, or act on behalf of, the license holder. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the agent's role and responsibilities to make the rule more concise.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: November 15, 2017. What we have encountered, repeatedly, at both the federal and state levels is that biologists use the word "collecting" to mean the permanent removal of an individual from the wild, either by lethal means (for museum collections and other forms of scientific research that require a specimen) or live capture for study in captivity. The agencies, however, use the term to mean "all forms of research" and in most states, that includes bird banding. As a result, many scientists mistakenly believe that they don't need a permit (except federal bird banding/marketing). We spend a lot of time and energy educating them about it: <https://birdnet.org/info-for-ornithologists/permits/states/> But that assumes that they find/use these resources in the first place. Some don't - it is very common to simply ask a faculty advisor or someone else who themselves may not have good, solid knowledge (that's a nice way of saying "mistaken").

Agency Response: The Department agrees and proposes to amend the rule to replace the term "collecting" with "activity" to make the rule more concise.

economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to allow an applicant to submit a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee instead of a description of how the facility complies with requirements established under R12-4-428; specify the license holder may only conduct activities authorized under the scientific collecting license at the locations and time periods specified on the scientific collecting license; and expand the requirement that the scientific collecting license holder dispose of wildlife as directed by the Department, including wildlife parts and the offspring of wildlife held under the license. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would not result in any additional costs or burdens to persons regulated by the rulemaking.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

benefits from a rule that allows the public to collect, capture, mark, or salvage wildlife for scientific purposes. The Department benefits from a rule that aids in the furtherance of wildlife management and conservation. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. Currently, an applicant for a scientific collecting license is required to submit a separate written proposal providing information about the applicant's proposed activities and abilities. The Department proposes to amend the rule to incorporate the information required in the proposal into the application to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule. Because the Department intends to implement an online special license application and reporting system, the Department proposes to remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife. These changes are proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

R12-4-420. Zoo License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-234, 17-238, 17-240(A), 17-250(A), 17-250(B), 17-306, 17-332, and 17-333

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to use captive live wildlife in a commercial facility where the principal business is exhibiting wildlife to the public and for purposes related to the advancement of science, conservation, education, or wildlife management, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health and safety and existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule was adopted to promote the conservation of wildlife species through education, exhibition, and wildlife management.

The Department issues approximately 20 zoo licenses on an annual basis.

The zoo license is valid until December 31st of each year.

The fee for the zoo license is $115.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above.

However, public comment indicates the rule as written does not make it clear that a zoo license is issued only to commercial facility for the purpose of public exhibition of wildlife. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that a zoo license may only be issued to a facility open to the public where the principal business is holding wildlife in captivity for exhibition purposes.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The rule as currently written appears to be in conflict with the Legislature's definition of "zoo" as defined under A.R.S. § 17-101(A)(26) because the rule does not make it clear that a zoo license is issued only to commercial facility for the purpose of public exhibition of wildlife. The Department proposes to amend the rule to increase consistency between the rule and statute by specifying that a zoo license may only be issued to a facility open to the public where the principal business is holding wildlife in captivity for exhibition purposes.

In addition, the Department proposed to replace the reference to "scientific collecting license" with "scientific activity license" to reflect changes proposed to R12-4-418 (scientific collecting license).

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: May 15, 2018. Under R12-4-420(B), there are four criteria to satisfy in order to meet the overall requirements for a zoo license. However, under subsection (J), there is a requirement that the facility state the days of the week and the hours when the facility is open for viewing for the general public. Many facilities that specialize in breeding for science, wildlife management, or conservation may not be open to the public as their focus may not be on public education or entertainment. This would still meet the criteria as defined under R12-4-401 (live wildlife definitions). However, there is a discrepancy in definitions as stated in the opening statement in R12-4-401. Under R12-4-401, "zoo" means any facility licensed by the Arizona Game and Fish Department under R12-4-420 or, for facilities located outside of Arizona, licensed or recognized by the applicable governing agency. Under A.R.S. § 17-101, "zoo" means a commercial facility open to the public where the principal business is holding wildlife in captivity for exhibition purposes. A.R.S. § 17-101 conflicts with R12-4-420(A) and subsection (B)(1), (2), and (4). A.R.S. § 17-101 uses an archaic definition of zoo from a time of traveling menageries. By using this archaic definition, it puts facilities that focus on research, wildlife management, and wildlife conservation at a disadvantage and burdens these facilities with a requirement to be open to the public. We request clarification of subsection (B)(1), "Advancement of science or commercial purpose (as defined under R12-4-401) for the maintenance of captive live wildlife (as defined under R12-4-401) management." We request removal of subsection (J)(8) or replace with "Animals will be held on a zoo license for science or commercial purpose (as defined under R12-4-401) for the maintenance of captive wildlife (as defined under R12-4-401), management, promotion of public health or welfare, public education, or wildlife conservation." We request a modernization of the A.R.S. § 17-101 definition that will bring R12-4-420 and A.R.S. § 17-101 in line with each other.

Agency Response: The rule as written is confusing. The Department proposes to amend the rule to conform with the definition of "zoo" as defined under A.R.S. § 17-101(A)(26). Any revision to the A.R.S. § 17-101(A)(26)

Under A.R.S. § 17-102, wildlife, both resident and migratory, native or introduced, found in this state, except fish and bullfrogs impounded in private ponds or tanks or wildlife and birds reared or held in captivity under permit or license from the commission, are property of the state and may be taken at such times, in such places, in such manner and with such devices as provided by law or rule of the Commission. The rule was adopted to ensure a person working in the wildlife service industry handles wildlife in a practical, humane, and environmentally acceptable manner.

The Department issues approximately 130 wildlife service licenses on an annual basis.

The wildlife service license is valid until December 31st of each year.

There is no fee for the wildlife service licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

Subsection (B) of the rule references an incorrect statutory citation. The Department proposes to amend the rule to correct the statutory reference.

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

The Department has determined the anticipated benefits of requiring an applicant to provide their Federal Tax Identification Number (FTIN) and, when applicable, their wildlife supplier's FTIN has not been realized. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the FTIN requirement.

Subsection (B) identifies what species of animal do not require a wildlife service license and may be removed under a Pest Management license issued by the Arizona Department of Agriculture. Because most doves are considered to be migratory birds, there is some confusion as to whether Rock pigeons are protected under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA). The Department proposes to add Rock pigeons, also known as Rock Doves, to this list. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The rule references "peach-faced love birds." The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the term "peach-faced love birds" with "rose-colored lovebirds" to reflect current scientific terminology.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to prohibit the possession of wildlife carcasses or parts as this practice is not consistent with the intent of the rule; and identify what species of animal do not require a wildlife service license and may be removed under a Pest Control license issued by the Department of Agriculture. The improper disposal of wildlife carcasses or parts after an animal is removed and/or euthanized often poses a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare; and native wildlife and wildlife habitat. The Commission anticipated the public and the Department would benefit from a rulemaking that protects native wildlife species and wildlife habitat. The Commission anticipated businesses that provide wildlife removal services would benefit from the amendment that clarifies which species may be removed without having to possess a Wildlife Service License. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would not result in additional burdens or costs to persons regulated by the rule.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements that allow a person to facilitate the removal of wildlife that causes property damage, poses a threat to public health or safety, or if the health or well-being of the wildlife is affected by its immediate environment to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health and safety and existing wildlife habitat and resources. Because the Commission holds and manages all aquatic and terrestrial wildlife for the benefit of the public, the rule is necessary to ensure wildlife is handled in a practical, humane, and environmentally acceptable manner. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that protects public health and safety, personal property, native wildlife species and wildlife habitat. The Department, the public, and businesses that provide wildlife removal services benefit from a rule that is understandable. The current wildlife service license is valid for a period of up to one year depending on the date of issue; the Department proposes to amend the rule to extend the time in which the license is valid from a period of up to one year to a period up to three years. The Department will continue to maintain oversight throughout the licensing period through the required inspections and reports. This change is proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Wildlife Service License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-421 as follows:

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

- Correct the statutory reference provide in subsection (B).
- Replace the term "peach-faced love birds" with "rosey-faced lovebirds" to reflect current scientific terminology.
- Increase the amount of time in which a special license is valid from one to three years to reduce costs and burdens to the Department and persons regulated by the rule.
- Replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Remove the FTIN requirement. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-422. Sport Falconry License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-234, 17-235, 17-236(B), 17-238(A), 17-306, 17-307, 17-331, 17-332, 17-333, 17-371(D), 25-320(P), and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to take and use raptors listed in the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA) for the sport of falconry, to include authorized activities, permitted raptor species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule was initially adopted to supplement the federal migratory bird hunting regulations to ensure the Department maintained oversight of, and the ability to manage, Arizona's wildlife resources.

In 2008, 50 C.F.R. 21.29 (falconry standards and falconry permitting) was amended to eliminate the dual permitting system and transfer falconry permitting administration to the individual states, provided the state's laws, rules, processes, and forms met the minimum standards under 50 C.F.R. 21.29. If a state failed to meet the standards for certification, any persons possessing a Migratory Bird Treaty Act species (MBTA) raptor for falconry in that state would be required to permanently release into the wild, euthanize, or transfer their raptor to a licensed falconer in a certified state or jurisdiction, a captive propagation program, or the Department. In order to continue permitting sport falconry using MBTA raptors in Arizona, the rule must remain in place and continue to meet USFWS standards for certification. The Department's rules, processes, and forms were certified as meeting the standards under 50 C.F.R. 21.29; see 77 FR 66406 - 66408, November 5, 2012.

The Department issues approximately 55 sport falconry licenses on an annual basis.

The sport falconry license is valid until the last day of the third December from the date of issuance.

The fee for the sport falconry license is $87.50.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

Under 50 C.F.R. 21.29 (falconry standards and falconry permitting), a falconer who houses their raptors in an indoor facility must ensure the facility has an area large enough to allow the raptor to fly when untethered or to fully extend its wings or attempt to fly when tethered without damaging its feathers or contacting other raptors. There have been instances where licensed falconers were unaware of the federal requirement. While the Department provides a packet of information that includes information on where to find the federal regulations, the packet does not include a copy of the actual regulations due to the volume of paper required and the fact that many people lose interest in obtaining a license once they understand that it is an expensive and time-consuming hobby. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a falconer to ensure the facility has an area large enough to allow the raptor to fly when untethered or to fully extend its wings or attempt to fly when tethered without damaging its feathers or contacting other raptors to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.

Under 50 C.F.R. 21.29 (falconry standards and falconry permitting), USFWS is required to maintain an electronic reporting system that allows persons conducting lawful activities with MBTA raptors to enter information regarding the acquisition and disposal (death, loss, purchase, sale, theft, transfer, etc.) of raptors they possess. Because the states were supposed to have access to the online reporting system for administrative purposes, the rule was previously amended to no longer require the person to provide a copy of the federal 3-186A form to the

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Department. Due to issues with the electronic reporting system, the Department currently requires falconry license holders to provide a copy of the 3-186A form to the Department whenever a reportable activity occurs. Requiring a paper copy of the 3-186A form is authorized under 50 C.F.R. 21.29, regardless of whether the electronic reporting system is fully functional or not. However, full compliance has not been achieved. Furthermore, under 50 C.F.R. 21.27 (special purpose permits) and 21.30 (raptor propagation permits) respectively, unless the state requires an abatement or propagation permit, a person need only possess a federal permit to conduct abatement activities with, or propagate, MBTA raptors. Both federal permits have liberal possession limits and raptors held under the federal permits do not count towards the falconers possession limit established in rule. Because the federal regulations allow a person to use any lawfully possessed falconry raptor for abatement activities or for propagation, a licensed falconer can transfer their falconry raptor to their federal permit for abatement or propagation purposes at any time, as applicable. Under 50 C.F.R. 21.17 and 21.30, a person is only required to notify the governing state agency of this transfer when that state requires notification. Again - because the Department believed it would be made aware of these transfers through the electronic reporting system, the Department did not require persons to notify the Department when a raptor was transferred to the federal permit. For these reasons, the Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to submit a paper copy of the 3-186A form and the annual federal propagation report at the same time the person submits these forms (reports) to USFWS. In addition, the Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the definition of "abatement services" with "abatement" to make the rule more concise.

Falconry requires long hours of unceasing dedication, expertise, and skill. A falconer must train a raptor to fly to hunt and then willingly return to being captive. An apprentice (beginner) must learn about the various raptors, their stages of life, characteristics, prey, care, feeding, and suitability for the falconer and the hunting environment. A falconer must know the rules and regulations that govern sport falconry and the raptors they possess, be able to provide proper housing (captivity standards) for the raptors they possess, know what equipment is required and how to use it, and recognize and treat health problems. While there are many things a person can easily learn long distance; how to properly care for and fly a raptor is not considered to be one of them. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a sponsor or licensed general or master falconer to be physically present when the apprentice falconer is capturing a raptor.

Wildlife rehabilitators provide treatment and care to sick, injured, or orphaned wildlife with the goal of releasing the wildlife back to their natural habitats in the wild once they are capable of functioning in their natural habitats as normal members of their species. A licensed falconer may assist a wildlife rehabilitator in conditioning a raptor in preparation for releasing it back into the wild. Effective conditioning meets the unique physical and psychological needs of each species. Because the rule does not restrict the falconer to the type of raptor they are authorized to possess, a falconer who has no experience with a particular raptor species may inadvertently harm the raptor or delay its release into the wild. In addition, because conditioning requires effective conditioning, the Department does not believe the average apprentice falconer has the necessary skills to provide effective and appropriate conditioning. For these reasons, the Department proposes to amend the rule to limit the ability to assist a wildlife rehabilitator in conditioning a raptor to general and master falconers and restrict those general and master falconers to raptors they are authorized to possess to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The rule incorporates by reference the October 1, 2013 edition of 50 C.F.R. 21.3 (definitions) and the October 1, 2013 edition of 50 C.F.R 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife). The Department also proposes to amend the rule to reference the most recent editions of the federal regulations incorporated by reference.

Under 50 C.F.R. 21.27 (special purpose permits) and 21.30 (raptor propagation permits) respectively, unless the state requires an abatement or propagation permit, a person need only possess a federal permit to conduct abatement activities with, or propagate, MBTA raptors. Both federal permits have liberal possession limits and raptors held under the federal permits do not count towards the falconers possession limit established in rule. Because the federal regulations allow a person to use any lawfully possessed falconry raptor for abatement activities or for propagation, a licensed falconer can transfer their falconry raptor to their federal permit for abatement or propagation purposes at any time, as applicable. Under 50 C.F.R. 21.27 and 21.30, a person is only required to notify the governing state agency of this transfer when that state requires notification. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to submit a paper copy of the annual federal propagation report at the same time the person submits the report to USFWS.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Overall, the rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

Under 50 C.F.R. 20.21(what hunting methods are illegal) and R12-4-422, a master falconer may conduct abatement activities with any raptor they possess for falconry, provided the falconer meets certain criteria. There is some concern about potential enforcement difficulties for State and federal law enforcement officers because the federal regulations do not allow falconry raptors held under a sport falconry license to be used for abatement and propagation activities and the potential exploitation of the liberal possession limits for master falconers under the falconry regulations. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to submit a properly completed 3-186A form to the Department when transferring a falconry raptor to the person's federal abatement or propagation permit. In addition, the Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to submit a paper copy of the annual federal propagation report at the same time the person submits the report to USFWS.

A captive-bred raptor is not supposed to be released into the wild; under subsection (M), a licensed falconer is allowed to capture the raptor for the purpose of removing it from the wild and returning the raptor to its owner. The Department proposes to amend the rule to make it more understandable by clarifying references to the falconer who captured the raptor.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

Under subsection (M), a person is not required to tether an unflighted eyas. The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the term "unflighted eyas" with "nestling" as it is a common term and, thus, more easily understood.

The rule defines "abatement services" to clarify subsection (W). The Department proposes to amend the rule to repeal the definition of "abatement services" and define "abatement" to make the rule more concise.

Under subsection (H), an apprentice falconer is prohibited from possessing a raptor that has imprinted on a human. The Department proposes to amend the rule to define "imprint" by incorporating the definition under 50 C.F.R. 21.3 (definitions) to make the rule more concise.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

In most cases where an examination is required, a person must submit an application before taking the examination. For the sport falconry license, the application is the last step in the process. The person must first pass the examination, then undergo a facilities inspection, and finally submit an application. Because this is not the typical process and there is some confusion, the Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the licensing process.

A person is required to report information regarding the capture of any raptor displaying a federal Bird Banding Laboratory (BBL) aluminum research band or tag to BBL by calling a telephone number. Since the rule was last amended, BBL has implemented an online reporting system. The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the reference to the telephone number with a reference to the BBL website to make the rule more concise.

A licensed falconer may charge a fee for presenting a conservation education program that provides information about the biology, ecological roles, and conservation needs of raptors and other migratory birds. The intent behind the fee is not for the falconer to make a profit from the use of the raptor in the education program or to cover any or all costs related to the treatment, care, and housing of the raptor. The intent behind the fee is to reimburse the falconer for costs related travel to and from the program site, any related educational documents such as brochures or pamphlets, any fees charged by the venue, etc. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the intent of the rule to make the rule more concise.

The National Eagle Repository (Repository) is managed and operated the USFWS; its purpose is to provide a central location for the receipt, storage, and distribution of bald and golden eagle carcasses and parts of carcasses throughout the U.S. The eagle carcasses and their parts are shipped to Native Americans and Alaskan Natives enrolled in federally recognized tribes for use in Indian religious ceremonies. The collection efforts of USFWS provides a legal means for Native Americans to acquire eagle feathers for religious purposes, which in turn, reduces the pressure to take birds from the wild and thereby protecting eagle populations. The distribution of bald and golden eagles and their parts to Native Americans is authorized by the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act and Regulations found in 50 CFR 22. The numbers of requests for eagle carcasses and parts of carcasses far exceeds the number of available eagle carcasses and parts of carcasses. For this reason, federal and state conservation agencies, zoological parks, federal rehabilitators, and others who may legally possess and transport carcasses and parts of carcasses are encouraged to send them to the Repository where they will be distributed to Native Americans. The Repository will not accept the carcass and parts of carcass of a raptor that is suspected or confirmed with West Nile Virus or poisoning, except for lead poisoning, and requires the person possessing such raptor to disposed of the carcass by incineration. The Department proposes to clarify the actions required to dispose of a deceased eagle or other raptor.

economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

Overall, the rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to incorporate the October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife); reference the definition of "resident" under A.R.S. § 17-101; require the license holder to remove "any other falconry equipment" prior to releasing a raptor; prohibit a falconer from transferring permit tag and quota regulated raptor species to out-of-state falconers within one-year of the date of capture; and require a person to report the theft of a raptor to the State and USFWS Regional Law Enforcement office within 10 days of the theft of the bird. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would improve the administrative aspects of the license and result in a more efficient process that benefited both the Department and persons regulated by the rule. The Commission did not anticipate a person possessing a falconry license under the rule would incur any additional costs or undue regulation. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would have a positive impact sport falconry license holders, specifically improving the administrative aspects of the license.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The rule establishes the requirements necessary to allow a person to take and use MBTA raptors for the sport of falconry, to include authorized activities, permitted raptor species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule ensures the continued permitting sport falconry using MBTA raptors in Arizona. The Department and public benefits from a rule that allows regulation and oversight of the legal take of raptors for use in sport falconry. Persons regulated by the rule benefit from a rule that allows them to practice falconry, the hunting of wild animals in their natural state and habitat by means of a trained bird of prey. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law, 50 C.F.R. 10.13 (list of migratory birds), is applicable to the subject of the rule. The Department has determined the rule is not more stringent than the federal law.

Federal law, 50 C.F.R. 21(migratory bird permits) and 22 (eagle permits), are applicable to the subject of the rule. The Department has determined the rule is more restrictive than the federal law in requiring a re-inspection when a licensed falconer changes address and the Department cannot verify the facility at the new location is similar to the one approved during a prior inspection. A re-inspection is also proposed when a falconer acquires additional raptors and the previous inspection does not indicate the facilities can accommodate a new species or additional raptors. 50 C.F.R. 21.29(b)(1)(iii) (falconry standards and falconry permitting) states, "State, tribal, or territorial laws may be more restrictive than these Federal standards but may not be less restrictive." In addition, A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1) authorizes the Commission to "[a]dopt rules and establish services it deems necessary to carry out the provisions and purposes of this title" and A.R.S. § 17-235 states, the Commission "may shorten or modify seasons, bag and possession limits and other regulations on migratory birds as it deems necessary."

It is important to note, under 50 C.F.R. 21.29 (falconry standards and falconry permitting) a state is required to submit their laws, rules, processes, and forms to USFWS for compliance review and certification whenever any one of the four items listed above are substantially amended. The Department's rules, processes, and forms were certified as meeting the standards under 50 C.F.R. 21.29; see 77 FR 66406 - 66408, November 5, 2012.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Sport Falconry License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-422 as follows:

- Replace the definition of "abatement services" with "abatement" to make the rule more concise.
- Define "abatement" to make the rule more concise.

- Require a falconer to ensure the facility has an area large enough to allow the raptor to fly when untethered or to fully extend its wings or attempt to fly when tethered without damaging its feathers or contacting other raptors to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.
- Replace the term "unflighted eyas" with "nestling" as it is a common term and, thus, more easily understood.
- Clarifying references to the falconer who captured the raptor displaying a seamless band.
- Limit a person to only being able to capture a raptor when authorized by Commission Order, regardless of whether the raptor is displaying a seamless band or a transmitter to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.
- Replace the reference to the BBL telephone number with a reference to the BBL website to make the rule more concise.
- Limit the ability to assist a wildlife rehabilitator in conditioning a raptor to general and master falconers.
- Restrict the ability to assist a wildlife rehabilitator in conditioning a raptor solely to raptors the falconer is authorized to possess to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.
- Clarify a falconer may only be reimbursed for the actual costs of providing each individual conservation education event to make the rule more concise.
- Clarify the actions required to dispose of a deceased eagle or other raptor.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

R12-4-423. Wildlife Rehabilitation License

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-238, 17-240(A), 17-306, 17-332, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to rehabilitate and release live wildlife, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. Wildlife Rehabilitation is defined as the treatment and temporary care of injured, diseased, and displaced native wildlife, and the subsequent release of healthy individuals to appropriate habitats in the wild. The rule was adopted to allow persons to provide treatment and care to live injured, disabled, orphaned, or otherwise debilitated wildlife to assist the Department in protecting Arizona's wildlife resources.

The Department issues approximately 10 wildlife rehabilitation licenses on an annual basis.

The wildlife rehabilitation license is valid until the last day of the third December from the date of issuance.

There is no fee for the wildlife rehabilitation license.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Under subsection (L)(3), an applicant for a wildlife rehabilitation license must also submit an affidavit affirming either the applicant is a licensed veterinarian or that a licensed veterinarian is reasonably available to provide veterinary services as necessary to facilitate the rehabilitation of wildlife they may possess under the license. The intent behind this requirement is that any wildlife the applicant may possess will receive appropriate medical care from a licensed veterinarian whenever necessary. The Department recently became aware of a situation where a license holder with no formal veterinary medical education performed medical procedures, including surgery, on wildlife held by the licensee. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the wildlife rehabilitation license does not authorize the license holder to conduct any activities defined as the practice of veterinary medicine under A.R.S. § 32-2231 whether or not a fee, compensation, or reward is offered, received, or accepted by the licensed rehabilitator.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The rule incorporates by reference the October 10, 2013 edition of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife). The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference the most recent edition of the federal regulation incorporated by reference.

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

Under subsection (L), an applicant for a wildlife rehabilitation license must provide proof of at least six months months experience performing wildlife rehabilitative work with an average of at least eight hours each week. This requirement ensures the license holder has the minimum amount of experience required to satisfactorily provide rehabilitative care to wildlife in their possession. Under subsection (O), an agent may conduct rehabilitative activities on the wildlife license holder's behalf. Because an agent is authorized to conduct rehabilitative activities without direct supervision, the Department believes an agent should be held to the same standards under subsection (L)(1)(b). The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish an agent for a wildlife rehabilitation license holder shall provide proof of at least six months experience performing wildlife rehabilitative work to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

Under R12-4-422 (sport falconry license), a licensed falconer is required to conduct specific activities when possessing the carcass or parts of a deceased MBTA raptor. Because a wildlife license holder also handles deceased MBTA raptors, the Department proposes to amend the rule to specify the actions required to dispose of a deceased eagle or other raptor.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to clarify a wildlife rehabilitation license holder may lawfully possess, treat, and care for wildlife received from the public.

Under subsection (J), an applicant must successfully complete an examination conducted by the Department before a wildlife rehabilitation license may be issued to the person. The Department proposes to clarify the rule by establishing the applicant must correctly answer at least 80% of the questions on the Department administered examination to make the rule more concise.

Under subsection (Y), a wildlife rehabilitation license holder may permanently hold wildlife determined to be unsuitable for release into the wild; however, the rule does not establish who is qualified to make this determination. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify that only a licensed veterinarian may determine whether or not an animal is suitable for release.

Under subsection (Z), a wildlife rehabilitation license holder is required to submit an annual report containing specific information to the Department by January 31 of each year. The license holder is required to provide the permit or license number of any federal permits or licenses that relate to any rehabilitative function performed by the license holder. A license holder may submit copy of the rehabilitator's federal permit report of activities related to federally-protected wildlife in lieu of the federal permit or license numbers. The way the information is presented has contributed to some confusion because some license holders believe the copy of the federal permit report satisfies the reporting requirement. The Department proposes to clarify the federal permit report may only be submitted to satisfy the report's permit or license number requirement.

- 7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to incorporate the October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife); reduce the amount of time in which the results of the required license examination remain valid from five years to three years; require an applicant to disclose how they intend to euthanize wildlife; eliminate the Department's responsibility to provide continuing education courses for license holders and expand options for continuing education courses applicable to their license renewal; require the wildlife rehabilitation license holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian; require an applicant to submit an affidavit affirming the applicant is either a licensed, practicing veterinarian or the applicant has access to a licensed, practicing veterinarian who is reasonably available to give veterinary services as necessary to facilitate rehabilitation of wildlife; and clarify that the wildlife rehabilitation license holder is responsible for all expenses incurred as a result of activities authorized under the license, including veterinary expenses. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would not increase costs and burdens to most licensees; that those license holders who were not practicing acceptable euthanasia techniques could incur costs of $150 or higher, depending on the method they chose for euthanasia. The few license holders who participated in the continuing education courses offered by the Department could incur costs for local or online seminars that ranged from approximately $50-$100, or costs of $1,000 or more to attend an out-of-state conference. However, there are no-cost alternatives as well, such as shadowing a veterinarian or more experienced rehabilitation license holder.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements that allow a person to rehabilitate and release live wildlife, to include authorized activities, permitted wildlife species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. The public benefits from a rule that protects and conserves Arizona's wildlife resources in a manner that allows the wildlife to be returned to their natural environment. The Department benefits from a rule that allows a person to provide rehabilitative care and treatment to Arizona's wildlife without impacting the Department's resources. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. Because the Department intends to implement an online special license application and reporting system, the Department proposes to remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife. This change is proposed to reduce the burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule and the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The Wildlife Rehabilitation License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-423 as follows:

- Clarify a wildlife rehabilitation license holder may lawfully possess, treat, and care for wildlife received from the public.
- Incorporate by reference the most recent editions of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 (endangered and threatened wildlife).
- Clarify the wildlife rehabilitation license does not authorize the license holder to conduct any activities that could be construed as the practice of veterinary medicine as prescribed under A.R.S. 32-2231 to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.
- Establish the applicant must correctly answer at least 80% of the questions on the Department administered examination to make the rule more concise.
- Remove the requirement that an applicant submit a separate application for each location where the applicant proposes to use wildlife. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.
- Allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.
- Establish an agent working on behalf of a wildlife rehabilitation license holder to provide proof of at least six months experience performing wildlife rehabilitative work to protect Arizona's wildlife resources.
- Specify that only a licensed veterinarian may determine whether or not an animal is suitable for release.
- Specify the actions required to dispose of a deceased eagle or other raptor.
- Clarify the federal permit report may only be submitted to satisfy the report's permit or license number requirement.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021 .

R12-4-424. White Amur Stocking and Holding License

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-238(A), 17-240(A), 17-306, 17-317, 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to possess and transport white amur, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic habitat and resources. Triploid white amur are virtually sterile and are an effective biological control tool and can consume its body weight in plant material every day. The rule was adopted to allow for the use of triploid white amur in vegetation control in closed aquatic systems while protecting the natural aquatic ecosystem from the adverse effects of the unwanted expansion and establishment of white amur.

The Department issues approximately 240 commercial white amur licenses and 160 noncommercial white amur licenses on an annual basis.

The fee for the commercial white amur license is $115; there is no fee for the noncommercial white amur license.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

As a result of changes made to R12-4-414 during the most recent rulemaking, the Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the applicant to provide a physical address or general location and remove the requirement that an applicant provide the Universal Transverse Mercator coordinates. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

An overabundance of freshwater vegetation can result in dense mats of vegetation that interfere with navigation and recreational activities, clogged power generation and irrigation equipment, stagnant water (which provides a good breeding ground for mosquitoes), and degraded water quality due to rising pH levels, decreased oxygen, and increased temperature. White amur are used as a natural alternative to remove unwanted freshwater vegetation. They are stocked in a private or public pond until the desired effect has been achieved and then they are transported to another location where they can be of service. White amur are capable of fast growth and can live for 10 to 15 years; when they reach maturity, their rate of weed consumption declines, and restocking of additional white amur is required every 5 to 6 years. Therefore, the Department proposes to amend the rule to remove references to "holding."

The white amur stocking and holding license is valid for a period of 20 consecutive days. In most cases, due to the life expectancy of white amur, persons will not need another for years, if at all. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove references pertaining to license renewal to make the rule more concise.

Scientific terminology is the part of the language that is used by scientists in the context of their professional activities. While studying nature, scientists often encounter or create new material or immaterial objects and concepts and are compelled to rename or redefine them. As a result, scientific terms and definitions continue to evolve over time. The Department proposes to amend the definition of "triploid" to reflect language used by modern fishery biologists.

The Department is aware of some confusion regarding the use of the terms "commercial" and "noncommercial" activity and how those terms apply to the white amur license. Under R12-4-401 (live wildlife definitions), “commercial purpose” means the bartering, buying, leasing, loaning, offering to sell, selling, trading, exporting or importing of wildlife or their parts for monetary gain. When viewed through this definition, the use of white amur by an applicant for vegetation control purposes cannot be viewed as a commercial purpose. In addition, an entity maintaining white amur for a commercial purpose as defined under R12-4-401 would be operating under an aquaculture (fish farm) license issued by the Department of Agriculture. Therefore, differentiating between "commercial" and "noncommercial" is not necessary and the Department proposes to amend the rule to remove language pertaining to "commercial" and "noncommercial" purpose.

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

12 A.A.C. 4, ARTICLE 4. LIVE WILDLIFE

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department proposes to replace reference to “On-Line Environmental Review Tool” with “Online Environmental Review Tool” to reflect current terminology.

- 7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to revise the definition of "triploid" to reflect language used by modern fishery biologists; clarify the activities authorized under the license include stocking, holding, and restocking; require an applicant to conduct an assessment of the impacts to sensitive species using the Department’s On-Line Environmental Review Tool; establish a protocol for disease control; to increase consistency between rules within Article 4; and establish the Department’s ability to perform inspections of the stocking location. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would have no significant impact on persons regulated by the rule.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule’s impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements that allow a person to possess and transport white amur, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic habitat and resources. The public benefits from a rule that allows persons to use of triploid white amur in vegetation control in closed aquatic systems in private and public waters. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that is understandable and protects the natural aquatic ecosystem from the adverse effects of the unwanted expansion and establishment of white amur. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a restocking license. In most cases, the costs incurred by the Department when processing a restocking license are anticipated to be less than an initial license because the Department believes the issuance of a white amur stocking license should take less time to review as there would be no need for the required inspection(s) and background or reference check(s). The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

lawfully possessed wildlife prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife to notify the Department of the possession and use of the wildlife. The Commission restricts certain wildlife species from possession because they pose a threat to human health and safety, have a negative biological impact on species and ecosystems, have a negative economic impact, and to be consistent with federal, state, and county regulatory agencies. Notification is required so the Department can track and monitor these species. The rule was adopted to provide a mechanism that allows a person continue to possess and use wildlife that was lawfully possessed prior to becoming classified as restricted live wildlife without the person having to apply for and obtain a special license.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to require a person to specifically identify wildlife possessed under the rule in the written notification; require a person to permanently mark wildlife possessed under the rule; restrict the propagation of live wildlife lawfully possessed under the rule; require a person who possesses any offspring prior to the effective date of this amendment to report any currently held offspring; and replace "designated Department employee" with "Department" to prevent the impression that only a specific designated employee may request documentation. The Commission believed the benefits of the rulemaking, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighed any costs. The Commission anticipated a person could incur minor costs associated with the requirement to permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs were expected to be insignificant. The Commission anticipated a veterinarian who provides spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services would benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal. Veterinarians charge up to $50 to permanently mark an animal and the office visit can cost up to $100. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals.

- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the administrative compliance requirements for the continued possession and use of wildlife lawfully possessed prior to becoming classified as restricted live wildlife list under R12-4-406 (restricted live wildlife). The rule requires a person who lawfully possessed wildlife prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife to notify the Department of the possession and use of the wildlife. This notification is required so the Department is aware of the location of restricted wildlife for tracking and monitoring purposes. The public benefits from a rule that allows a person continue to possess and use wildlife that was lawfully possessed prior to becoming classified as restricted live wildlife without the person having to apply for and obtain a special license. The Department benefits from a rule that enables it to track and monitor restricted live wildlife lawfully possessed prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

No action.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(B)(8), 17-234, 17-238(A), and 17-306

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the possession of nonhuman primates, to include containment, transportation, incident reporting and laboratory testing should a bite, scratch, or other incident occur, and the restrictions necessary to protect public health and safety. The rule was adopted as a result of a petition from the Arizona Department of Health Services (ADHS) which compiled data documenting primate exposures to humans (35 documented exposure incidents from 1994 to 1997). The risks posed by primates include zoonotic diseases, pathogenic organisms, and physical injury.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

- 7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to restrict the possession of primates to zoo license holders, research facilities, and persons exempt under R12-4-425; include additional zoonotic diseases subject to testing requirements; require a person to transport a primate in a secure cage, crate, or carrier; replace the terms "Director" and "Director's designee" with "Department;" require a zoo license holder or person using primates at a research facility that bit, scratched, or otherwise exposed a human to pathogenic organisms to use procedures recommended by the American Association of Zoo Veterinarians (AAZV) or Centers for Disease Control (CDC); and require a person lawfully possessing a primate under R12-4-425 to comply with the applicable captivity standards established under R12-4-428. The Commission believed the benefits of the rulemaking, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principle purpose of protecting human health, outweighed any costs. The Commission anticipated a person possessing wildlife could incur minor costs associated with the requirement to permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs were expected to be insignificant. The Commission anticipated a veterinarian who provides spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services would benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation. Veterinarians charge up to $50 to permanently mark an animal and the office visit can cost up to $100. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals.

The Department benefits from a rule that clearly protects the public and Arizona's wildlife resources. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the criteria that allow a person to possess and care for specific live wildlife species without a wildlife rehabilitation license, to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect wildlife habitat and resources. With thousands of interactions between the public and baby birds and rabbits each year, the Department believes it is appropriate for persons to pick up birds fallen from nests or small mammals displaced or trapped in urban environments in an attempt to help these species. Without this exemption someone who picks up a baby bird or rabbit and brings it home to temporarily care for it would be in violation of Game and Fish Commission laws and rules. The Department believes the rule works well for its intended purpose. This rule is specifically for Good Samaritans who wish to help the injured wildlife found in their yards and does not prohibit or prevent persons from taking injured wildlife directly to a licensed wildlife rehabilitator or veterinarian. The public benefits from a rule that protects and conserves Arizona's wildlife resources in a manner that allows the wildlife to be returned to their natural environment. The Department benefits from a rule that allows a person to provide rehabilitative care and treatment to Arizona's wildlife without impacting the Department's resources. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. 2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule mirrors the federal requirements applicable to dealers, research facilities, and exhibitors under 9 C.F.R. 2 (animal welfare). The environment must contain sufficient useable space, complexity, and enrichment and promote a species-appropriate repertoire of behaviors. The cost of ensuring the captive environment is minimally enriching are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and existing conditions. Modifications could range from simple changes in daily procedures, to changes in the enclosures costing hundreds to thousands of dollars. The Commission believed the benefits of the rulemaking, specifically ensuring license holders consider the psychological well-being of their animals, outweighs any costs. It is important to note that possessing live wildlife is a voluntary activity and only those persons who choose to possess live wildlife will incur costs.

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements for the importation, handling, and possession of captive cervids necessary to prevent disease transmission from captive cervids to wildlife and domestic animals, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule was adopted to impose regulations on cervids, including a ban on their importation into Arizona to prevent the introduction of chronic wasting disease (CWD) to free-ranging or captive wildlife in the state.

The intent behind the rule is to protect native wildlife and their habitats from the introduction of disease carried by captive cervids and prevent the introduction of nonnative cervids in Arizona ecosystems. The economic costs associated with wildlife disease outbreaks and control can be severe. Costs of disease outbreaks are generally recurring and additive due to annual costs of monitoring and eradicating diseased animals. Outbreaks can lead to significant decreases in license revenue sales due to decreased hunter participation. If wildlife diseases are introduced into Arizona and spread to native wildlife, the Department will have to divert resources to disease prevention and mitigation instead of wildlife management and habitat enhancement. Rural economies would also be adversely impacted. The U.S. Department of Agriculture disperses $17 to $19 million annually to help states monitor CWD.

At this time, the detection of CWD in new areas is expanding; at the time of the last rulemaking, eight additional states and a Canadian province became CWD positive. According to the most recent maps, 24 states and two Canadian provinces are now CWD positive.

To date, the Department has collected and tested 1,332 cervid samples (elk, mule deer, and white-tailed deer) and none have tested positive for CWD.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

CWD has the potential to negatively impact deer herds wherever the disease occurs; it is always fatal and could have serious negative impacts on the state's deer population if it becomes established in Arizona (Almberg et al. 2011). CWD infection decreases deer survival odds and lowers total life expectancy (Miller et al. 2008). If a large percentage of the population were to become infected there could be negative impacts for the population, including: A decline in doe survival, which results in an overall reduced population (Gross and Miller 2001); Fewer older bucks, as male animals may be more likely to be infected due to specific male social and behavioral tendencies (Miller et al. 2008, Jennelle et al. 2014); and An overall decline in population (Gross and Miller 2001, Almberg et al. 2011), as exhibited in Colorado and Wyoming. In an area of Colorado with high CWD prevalence, mule deer numbers have plummeted by 45%, in spite of good habitat and protection from human hunting. In Wyoming a monitored infected population experienced a 10.4% annual decline, with CWD-positive animals having a higher mortality rate than non-infected deer (Edmunds et al 2016). Taking action to prevent the spread of CWD to new areas helps to slow the transmission of the disease between individuals. The Department proposes to amend the rule to implement the following requirements necessary to the Department's monitoring and detecting diseases in cervids: require the holder of a private game farm license to mark each cervid they possess with an ear tag that identifies the farm of origin in a manner clearly visible from 100 feet; require a person possessing a cervid to report the death of any cervid to the Department within seven calendar days; include the results of chronic wasting disease testing for all cervids one year of age and older that dies during the current reporting period in the annual report; notify the Department within 72 hours of receiving a suspect or positive disease testing result; and require a person who possesses a cervid to maintain related records for a period of at least five years and make the records available for inspection to the Department upon request.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

Under R12-4-425 (restricted live wildlife lawfully possessed without license or permit before the effective date of article 4 or any subsequent amendments) a person who lawfully possessed wildlife prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife to notify the Department of the possession and use of the wildlife. This notification is required so the Department is made aware of the location of the restricted wildlife for tracking and monitoring purposes. Cervids are listed as restricted live wildlife under R12-4-406 (restricted live wildlife), which means a person must have a lawful exemption or possess a special license in order to lawfully possess them in Arizona. Even though cervids have been listed as restricted live wildlife since 2002, the Department still encounters persons possessing cervids lawfully obtained prior to 2002 but who have not yet met the requirements of R12-4-425. The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference R12-4-425 to increase consistency between rules.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: August 7, 2014. I realize the Arizona Department of Agriculture (DoA)"controls" swine, goats, and sheep. These animals are held in captivity across the state with seemingly little concern by the DoA about the diseases they might spread to natural game in Arizona should they "escape." Feral hogs are spreading almost uncontrollably in parts of Arizona, yet there is so little oversight on the fencing of domestic hogs. Swine, goats, and sheep carry many more communicable diseases than fallow deer. Fallow deer are probably the hardest and most disease-free animals of any grazing animal. There is not a single known case of CWD in any fallow deer in any state. Bottom line, I do not know why the Commission would want to vote "no" to letting Arizonans fence fallow deer. I would ask each Commissioner to imagine one scenario with two outcomes before they vote to support the committee recommendation of not allowing fencing of fallow deer: Probably greater than 75% of people in Arizona that want to graze fallow deer will be forced to either move away from Arizona or graze hogs, sheep, and/or goats and pose greater risk to all of Arizona's natural wildlife. There is nothing particularly scientific about my 75% statistic; I talked to nearly 100 people about this exact scenario and more than 75 persons said they would either move to another state to graze fallow deer or graze one of the other three animals listed above. I dare say that neither outcome is desirable. Perhaps the Commissioners should consider doing their own survey before making their final decision on the fencing of fallow deer? I recommend with great conviction and passion that the Commission allow for the fencing of fallow deer. I also recommend that if the Commissioners have any concern about the spread of fallow deer with existing wildlife, they amend the rule to require the fence to be inspected by an independent inspector at the cost of the fallow deer owner prior to the owner being allow to graze the fallow deer on the fenced property.

Agency Response: The Department appreciates the viewpoints expressed. As the commenter states, the Commission does not have statutory authority over domestic species and will not comment on the potential for the introduction of diseases by such animals. Regarding the potential for damage by these species, owners of livestock must have either a grazing allotment or other conditional use permit in order to lawfully graze livestock on public lands. Public land management agencies are responsible for enforcing lawful grazing practices. Regarding the Department's decision to include fallow deer (Dama dama), while CWD has not been documented in the species by the oral route, it has been induced through intracerebral inoculation. They are also susceptible to other disease of concern for wildlife, human, and livestock health such as exotic lice, bovine tuberculosis, pasteurellosis, liver flukes, meningeal worms, babesiosis, and hepatitis E virus. In addition, the Department receives regular reports of fallow deer at large that have escaped from enclosures (some are legally held under R12-4-425 which allows individuals to continue to hold live wildlife placed on the restricted list if legally held before the rule change). For these reasons, fallow deer will remain on the restricted live wildlife list and may only be held by licensed zoos and researchers as authorized under R12-4-420 (zoo license) and R12-4-418 (scientific collecting permit).

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on October 6, 2015. The rule was amended to submit tissues from any cervid over one-year of age that die or are killed or slaughtered for testing for CWD. This requirement is comparable to the requirements for herd certification programs for farmed cervids in other states. The sample must be collected by a licensed veterinarian or the Department and then submitted to a USDA APHIS certified laboratory. There are 28 approved diagnostic laboratories nationwide. The license holder may pay the cost of sample collection, shipping, and testing. The Department does not charge a fee to remove a sample. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would not have a significant impact on the one game farm regulated by the rule because they were already required to test all cervids that die while in their possession. Reports submitted by the private game farm indicate approximately 22 animals die or are killed or slaughtered on an annual basis. If all of these animals were over one-year of age, the Commission estimated costs for testing would range from $550 to $770. However, the Department does not charge a fee to remove a sample. Shipping costs vary greatly depending on the shipping company and delivery date, but typical shipping costs are under $20. The Commission anticipated the Department would realize a reduction in costs due to the license holder being responsible for shipping and testing the samples, an approximate savings of $600 annually.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 2396, August 29, 2014.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 2293, August 29, 2014.
- Public Comment Period: August 29, 2014 through September 29, 2014.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the October 6, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 2813, November 20, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements for the importation, handling, and possession of captive cervids necessary to prevent disease transmission from captive cervids to wildlife and domestic animals, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule was adopted to impose regulations on cervids, including a ban on their importation into Arizona to prevent the introduction of chronic wasting disease to free-ranging or captive wildlife in the state. The public benefits from a rule that protects native wildlife and their habitats from the introduction of disease carried by captive cervids and prevent the introduction of nonnative cervids in Arizona ecosystems. The costs associated with wildlife disease outbreaks and control can be severe, are generally recurring, and additive due to annual costs of monitoring and eradicating diseased animals. The Department benefits from a rule that prevents a significant decrease in hunting license revenue due to increased hunter/public caution and decreased hunter participation. Such loss of hunting-related revenue to rural economies can be disastrous to the state's economic stability and may decrease the Department's operating budget, thus causing a greater negative impact on wildlife resources. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department has determined that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law. Federal law, 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare Act (AWA), governs the care and treatment of mammals, only. The Department regulates all wildlife, mammals, birds, and reptiles, to ensure all species receive humane and appropriate care and to protect public health and safety. While the rule is not based on corresponding federal law, the Department applies AWA requirements to all wildlife to further protect native wildlife populations, their habitat, and the public.

- 13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-430 as follows to improve the Department's CWD monitoring program:

- Reference R12-4-425 to increase consistency between rules.
- Require the holder of a private game farm license to mark each cervid they possess with an ear tag that identifies the farm of origin in a manner that is clearly visible from 100 feet.
- Report the death of any cervid to the Department within seven calendar days.
- Notify the Department within 72 hours of receiving a suspect or positive disease testing result.
- Include the results of chronic wasting disease testing for all cervids one year of age and older that dies during the current reporting period in the annual report.
- Require a person who possesses a cervid to maintain related records for a period of at least five years and make the records available for inspection.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by May 2021.

2018 FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

The Department received the following written criticism that either addressed multiple rules or did not apply to current Article 4 rules:

Written Comment: July 23, 2013. The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) appreciates that the Department is reviewing Article 4, Live Wildlife, and we request the following changes. We have attached detailed comments and suggested regulatory language for your consideration. Designate All Non-Human Primates as Restricted Live Wildlife: Currently, great apes (chimpanzees, gorillas, orangutans, and bonobos) are the only primates designated as restricted live wildlife (R12-4-406 G.4), yet monkeys and prosimians are the species most likely to be kept in private hands and are readily available from breeders and dealers, at auctions, and on the internet. The private possession of primates is inhumane, poses unacceptable physical and zoonotic disease risks to the community and emergency responders, and is detrimental to true wildlife conservation efforts. We recommend designating all non-human primates as restricted wildlife under R12-4-406. Define Dangerous Wild Animals: Wild animals retain their basic instincts, even if they are born in captivity and hand-raised. When kept in private hands, many wild animal species can cause death, inflict serious injury and spread deadly diseases. Potentially dangerous wild animals should be kept only in qualified facilities that employ knowledgeable and experienced staff. We recommend designating big cats, bears, wolves, hyenas, non-human primates, and all species of procyonidae as Dangerous Wild Animals. Prohibit Public Contact with Dangerous Wild Animals: Baby tigers, lions, and bears, as well as primates of all ages, are frequently used by unaccredited facilities for public handling and other unsafe close encounters such as photo-ops or petting-and play-sessions. These animals are typically used until they are just a few months old, at which point they are discarded. Although the exhibition of warm blooded animals is regulated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), public handling of these animals is largely unmonitored and USDA enforcement policies currently allow the harmful practice of handling these animals to flourish. A cycle of breeding and then discarding animals after a few months fuels the exotic pet trade, puts animals at risk, endangers the public, undermines conservation efforts, and creates a burden for law enforcement, sanctuaries, and taxpayers. We recommend banning all public contact with Dangerous Wild Animals, defined as big cats, bears, wolves, hyenas, non-human primates, and all species of procyonidae. Restrict the Breeding of Dangerous Wild Animals: Commercial breeding of dangerous wild animals to produce babies to attract visitors for use in public contact activities, or to sell in the exotic animal trade, is rampant. Such breeding is done without regard to lineage and genetic diversity or planning for the lifetime care of the animals, many of whom are long-lived. The captive breeding of dangerous wild animals should be prohibited for all entities other than institutions accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA), certified related facilities that coordinate with AZA Species Survival Plan (SSP) Programs for breeding of species listed as threatened or endangered pursuant to 16 U.S.C. § 1533, or facilities that are actively seeking accreditation or certification by the AZA. We recommend prohibiting the breeding of Dangerous Wild Animals, defined as big cats, bears, wolves, hyenas, non-human primates, and all species of procyonidae. Please see the attached supporting documents that provide additional information justifying the recommended changes. We urge the Department to include our proposed changes in its recommendations to the Commission at its scheduled meeting on August 2-3. Thank you for allowing us to participate in this process. laws, HSUS Review of Arizona Game and Fish Article 4, Restricted Live Wildlife, Dangerous incidents involving captive primates, Incidents involving the use of big cats, bears, and primates for close encounters with the public.

The following comment was sent in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (see Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 22 A.A.R. 2558, September 16, 2016), but was received after the public comment period had ended. The Commission amended R12-4-402. Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts to clarify that federal agencies or employees are not exempt from obtaining a state permit or license when conducting any activity listed under R12-4-402(A) and to ensure the Commission maintains jurisdiction and effective conservation over Arizona's wildlife and wildlife habitat.

Written Comment: February 27, 2017. The data show a clear and remarkable linkage between the presence of wolves and the health of an entire streamside ecosystem, including two species of cottonwoods and the myriad of roles they play in erosion control, stream health, and nurturing diverse plant and animal life. The findings of these studies were recently published in Ecological Applications, a journal of the Ecological Society of America, and the journal Forest Ecology and Management.

Agency Response: While the immediate issue that prompted the internal review of the Commission's rules involved big river fish and the Mexican wolf, the broader concern with federal agencies obtaining state licenses and permits relates to a variety of activities involving many species of native terrestrial and aquatic wildlife. The Commission's intent in proposing the amendments indicated in this rulemaking is to strengthen its rule to avoid any unintended interpretation that a federal agency is exempt from state permitting requirements when conducting any wildlife-related activities. The Commission has always operated under the premise that federal agencies need state authorization for any wildlife activities, and, as a result of an internal review of its rules, the Commission concluded that this requirement was not clearly codified in rule. Through this rulemaking, the Commission is codifying what has been a common practice with federal agencies. The change will avoid any legal ambiguity and should avoid any disagreement over the applicability of the Commission's rules.

Economic, Small Business and Consumer Impact Statement

A. Economic, small business and consumer impact summary:

1. Identification of the proposed rulemaking.

The Arizona Game and Fish Commission proposes to amend its Article 4 rules, governing live wildlife, to enact amendments developed during the preceding Five-year Review. After evaluating the scope and effectiveness of the proposed amendments specified in the review, the Commission proposes additional amendments to further implement original proposals.

The Commission's rules protect native wildlife in many ways, including preventing the spread of disease, reducing the risk of released animals competing with native wildlife, discouraging illegal trade of native wildlife, and preventing interactions between humans and wildlife that may threaten public health or safety.

In addition to the amendments made to ensure consistency between Commission rules and conformity with the Arizona Administrative Procedure Act and the Secretary of State's rulemaking format and style requirements and standards, the Commission proposes to amend Article 4. Live Wildlife rules as follows:

For R12-4-401 Live Wildlife Definitions, the objective of the rule is to establish definitions that assist persons in understanding the unique terms that are used throughout Article 4. The rule is amended to establish definitions for terms that are not self-defining or differ from the common-use definition. The term "adoption" is defined to clarify the Commission's intent regarding when the public is required to have a special license to possess wildlife. The term "aversion training" is defined to clarify that a person may use reptiles or amphibians to teach dogs how to avoid them in the wild for the purpose of "snake/frog breaking" dogs. Dog owners and persons who provide the training believe the training helps to keep them and their pets safe, especially when recreating in suburban fringes and backcountry. The term "educational institution" is defined to clarify the intent of R12-4-417 as it applies to educational displays. The rule was amended to incorporate the October 1, 2013 version of 50 C.F.R. 17.11 and October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 10.13. The term "noncommercial purpose" is defined as this is not a self-defining term and is necessary to assist in understanding rules within Article 4 and replaces references to "personal use," which is an ambiguous term. The term "nonhuman primate" is defined as this is not a self-defining term and is necessary to assist in understanding amendments made to R12-4-406 and R12-4-426. The term "person" is defined to clarify the extent of the regulated community. The term "captive-reared" is defined to assist in understanding R12-4-413 and R12-4-414. The term "species of greatest conservation need" is defined and replaces the definition for "wildlife of special concern" to incorporate the federally-approved Arizona's State Wildlife Action Plan, which provides a list of species of greatest conservation need. The term "unique identifier" is defined to provide examples of acceptable permanent identifiers. The term "USFWS"(United States Fish and Wildlife Service) is defined to make the Article more concise. The terms "health certificate," "migratory birds," "taxa," "volunteer," "wildlife disease," and "zoo" are defined as these is not a self-defining terms and are necessary to assist in understanding rules within Article 4. The rule is also amended to clarify some definitions. The definition of "agent" is amended to clarify the term has the same meaning as "sublicensee" and "subpermittee" which is used in federal permitting language. This amendment is made to address those instances when a federal permit and a special license are required. The definition of "cervid" is amended to reference the Integrated Taxonomic Information System, a nationally recognized taxonomic reference that is easily accessible to the public. The definition of "endangered or threatened" is amended to insert the term "wildlife" and incorporate the most recent version of the Federal Endangered and Threatened Wildlife regulation. The definition of "live baitfish" is amended to reference R12-4-317, which establishes requirements for the lawful use of live baitfish. The definition of "zoonotic" is amended to clarify the term and assist in understanding rules within Article 4. In addition, the rule is amended to remove the definitions for "collect," "native," and "propagate," as their meaning is addressed in rule language or the common-use definition is satisfactory.

For R12-4-402 Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts, the objective of the rule is to establish unlawful activities for persons taking and possessing live wildlife and the Department's authority to take possession of wildlife for a violation of the rule. The rule is amended to allow the Department to euthanize lawfully possessed wildlife that poses a threat to public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations to officially codify the Department's current process. The rule is also amended to enable the Department to recoup costs associated with the care, feeding, and housing of seized potentially dangerous wildlife. Owners of lawfully possessed wildlife that pose a threat to public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations will be held responsible for all costs associated with their temporary care. The amendment clarifies that, although all wildlife is held in the public trust, the State and Department is not responsible for any costs incurred by the person possessing the wildlife. In addition, the rule is amended to establish the Department's authority to euthanize wildlife acquired or seized by the Department in response to a violation of any requirement of the rule to provide additional clarity and that the Department will make a reasonable attempt to suitably place wildlife before making the decision to euthanize the animal.

For R12-4-403 Escaped or Released Wildlife, the objective of the rule is to establish the Department's authority to take possession of any escaped or released wildlife that poses an actual or potential threat to native wildlife, wildlife habitat, or to the safety, health, and welfare of the public. The rule is amended to provide additional clarity and establish owner responsibilities and to allow the Department to seize, quarantine, or euthanize any wildlife that has escaped or is likely to escape and poses a threat to public health, safety, or welfare, wildlife populations or wildlife habitat until it is properly contained or rehomed.

In general, persons who possess captive animals hold them in a secure, safe, and humane manner. However, on occasion the animals are not held in a secure, safe, and humane manner and escape their enclosures. On occasion, exotic animals are intentionally released from their enclosures by irresponsible owners who are unable to take care of or no longer want to care for their animals. Special license holders and owners of escaped or unlawfully released wildlife will be held responsible for all costs associated with their temporary care. The rule is also amended to remove the reference to A.R.S. § 17-306 as it implies the statute establishes the conditions for release when the statute only authorizes the Commission to determine those conditions. In addition, the rule is amended to provide additional options necessary for the evaluation of any situation where native wildlife protection and the safety, health and welfare of the public are concerned. These options include permitting the temporary possession of live wildlife under the instruction and oversight of the Department.

For R12-4-404 Possession of Live Wildlife Taken Under an Arizona Hunting or Fishing License, the objective of the rule is to establish lawful activities for persons taking and possessing live wildlife under a valid hunting or fishing license and to regulate the take and disposition of live wildlife when live bag and possession limits are specified in a Commission Order. The rule is amended to provide additional clarity and ensure consistency between rules within Article 4. The Commission believes the term "personal use" is an ambiguous and proposes to replace the term with "noncommercial purpose" as this term is defined. The rule is amended to prohibit the release of propagated wildlife into the wild to assist in preventing the transmission of wildlife diseases. The Commission believes translocated and propagated wildlife has the potential to transmit wildlife disease into healthy wildlife populations. This also ensures consistency between rules within Article 4 as the Commission also proposes to amend R12-4-404 to prohibit the release of propagated offspring. The rule is also amended to allow the use of reptiles or amphibians for aversion or avoidance training, provided the reptiles or frogs were taken under a valid Arizona hunting license and the current Commission Order authorizes a live bag and possession limit for that wildlife. Aversion training, also known as snake/frog breaking, trains the dog to run away from a snake or frog. The use of reptiles and amphibians for aversion training is considered a lawful activity, but the current rule does not address this activity. The intent of the amendment is to clarify the already legal practice of using reptiles and frogs for the purpose of providing aversion training. In addition, the rule is amended to remove "photograph" from the list of authorized noncommercial uses and add a new subsection (I), indicating a special license is not required to sell photographs of wildlife taken under a valid hunting or fishing license. This amendment was added as a result of comments received, which indicated clarification was required in regards to when a special license is required to photograph wildlife.

For R12-4-405 Importing, Purchasing, and Transporting Live Wildlife Without an Arizona License or Permit, the objective of the rule is to establish lawful activities and limitations for a person importing, purchasing, or transporting wildlife or the offspring of wildlife taken without a Department-issued license or permit to prevent harm to native wildlife of this state or to endanger public safety. The rule is amended to require a person who is importing mammals, birds, amphibians, or reptiles into this state to ensure the wildlife is accompanied by a health certificate to mirror federal and state importation requirements. The Department's management of both game and nongame species as a public resource depends on sound science, which indicates there is a potential for imported wildlife to transmit disease into healthy wildlife populations. The Commission believes it is beneficial to amend the rule to increase consistency with both federal and the Department of Agriculture's importation requirements; wherever possible and practical to do so.

For R12-4-406 Restricted Live Wildlife, the objective of the rule is to establish a list of live wildlife for which a special license is required in order to possess the wildlife and/or to engage in activities that may otherwise be prohibited under A.R.S. § 17-306 and R12-4-402. The rule is amended to increase its effectiveness by indicating that, unless otherwise specified, all transgenic wildlife is live restricted wildlife. The rule is amended to replace the term "use" with "possess" to increase the potential for proper enforcement. "Use" is a generic term that is undefined for the Article, whereas "possess" has a specific meaning relative to the Article. The rule is amended to incorporate the online taxonomic authority, www.itis.gov, a nationally recognized authority for all taxa. The Integrated Taxonomic Information System is readily available online and is easier for the public to access. The rule is amended to group the various types of species throughout the rule to reflect current taxonomy for scientific accuracy. The rule is amended to replace the term "Blue Grouse" with "Dusky Grouse" as this is the current reference for the species. The rule is amended to remove hedgehogs from the restricted live wildlife list to allow their use as pets. Although traditionally classified in the order Insectivora, hedgehogs are not exclusively insectivores but are almost omnivorous. Hedgehogs feed on berries, bird eggs, carrion, frogs and toads, grass roots, insects, melons, mushrooms, snails, and snakes. When foraging, they rely upon their senses of hearing and smell because their eyesight is weak. The hedgehog habitat is mainly hedgerows, woodlands, and meadows; they seem to prefer lush or riparian habitats. Most of the hedgehogs in the pet industry are African pygmy hedgehogs or hybrids of same with the European hedgehog. Natural predators are canids and owls as they are nocturnal. Because Arizona has plenty of natural predators and a minimal amount of suitable habitat, the Department has determined it is highly unlikely that a hedgehog that escapes or is intentionally released into the wild will survive. Currently, the rule only restricts all species of the family Pongidae of the order of Primates. The rule is amended to expand "restricted primates" to include all nonhuman primates. Nonhuman primates are known to be injurious to the public and have the potential to have or carry dangerous diseases that can have a significant impact on human health. Further regulation of primates through this Section and R12-4-426 will improve the Department's ability to regulate the importation and personal possession of those primates that regularly expose the public to potential danger. Nonhuman primates require professional, well-managed care and are capable of transmitting diseases to humans and contracting diseases from humans. Nonhuman primates includes: apes, baboons, chimpanzees, gibbons, gorillas, lemurs, lorises, marmosets, orangutans, and tamarins. Many people remain undaunted by the risks of adopting nonhuman primates in their homes. Most nonhuman primates are bred in captivity in the U.S. and some are sold to the pet trade. Viewed as status symbols or substitute children, nonhuman primates are commonly sold for up to thousands of dollars through newspaper ads and the Internet. It is uncertain how many primates enter the trade through captive breeding each year in the U.S., but the number is estimated to be in the thousands. The conditions in which privately owned nonhuman primates are kept raise serious animal welfare concerns. Most people cannot provide the special care, social grouping, housing, diet, and maintenance that nonhuman primates require. Once an owner realizes they can no longer handle the nonhuman primate, they try to place them in other homes. Others are sent to laboratories, sanctuaries, or used in breeding programs. Many animals who have become too difficult for their owners to care for, or who have outgrown their usefulness as "pets" or profit-makers, end up languishing in small pens in backyards, doomed to live in deplorable conditions. Sadly, most end up being sold and resold over and over again. The influx of unwanted animals has become overwhelming for the dozens of sanctuaries in the U.S. and most primate/exotic animal sanctuaries are full, or near capacity. Typically, nonhuman primates cannot be effectively toilet trained and sometimes engage in distasteful activities involving their feces and urine. Environmental contamination from pet nonhuman primates is of great concern. Poor hygiene and improper disposal of contaminated feces pose a serious problem. Many disease organisms can persist in the environment for long periods of time and may pose a serious threat to humans. Environmental contamination may be a significant danger to the communities where pet nonhuman primates are kept. As the nonhuman primate grows older, stronger and more unpredictable, they may turn aggressively on anyone, including the person with whom they are the closest. As a primate reaches sexual maturity, it will often become more aggressive and may start biting or fighting people to establish dominance, including attacking their owners or visitors to the owner's home. With larger primates, these behaviors can turn dangerous or even deadly for humans; as in the case of the Connecticut woman who lost her face and hands after being mauled by a friend's 200-pound chimpanzee. Some owners may attempt to change the animal's natural behavior by confinement in small enclosures, chaining, shocking, beating, and removal of teeth and nails to prevent scratching and biting. Compounding the risk of physical injury to the public, nonhuman primates of all sizes have the potential to carry dangerous zoonotic diseases that can affect human health and safety. Eighty to ninety percent of all macaque nonhuman primates are infected with herpes B virus or simian B, a virus that is harmless to nonhuman primates but fatal to 70 percent of humans who contract it. Nonhuman primates shed the virus intermittently in saliva or genital secretions, which generally occur when the nonhuman primate is ill, under stress, or during periods of sexual receptivity. A person who is bitten, scratched, sneezed on, or spat on while the shedding occurs runs the risk of contracting the disease. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) asserts that the increase in macaque nonhuman primates in the pet trade may constitute an emerging infectious disease threat in the U.S. Disease organisms, particularly viruses, tend to live only in a small group of animal species to which they have adapted. Zoonotic diseases and viruses, to be spread successfully, must not kill their animal host. In the host, the organism often does little or no damage. However, when present in the human body, strategies that kept the organism in check do not work, causing them to multiply out of control and attack tissues and organs in ways it does not do when present in an animal host. This same, wrong-host phenomenon is why bird flu, equine encephalitis, and hanta viruses are dangerous or fatal in humans but rarely kill their animal host. Some of the zoonotic diseases that nonhuman primates carry and that can be transmitted to people are monkey pox, simian herpes B virus, simian immunodeficiency virus (SIV, the primate form of HIV), measles, rabies, Marburg virus, cercopithecine herpes virus I, salmonella, influenza virus, filoviruses (ebola), streptococcus pneumonia, viral hepatitis, and tuberculosis. Most of these diseases spread through a bite or exposure to the saliva or nasal secretions of the nonhuman primate, while others spread through exposure to nonhuman primate feces. If specific precautions are not followed, nonhuman primates may easily transfer disease organisms they harbor to persons who are exposed to the nonhuman primate. As it currently stands, there is no blanket federal rule on nonhuman primate ownership in the U.S., although the U.S. Centers for Disease Control (CDC) banned the commercial importation of primates as pets in 1975. As a result, responsibility for protecting people and nonhuman primates falls to the individual states. Currently there is a patchwork of state laws regarding "pet" nonhuman primates. Twenty-two states have a full ban on private ownership of nonhuman primates: Alaska, California, Colorado, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, and Washington. Three states have a partial ban on private ownership of some nonhuman primates: Connecticut, Florida, and Tennessee. Seven states require a permit or registration to possess nonhuman primates as pets: Delaware, Idaho, Missouri, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, and Wyoming. Three states require a permit to possess some nonhuman primates as pets, while allowing others without a permit: Mississippi, Texas, and Wisconsin. Fourteen states allow nonhuman primates as pets: Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Arizona Department of Agriculture requires a person importing any member of the genus Macaca into Arizona to obtain a health certificate prior to importation and Arizona Game and Fish Commission rules currently prohibit persons from bartering, gifting, importing, purchasing, selling, and trading of nonhuman primate infants; place restrictions on the import of nonhuman primates; specifies requirements for containment and transportation of nonhuman primates; and establishes a protocol for persons to follow when a nonhuman primate bites, scratches, or otherwise exposes a human to pathogenic organisms. The current trend across the country is adopting regulations to prohibit specific species of dangerous animals, including nonhuman primates, from future possession. This is important in allowing for a more uniform approach to successfully handle this issue nationwide. Forty-eight nonhuman primate exposure incidents have been recorded in Arizona since the Department began tracking nonhuman primate exposure incidents in 1994, many more are suspected. This does not include complaints of nonhuman primate escapes and numerous inquiries by the public and cooperating agencies regarding legality and housing requirements for nonhuman primates they have encountered. Nonhuman primates are not currently identified as restricted live wildlife in Arizona, but should be due to their potential negative impact on human health and safety. The Maricopa County Department of Public Health and the Humane Society of the U.S. have submitted letters in full support of the proposed restriction contained in this rule. The rule is also amended to improve consistency between federal regulations and state rules by including all birds listed under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA) as restricted live wildlife; in addition the rule was amended to incorporate the October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 10.13. In addition, the rule is amended to add apple snails, Chinese mystery snails, false dark mussels, Red Shiners, and five species of tilapia, paddlefish and sturgeon to the list of restricted live wildlife. Apple snails (genus Pomacea) are large aquatic snails that were introduced into Arizona through the pet trade and aquaculture; currently being sold as "mystery snails" at local pet stores and other stores in the aquarium trade. Two South American species are recognized as invasive, nuisance species in the United States (U.S.): the channeled apple snail (Pomacea canaliculata) and island apple snail (P. insularum). Apple snails are voracious herbivores and will eat eggs and juveniles of other snails and decomposing organic matter. Every 12 to 15 days, the female apple snail lays a bright pink clutch of eggs (typically 200 to 300 eggs) on the stems of emergent plants and branches above the water. They are moderately amphibious and equipped with a shell door to prevent drying out while hiding in the mud during dry periods. From a human health perspective, apple snails are an intermediate host for the rat lungworm (Angiostrongylus cantonensis), a nematode that can cause meningitis in humans. In 2012, all species of apple snails are listed in the Department's Directors Order #1, which is a listing of all aquatic invasive species that are not native to Arizona's ecosystem and whose introduction or presence in this state may cause economic or environmental harm or harm to human health. Chinese mystery snails (Bellamya chinensis, synonym Cipangopaludina chinensis) are large freshwater snails. Though native to East Asia, this species has established itself in the U.S. This snail stays partially buried in the mud where water is low. Females give birth to live, crawling young and a single brood may have over 100 young. Mystery snails have been imported into the U.S. by the aquarium industry as well as for Asian food markets. Some releases were probably from hobbyists, and others may have been deliberate in an effort to create a local food source. They can clog the screens of water intake pipes and restrict water flow. They are also known to host parasites and diseases that can infect humans. They also compete with native snails for food and habitat resources and can serve as vectors for the transmission of parasites and diseases to our native aquatic species. False dark mussels Mytilopsis leucophaeata are a species of small bivalve mollusk in the false mussel family, Dreissenidae. They attach to hard substrates, including oyster and true mussel shells, rocks, boats, pilings, and ropes. The species is highly adaptable, has broad ecological tolerances, inhabits freshwater and can also be found in coastal and estuarine habitats, riparian zones, and wetlands, even occurring in cooling water conduits of power stations. This species is unlikely to be impacted by any major threats, although because of its bio-fouling abilities (causing huge economic damage to industry) it is targeted by biocides and other control measures. The Red Shiner is a common bait fish, and the emptying of bait buckets by anglers containing them is believed to be the main cause of introduction of this species into new areas. It is also commonly used as an aquarium fish. It has become a species of special concern in the U.S., as it has been implicated in the decline of native fish populations in the areas where it has been introduced and in doing so hinder the growth of those populations. They are omnivorous and eat both aquatic and terrestrial invertebrates, algae, and have been known to eat the eggs and larvae of native fish.

The average clutch size is 585 eggs and females may have 5 to 19 clutches in one reproductive season. Red Shiners are capable of generating viable hybrid offspring with closely related species. The Commission recently amended R12-4-316 to remove Red Shiner from the list of live bait minnows that can be lawfully possessed, transported, or imported by licensed anglers. The rule was also amended to allow anglers to collect Red Shiners in the wild to possess and use as bait only on the body of water where they are captured. Five tilapia species (Oreochromis aureus, O. mossambica; O. niloticus, O. urolepis hornoru, and T. zilli) and their hybrids are commonly used in backyard aquaculture facilities. In approximately 1972, they were imported into Florida as an experiment in fish farming. Today tilapia is the third most plentiful fish in aquaculture, surpassed only by carps and salmonids. Tilapia are generally large, fast growing, and breed rapidly; once introduced into a habitat they generally establish themselves very quickly. In doing so they compete with native fish fauna, create turbidity in the water (due to nesting behaviors) thus reducing the light available for aquatic plants, and consume a vast range of food sources causing changes in local aquatic flora. Impacts to rivers, creeks and ponds can be great, particularly the dramatic decreases in native fish populations due to predation and competition for food by the fast breeding tilapia. Native fish, invertebrates, and other organisms also experience reduced access to cover through the aggressive territorial defense of breeding and feeding sites by some tilapia species. Because tilapia are not currently restricted, there are no built in safeguards that prevent the illegal release of tilapia into Arizona waters. Adding these species to the list of restricted wildlife, as are all other game fish, would require a person to obtain an Aquatic Wildlife Stocking License in order to legally possess and stock tilapia. An applicant is required to provide information about the planned use and disposition of tilapia; thus allowing the Department the opportunity to assess the biological risk of issuing a permit as well as educate the public on the negative impacts of illegally stocking non-native tilapia into Arizona's waters. In addition, the rule is amended to add sturgeon and paddlefish, which can be purchased by an individual with a desire to start an angling opportunity or for their caviar. Illegally introduced sturgeon and paddlefish could survive in bigger rivers in Arizona such as the Colorado River, Verde River, Salt River, and Gila River, as well as lakes, and potentially survive and become established. If sturgeons become established, they have a long lifespan and could impact native fish populations as well as have impacts in areas we currently manage for sport fishing. Several species of sturgeons and paddlefish are harvested for their roe, which is made into caviar and makes an attractive choice for fish farming. In addition, California currently lists sturgeon as restricted live wildlife (via bony fishes within Class Osteichthyes; Fish and Game Code, Section 2116-2127). In addition, because sturgeon and paddlefish are not currently restricted under R12-4-406, there are no safeguards built in to prevent backyard fish farmers from illegally releasing unwanted fish into Arizona waters. Adding these species to the list of restricted wildlife, as are all other game fish, a person would be required to obtain an Aquatic Wildlife Stocking Permit in order to legally possess and stock sturgeon or paddlefish in their backyard pond. An applicant is required to provide information about the planned use and disposition of the fish, allowing the Department the opportunity to assess the geographic risk of issuing a permit as well as educate these public on the negative impacts of illegally stocking non-native sturgeon or paddlefish into Arizona's waters.

For R12-4-407 Exemptions from Special License Requirements for Restricted Wildlife, the objective of the rule is to establish exemptions from special license requirements for restricted live wildlife. The rule is amended to require individuals who import wildlife into the state to possess a valid health certificate, as already required by the Arizona Department of Agriculture. The rule is amended to prohibit individuals from propagating lawfully possessed desert tortoises. Currently, there is an overabundance of captive-reared desert tortoises housed at Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities in Arizona. As of September 2013, there were 260 unwanted captive desert tortoises available for adoption, 100 of which are under three years old. The current rule allows desert tortoise custodians to propagate captive desert tortoises and either gift the offspring to other members of the public or surrender them to the Department. A desert tortoise can lay up to 12 eggs per year, therefore captive hatchling desert tortoises are consistently surrendered at rates that are unsustainable for the Department's tortoise adoption Program. There is no conservation or scientific need to propagate desert tortoises and this practice places an undue burden on the Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities. Captive desert tortoises pose risks to the wild populations from introduction of infectious diseases or affecting the genetic composition of wild populations and thus cannot be released into the wild. Therefore, the Department expends considerable resources on housing and placing new generations of unwanted captive desert tortoises into approved homes; funds that are meant to be used for desert tortoise conservation, monitoring, and research. Restricting desert tortoise propagation is consistent with efforts to restrict propagation of other restricted species. There is no conservation benefit to breeding captive desert tortoises; in fact caring for unwanted pet tortoises redirects valuable Department resources from conservation goals. In addition an overabundance of captive desert tortoises may provide complications if the species is listed under the Endangered Species Act. Propagation will only be allowed as authorized by the Department. The rule is amended to clarify the live game fish exemption applies only to restricted live game fish. The rule is also amended to establish guidelines for the disposal of animals that die while in transport through Arizona. In addition, the rule is amended to clarify that medical and scientific research facilities, regardless of whether they are licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are exempt from special licensing requirements when working with transgenic animals.

For R12-4-408 Holding Wildlife for the Department, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to possess and transport live wildlife needed as evidence in pending legal proceedings without a special license and lists the circumstances and restrictions placed on that authority. The rule is amended to provide the Department with greater latitude in the amount of time it may allow a person to hold or transport wildlife for the Department. This benefits both the Department and the person who is holding or transporting the wildlife. In addition, the rule is amended to replace "designated Department employee" with "Department" to prevent the impression that only a specific employee may allow a person to temporarily hold or transport wildlife for the Department.

For all special license rules, the rules are amended to provide additional clarity and to maintain consistent language and format within the Article. The rules are amended to increase consistency between Commission rules by replacing the term "permit" with "license," wherever applicable. The rules are amended to clarify the special license does not allow the license holder to conduct any activities using federally-protected wildlife unless the license holder possesses a valid license, permit, or other form of documentation issued by the United States. The rules are amended to clarify the special license holder is responsible for compliance with all applicable regulatory requirements. The rules are amended to clarify the special license does not exempt the license holder from complying with all applicable city, county, state, and federal codes, ordinances, rules, laws, and regulations. The rules are amended to clarify application requirements to ensure an applicant submits the correct information at the time of the initial application. The rules are amended to require an applicant to provide their Federal Tax Identification Number when the person intends to use the special license for a commercial purpose and the supplier's Federal Tax Identification Number when the person obtains wildlife from a commercial supplier. The rules are amended to require an applicant to include the Universal Transverse Mercator or Global Positioning System coordinates as these are more commonplace for location descriptors and are becoming the standard for identifying locations. The rules are amended to require an applicant to affirm the information provided on the application is true and correct. The affirmation replaces the signature requirement and enables the Department to accept applications electronically. The rules are amended to reference "R12-4-412 Special License Fees" rule to incorporate Commission-approved License Simplification changes that became effective January 1, 2014. The rules are amended to require the license holder to possess the special license and present the license to a Department employee or agent upon request to allow the Department employee or agent to readily identify any additional stipulations placed on the license holder and to ensure compliance with A.R.S. § 17-331. The rules are amended to expand reporting requirements to include persons who have not conducted activities authorized under the license. Currently, the rule only requires a report if activities are performed. In reality, a person will obtain a license and then fail to perform the permitted activities. This information is necessary for the Department to ensure license holders are performing authorized activities.

For R12-4-409 General Provisions and Penalties for Special Licenses, the objective of the rule is to establish general provisions relating to administrative compliance, licensing requirements, and penalties applicable to all special licenses issued by the Department. The Commission believes providing general provisions in one overarching rule ensures consistency between special license rules. The rule is amended to ensure consistent application of the rule and to address current nomenclature. The rule is amended to combine all game bird license rules into one overarching game bird rule: game bird field trial, game bird hobby, and game bird shooting preserve licenses. The rule is amended to require an applicant to affirm the information provided on the application is true and correct. The rule is amended to expand the time-frame for which the Department may deny a special license, when an applicant has been convicted of illegally holding or possessing wildlife, from three years to five years immediately preceding application for a special license to increase consistency between rules within 12 A.A.C. 4. The rule is also amended to clarify the license holder is responsible for all costs associated with the testing and treatment of contaminated or affected wildlife, the Department is not responsible for these costs. In addition, the rule is amended to provide the Department with greater flexibility by including an additional option for actions the Department may take should a special license holder fail to adhere to the requirements of all applicable laws and rules.

For R12-4-410 Aquatic Wildlife Stocking Permit, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to stock restricted aquatic wildlife in an open system, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule is amended to require an applicant to further examine the potential for adverse impacts of stocking on existing wildlife species in the licensed area. The rule is amended to clarify that the aquatic wildlife stocking license is only required when an applicant intends to stock restricted aquatic wildlife; thus reducing the Department's and regulated community's burden and costs. Because the rule does not state the license is specific to restricted aquatic species, persons expend resources completing and submitting unnecessary applications and the Department expends resources receiving, reviewing, and responding to unnecessary applications. The rule is also amended to establish a protocol for disease control as this is a priority within the Department and to increase consistency between rules within Article 4. In addition, the rule is amended to require an applicant to include additional information regarding common names of aquatic wildlife, physical location, and stocking facilities to provide the Department with the information necessary to make an informed licensing decision.

For R12-4-411 Live Bait Dealer's License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to conduct a commercial live bait operation, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife resources. The rule is amended to remove Red Shiner as an authorized live bait species to address emerging concerns about the interactions between Red Shiners and native aquatic species and to increase consistency between rules within 12 A.A.C. 4. R12-4-316 was recently amended to remove Red Shiner from the list of live bait minnows that can be lawfully possessed, transported, or imported by licensed anglers and to allow anglers to collect Red Shiners in the wild to possess and use them as bait only on the body of water where they are captured to aid in the conservation of native aquatic species. The rule is amended to require an applicant to include additional information regarding common names of live bait and physical location to provide the Department with the information necessary to make an informed licensing decision.

For R12-4-412 Special License Fees, the objective of the rule is to establish special license fees for those licenses listed under Article 4 Live Wildlife. The rule is amended to include no-fee special licenses and establish a new and renewal special license structure.

For R12-4-413 Private Game Farm License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to operate a commercial game farm, to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule is amended to clarify language regarding propagation as it may be misinterpreted as preventing the possession of domestic animals with captive game animals.

The rule is amended to replace the term "Blue Grouse" with "Dusky Grouse" as this is the current reference for the species. The rule is amended to clarify the locations where the Department will not issue a private game farm license to raise Northern Bobwhite quails as this nonnative quail poses a threat to native birds if it escapes or is released. The rule is amended to require an applicant to provide additional information on the application to enable the Department to more adequately evaluate and issue the application for the requested activities. The rule is amended to better regulate the use of "hybrid wildlife," specifically in R12-4-406, which lists restricted live wildlife species, and R12-4-413, dealing with private game farms. With the amendments to R12-4-413, the Commission is attempting to address the growing number of misinterpretations regarding the use of a private game farm license, and to reaffirm the purpose for which this license was authorized. Some applicants obtain the license for the personal or recreational use of wildlife, which is not consistent with the objective of the rule. The license is intended to authorize the commercial use of wildlife for purposes such as slaughter and sale of meat and hides. The rule is amended to clearly state that a private game farm license is indeed a commercial license. The rule is amended to address the attempted sport harvest of wildlife held under this license. The rule is also amended to clearly state that, if breeding takes place, a private game farm license is issued to authorize only the breeding of wildlife species to the same species; not to authorize breeding of wildlife to domestic species to produce a hybrid that qualifies as a domestic animal. In recent years, the Department has issued private game farm licenses for the possession of servals or other types of African leopard cat (ALC). These mammals are purchased or traded for the purpose of breeding them with domestic cats to produce a hybrid. There are many different names for these domestic hybrids depending on the species that they are bred with: savannas, chausis, bengals, etc. Although the Department has issued licenses to allow people to possess an ALC, the intent for authorizing a private game farm license is not to allow people to breed wildlife with domestic animal species. The rule is amended to clarify the Department shall not issue a private game farm license if the escape of the proposed species could create a threat to native species and or habitat. In addition, the rule is amended to require the game farm license holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian.

For R12-4-414 Game Bird Shooting Preserve License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to possess, release, and take captive-reared game birds, to include authorized activities, game bird species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule is amended to combine the requirements of R12-4-414 (Game Bird Shooting Preserve License: proposed title, "Game Bird License"), R12-4-415 (Game Bird Field Trial License), R12-4-416 (Game Bird Field Trial Training Permit), and R12-4-419 (Game Bird Hobby License) into one overarching game bird rule. R12-4-415, R12-4-416, and R12-4-419 will be repealed. Currently, under the authority of these four rules, four different licenses or permits are issued for each type of game bird activity. Revising the rule as necessary to include the relevant language from the four rules into one overarching rule provides one point of reference for all requirements related to the handling of captive-reared game birds. In addition, the rule is amended to require the Game Bird License Holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian. The Commission anticipates this will lessen the administrative burden for the Department and be less confusing to the regulated community.

For R12-4-417 Wildlife Holding License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to possess and care for restricted and nonrestricted live wildlife lawfully taken under a valid hunting or fishing license, scientific collecting permit, or wildlife rehabilitation license to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule is amended to allow the license holder to use an agent to assist the license holder in carrying out activities authorized under the license to increase consistency between rules within Article 4. The rule is amended to allow an applicant to submit photographs instead of a diagram and detailed description of the facility where an applicant proposes to hold wildlife. The rule is amended to allow an applicant to submit a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee instead of a description of how the facility complies with requirements established under R12-4-428. Submitting photographs of a facility or a certification the license holder has already attained requires little effort or expense and is nondiscriminatory.

For R12-4-418 Scientific Collecting Permit, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to use live wildlife for purposes related to the advancement of science, conservation, education, or wildlife management, to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health and safety and existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to allow an applicant to submit a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee instead of a description of how the facility complies with requirements established under R12-4-428. Submitting photographs of a facility or a certification the license holder has already attained requires little effort or expense and is nondiscriminatory. The rule is amended to specify the license holder may only conduct activities authorized under the scientific collecting license at the locations and time periods specified on the scientific collecting license. This will allow the Department to determine where the activities can take place to protect public health, safety and welfare, and wildlife and wildlife habitat. The rule is amended to expand the requirement that the scientific collecting license holder dispose of wildlife as directed by the Department, including wildlife parts and the offspring of wildlife held under the license.

For R12-4-420 Zoo License, the objective of the rule is to establish the requirements that allow a person to collect wildlife for educational purposes, to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held under the license, and restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule is amended to restrict the transfer of live wildlife listed under R12-4-406 from zoos to another zoo license holder, an appropriately licensed or permitted special license holder or facility in another state or country, or a medical or scientific research facility exempt from special license requirements under R12-4-407 in an effort to protect wildlife resources and prevent unregulated commercial breeding of wildlife, ensure risks to the public and native wildlife populations are minimized, and ensure the receiving facility is capable of correctly managing the species. The Department can authorize the transfer of restricted species following the evaluation of the receiving facility. The rule is amended to allow a new zoo license applicant to submit photographs of its existing facility if the applicant is not a member of a recognized zoological association to reduce the regulated community's burden and costs on applicant's who are members of a recognized zoological association. Submitting photographs of a facility requires little effort or expense and is nondiscriminatory. Nationally recognized associations have an accreditation process that is more stringent than Department rule or U.S. Department of Agriculture Animal Plant Health Inspection Services regulations. Currently there are two nationally recognized nonprofit groups: Association of Zoos and Aquariums and Zoological Association of America. The rule is amended to incorporate the January 1, 2012 version of 9 C.F.R. Subchapter A, Animal Welfare. The rule is also amended to require the zoo license holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian. In addition, the rule is amended to clarify that Department authorization is required before a zoo license holder can add a new species to its existing collection. Because the rule does not state authorization is only required when a zoo license holder wants to add a new species to its existing collection, license holders expend resources requesting authorization to acquire a new individual of a species they are already authorized to possess and the Department expends resources receiving, reviewing, and responding to unnecessary requests. This amendment will reduce the Department's and regulated community's burden and costs and allow the Department to evaluate a new species potential impact to ecosystems in Arizona should they escape or be released.

For R12-4-421 Wildlife Service License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to facilitate the removal of nuisance wildlife, to include authorized activities, wildlife species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health and safety and existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to prohibit the possession of wildlife carcasses or parts as this practice is not consistent with the intent of the rule. In addition, the rule is amended to identify what species of animal do not require a wildlife service license and may be removed under a Pest Control license issued by the Department of Agriculture.

For R12-4-422 Sport Falconry License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to take and use raptors listed under the MBTA for the sport of falconry, to include authorized activities, raptor species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to incorporate the October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 17.11. The rule is amended to reference the definition of "resident" under A.R.S. § 17-101 to increase consistency between Title 17 and Commission rules. The rule is amended to require the license holder to remove "any other falconry equipment" prior to releasing a raptor to help ensure the health and safety of purposely released falconry raptors. The proposed amendment clarifies that a license holder shall only transfer a raptor to a person who possesses an appropriate license to ensure consistency between rules within Article 4. The rule is amended to prohibit a falconer from transferring permit tag and quota regulated raptor species to out-of-state falconers within one-year of the date of capture. Under 50 C.F.R. 21.29(b)(1)(iii), a state's rules may be more restrictive than the federal regulations; however, state rules must comply with the federal regulations in that state rules may not be less restrictive. Under 50 C.F.R. 21.29(e)(6)(ii) the license holder is required to report the theft of a raptor to the State and USFWS Regional Law Enforcement office within 10 days of the theft of the bird. The proposed rule is more restrictive in requiring a license holder to report the theft to the Department within 48 hours of discovering the theft. The Commission believes the theft of a raptor should be reported as soon as possible to allow the Department to take timely action. Reporting the theft of a raptor sooner than required by the federal regulation provides a benefit to the falconer by allowing the falconer to replace the raptor more quickly; a falconer who had reached the applicable limit may now add a replacement raptor without going over that limit.

For R12-4-423 Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to rehabilitate and release live wildlife, to include authorized activities, wildlife species, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to incorporate the October 1, 2014 version of 50 C.F.R. 17.11. The rule is amended to reduce the amount of time in which the results of the required license examination remain valid from five years to three years. This change allows for the examination to be updated on a more regular basis to include recent changes in procedures and also replicates the length of the licensing period. The rule is amended to require an applicant to disclose how they intend to euthanize wildlife to ensure the license holder uses the most humane methods. The rule is amended to eliminate the Department's responsibility to provide continuing education courses for licensees and expands the options for continuing education courses that are applicable to their license renewal. Few license holders choose to participate in the Department's biennial education sessions and instead utilize other sources to obtain mandatory continuing education. The Department expends considerable resources to prepare and provide education sessions to license holders. With each passing year and as acceptable online classes become increasingly available, attendance at the Department's continuing education courses has dwindled to the point that it does not benefit the Department or regulated community to continue providing these education courses. The rule is also amended to require the wildlife rehabilitation license holder to ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian. In addition, the rule is amended to require an applicant to submit an affidavit affirming the applicant is either a licensed, practicing veterinarian or the applicant has access to a licensed, practicing veterinarian who is reasonably available to give veterinary services as necessary to facilitate rehabilitation of wildlife. This amendment is made to ensure licensees establish relationships with cooperating veterinarians so that basic medical services are provided to wildlife held under the license and prompt medical attention is provided to injured wildlife. The rule is amended to clarify that the Wildlife Rehabilitation License holder is responsible for all expenses incurred as a result of activities authorized under the license, including veterinary expenses.

For R12-4-424 White Amur Stocking and Holding License, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements that allow a person to possess and transport white amur, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing aquatic wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to revise the definition of "triploid" to reflect language used by modern fishery biologists. The rule is amended to clarify the activities authorized under the license include stocking, holding, and restocking. The rule is amended to require an applicant to conduct an assessment of the impacts to sensitive species using the Department's On-Line Environmental Review Tool to further assess the impacts any authorized activity will have on existing wildlife species. The rule is also amended to establish a protocol for disease control as this is a priority within the Department and to increase consistency between rules within Article 4. In addition, the rule is amended to establish the Department's ability to perform inspections of the stocking location.

For R12-4-425 Restricted Live Wildlife Lawfully Possessed without License or Permit Before the Effective Date of Article 4 or Any Subsequent Amendments, the objective of the rule is to establish administrative compliance requirements for the continued possession and use of wildlife lawfully possessed prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife under R12-4-406. The Commission restricts certain wildlife species from possession in Arizona because they pose a threat to native fish, wildlife, agriculture, or public health and safety. The rule requires a person who lawfully possessed wildlife prior to being classified as restricted live wildlife under R12-4-406 to notify the Department of the possession and use of the wildlife. The rule is amended to require a person to specifically identify wildlife possessed under the rule in the written notification to ensure the Department is better able to monitor possession. The rule is amended to require a person to permanently mark wildlife possessed under the rule to allow the Department to better identify wildlife held under the rule in the future. The rule is amended to restrict the propagation of live wildlife lawfully possessed under the rule. The Commission believes restricted wildlife should not be possessed as pets and allowing a person to propagate wildlife held under the rule goes against the intent of R12-4-406. The rule is also amended to require a person who possesses any offspring prior to the effective date of this amendment to report any currently held offspring in order to maintain the exemption established under this Article. In addition, the rule amended to replace "designated Department employee" with "Department" to prevent the impression that only a specific designated employee may request documentation.

For R12-4-426 Possession of Primates, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the possession of a primate, to include containment, transportation, reporting, and laboratory testing requirements should a bite or other incident occur; and restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect public health, safety, and welfare. The Commission believes the current rule is too lenient and, despite amendments made in 2006, primates held as pets continue to expose the public to potential pathogenic organisms and physical injury. The rule is amended to restrict possession of primates to zoo license holders, research facilities, and persons exempt under R12-4-425. The rule is amended to include additional zoonotic diseases to ensure the regulated community is aware of the various testing requirements. The rule is amended to require a person to transport a primate in a secure cage, crate, or carrier to reduce the risk of escaping and threat to public health, safety, and welfare. The rule is amended to replace the terms

"Director" and "Director's designee" with "Department" to prevent the impression that only the Director or a specific designated employee may request documentation. The rule is also amended to require a zoo license holder or person using primates at a research facility that possesses a primate that bit, scratched, or otherwise exposed a human to pathogenic organisms to use procedures recommended by the American Association of Zoo Veterinarians (AAZV) or Centers for Disease Control (CDC). The procedures recommended by AAZV and CDC are more stringent than the procedures established under this rule. In addition, the rule is amended to require a person lawfully possessing a primate under R12-4-425 to comply with captivity standards established under R12-4-428, as applicable, to ensure the animal's physical and psychological needs are met.

For R12-4-427 Exemptions from Requirements to Possess a Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the objective of the rule is to establish criteria allowing a person to possess and care for specific live wildlife species without having to apply for and obtain a wildlife rehabilitation license, to include authorized activities, wildlife species that may be held under the license, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect wildlife habitat and resources. The rule is amended to replace "Wildlife of Special Concern" with "Species of Greatest Conservation Need" to ensure consistency in language within Article 4.

For R12-4-428 Captivity Standards, the objective of the rule is to establish the minimum standards for living spaces, furnishings, dietary needs, veterinary care, and social groupings to ensure the humane treatment of animals possessed under a lawful exemption or special license issued by the Department. The rule is amended to require the facility and holding environment for the captive wildlife to be structured to reasonably promote the psychological well-being of the animals to mirror federal requirements applicable to dealers, research facilities, and exhibitors under 9 C.F.R. 3.81. The environment must contain sufficient useable space, complexity, and enrichment and promote a species-appropriate repertoire of behaviors. When applicable, social housing should be the general rule and individual housing should be the exception. In addition, the rule is amended to remove the requirement that all special license holders ensure their facility is inspected by a licensed, practicing veterinarian as this requirement places an undue burden on license holders who possess small holdings. This requirement will be added to the private game farm, game bird, zoo, and rehabilitation license rules.

For R12-4-430 Importation, Handling, and Possession of Cervids, the objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the importation, handling and possession of captive cervids necessary to prevent the transmission of disease from captive cervids to wildlife and domestic animals, to include authorized activities, administrative compliance, and the restrictions and prohibitions necessary to protect existing habitat and wildlife resources. The rule is amended to clarify cervid species governed by the rule. The rule is amended to reference R12-4-305, which establishes requirements for transporting cervid carcasses or parts from a private game farm or another state. The rule is also amended to clarify disease testing requirements to reflect current methods and the state of science regarding cervid diseases. The rule is also amended to expand disease testing options to reduce the Department's and regulated community's burden and costs. In addition, the rule is amended to incorporate the most recent publications of "Brucellosis in Cervidae: Uniform Methods and Rules" U.S.D.A. A.P.H.I.S. 91-45-16, effective September 30, 2003 and "Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication: Uniform Methods and Rules" USDA APHIS 91-45-011, revised January 1, 2005.

(a) The conduct and its frequency of occurrence that the rule is designed to change.

Overall, the Commission believes the amendments proposed in this rulemaking result in rules that are either less burdensome or have no significant impact on the regulated community. Therefore, this subsection will address only those rules deemed to have a significant impact on the regulated community.

For R12-4-402, currently, the Department is forced to bear the expense of caring for seized wildlife when the wildlife cannot be released into the wild or lawfully placed with a special license holder. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates the frequency of occurrence to be less than ten times each year.

For R12-4-403, the Department or willing volunteers are forced to bear the expense of caring for these animals until the owner is found and the enclosure is repaired or a new home is identified. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates the frequency of occurrence to be less than ten times each year.

For R12-4-404, a person who finds that they can no longer afford, care for, or handle the wildlife they possess may try to place the animal or their offspring with a zoo, special license holder, or member of the public. When the person cannot find a home for the animal, the person could release the animal into the wild and ecosystems. When released into the wild, captive wildlife poses a health and safety threat to native wildlife. For example, although native to Arizona, captive desert tortoises released into the wild can severely jeopardize local wild populations through the introduction of upper respiratory tract disease (URTD), which has been implicated in large tortoise die offs in California. The Department's special license administrators expend resources receiving and answering calls from members of the public regarding the lawful use of reptiles and amphibians for use in providing aversion training. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of each occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-405, any wildlife imported into this State poses a threat to native wildlife due to its potential to escape or be released into the wild as stated above. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-406, tilapia is the third most plentiful fish in aquaculture, surpassed only by carps and salmonids, and are readily available for purchase on the internet along with instructions on how to culture a tilapia farm. Tilapia have been documented in many waters in southern Arizona, likely due to illegal releases. Currently there are no built in safeguards that prevent backyard fish farmers from illegally releasing unwanted tilapia into Arizona waters. Illegally introduced sturgeon and paddlefish could survive in bigger rivers in Arizona such as the Colorado River, Verde River, Salt River, and Gila River, as well as lakes, and potentially survive and become established. If sturgeons become established, they have a long lifespan and could impact native fish populations as well as have impacts in areas we currently manage for sport fishing. Several species of sturgeons and paddlefish are harvested for their roe, which is made into caviar and makes an attractive choice for fish farming. In addition, California currently lists sturgeon as restricted live wildlife (via bony fishes within Class Osteichthyes; Fish and Game Code, Section 2116-2127). Because sturgeon and paddlefish are not currently restricted under R12-4-406, there are no safeguards built in to prevent backyard fish farmers from illegally releasing unwanted fish into Arizona waters. Adding these species to the list of restricted wildlife, as are all other game fish, a person would be required to obtain an Aquatic Wildlife Stocking Permit in order to legally possess and stock sturgeon or paddlefish in their backyard pond. An applicant is required to provide information about the planned use and disposition of the fish, allowing the Department the opportunity to assess the geographic risk of issuing a permit as well as educate these public on the negative impacts of illegally stocking non-native sturgeon or paddlefish into Arizona's waters. All species of apple snails are listed in the Department's Directors Order #1, which is a listing of all aquatic invasive species that are not native to the ecosystem and whose introduction or presence in this state may cause economic or environmental harm or harm to human health. Chinese mystery snails are also marketed as "mystery snails" in the aquarium industry, and are known to clog the screens of water intake pipes and restrict water flow, and are known to host parasites and diseases that can infect humans when they establish. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-407, currently, there is an overabundance of captive-reared desert tortoises housed at Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities in Arizona. A desert tortoise can lay up to 12 eggs per year, therefore captive hatchling desert tortoises are consistently surrendered at rates that are unsustainable for the Department's tortoise adoption Program. This places an undue burden on the Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities. Captive desert tortoises pose risks to the wild populations from introduction of infectious diseases or affecting the genetic composition of wild populations and thus cannot be released into the wild. The Department expends considerable resources on housing and placing new generations of unwanted captive desert tortoises into approved homes; funds that are meant to be used for desert tortoise conservation, monitoring, and research. The Department receives hundreds of unwanted and uncared for desert tortoises each year.

For R12-4-408, the Department experiences instances where it is unable to care for or place confiscated, orphaned, or injured wildlife in a permanent home within the designated 72 hour period. These instances place the Department in the awkward position and, in some cases, employees have taken the confiscated, orphaned, or injured wildlife into their own homes until the wildlife is placed in a permanent home. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates the frequency of occurrence to be less than ten times each year.

For R12-4-409, a special license holder may fail to meet the stipulations on their license and repeatedly violate reporting mandates. In these cases the Commission must have the ability to revoke an individual's special license without incurring additional costs. The Commission distributes and manages approximately 1,500 special licenses each year for the purposes stated under Article 4. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents but estimates the Commission revokes a special license approximately once each year. Occasionally, the Department either discovers or is made aware of a license holder who possesses wildlife in a manner that poses an immediate threat to the public or the welfare of wildlife. When this occurs, the Department mandates testing for zoonotic treatment and human exposures. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates the frequency of occurrence to be approximately three to six times each year.

For R12-4-418, the disposition of wildlife carcasses or parts in situations where a restricted animal is removed, euthanized, or collected dead under a Scientific Collecting License. Animals that are improperly disposed of pose a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare and native wildlife and wildlife habitat as stated above. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-420, the transfer of restricted live wildlife species from zoos to private game farms to allow the Department time to evaluate the risks to the public and native wildlife populations. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-421, the disposition of wildlife carcasses or parts in situations where a restricted animal is removed and or euthanized pose a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare and native wildlife and wildlife habitat as stated above. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-422, on occasion, out-of-state falconers have circumvented fees associated with out-of-state raptor capture. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-423, a potential license holder may not obtain their license in a reasonable period of time after having passed the Department's examination. Failure to do so could result in a license being issued to a person who is not aware of the most current treatment procedures. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates occurrences of delayed license obtainment are infrequent. Department staff has discovered wide variation between licensees in their preferred methods to euthanize wildlife. Although most methods used are humane, some are questionable. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents, but estimates only a small percentage of the euthanizations are handled incorrectly.

For R12-4-425, a person who holds a restricted animal that has a history of biting, scratching, or otherwise exposing a human to pathogenic organisms may sell or transfer this animal to another person. Because the person is not required to notify the Department of the transfer, any subsequent bite or scratch resulting from that animal is likely to be documented as a separate incident. The Commission is also aware that a person may sell or transfer a problem animal and then illegally replace it with another animal of the same species. Unlawfully releases propagated wildlife poses a threat to native wildlife due to its potential threat to wildlife and wildlife habitat as stated above. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-426, in spite of increased regulations for import of infant primates and the introduction of disease testing protocols, bites to humans from non-human primates continues to be a problem for the Department and place the general public at risk of contracting a zoonotic disease or physical injury. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as most incidents go unreported and there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-428, captive live wildlife under special license may be held in conditions that do not contribute to the animal's psychological well-being. The Commission is unable to establish the frequency of this occurrence as there is currently no mechanism in place to track these types of incidents.

For R12-4-430, several zoos and one private game farm license holders possess cervids. When a cervid possessed by the license holder dies, the license holder must ensure the animal is tested by the Arizona Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory for chronic wasting disease (CWD). Since the rule was adopted in 2006, the testing protocol for this disease has changed and there is a greater understanding of how long an animal may be infected before showing signs of the disease. Zoo license holders submit an average of two animals each year for testing and the one private game farm license holder submits an average of four animals a year. Researchers have also found that more cervid species are susceptible to CWD and that a greater number of animals held in groups should be tested in order to reliably detect the presence of the disease.

(b) The harm resulting from the conduct the rule is designed to change and the likelihood it will continue to occur if the rule is not changed.

Overall, the Commission believes the amendments proposed in this rulemaking result in rules that are either less burdensome or have no significant impact on the regulated community. Therefore, this subsection will address only those rules deemed to have a significant impact on the regulated community. For all rules identified in (A)(1)(b), the Commission believes the targeted conduct identified below will continue to occur if the rule is not amended as identified in (A)(1):

For R12-4-402, the Department incurs costs associated with the care and placement of wildlife when the wildlife cannot be released into the wild or lawfully placed into the care of a special license holder. Some species of released native or exotic wildlife can become established in local ecosystems and compete with native species for limited resources. This competition could eradicate native species or negatively impact their habitat. Captive native and nonnative species can expose wild populations to pathogens or parasites. The economic costs associated with wildlife disease outbreaks and control can be severe. Costs of disease outbreaks are generally recurring and additive due to annual costs of monitoring and eradicating diseased animals. If game species are affected, it could result in a significant decrease in hunting license revenue due to increased hunter/public caution and decreased hunter participation. Such loss of hunting-related revenue to rural economies can be disastrous to the state's economic stability and may decrease operating budgets of state agencies, thus further causing negative impact on wildlife resources.

For R12-4-403, the accidental or intentional release of native or exotic wildlife into public areas or local ecosystems could pose a substantive health and safety risk to the public. Some species of released native or exotic wildlife can become established in local ecosystems and compete with native species for limited resources. This competition could eradicate native species or negatively impact their habitat. Captive native and nonnative species can expose wild populations to ne pathogens or parasites. The economic costs associated with wildlife disease outbreaks and control can be severe. Costs of disease outbreaks are generally recurring and additive due to annual costs of monitoring and eradicating diseased animals. If game species are affected, it could result in a significant decrease in hunting license revenue due to increased hunter/public caution and decreased hunter participation. Such loss of hunting-related revenue to rural economies can be disastrous to the state's economic stability and may decrease operating budgets of state agencies, thus further causing negative impact on wildlife resources.

For R12-4-404, the release of propagated wildlife could pose a threat to Arizona's wildlife and wildlife habitat. Propagated wildlife released into the wild may transfer disease, bacteria, parasite, etc. (that farm animals or wildlife have no immunity to) and could spread these pathogens and parasites to wildlife, which can lead to significant damage to wild populations. The Department's special license administrators receive calls from members of the public asking if it is lawful to use reptiles and amphibians for use in providing aversion training.

For R12-4-405, the release of imported wildlife could pose a threat to Arizona's wildlife and wildlife habitat due to its potential to escape or be released into the wild as stated above.

For R12-4-406, tilapia, sturgeon, and paddlefish can compete with native fish fauna, create turbidity in the water (due to nesting behaviors) thus reducing the light available for aquatic plants, and consume a vast range of food sources causing changes in local aquatic flora. Apple snails are not native to Arizona's ecosystems and their introduction or presence in this state may cause economic or environmental harm or harm to human health. Chinese mystery snails compete with native snails for food and habitat resources and can serve as vectors for the transmission of parasites and diseases to native aquatic species. They can clog the screens of water intake pipes and restrict water flow. They are also known to host parasites and diseases that can infect humans. False dark mussels have the potential to invade aquatic habitats quickly and their harmful impact on water delivery systems. Members of the public have been attacked and injured by non-human primates while at home, visiting another person's home, or conducting everyday activities. Persons who have been bitten or scratched by non-human primates testing positive for the Herpes B virus are subjected to painful injections, tested for a variety of zoonotic diseases, and treated for bite wounds.

For R12-4-407, currently, there is an overabundance of captive-reared desert tortoises housed at Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities in Arizona. This places an undue burden on the Department and state-sanctioned adoption facilities. The Department expends considerable resources on housing and placing new generations of unwanted captive desert tortoises into approved homes; funds that are meant to be used for desert tortoise conservation, monitoring, and research. Captive desert tortoises pose risks to the wild populations from introduction of infectious diseases or affecting the genetic composition of wild populations and thus cannot be released into the wild. Animals that die in transport and are often improperly disposed of thus posing a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare and to native wildlife and wildlife habitat. For example, CWD is a transmissible spongiform encephalopathy (TSE) of cervids. TSEs are caused by unusual infectious agents known as prions. CWD prions persist in the environment and animals can become infected through exposure to a contaminated environment.

For R12-4-408, the Department experiences instances where it is unable to care for or place confiscated, orphaned, or injured wildlife in a permanent home within the designated 72 hour period. These instances place the Department in the awkward position and, in some cases, employees have taken the confiscated, orphaned, or injured wildlife into their own homes until the wildlife is placed in a permanent home.

For R12-4-409, in cases where a special license holder fails to meet the stipulations on their license, both the wildlife held under the license and the general public could be at risk. A licensee could continue to hold a species that poses a threat to native wildlife through disease transmission or an actual physical threat to members of the public. Often, animals are released into the wild or left with the Department, resulting in additional burdens and costs on the Department and a negative impact on native fish and wildlife, agriculture, or public health and safety, or as it seeks to place the animal.

For R12-4-418, wildlife populations could be over collected by scientific license activities. Animals that are improperly released pose a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare and to native wildlife and wildlife habitat as stated above.

For R12-4-420, species transferred to a private game farm could directly threaten the public health, safety, and welfare and may pose a threat to native wildlife and wildlife habitat due to its potential to escape or be released into the wild as stated above. Zoo license holders will continue to contact the Department to request authorization to add a new species to the existing collection or if uncertain of the rule, continue to call or email regional license administrators seeking clarification on this topic.

For R12-4-421, animals that are improperly disposed of pose a threat to the public health, safety, and welfare and to native wildlife and wildlife habitat as stated above. License holders may continue to possess wildlife carcasses or parts, which is not consistent with the intent of the rule.

For R12-4-422, out-of-state falconers may circumvent out-of-state raptor capture fees and could continue to exploit this regulatory oversight.

For R12-4-423, the Department will continue to have instances of applicants waiting extraordinary long times to obtain their license after taking the examination. Applicants will continue to disclose how they intend to humanely euthanize wildlife. The Department will realize a further decline in enrollment if continuing education courses are offered, resulting in unnecessary burdens and costs to the Department. License holders will continue to request medical assistance from the Department's care facility resulting in unnecessary burdens and costs to the Department's already overburdened staff.

For R12-4-425, although it is likely that most incidents go unreported, one animal protection organization's records indicate that more than 275 people have been injured by captive primates, alone, since 1990. Members of the public have been attacked and injured by wildlife while at home, visiting another person's home, or conducting everyday activities. Persons have been bitten or scratched by animals that have tested positive for the Herpes B virus, subjected to painful injections, tested for a variety of zoonotic diseases, suffered bite wounds that penetrated to the bone, and suffered other catastrophic injuries. The Commission believes these incidents are likely to continue if the rule is not amended to require a person to permanently mark wildlife and report this information to the Department. The rule allows a person to dispose of wildlife lawfully possessed under the rule by exporting the wildlife to a person in another state, transferring the wildlife to a special license holder for a lawful purpose, euthanasia, or as otherwise directed by the Department. Often, animals are released into the wild or left with the Department, resulting in a negative impact to native fish and/or wildlife, agriculture, or public health and safety, or an administrative burden on the Department as it seeks to place the animal.

For R12-4-426, although it is likely that many incidents go unreported, the Department has received reports of 48 primate exposure incidents since 1994. Members of the public have been attacked and injured by primates while at home, visiting another person's home, or conducting everyday activities. Persons who have been bitten or scratched by non-human primates testing positive for the Herpes B virus are subjected to painful injections, tested for a variety of zoonotic diseases, and treated for bite wounds.

For R12-4-428, failure to meet an animal's psychological needs can result in psychological distress indicated by an animal's continued pacing, walking in tight circles, swaying or rolling their heads, self-mutilation, and other atypical behavior.

For R12-4-430, the inability to use current methods and the state of science regarding cervid diseases and disease testing options will continue to result in unnecessary burdens and costs to the Department's and regulated community's burden and costs.

(c) The estimated change in frequency of the targeted conduct expected from the rule change.

The Commission anticipates the rule changes will prevent or diminish the frequency of the targeted conduct. While it is not possible to quantify the actual change in frequency of the targeted conduct expected from the rule change, the Commission believes that over time, through continued education and enforcement of the rule changes identified under (A)(1), the frequency of the targeted conduct will be significantly reduced.

2. Brief summary of the information included in the economic, small business and consumer impact statement.

The Commission's intent in proposing these amendments is to protect native wildlife and their habitats in many ways, including preventing the spread of disease, reducing the risk of released animals competing with native wildlife, discouraging illegal trade of native wildlife, and avoiding conflict between humans and wildlife which may threaten public health or safety. The Commission anticipates the majority of the rulemaking is intended to benefit the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department by clarifying rule language to ease enforcement, creating consistency among existing Commission rules, reducing the burden on the regulated community where practical, and allowing the Department additional oversight where necessary. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in an overall benefit to the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in little or no impact to political subdivisions of this state; private and public employment in businesses, agencies or political subdivisions; or state revenues. The Commission has determined that there are no less intrusive or costly alternative methods of achieving the purpose of the rulemaking. Other than the regular cost of rulemaking, there are no costs associated with the rulemaking. Therefore, the Commission has determined that the benefits of the rulemaking outweigh any costs.

For R12-4-401, definitions alone have no impact on the Department or regulated community; enforcement of the rule manifests itself through proper administration. It is not the term that is cited, but the violation. Thus, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have little or no impact on the Department or regulated community. In general, the amendments to R12-4-401 are intended to clarify or establish definitions for terms that are used in this Article. Definitions that are clearer will make the rules more understandable.

For R12-4-402, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who possess and hold wildlife in a manner that threatens public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations. Based on recent history, the impact is expected to be negligible. By allowing the Department to take actions intended to alleviate threats to public health, safety, or welfare or wildlife populations, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will benefit members of the public who may otherwise be exposed to these threats. The Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will benefit the Department and licensed wildlife sanctuaries, which currently bear the costs associated with seizure operations. This amendment will allow the Department to recoup costs from the individual or businesses that hold the wildlife in a manner that threatens public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations.

For R12-4-403, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact special license holders and owners by requiring the license holder or owner to bear the expense for the animal's care; however, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150). However, both are costs the license holder or owner would have had to expend regardless of whether it was in their possession, the Department's, or a wildlife sanctuary.

For R12-4-404, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who possess wildlife taken under an Arizona hunting or fishing license by prohibiting propagation of restricted wildlife. In addition to the cost of a veterinary office visit, which may be anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to spay or neuter an animal may be incurred. They are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter services will benefit from the prohibition on propagation. Persons who use reptiles or amphibians to provide aversion training may benefit from the rulemaking. Typically, a business may charge anywhere from $60 to $125 for the initial aversion training sessions and $30 to $50 for a "recheck." While the use of legally acquired reptiles and amphibians for aversion training is already legal, clarifying this in rule may result in additional customers for businesses that offer aversion training for dogs.

For R12-4-405, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who import wildlife into Arizona by requiring a valid health certificate for the animal being imported. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. The amendment is intended to assist in alleviating potential threats to public health, safety, or welfare, and to promote the health and welfare of Arizona's wildlife populations. The Commission anticipates the proposed amendment will benefit members of the public, who may otherwise be exposed to these threats, from the requirement that a person obtain a health certificate for an animal before importing animals into Arizona.

For R12-4-406 Restricted Live Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that sell the live wildlife that the Commission proposes to add to the list of restricted live wildlife as they will no longer be able to sell Red Shiner, five tilapia species (Oreochromis aureus, O. mossambica; O. niloticus, O. urolepis hornoru, and T. zilli), sturgeon, paddlefish, Chinese mystery snail, apple snail, false dark mussels, non-human primates to persons in Arizona without a lawful exemption or a special license. When adding or removing a species from the restricted wildlife list, the Department bases its decision on the following factors: protection of human health and safety; biological impact on species and ecosystems; consistency with federal, state, and county regulatory agencies; and potential economic impact.

For R12-4-407, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that provide veterinary care or certified waste disposal facilities. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. This requirement already exists through the Arizona Department of Agriculture and has been added to this rule because it addresses the exemptions related specifically to the importation of wildlife. While the need to dispose of wildlife that dies while in transport through the State is not a common occurrence, the potential for the spread of disease to wild populations exist when a deceased animal is illegally dumped in wildlife interface locations. The Department wishes to direct these individuals to certified waste disposal facilities. Since this requirement is isolated to certain situations the costs associated with it are minimal. The changes related to the propagation of desert tortoises will have some costs to the Department in law enforcement and administration. However, these same costs already exist and will be offset by the reduction in costs associated with caring for the surplus of tortoises in the tortoise adoption program.

For R12-4-408, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who hold wildlife for the Department as they will bear the expense for the animal's care until it is placed in a permanent home. However, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden. Costs vary greatly depending on the species, its physical condition, and housing requirements. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150).

For R12-4-409, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact special license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically ensuring special license procedures include revocation guidelines, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under special license may incur costs associated with the housing and veterinary requirements. However, the licensee will be advised of these responsibilities during the application process. In general, the amendments to the rule will require additional communication, verbal or electronic, between the licensee and the Department and some may incur minor costs associated with this requirement. The public benefits from a rule that provides the general provisions relating to administrative compliance, licensing requirements, and penalties applicable to all special licenses issued by the Department. The Commission believes that providing general provisions in one overarching rule ensures consistency between special license rules. Furthermore, the Commission anticipates the administrative changes will result in a more efficient process that benefits both the Department and the regulated community.

For R12-4-410, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact aquatic wildlife stocking license holders and the Department. Amendments to the rule requires applicants to further examine the potential for adverse impacts of stocking on existing wildlife species in the proposed area, provide additional information about the proposed stocking location, and possess the license when conducting stocking activities and present it to a Department employee or agent upon request to ensure compliance with requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-331. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 161 Aquatic Wildlife Stocking permits on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-411, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have no impact on consumers because there are no registered live bait dealers that offer Red Shiners for sale as a baitfish. The Department issues approximately 28 Live Bait Dealer's licenses on an annual basis. During the rulemaking process, the Department contacted all businesses that currently hold a Live Bait Dealer's License; none sell red shiners. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-412, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have no impact on the regulated community. The Department tasked a team of subject matter experts with evaluating the current license structure and associated administrative requirements to determine the feasibility of increasing license fees and charging a fee for the current no-fee licenses. The team made recommendations relating to fees and a new license structure that differentiates between initial and renewal special licenses. At this time, the Department chose to implement the recommended changes to the special license structure and maintain the current special license fees. The rule is amended to include no-fee special licenses and establish a new/renewal special license fee structure.

For R12-4-413, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact private game farm license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principle purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Department issues approximately 13 Private Game Farm licenses on an annual basis. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement for submitting an annual report even when allowed activities have not occurred under the license.

For R12-4-414, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact game farm shooting preserve, game bird field trial, game bird field trial training, and game bird hobby license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically consolidation of licenses into one rule and enhanced reporting procedures outweighs any costs. The Department issues approximately 7 Game Bird Shooting Preserve licenses, 42 Game Bird Field Trial licenses, 128 Game Bird Field Trial Training licenses, and 65 Game Bird Hobby licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-417, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife holding license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically allowing the license holder to use an agent, allowing an applicant to submit photographs and/or a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee, result in a reduction of the burden and costs placed on the regulated community. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 151 Wildlife Service licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-418, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact scientific collecting license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically improving the administrative aspects of the license, providing a mechanism to restrict location of activities, and requiring proper disposal in the regulation of live wildlife and their parts for the principle purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 312 Scientific Collecting permits on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-420, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact zoo license holders and the Department. Commission believes the benefits of the amendments outweigh these minor costs and is not an undue burden. Requiring a new zoo license applicant to submit photographs with their application if they are not affiliated with a national accreditation association, could result in minor costs. If an applicant does not possess a camera to take the photographs, they would either need to borrow, purchase, or pay an individual to take the required photos. Costs range from less than $15 for a disposable camera to $60 for a low end digital camera. Alternatively, a photographer could be hired to shoot the photos for $150 to $200. If an applicant does not submit their license application electronically they would have to provide paper photographs at a cost of approximately .20¢ per photo. The number of paper photos needed would depend on the size of zoo and could range from 10 ($2.00) to 100 ($20.00). The Department issues approximately 19 Zoo licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-421, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife service license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife and their parts for the principle purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 118 Wildlife Service licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-422, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact sport falconry license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits from the proposed amendments, specifically improving the administrative aspects of the license and restricting Arizona license holders from transferring species managed through Commission Order or annual harvest quota system to a falconer in another state for at least one year from the date of capture, outweighs any costs. Furthermore, the Commission anticipates the administrative changes will result in a more efficient process that benefits both the regulated community and the Department. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing a falconry license under this rule will incur any additional costs or undue regulation as a result of the rulemaking. The Department issues approximately 31 Sport Falconry licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-423, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife rehabilitation license holders and the Department. The Commission believes there are no anticipated costs to license holders in regards to shortening the expiration date of the license examination results and cessation of providing medical care at the Department's facility. License holders who are not practicing acceptable euthanasia techniques will be required to comply. The most acceptable, quick, and humane method is the use of carbon monoxide in a suitable chamber, costing approximately $150. The few license holders who participate in the continuing education courses offered by the Department would be required to find alternative sources. In some cases there may be no cost for hands-on learning, costs for local or online seminars may range from approximately $50-$100, and costs for an out-of-state conference may cost $1,000 or more to attend. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 11 Wildlife Rehabilitation licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-424, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact white amur stocking and holding license holders and the Department. Because no substantive amendments are proposed, the Commission anticipates the impacts on the regulated community will be insignificant. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 413 White Amur Stocking and Holding licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-425, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who lawfully possess wildlife that subsequently became restricted and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the proposed amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principle purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs are expected to be insignificant and may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. In addition to the office visit, which may cost anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip range anywhere from $30 to $50. In addition, the Commission anticipates a person may incur minor costs to spay or neuter the animal due to the prohibition on propagation. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation.

For R12-4-426, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who lawfully possess non-human primates and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principle purpose of ensuring the public's health and safety and protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means as a result of restricted status. Costs are expected to be insignificant and may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. In addition to the office visit, which may cost anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip range anywhere from $30 to $50. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation.

For R12-4-427, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who temporarily hold orphaned or injured wildlife and the Department. The Commission believes the proposed amendments are nonsubstantive and will not have a significant impact on the regulated community.

For R12-4-428, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who hold wildlife under a special license and the Department. The cost of ensuring the captive environment is minimally enriching are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and existing conditions. Modifications could range from simple changes in daily procedures, to changes in the enclosures costing hundreds to thousands of dollars. The Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically ensuring license holders consider the psychological well-being of their animals, outweighs any costs.

For R12-4-430, the Commission proposes to amend the rule to require special license holders lawfully possessing cervids to submit tissues from any cervid over one-year of age that die or are killed or slaughtered for testing for CWD. This requirement is comparable to the requirements for herd certification programs for farmed cervids in other states. The Department pays the costs of collecting the sample and testing it for the presence of CWD by a laboratory certified by the National Veterinary Services Laboratory and United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). If the proposed amendment is approved, the sample must be collected by a licensed veterinarian or the Department and then submitted to a USDA APHIS certified laboratory. There are 28 approved diagnostic laboratories nationwide. The license holder may pay the cost of sample collection, shipping, and testing. The Department does not charge a fee to remove a sample. The Commission anticipates the proposed rule will not have a significant impact on the regulated community because they are already required to test all cervids that die while in their possession. In addition to the cost for testing, a laboratory may charge a submission fee of $7 to $10. The average fee for an immunohistochemistry is $35 and for enzyme linked immunosorbent assay is $25; typically only one test is required. Currently, the Department licenses one private game farm to possess cervids. Reports submitted by the private game farm indicate approximately 22 animals die or are killed or slaughtered on an annual basis. If all of these animals were over one-year of age, the Commission estimates costs for testing would range from $550 to $770. Shipping costs vary greatly depending on the shipping company and delivery date. The closest APHIS approved diagnostic laboratory is located in Colorado; typical shipping costs are under $20. The Department would realize a reduction in costs due to the license holder being responsible for shipping and testing the samples, an approximate savings of $600 annually.

B. The economic, small business and consumer impact statement:

1. Identification of the proposed rulemaking.

See paragraph (A)(1) above.

2. Identification of the persons who will be directly affected by, bear the costs of or directly benefit from the proposed rulemaking.

Overall, the Commission believes the amendments proposed in this rulemaking result in rules that are either less burdensome or have no significant impact on the regulated community. The Commission believes the general public and the Department benefit from the proposed rulemaking through clarification of rule language governing the lawful possession of live wildlife.

For R12-4-401 Live Wildlife Definitions, definitions alone have no impact on the Department or regulated community; enforcement of the rule manifests itself through proper administration. It is not the term that is cited, but the violation. Thus, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have little or no impact on the Department or regulated community. In general, the amendments to R12-4-401 are intended to clarify or establish definitions for terms that are used in this Article. Definitions that are clearer will make the rules more understandable.

For R12-4-402 Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who possess and hold wildlife in a manner that threatens public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations. Based on recent history, the impact is expected to be negligible. By allowing the Department to take actions intended to alleviate threats to public health, safety, or welfare or wildlife populations, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will benefit members of the public who may otherwise be exposed to these threats. The Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will benefit the Department and licensed wildlife sanctuaries, which currently bear the costs associated with seizure operations. This amendment will allow the Department to recoup costs from the individual or businesses that hold the wildlife in a manner that threatens public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations.

For R12-4-403 Escaped or Released Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact special license holders and owners by requiring the license holder or owner to bear the expense for the animal's care; however, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150). However, both are costs the license holder or owner would have had to expend regardless of whether it was in their possession, the Department's, or a wildlife sanctuary.

For R12-4-404 Possession of Live Wildlife Taken Under an Arizona Hunting or Fishing License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who possess wildlife taken under an Arizona hunting or fishing license by prohibiting propagation of restricted wildlife. In addition to the cost of a veterinary office visit, which may be anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to spay or neuter an animal may be incurred. They are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter services will benefit from the prohibition on propagation. Persons who use reptiles or amphibians to provide aversion training may benefit from the rulemaking. Typically, a business may charge anywhere from $60 to $125 for the initial aversion training sessions and $30 to $50 for a 'recheck.' While the use of legally acquired reptiles and amphibians for aversion training is already legal, clarifying this in rule may result in additional customers for businesses that offer aversion training for dogs.

For R12-4-405 Importing, Purchasing, and Transporting Live Wildlife Without an Arizona License or Permit, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who import wildlife into Arizona by requiring a valid health certificate for the animal being imported. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. The amendment is intended to assist in alleviating potential threats to public health, safety, or welfare, and to promote the health and welfare of Arizona's wildlife populations. The Commission anticipates the proposed amendment will benefit members of the public, who may otherwise be exposed to these threats, from the requirement that a person obtain a health certificate for an animal before importing animals into Arizona.

For R12-4-406 Restricted Live Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that sell the live wildlife that the Commission proposes to add to the list of restricted live wildlife as they will no longer be able to sell Red Shiner, five tilapia species (Oreochromis aureus, O. mossambica; O. niloticus, O. urolepis hornoru, and T. zilli), sturgeon, paddlefish, Chinese mystery snail, apple snail, false dark mussels, non-human primates to persons in Arizona without a lawful exemption or a special license. When adding or removing a species from the restricted wildlife list, the Department bases its decision on the following factors: protection of human health and safety; biological impact on species and ecosystems; consistency with federal, state, and county regulatory agencies; and potential economic impact.

For R12-4-407 Exemptions from Special License Requirements for Restricted Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that provide veterinary care or facilities certified for waste disposal. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. This requirement already exists through the Arizona Department of Agriculture and has been added to this rule because it addresses the exemptions related specifically to the importation of wildlife. While the need to dispose of wildlife that dies while in transport through the state is not a common occurrence, the potential for the spread of disease to wild populations exist when a deceased animal is illegally dumped in wildlife interface locations. The Department wishes to direct these individuals to certified waste disposal facilities. Since this requirement is isolated to certain situations the costs associated with it are minimal. The changes related to the propagation of desert tortoises may increase costs to the Department due to law enforcement and administration. However, these same costs already exist and will be offset by the reduction in costs associated with caring for the surplus of tortoises in the tortoise adoption program.

For R12-4-408 Holding Wildlife for the Department, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who hold wildlife for the Department as they will bear the expense for the animal's care until it is placed in a permanent home. However, the Commission believes it is a reasonable economic burden. Costs vary greatly depending on the species, its physical condition, and housing requirements. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150).

For R12-4-409 General Provisions and Penalties for Special Licenses, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact special license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically ensuring special license procedures include revocation guidelines, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under special license may incur costs associated with the housing and veterinary requirements. However, the licensee will be advised of these responsibilities during the application process. In general, the amendments to the rule will require additional communication, verbal or electronic, between the licensee and the Department and some may incur minor costs associated with this requirement. The public benefits from a rule that provides the general provisions relating to administrative compliance, licensing requirements, and penalties applicable to all special licenses issued by the Department. The Commission believes that providing general provisions in one overarching rule ensures consistency between special license rules. Furthermore, the Commission anticipates the administrative changes will result in a more efficient process that benefits both the Department and the regulated community.

For R12-4-410 Aquatic Wildlife Stocking Permit, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact aquatic wildlife stocking license holders and the Department. Amendments to the rule requires applicants to further examine the potential for adverse impacts of stocking on existing wildlife species in the proposed area, provide additional information about the proposed stocking location, and possess the license when conducting stocking activities and present it to a Department employee or agent upon request to ensure compliance with requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-331. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 161 Aquatic Wildlife Stocking permits on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-411, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have no impact on consumers because there are no registered live bait dealers that offer Red Shiners for sale as a baitfish. The Department issues approximately 28 Live Bait Dealer's licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-412 Special License Fees, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact all special license holders and applicants. The Commission does not anticipate a person who possesses a special license or an applicant for a special license will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-413 Private Game Farm License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact private game farm license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Department issues approximately 13 Private Game Farm licenses on an annual basis. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement for submitting an annual report even when allowed activities have not occurred under the license.

For R12-4-414 Game Bird Shooting Preserve License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact game farm shooting preserve, game bird field trial, game bird field trial training, and game bird hobby license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically consolidation of licenses into one rule and enhanced reporting procedures outweighs any costs. The Department issues approximately 7 Game Bird Shooting Preserve licenses, 42 Game Bird Field Trial licenses, 128 Game Bird Field Trial Training licenses, and 65 Game Bird Hobby licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-417 Wildlife Holding License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife holding license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically allowing the license holder to use an agent, allowing an applicant to submit photographs and/or a certification issued by an institutional animal care and use committee or similar committee, result in a reduction of the burden and costs placed on the regulated community. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 151 Wildlife Service licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-418 Scientific Collecting Permit, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact scientific collecting license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically improving the administrative aspects of the license, providing a mechanism to restrict location of activities, and requiring proper disposal in the regulation of live wildlife and their parts for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 312 Scientific Collecting permits on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-420 Zoo License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact zoo license holders and the Department. Commission believes the benefits of the amendments outweigh these minor costs and is not an undue burden. Requiring a new zoo license applicant to submit photographs with their application if they are not affiliated with a national accreditation association, could result in minor costs. If an applicant does not possess a camera to take the photographs, they would either need to borrow, purchase, or pay an individual to take the required photos. Costs range from less than $15 for a disposable camera to $60 for a low end digital camera. Alternatively, a photographer could be hired to shoot the photos for $150 to $200. If an applicant does not submit their license application electronically they would have to provide paper photographs at a cost of approximately .20¢ per photo. The number of paper photos needed would depend on the size of zoo and could range from 10 ($2.00) to 100 ($20.00). The Department issues approximately 19 Zoo licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-421 Wildlife Service License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife service license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife and their parts for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 118 Wildlife Service licenses on an annual basis. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing wildlife under this rule will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-422 Sport Falconry License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact sport falconry license holders and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits from the proposed amendments, specifically improving the administrative aspects of the license and restricting Arizona license holders from transferring species managed through Commission Order or annual harvest quota system to a falconer in another state for at least one year from the date of capture, outweighs any costs. Furthermore, the Commission anticipates the administrative changes will result in a more efficient process that benefits both the regulated community and the Department. The Commission does not anticipate a person possessing a falconry license under this rule will incur any additional costs or undue regulation as a result of the rulemaking. The Department issues approximately 31 Sport Falconry licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-423 Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife rehabilitation license holders and the Department. The Commission believes there are no anticipated costs to license holders in regards to shortening the expiration date of the license examination results and cessation of providing medical care at the Department's facility. License holders who are not practicing acceptable euthanasia techniques will be required to comply. The most acceptable, quick, and humane method is the use of carbon monoxide in a suitable chamber, costing approximately $150. The few license holders who participate in the continuing education courses offered by the Department would be required to find alternative sources. In some cases there may be no cost for hands-on learning, costs for local or online seminars may range from approximately $50-$100, and costs for an out-of-state conference may cost $1,000 or more to attend. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 11 Wildlife Rehabilitation licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-424 White Amur Stocking and Holding License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact white amur stocking and holding license holders and the Department. Because no substantive amendments are proposed, the Commission anticipates the impacts on the regulated community will be insignificant. There is no fee for this license and the Department issues approximately 413 White Amur Stocking and Holding licenses on an annual basis.

For R12-4-425 Restricted Live Wildlife Lawfully Possessed without License or Permit Before the Effective Date of Article 4 or Any Subsequent Amendments, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who lawfully possess wildlife that subsequently became restricted and the Department. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the proposed amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principal purpose of protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs are expected to be insignificant and may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. In addition to the office visit, which may cost anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip range anywhere from $30 to $50. In addition, the Commission anticipates a person may incur minor costs to spay or neuter the animal due to the prohibition on propagation. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation.

For R12-4-426 Possession of Primates, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who lawfully possess primates. In general, the Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically taking a stronger stance in the regulation of live wildlife for the principal purpose of ensuring the public's health and safety and protecting native wildlife species, outweighs any costs. The Commission anticipates a person possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means as a result of restricted status. Costs are expected to be insignificant and may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. In addition to the office visit, which may cost anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip range anywhere from $30 to $50. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation.

For R12-4-427 Exemptions from Requirements to Possess a Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who temporarily hold orphaned or injured wildlife and the Department. The Commission believes the proposed amendments are nonsubstantive and will not have a significant impact on the regulated community.

For R12-4-428 Captivity Standards, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who hold wildlife under a special license and the Department. The cost of ensuring the captive environment is minimally enriching are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and existing conditions. Modifications could range from simple changes in daily procedures, to changes in the enclosures costing hundreds to thousands of dollars. The Commission believes the benefits of the amendments, specifically ensuring license holders consider the psychological well-being of their animals, outweighs any costs.

For R12-4-430 Importation, Handling, and Possession of Cervids, the Commission proposes to amend the rule to require special license holders lawfully possessing cervids to submit tissues from any cervid over one-year of age that die or are killed or slaughtered for testing for CWD. This requirement is comparable to the requirements for herd certification programs for farmed cervids in other states. The Department pays the costs of collecting the sample and testing it for the presence of CWD by a laboratory certified by the National Veterinary Services Laboratory and United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). If the proposed amendment is approved, the sample must be collected by a licensed veterinarian or the Department and then submitted to a USDA APHIS certified laboratory; there are 28 approved diagnostic laboratories nationwide. The license holder may pay the cost of sample collection, shipping, and testing. The Department does not charge a fee to remove a sample. The Commission anticipates the proposed rule will not have a significant impact on the regulated community because they are already required to test all cervids that die while in their possession. In addition to the cost for testing, a laboratory may charge a submission fee of $7 to $10. The average fee for an immunohistochemistry is $35 and for enzyme linked immunosorbent assay is $25; typically only one test is required. Currently, the Department licenses one private game farm to possess cervids. Reports submitted by the private game farm indicate approximately 22 animals die or are killed or slaughtered on an annual basis. If all of these animals were over one-year of age, the Commission estimates costs for testing would range from $550 to $770. Shipping costs vary greatly depending on the shipping company and delivery date. The closest APHIS approved diagnostic laboratory is located in Colorado; typical shipping costs are under $20. The Department would realize a reduction in costs due to the license holder being responsible for shipping and testing the samples, an approximate savings of $600 annually.

The Commission's intent in proposing these amendments is to protect native wildlife and their habitats in many ways, including preventing the spread of disease, reducing the risk of released animals competing with native wildlife, discouraging illegal trade of native wildlife, and preventing interactions between humans and wildlife that may threaten public health or safety. The Commission anticipates the majority of the rulemaking is intended to benefit the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department by clarifying rule language to ease enforcement, creating consistency among existing Commission rules, reducing the burden on the regulated community where practical, and allowing the Department additional oversight where necessary. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in an overall benefit to the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in little or no impact to political subdivisions of this state; private and public employment in businesses, agencies or political subdivisions; or state revenues. The Commission has determined that there are no less intrusive or costly alternative methods of achieving the purpose of the rulemaking. Other than the regular cost of rulemaking, there are no costs associated with the rulemaking. Therefore, the Commission has determined that the benefits of the rulemaking outweigh any costs.

3. Cost benefit analysis:

Cost-revenue scale. Annual costs or revenues are defined as follows:

- (a) Probable costs and benefits to the implementing agency and other agencies directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the proposed rulemaking. The probable costs to the implementing agency shall include the number of new full-time employees necessary to implement and enforce the proposed rule. The preparer of the Economic, Small Business, and Consumer Impact Statement shall notify the Joint Legislative Budget Committee of the number of new full-time employees necessary to implement and enforce the rule before the rule is approved by council.

Overall, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have little or no impact on the Department or other agencies directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the proposed rulemaking. The Commission anticipates the implementation of the rulemaking will have no measurable impact on Department operations, as the Department has been fully engaged in addressing live wildlife concerns. The Commission believes the proposed rulemaking will enhance the Department's ability to protect the public health, safety, and welfare and native wildlife and wildlife habitat. The Commission anticipates the Department will benefit from the requirement that allows the Department to recover costs associated with the care and handling of unlawfully released or seized wildlife. The Commission anticipates the Department and the public will benefit from the requirement that a person obtain a health certificate for an animal before importing that animal into Arizona. Although additional opportunities are created, the Commission does not anticipate the Department will incur additional costs associated with regulating these changes. The Commission has determined the rulemaking will not require any new full-time employees.

The Commission believes the benefits of the rulemaking outweigh any costs.

(b) Probable costs and benefits to a political subdivision of this state directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the proposed rulemaking.

The Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have little or no impact on political subdivisions of this state directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the proposed rulemaking.

(c) Probable costs and benefits to businesses directly affected by the proposed rulemaking, including any anticipated effect on the revenues or payroll expenditures of employers who are subject to the proposed rulemaking.

The Commission's intent in the proposed rulemaking is to promote public health, safety, and welfare, and allow the Department the management authority necessary to protect and manage wildlife and wildlife habitat. Many of the amendments will not affect businesses, their revenues, or their payroll expenditures. Of those that do or may have an impact, the Commission does not anticipate the impact will be significant. The Commission believes the benefits of the rulemaking outweigh any costs.

4. General description of the probable impact on private and public employment in businesses, agencies and political subdivisions of this state directly affected by the proposed rulemaking.

The Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have minimal or no substantive impact on private and public employment in businesses, agencies, and political subdivisions of this state directly affected by the proposed rulemaking.

5. Statement of the probable impact of the proposed rulemaking on small businesses:

(a) Identification of the small businesses subject to the proposed rulemaking.

The Commission's intent in proposing these amendments is to protect native wildlife and their habitats in many ways, including preventing the spread of disease, reducing the risk of released animals competing with native wildlife, discouraging illegal trade of native wildlife, and preventing interactions between humans and wildlife that may threaten public health or safety. The Commission anticipates the majority of the rulemaking is intended to benefit the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department by clarifying rule language to ease enforcement, creating consistency among existing Commission rules, reducing the burden on the regulated community where practical, and allowing the Department additional oversight where necessary. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in an overall benefit to the regulated community, members of the public, and the Department. The Commission anticipates the rulemaking will result in little or no impact to political subdivisions of this state; private and public employment in businesses, agencies or political subdivisions; or state revenues. The Commission has determined that there are no less intrusive or costly alternative methods of achieving the purpose of the rulemaking. Other than the regular cost of rulemaking, there are no costs associated with the rulemaking. Therefore, the Commission has determined that the benefits of the rulemaking outweigh any costs.

The Commission anticipates a variety of small business may be impacted by the proposed rulemaking; these may include APHIS approved laboratories, businesses that provide animal care and housing supplies, businesses that provide general home repair, small construction contractors that build/repair animal enclosures, businesses that supply food, gas, or lodging for persons who are traveling, businesses that provide wildlife removal services under special license issued by the Department, commercial aquarium trade, commercial wildlife advertising, game farms, museums, pet stores, restaurant and market trade that serves fish and wildlife species as food, veterinarians, zoos, and similar possessors of live wildlife.

Because, in most instances, the rulemaking either reduces or makes no change to the current regulatory burden, the Commission anticipates the regulated community will not incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking. For most special license holders, any anticipated costs incurred are strictly administrative in nature and are believed to be insignificant. The following information addresses only those rules the Commission believes may result in additional costs and burdens.

For R12-4-402 Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts, R12-4-403 Escaped or Released Wildlife, R12-4-408 Holding Wildlife for the Department, and R12-4-422 Sport Falconry License, the Commission anticipates businesses that provide animal care and housing supplies, small construction contractors that build/repair animal enclosures, veterinarians, and wildlife sanctuaries will benefit as a result of the rulemaking. Based on recent history and the fact that a person possessing wildlife illegally has already been providing care for such wildlife, the impact to these businesses is anticipated to be insignificant. The Commission anticipates wildlife sanctuaries will no longer bear the burden of costs associated with the care and keeping of the wildlife obtained through seizure operations. Costs savings will vary greatly depending on the species, its physical condition, and housing requirements. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150).

For R12-4-404 Possession of Live Wildlife Taken Under an Arizona Hunting or Fishing License, the Commission anticipates businesses that use reptiles or amphibians to provide aversion training will benefit as a result of. While the use of legally acquired reptiles and amphibians for aversion training is already legal, clarifying this in rule may result in additional customers for businesses that offer aversion training for dogs. Typically, a business may charge anywhere from $60 to $125 for the initial aversion training sessions and $30 to $50 for a 'recheck." The Commission anticipates businesses that sell photographs of wildlife will benefit as a result of. Because the value of a photograph varies greatly depending on the quality of the photograph, species captured, public opinion, and recent events, it is difficult to quantify the value of a photograph.

For R12-4-405 Importing, Purchasing, and Transporting Live Wildlife Without an Arizona License or Permit, the Commission anticipates businesses importing live wildlife will incur costs associated with the health certificate requirement. The Commission anticipates businesses that provide veterinary care will benefit from the proposed rulemaking. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100.

For R12-4-406 Restricted Live Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that sell the live wildlife that the Commission proposes to add to the list of restricted live wildlife as they will no longer be able to sell Red Shiner, five tilapia species (Oreochromis aureus, O. mossambica; O. niloticus, O. urolepis hornoru, and T. zilli), sturgeon, paddlefish, Chinese mystery snail, apple snail, false dark mussels, non-human primates to persons in Arizona without a lawful exemption or a special license. When adding or removing a species from the restricted wildlife list, the Department bases its decision on the following factors: protection of human health and safety; biological impact on species and ecosystems; consistency with federal, state, and county regulatory agencies; and potential economic impact. However, the proposed amendment that removed hedgehogs from the list of restricted live wildlife will benefit businesses that sell the live wildlife. These businesses may sell hedgehogs for $70 to $250, starter kits (cage, dishes, toys, litter, etc.) for approximately $75, and food and litter for approximately $20 a month.

For R12-4-407 Exemptions from Special License Requirements for Restricted Wildlife, the Commission anticipates businesses that provide veterinary care or facilities certified for waste disposal will benefit from the proposed rulemaking. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. The fees for certified waste disposal will vary based on the size of the animal, costs are expected to be insignificant as the disposal of a carcass can be anywhere from $60 to $500.

For R12-4-409, the Commission anticipates wildlife sanctuaries will no longer bear the burden of costs associated with the care and keeping of the wildlife obtained through seizure operations. Costs savings will vary greatly depending on the species, its physical condition, and housing requirements. The cost of maintaining an exotic pheasant for a week (~$5) is much less than the expense of maintaining an African lion for a week (~$150).

For R12-4-421 Wildlife Service License, the Commission anticipates businesses that provide wildlife removal services will benefit from the amendment that clarifies which species may be removed without having to possess a Wildlife Service License. The Commission does not anticipate a business possessing wildlife under this rule will incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-423 Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact wildlife rehabilitation license holders that operate as a nonprofit organization. The Commission believes there are no anticipated costs to license holders in regards to shortening the expiration date of the license examination results and cessation of providing medical care at the Department's facility. License holders who are not practicing acceptable euthanasia techniques will be required to comply. The most acceptable, quick, and humane method is the use of carbon monoxide in a suitable chamber, costing approximately $150. The few license holders who participate in the continuing education courses offered by the Department would be required to find alternative sources. In some cases there may be no cost for hands-on learning, costs for local or online seminars may range from approximately $50-$100, and costs for an out-of-state conference may cost $1,000 or more to attend.

For R12-4-425 Restricted Live Wildlife Lawfully Possessed without License or Permit Before the Effective Date of Article 4 or Any Subsequent Amendments and R12-4-426 Possession of Primates, the Commission anticipates veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit as a result of the rulemaking. These businesses charge anywhere from $30 to $50 to permanently mark an animal and the office visit can cost anywhere from $42 to $100. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care.

For R12-4-430 Importation, Handling, and Possession of Cervids, the Commission anticipates businesses that possess cervids, such as game farms, may incur costs as a result of the rulemaking due to the requirement to submit tissues from any cervid over one-year of age that die or are killed or slaughtered for testing for CWD. However, being able to obtain tissue collection services any licensed veterinarian will reduce the costs and burden currently in place. The Commission anticipates any costs incurred will be insignificant. Veterinarians who provide collection services will benefit as a result of the rulemaking.

(b) Administrative and other costs required for compliance with the proposed rulemaking.

Overall, the Commission believes the amendments proposed in this rulemaking result in rules that are either less burdensome or have no significant impact on the regulated community.

(c) Description of the methods that the agency may use to reduce the impact on small businesses.

The Commission believes establishing less stringent compliance requirements for small businesses is not necessary as the proposed rules do not place any compliance or reporting requirements on businesses.

(d) Probable cost and benefit to private persons and consumers who are directly affected by the proposed rulemaking.

The Commission anticipates the proposed rulemaking will benefit private persons and consumers by clarifying live wildlife and special license rules and establishing additional provisions for the protection of public welfare, and in doing so ensuring the continued integrity of and compliance with its rules. Overall, the Commission believes the amendments proposed in this rulemaking result in rules that are either less burdensome or have no significant impact on the regulated community. The Commission believes the general public and the Department benefit from the proposed rulemaking through clarification of rule language governing the lawful possession of live wildlife.

Because, in most instances, the rulemaking either reduces or makes no change to the current regulatory burden, the Commission anticipates the regulated community will not incur any additional costs as a result of the rulemaking. The following information addresses only those rules the Commission believes may result in additional costs and burdens.

For R12-4-402 Live Wildlife; Unlawful Acts, R12-4-403 Escaped or Released Wildlife, R12-4-408 Holding Wildlife for the Department, and R12-4-422 Sport Falconry License, the Commission anticipates persons who possess and hold wildlife in a manner that threatens public health, safety, or welfare, or wildlife populations may incur costs associated with the temporary care of such wildlife. Based on recent history and because these persons are already incurring these costs, the Commission anticipates the impact is negligible.

For R12-4-404 Possession of Live Wildlife Taken Under an Arizona Hunting or Fishing License, the Commission anticipates persons may incur costs associated with the prohibition on propagation of restricted wildlife. In addition to the cost of a veterinary office visit, which may be anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to spay or neuter an animal may be incurred. They are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals.

For R12-4-405 Importing, Purchasing, and Transporting Live Wildlife Without an Arizona License or Permit, the Commission anticipates persons who import wildlife into Arizona will incur costs associated with the health certificate requirement. Costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100.

For R12-4-406 Restricted Live Wildlife, R12-4-425 Restricted Live Wildlife Lawfully Possessed without License or Permit Before the Effective Date of Article 4 or Any Subsequent Amendments, and R12-4-426 Possession of Primates, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons who possess restricted live wildlife will need to adhere to the requirements of R12-4-425. Persons possessing wildlife under this rule may incur minor costs associated with the requirement that a person permanently mark the animal with a tattoo, microchip, or other means. Costs are expected to be insignificant and may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian. In addition to the office visit, which may cost anywhere from $42 to $100, costs to mark the animal with a tattoo or microchip range anywhere from $30 to $50. In addition, the Commission anticipates a person may incur minor costs to spay or neuter the animal due to the prohibition on propagation. Costs to spay or neuter an animal are difficult to quantify as the cost varies greatly depending on the species and required after-care. However, compliance may also be achieved at no cost by keeping males and females separated or by possessing only male or female animals. Veterinarians who provide spay and neuter, microchip or tattooing services will benefit from the requirements that a person permanently mark the animal and the prohibition on propagation.

For R12-4-407 Exemptions from Special License Requirements for Restricted Wildlife, the Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will impact persons and businesses that provide veterinary care or facilities certified for waste disposal. Based on recent history, costs are expected to be insignificant as a health certificate may be obtained from a licensed veterinarian for $42 to $100. Since the requirement to dispose of an animal that dies while being transported through Arizona is isolated to certain situations, the costs associated with it are minimal.

For R12-4-409 General Provisions and Penalties for Special Licenses and R12-4-410 Aquatic Wildlife Stocking Permit, the Commission anticipates any anticipated costs incurred will be strictly administrative in nature and are believed to be insignificant.

For R12-4-417 Wildlife Holding License, the Commission anticipates persons will benefit as the amendments result in a reduction of the burden and costs placed on the regulated community.

For R12-4-422 Sport Falconry License, the Commission does not anticipate a person possessing a falconry license will incur any additional costs or undue regulation as a result of the rulemaking.

For R12-4-423 Wildlife Rehabilitation License, the Commission anticipates the few license holders who participate in the continuing education courses offered by the Department will be impacted as a result of the rulemaking. Costs for local or online seminars may range from approximately $50-$100 and costs for an out-of-state conference may cost $1,000 or more to attend. However, there may be no cost associated with hands-on learning.

6. Statement of the probable effect on state revenues.

The Commission anticipates the proposed amendments will have little or no impact on state revenues.

7. Description of any less intrusive or less costly alternative methods of achieving the purpose of the proposed rulemaking including the monetizing of the costs and benefits for each option and providing rationale for not using the nonselected alternatives.

The Commission has determined that there are no alternative methods of achieving the objectives of the proposed rulemaking.

C. If for any reason adequate data are not reasonably available to comply with the requirements of subsection B of this section, the agency shall explain the limitations of the data and the methods that were employed in the attempt to obtain the data and shall characterize the probable impacts in qualitative terms. The absence of adequate data, if explained in accordance with this subsection, shall not be grounds for a legal challenge to the sufficiency of the economic, small business and consumer impact statement.

The Department tasked a team of subject matter experts to review and make recommendations for rules contained within Article 4. In its review, the team considered all comments from agency staff that administer and enforce Article 4 rules, comments from the public, historical data, current processes and environment, and the Department's wildlife objectives. The team took a customer-focused approach, considering each recommendation from a resource perspective and determining whether the recommendation would cause undue harm to the state's wildlife or negatively affect the Department's wildlife objectives. The team then determined whether the request was consistent with the Department's overall mission, if it could be effectively implemented given agency resources, and if it was acceptable to the public. The Commission believes the data utilized in completing this economic, small business, and consumer statement is more than adequate.

Game and Fish Commission

This restriction begins 48 hours before the opening of a big game season in a hunt unit and extends until the close of the big game season for that hunt unit.

 3. Conduct any of the following activities with live wildlife within the state:
 - a. Display,
 - b. Exhibit,
 - c. Give away,

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: ARIZONA GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT
Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 2, Licenses; Permits; Stamps; Tags

This five year review report (5YRR) from the Arizona Game and Fish Department (Department) relates to all Sections of Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 2 related to licenses, permits, stamps, and tags.

In its prior 5YRR, approved by this Council on November 26, 2013, the Department stated it anticipated submitting final rules to the Council by February 2015. The Department completed the course of action by completing an exempt rulemaking in October 2013 and a regular rulemaking, which was approved by this Council in November 2014.

Proposed Action

The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by May 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in the Department's report to the Council by April 2020 and/or February 2021.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Department has cited to both general and specific authority for the rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The most recent rulemaking for Article 2 was an exempt rulemaking, so there is no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement (EIS) available for review; however, the Commission included a brief consideration of the economic impacts in the most recent exempt rulemaking. The Commission notes that outdoor recreational activities are voluntary, so no individual is compelled to purchase a license.

The license fees fund the activities of the Department. The Department protects the value of outdoor recreational areas, which are a common resource. The Commission does not believe that the current fees are prohibitive to any individual's participation in licensed outdoor recreational activities.

The stakeholders include the Commission, the Department, outdoor recreation businesses, and the public.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Commission has identified several ways to improve these rules. These improvements range from nonsubstantive changes to eliminating the community fishing license. The Commission notes that once these amendments are completed, the rules will impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

Yes. The Department has received numerous written criticisms of the rules over the last five years. These written criticisms are listed in more detail in the Department's report. The Department has adequately responded to these written criticisms.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

The Department indicates that the rules are generally clear, concise, and understandable except that the Department proposes to amend the rules to remove the Department website URL and simply reference "Department website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's URL should change. The Department also proposes amending R12-4-211 to clarify the privileges included with the lifetime license do not include permit-tags, non-permit-tags, or any stamp required to validate the lifetime license for the take of big game animals, migratory game birds, or other wildlife authorized by an applicable tag or stamp in response to customer comments received by the Department.

The Department indicates that the rules are consistent with other rules and statutes.

The Department indicates that the rules are effective.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Department indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

To the extent federal law is applicable to these rules, the rules are not more stringent than federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

The rules require a general permit and are in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

9. Conclusion

The rules are generally clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective. The Department's proposed changes will make the rules more clear, concise, understandable and consistent. The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by May 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in the Department's report to the Council by April 2020 and/or February 2021. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

REPORT: ARTICLE 2. LICENSES; PERMITS; STAMPS; TAGS

Under A.R.S. § 41-1056, every agency shall review its rules at least once every five years to determine whether any rule should be amended or repealed. Each agency shall prepare a report summarizing its findings, its supporting reasons, and any proposed course of action; and obtain approval of the report from the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (G.R.R.C.).

G.R.R.C. determines the review schedule. The Arizona Game and Fish Commission's rules listed under Article 3, Taking and Handling Wildlife, are scheduled to be reviewed by April 2019.

The Arizona Game and Fish Department (Department) tasked a team of employees to review the rules contained within Article 2. The Department prepared a report of its findings based on G.R.R.C. standards. In its report, the review team addressed all internal comments from agency staff as well as comments received from the public. The team took a customer-focused approach, considering each comment from a resource perspective and determining whether the request would cause undue harm to the state's wildlife or negatively affect the Department's wildlife objectives. The review team then determined whether the request was consistent with the Department's overall mission, if it could be effectively implemented given agency resources, and if it was acceptable to the public.

The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by May 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in this report to the Council by February 2021, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

With this report, the Department also certifies its compliance with the requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1091:

1. The Department publishes an annual directory summarizing the subject matter of all currently applicable rules and substantive policy statements;
2. The Department maintains a copy of the directory and all substantive policy statements at the Arizona Game and Fish Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086;
3. The Department includes the notice specified under A.R.S. § 41-1091(B) on the first page of each substantive policy statement; and
4. The Department provides the directory, rules, substantive policy statements, and any other material incorporated by reference in the directory, rules or substantive policy statements. These documents are open to public inspection at the Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086.

R12-4-201. PIONEER LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-336(A)(1), and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements and hunting and fishing privileges for the pioneer license. The rule was adopted to comply with the statutory mandate under A.R.S. § 17-336(A)(1). This license may be issued to a person who is seventy years of age or older and who has been a resident of this state for twenty-five or more consecutive years immediately preceding application for the license. The pioneer license is valid for the lifetime of the licensee and does not require renewal. The complimentary combination hunting and fishing license is valid state-wide for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game and the take of all aquatic wildlife, allows simultaneous fishing, and includes community program fishing privileges

The pioneer license is free of charge to eligible applicants.

The Department issues an average of 4,415 complimentary pioneer licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

Like the lifetime licenses issued under R12-4-211 (lifetime license) and R12-4-212 (benefactor license), the pioneer license is valid for the person's lifetime and continues to remain valid even when the person moves to another state. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a pioneer license holder who resides outside of this state must pay the nonresident fee when purchasing any required permit-tag, nonpermit-tag, or stamp to hunt and fish in Arizona; and the limits established under R12-4-114 (issuance of nonpermit-tags and hunt permit-tags) for nonresident permit holders do not apply to a pioneer license holder to increase consistency between rules within Article 2.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public. However, the Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

Written Comment: August 1, 2013. If I make it to 70 years of age, I will be too crippled to hunt. Why not change the age and residency requirements to something reasonable, like 60 years of age with at least 30 years of residency?

Written Comment: March 20, 2017. I was wondering why you have to be a resident of Arizona for 25 years to get a pioneer license. I have been here for 15 years and do not plan on moving anywhere till the day I die, then I will go in a hole in Cave Creek. I checked other states and theirs is as long as you have residence in the state. I will be 70 in December and thought I could get one until I was told different. I don't think that is right and it needs to be changed. Follow-up Comment: April 11, 2017. Thank you for your feedback. I misunderstood the rule; I thought the 25 years was for the city you live in, not the State. So, I will be okay.

Agency Response: The twenty five year requirement is based on statute; A.R.S. 17-336(A)(1) requires a person to be at least 70 years of age and a resident of Arizona for twenty-five or more consecutive years immediately preceding application for the license. The legislative amendment must occur before the Department may issue a Pioneer License to a person under the age of 70 or has been a resident of Arizona for less than 25 years.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission amended the rule to clarify the pioneer license is a complimentary, no-fee, license and is valid for the license holder's lifetime provided the person continues to meet the statutory requirements; clarify that a duplicate paper pioneer license is also complimentary; reference age and residency requirements; and establish a person issued a pioneer license prior to January 1, 2014 is granted all of the privileges established by the last rulemaking. The Commission anticipated the amendments would result in a rule that is either less burdensome or would have no significant impact on persons regulated by the rule.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the November 26, 2013 Council Meeting; the report stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by February 2015. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 1233, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 1191, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Public Information: 20 A.A.R. 1335, June 13, 2014
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 4, 2014 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 3045, November 21, 2014.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes application requirements and hunting and fishing privileges for the pioneer license. The Department issues an average of 4,415 complimentary pioneer licenses on an annual basis. The public and the Department benefit from the proposed rulemaking through clarification of rule language governing licenses and permits issued by the Department. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. Currently, the rule requires an applicant to submit an original or certified copy of their proof of name and date of birth document (i.e., valid government-issued driver license, birth certificate, etc.) and have their signature either notarized or witnessed by a Department employee. The Department has determined these requirements do not benefit the Department and are considered burdensome to Pioneer License applicants. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove these requirements. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-201 to:

- Establish a pioneer license holder who resides outside of this state must pay the nonresident fee when purchasing any required permit-tag, nonpermit-tag, or stamp to hunt and fish in Arizona to increase consistency between rules within Article 2.
- Establish the limits prescribed under R12-4-114 (issuance of nonpermit-tags and hunt permit-tags) for nonresident permit holders do not apply to a pioneer license holder to increase consistency between rules within Article 2.

- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Remove the requirement that an applicant's signature be either notarized or witnessed by a Department employee to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule.
- Allow an applicant to submit a copy of their valid U.S. passport, birth certificate, or valid government-issued driver's license or identification card to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by February 2021.

R12-4-202. DISABLED VETERAN'S LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-336(A)(2), and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements and hunting and fishing privileges for the disabled veteran's license. This license may be issued to a disabled veteran who has been a resident for at least one year prior to application and who is receiving compensation from the United States Government for a service connected disability that is 100% disabling. Eligibility is determined by disability rating and not compensation received. The disabled veteran's license is valid for three years if the licensee's 100% permanent disability rating will be reevaluated within three years or for the lifetime of the licensee without requirement for renewal if the license's 100% disability rating will not be reevaluated. The complimentary combination hunting and fishing license is valid state-wide for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game and the take of all aquatic wildlife, allows simultaneous fishing, and includes community program fishing privileges. The rule was adopted to comply with the statutory mandate under A.R.S. §17-231(A)(2).

The disabled veteran's license is free of charge to eligible applicants.

The Department issues an average of 400 complimentary disabled veteran's licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following criticisms of the rule:

Oral Comment: March 7, 2018. I don't understand why Arizona requires a person to be a resident of the state in order to obtain a Disabled Veteran's License. Other states allow a nonresident to get a disabled veteran's license. A veteran serves the entire U.S., why do they have to be a resident of a state in order to qualify for a reduced license?

Agency Response: The requirement that a veteran of the armed forces of the United States be a resident of this state for one year preceding application for the complimentary disabled veteran's license is described in statute, A.R.S. 17-336(A)(2). No legislative intent clause or other explanation of this requirement could be located, and any attempt to explain the motivation for requiring residency would therefore be speculative.

Proposed Amendment: Consider issuing a three-year disabled veteran's license to a military member who is rated 100% unemployable (IU).

Agency Response: The recent passage of Laws, 2018, Chapter 103 has codified the Game and Fish Commission's authority to offer complimentary and discounted licenses at its discretion. It is therefore appropriate for the Commission to consider this amendment as a potential new license discount or complimentary license, rather than an amendment to the existing rule.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission amended the rule in order to accept a benefits letter issued by the United States Department of Veteran's Affairs (DVA) or an eBenefits letter downloaded from the DVA website as proof of eligibility and allowing applicants to attest that application information is true and correct, instead of requiring a notarized signature. The Commission anticipated the amendments would benefit persons regulated by providing a financial benefit to applicants who would no longer incur costs associated travel and notary fees. There were no negative fiscal impacts to the Department, other state agencies, small business, or state revenues associated with this amendment.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the November 26, 2013 Council Meeting; the report stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by February 2015. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 1233, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 1191, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Public Information: 20 A.A.R. 1335, June 13, 2014
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 4, 2014 Council Meeting.

- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 3045, November 21, 2014.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes application requirements and hunting and fishing privileges for the disabled veteran's license. The Department issues an average of 400 complimentary disabled veteran's licenses on an annual basis. The public benefits from a rule that allows a veteran who has been a resident for at least one year prior to application and who is receiving compensation from the United States Government for a service connected disability that is 100% disabling to receive a complimentary combination hunting and fishing license. The Department benefits from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-202 to:

- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by April 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-203. NATIONAL HARVEST INFORMATION PROGRAM (HIP); STATE WATERFOWL AND MIGRATORY BIRD STAMP

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-235, 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the application and use of both the waterfowl and state migratory bird stamps, which enable the Department to obtain hunter participation and harvest data for migratory game birds in compliance with the requirements of the federally mandated National Harvest Information Program; which is administered by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS).

The fee for the State Waterfowl Migratory Bird stamp is $5.

The Department issues an average of 53,030 State Waterfowl and Migratory Bird Stamps on an annual basis.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

- 5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission amended the rule to combine State Waterfowl and Migratory Bird stamp privileges and requirements to simplify the license structure. This resulted in requiring only one stamp for the taking of migratory birds and waterfowl. The Commission anticipated the amendments would benefit persons regulated by providing a financial benefit to applicants who previously had to purchase two different stamps for taking migratory birds and waterfowl. There were no negative fiscal impacts to the Department, other state agencies, small business, or state revenues associated with this amendment.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the November 26, 2013 Council Meeting; the report stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by February 2015. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Exempt Rulemaking: 190 A.A.R. 3225, October 18, 2013

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the application and use of the state migratory bird stamp, which enable the Department to obtain hunter participation and harvest data for migratory game birds in compliance with the requirements of the federally mandated National Harvest Information Program. The Department issues an average of 53,030 State Waterfowl and Migratory Bird Stamps on an annual basis. The Department collects the participation and harvest data online. 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law, 50 C.F.R. Part 20, is applicable to the subject of the rule. The Department has determined the rule is not more stringent than federal law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. The combination hunting and fishing license is offered to a resident of this state who is a member of the Boy Scouts of America and who has attained the rank of Eagle Scout or a member of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. who has received the Gold Award. The rule was adopted to comply with amendments made to A.R.S. § 17-336(B), which honored the 100th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

The fee for the honorary scout license is $5.

The Department issues an average of 120 Honorary Scout reduced-fee youth class licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The Commission amended the rule to increase consistency between Commission rules. The Commission anticipated the amendments resulted in a rule that had no significant impact on persons regulated by the rule.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements for the reduced-fee honorary scout license. The combination hunting and fishing license is offered to a resident of this state who is a member of the Boy Scouts of America and who has attained the rank of Eagle Scout or a member of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. who has received the Gold Award. The Department issues an average of 120 Honorary Scout reduced-fee youth class licenses on an annual basis. 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

R12-4-206. GENERAL HUNTING LICENSE; EXEMPTION

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements and hunting privileges for the general hunting license. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The resident general hunting license is valid for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game birds. The general hunting license is also valid for the take of migratory birds when the person possesses the applicable migratory bird stamp, and for big game when the person possesses the applicable big game tag. The license is valid for a one-year period as follows: when the license is purchased from a license dealer, as defined under R12-4-101, the license is valid for one-year from the date of purchase; the applicant may choose their start date, provided that date is in the future and is no more than 60 calendar days from the date of purchase. A person under 10 years of age may hunt wildlife other than big game without a license, when accompanied by a person, 18 years of age or older, who possesses a valid Arizona hunting license.

The fee for the resident hunting license is $37.

The Department issues an average of 53,140 general hunting licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. The Commission increased the cost of the general hunting license by $5, which the Commission determined would affect persons regulated by the rule. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees that were amended or adopted, based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. It is important to note, hunting is a voluntary recreational activity and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission did not anticipate the fee increase would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in the activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The license fee increase was effective January 1, 2014, which was seven years after the last over-all fee increase.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements and hunting privileges for the general hunting license. The Department issues an average of 53,140 general hunting licenses on an annual basis. Purchasing a general hunting license is voluntary and a person who chooses to purchase a license will incur those costs associated with the license. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-206 to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by April 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-207. GENERAL FISHING LICENSE; EXEMPTION

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish application requirements and hunting privileges for the general fishing license. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The resident and nonresident general fishing license is valid for the take of aquatic wildlife, includes trout, community, and Colorado River fishing privileges and allows simultaneous fishing as defined under R12-4-301. The license is valid for a one-year period as follows: when the license is purchased from a license dealer, as defined under R12-4-101, the license is valid for one-year from the date of purchase; and when the applicant purchases the license online or at a Department office, the applicant may choose their start date, provided that date is in the future and is no more than 60 calendar days from the date of purchase. A person under 10 years of age may fish without a fishing license.

The fees for the general fishing license are as follows:

- Resident general fishing license is $37, and
- Nonresident general fishing license is $55.

On an annual basis, the Department issues:

- 149,700 resident fishing licenses, and
- 15,505 nonresident fishing licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. Although the Commission increased the cost of the resident general fishing license by $13.50, the Commission also increased the value of the license by including trout, simultaneous fishing, community fishing, and Colorado River fishing privileges. Previously, a resident had to purchase all of these additional privileges separately for a combined total cost of $69.75 (class A fishing license $23.50, Urban fishing license $18.50, trout stamp $15.75, two-pole stamp $6, and Arizona/California and Arizona/Nevada Colorado River stamps $6). An internal analysis indicated nonresident fishing license sales were poor in comparison to resident fishing license sales, so the nonresident fishing license fee was reduced by $15.25. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees that were amended or adopted, based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. It is important to note, fishing is a voluntary recreational activity and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission did not anticipate the resident fee increase and nonresident fee reduction would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in the activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The license fee increase was effective January 1, 2014, which was seven years after the last over-all fee increase.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

- 11. The Department proposes to amend R12-4-207 to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by April 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-245, 17-362, and 41-1005

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the application, reporting, and guiding requirements for those persons who provide commercial guiding services in Arizona. The rule was adopted to clarify what a guide may legally do while aiding or assisting a client in the taking of wildlife and ensure compliance with wildlife laws and rules.

The fees for the guide license are as follows:

- Resident guide license is $300, and
- Nonresident guide license is $300.

On an annual basis, the Department issues:

- 770 resident guide licenses, and
- 95 nonresident guide licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission amended the rule to increase consistency between A.R.S. Title 17 and rules within Article 2 by citing the definition of aquatic wildlife; clarify rule language; incorporate questions regarding off-highway vehicle laws and rules into the guide license examination; require a person to provide acceptable proof of identity prior to taking the examination; allow an applicant who failed the examination to retake the examination on the same day or as otherwise agreed upon by the applicant and the examination administrator; require an applicant who fails an examination twice on the same day to wait at least seven calendar days before retaking the examination; and extend the prohibition on providing false information to required annual reports. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons who provide guiding services by increasing consistency between Commission rules and clarifying guide license requirements.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the November 26, 2013 Council Meeting; the report stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by February 2015. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 20 A.A.R. 1233, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 1191, May 30, 2014
- Notice of Public Information: 20 A.A.R. 1335, June 13, 2014
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 4, 2014 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 20 A.A.R. 3045, November 21, 2014.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish the application, reporting, and guiding requirements for those persons who provide commercial guiding services in Arizona. The Department issues an average of 770 resident guide licenses and 95 nonresident guide licenses on an annual basis. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. Although the Department has determined the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective, the Department proposes to amend the rule to provide applicants the ability to apply for a guide license, take the guide examination, and submit reports to the Department electronically. These changes will make it easier for members of the public to apply for and obtain a guide license and will reduce both costs and administrative burden to applicants once implemented. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-208 as follows:

- Remove rule language relating to the manual examination to implement the online examination process.
- Require a person taking the online guide examination to provide personal information for security purposes when taking the examination to implement the online examination process.
- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Allow an applicant to submit a copy of their valid U.S. passport, birth certificate, or valid government-issued driver's license or identification card to reduce burdens and costs to persons regulated by the rule.
- Remove date of receipt information applicable to the annual report to implement the online reporting process.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by February 2021.

R12-4-209. COMMUNITY FISHING LICENSE; EXEMPTION

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements and privileges for both the resident and nonresident community fishing licenses. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The rule was adopted to provide fishing opportunities for anglers in an urban environment for the purpose of encouraging angler recruitment and reengagement. The resident and nonresident community fishing license is valid for the take of aquatic wildlife from those Commission designated community waters specifically listed in the Department's fishing regulations and allows simultaneous fishing. The license is valid for a one-year period as follows: when the license is purchased from a license dealer, as defined under R12-4-101, the license is valid for one-year from the date of purchase; when the applicant purchases the license online or at a Department office, the applicant may choose their start date, provided that date is in the future and is no more than 60 calendar days from the date of purchase. A person under 10 years of age may fish in designated community waters without a fishing license.

The fees for the community fishing license is as follows:

- Resident community fishing license is $24, and
- Nonresident community fishing license is $24.

On an annual basis, the Department issues:

- 4,370 resident community licenses, and
- 650 nonresident community fishing licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review,

Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. The Commission increased the cost of the resident and nonresident community fishing license by $3.50. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees that were amended or adopted, based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. It is important to note, hunting and fishing are voluntary recreational activity and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission did not anticipate the resident and nonresident fee reduction would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in the activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The license fee increase was effective January 1, 2014, which was seven years after the last over-all fee increase.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements and privileges for both the resident and nonresident community fishing licenses. The Department issues 4,370 resident community licenses and 650 nonresident community fishing licenses on an annual basis. In 2014, through the license simplification rulemaking, fishing privileges for Commission designated community waters were added to the general fishing license to increase its value. Prior to 2014, the Department issued approximately 29,180 community fishing licenses. Since the license simplification rulemaking, the number of community fishing licenses (both resident and nonresident) issued by the Department on an annual basis has dropped to 5,020 community licenses. Overall sales for community fishing licenses have trended downward, with the exception of nonresident license sales. If the Department were to eliminate the community fishing license there would likely be a slight loss in revenue, because most residents would most likely convert to a General Fishing license, but due to the price difference we could potentially lose the nonresident Community water angler. Through creel surveys community water angler demographics mirror those of the community in which the water is established and information gathered through the sale of this license are not currently needed or used to gain angler user data. For these reasons, the Department proposes to repeal the rule and eliminate the community fishing license. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to repeal R12-4-209. The privilege to fish Commission designated community waters is available through the purchase of a general fishing license and combination hunting and fishing license. Eliminating the community fishing license will simplify license choices available to the public at a minimal cost to the end user.

R12-4-210. COMBINATION HUNTING AND FISHING LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The rule establishes the requirements and privileges of both the resident and nonresident hunting and fishing combination licenses. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The combination hunting and fishing license is valid state-wide for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game and the take of all aquatic wildlife, allows simultaneous fishing, and includes community program fishing privileges. The Commission established three variations of the combination hunting and fishing license: resident and nonresident one-year combination hunting and fishing license available to persons 18 years of age and older, resident and nonresident one-year youth combination hunting and fishing license available to person's age 10 through 17, and resident and nonresident short-term combination hunting and fishing license available to persons age 18 and older. The short-term license is valid for one 24-hour period from midnight to midnight. The short-term combination hunting and fishing license is the only short term license offered by the Department and provides the same privileges as the one-year combination hunting and fishing license, except that it is not valid for the take of big game animals. The Commission does not limit the number of short-term licenses a person may purchase in any given year or require a person to purchase consecutive short-term licenses, however, the Department will offer an annual license when the cost of short-term licenses being purchased meets or exceeds the price of the applicable combination hunting and fishing license. A person under 10 years of age may hunt wildlife other than big game without a license, when accompanied by a person, 18 years of age or older, who possesses a valid Arizona hunting license. The only hunting license the Commission offers a nonresident is the combination hunting and fishing license.

The fees for the combination hunting and fishing licenses are as follows:

- Resident combination hunting and fishing license is $57,
- Nonresident combination hunting and fishing license is $160,
- Resident youth combination hunting and fishing license is $5,
- Nonresident youth combination hunting and fishing license is $5,
- Resident short-term combination hunting and fishing license is $15 and
- Nonresident short-term combination hunting and fishing license is $20.

On an annual basis, the Department issues:

- 101,190 resident combination hunting and fishing licenses,
- 27,325 nonresident combination hunting and fishing licenses,
- 66,340 resident youth combination hunting and fishing licenses,
- 3,625 nonresident youth combination hunting and fishing licenses,
- 17,925 resident short-term combination hunting and fishing licenses, and
- 30,925 nonresident short-term combination hunting and fishing licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. It is important to note, hunting and fishing are voluntary recreational activities and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission did not anticipate the resident fee increase of $3 and nonresident fee reduction of $65.75 would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in the activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The license fee increase was effective January 1, 2014, which was seven years after the last over-all fee increase.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements and privileges of both the resident and nonresident hunting and fishing combination licenses. The Department issues a total of 247,330 combination hunting and fishing licenses: resident and nonresident: youth, one-year, and short-term. The fee for resident and nonresident youth combination hunting and fishing license was reduced from $26.50 to $5 to remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. The fee for the resident combination hunting and fishing license was increased to $160, which was only $3 more than it was before. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-210 to:

- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Remove the reference to R12-4-209 because the report recommends repealing this rule.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by February 2021.

R12-4-211. LIFETIME LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-335.01, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the hunting and/or fishing privileges for the three lifetime licenses, application requirements, and fees for lifetime licenses. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. Arizona's lifetime general hunting and fishing license program provides a unique opportunity for resident sportsmen and sportswomen to participate in the long-term funding of Arizona's Wildlife Conservation programs. The dollars derived from the sale of these special licenses are deposited into the established Arizona Wildlife Endowment Fund from which only the interest accrued will be used for management programs. The license is a great value; the initial investment pays off in 18 years even when purchasing the most costly lifetime license: combination license for a person aged 14 to 29 for $1026. The purchaser of a lifetime license is entitled to hunt and fish (as applicable) in Arizona for their lifetime, even if the license holder moves out-of-state. In addition, a lifetime license holder who moved out-of-state is not subject to the limits placed on nonresident permit-tags. The lifetime hunting license is valid for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game birds. The lifetime fishing license is valid for the take of aquatic wildlife, includes trout, community, and Colorado River fishing privileges and allows simultaneous fishing as defined under R12-4-301. The lifetime combination hunting and fishing license is valid state-wide for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game and the take of all aquatic wildlife, allows simultaneous fishing, and includes community program fishing privileges.

Fees for the lifetime fishing, lifetime hunting, and lifetime combination licenses are based on the applicant's age as follows:

- Age 0 through 13 years is 17 times the applicable annual license fee,
- Age 14 through 29 years is 18 times the applicable annual license fee,
- Age 30 through 44 years is 16 times the applicable annual license fee,
- Age 45 through 61 years is 15 times the applicable annual license fee, and
- Age 62 and older is 8 times the applicable annual license fee.

On an annual basis, the Department issues:

- 24 lifetime fishing licenses,
- 128 lifetime hunting licenses, and
- 195 lifetime combination hunting and fishing licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department also issues a Benefactor License. The benefactor license is an additional type of lifetime license and is similar to the lifetime hunting and fishing license, except the person purchasing the license pays an additional amount that is considered a tax deductible donation to the state for the continued management, protection and conservation of the state's wildlife. The Department proposes to amend the rule to incorporate the requirements of the Benefactor License; R12-4-212 Benefactor License will be repealed with the same rulemaking.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

However, the Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify the privileges included with the lifetime license do not include permit-tags, nonpermit-tags, or any stamp required to validate the lifetime license for the take of big game animals, migratory game birds, or other wildlife authorized by an applicable tag or stamp. This change is in response to customer comments received by the Department.

In addition, the Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: November 4, 2014. I have been inquiring about the new migratory bird stamp requirement for dove hunting. I possess a lifetime hunting/fishing license and have been given conflicting information from the Department as to whether or not I need the stamp. The majority consensus has been that I would need it. I feel that Arizona hunters who have paid for the lifetime license, under the belief that they would pay no more to hunt or fish again except for game tags, should be "grandfathered" in those rights as they stood when they bought the license. I was contemplating giving up hunting before I bought the lifetime license because of the ever increasing cost. I made the purchase believing that would save me from future inflation and expenses, except for tags of course. Now I see that new charges are being added and it is disturbing to me. Please clarify the rule language to address this issue. Furthermore, can the Department also put something out exclusive to lifetime license holders on exactly what you get (i.e. trout stamp, two-pole stamp, etc.)? What about special big game tags exclusively for lifetime license holders? That would probably draw more people into the investment.

Agency Response: Prior to December 31, 2013, a lifetime license holder was required to purchase additional licenses and stamps as required: community (urban) fishing license ($18.50), Colorado River stamps ($6), state waterfowl stamp ($7.50), trout stamp ($15.75), two-pole stamp ($6), and Unit 12A Habitat Management stamp ($15). The licenses and stamps were valid until December 31 of each year, meaning the lifetime license holder purchased these privileges separately and annually each year. On January 1, 2014 the Commission increased the value of hunting and fishing licenses by including all of the privileges listed above in the price of the license. At that time, the lifetime license privileges were amended to include all of the privileges listed above; a total savings of $68.75 each year. The Department does not support the concept of dedicating special big game tags for lifetime license holders. Arizona's big game populations are not as robust as in many other states, mostly attributable to the arid climate. Arizona's populations are much lower and the demand for the big game tags the Department offers is very high. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of persons and not to provide an advantage to certain classes. As a result, the Commission does not believe that any class of persons should be awarded or offered big game tags for which others are not eligible.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees that were amended or adopted, based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. It is important to note, hunting and fishing are voluntary recreational activities and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission anticipated the new, simplified license structure would benefit persons regulated by the rule due to the increased value. While other licenses that were previously available prior to December 31, 2013 were either repealed or the fee increased, the three lifetime license fees were not increased, providing a greater benefit to current and future lifetime license holders.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the hunting and/or fishing privileges for the three lifetime licenses, application requirements, and fees for lifetime licenses. The Department issues a combined total of 347 lifetime licenses on an annual basis. Prior to January 1, 2014, the lifetime fishing and lifetime combination hunting and fishing licenses did not include simultaneous fishing, community, and Colorado River fishing privileges. In addition, the previous lifetime fishing license did not include trout privileges. A person who desired any or all of these additional privileges had to purchase them separately on an annual basis, with the exception of trout fishing privileges which could be purchased either annually or for a lifetime. When the rule was adopted, the Commission included these additional privileges in the license and also granted persons issued a lifetime license prior to the effective date of the rule change the same privileges applicable to the new lifetime license. The public benefits from a rule that enables a person to obtain a hunting and/or fishing license that lasts a lifetime for a nominal fee. The Department benefits from a rule that enables the long-term funding of Arizona's Wildlife Conservation programs. The dollars derived from the sale of these special licenses are deposited into the established Arizona Wildlife Endowment Fund from which only the interest accrued will be used for management programs. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-211 as follows:

- Incorporate the requirements of the Benefactor License; R12-4-212 Benefactor License will be repealed with the same rulemaking.
- Clarify the privileges included with the lifetime license do not include permit-tags, nonpermit-tags, or any stamp required to validate the lifetime license for the take of big game animals, migratory game birds, or other wildlife authorized by an applicable tag or stamp. This change is in response to customer comments received by the Department.
- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by February 2021.

R12-4-212. BENEFACTOR LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-335.01, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the hunting and fishing privileges for the benefactor combination hunting and fishing license, application requirements, and fee. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. Arizona's lifetime general hunting and fishing license program provides a unique opportunity for resident sportsmen and sportswomen to participate in the long-term funding of Arizona's Wildlife Conservation programs. The dollars derived from the sale of the benefactor license is deposited into the established Arizona Wildlife Endowment Fund from which only the interest accrued will be used for management programs. In addition, the difference between the cost of the lifetime combination hunting and fishing license and the cost of the benefactor combination hunting and fishing license is considered a donation and may be tax deductible to the extent allowed by federal and state income tax statutes for contributions to qualifying tax-exempt organizations. The purchaser of a benefactor license is entitled to hunt and fish in Arizona for their lifetime, even if the license holder moves out-of-state. In addition, a benefactor license holder who moved out-of-state is not subject to the limits placed on nonresident permit-tags. The benefactor combination hunting and fishing license is valid state-wide for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game and the take of all aquatic wildlife, allows simultaneous fishing, and includes community program fishing privileges.

Fee for the lifetime benefactor combination hunting and fishing license is $1,500.

On an annual basis, the Department issues five lifetime benefactor combination hunting and fishing licenses.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. It is important to note, hunting and fishing are voluntary recreational activities and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission anticipated the new, simplified license structure would benefit persons regulated by the rule due to the increased value. While other licenses that were previously available prior to December 31, 2013 were either repealed or the fee increased, the lifetime benefactor license fees were not increased, providing a greater benefit to current and future benefactor license holders.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes establish the hunting and fishing privileges for the benefactor combination hunting and fishing license, application requirements, and fee. The Department issues five benefactor licenses on an annual basis. Prior to January 1, 2014, the benefactor combination hunting and fishing license did not include simultaneous fishing, trout, community, and Colorado River fishing privileges. 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to repeal R12-4-212 and incorporate the requirements of the Benefactor License into R12-4-211 Lifetime Licenses.

Subject to the evaluation of the economic, small business and consumer impact of any proposed amendments, the Department anticipates submitting a Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by February 2021.

R12-4-213. HUNT PERMIT-TAGS AND NONPERMIT-TAGS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-345, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements to validate a license for the take a big game animal or any other wildlife requiring a valid tag. The rule was adopted to establish permit-tag and nonpermit-tag requirements. Because tags are issued by the season and the Department no longer issues a hunting or combination hunting and fishing license that is valid for the calendar year (expires on December 31 of each year), the Commission believed the rule was necessary.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

Written Comment: April 10, 2014. I believe Arizona should consider conservation permits; these permits could be auctioned annually to create a large amount of money to directly benefit each species individually. Please open the link below to see how Utah structures these permits/ programs. <https://wildlife.utah.gov/hunting-in-utah/hunting-information/big-game/118-hunting/big-game/839-conservationpermitprogram.html>

Agency Response: Under A.R.S. § 17-346, the Commission is authorized to award ten Special Big Game License Tags to the Arizona Big Game Super Raffle for the purpose of conducting a raffle. The Arizona Big Game Super Raffle is a 501(c)(3) organization founded in 2006. These special license tags are designed to earn money for wildlife and wildlife management in Arizona. Raffle entries come from all 50 states and other countries; and every dollar raised for each species by the raffle of these special big game tags is returned to the Arizona Game and Fish Department and managed by the Arizona Habitat Partnership Committee for that particular species. With input from local habitat partners across the state, as well as the input from the organizations involved with the fundraising, they collectively determine which projects will provide the most benefit to each species represented. Since, 2006, the raffle has given the Arizona Game and Fish Department almost $6,000,000 for habitat improvements that benefit wildlife.

Written Comment: June 14, 2017. This is the second time I have appealed to the Department requesting a family tag (deer, elk, etc.) be made available to hunters. I never received a response. When asking for input from the public, please include an email address on the announcement where we can respond in the event we are unable to attend the public hearings.

Agency Response: Currently, the computer draw process allows four applicants to apply for a specific hunt on one application. Approximately four weeks after deadline day, the draw is run by computer. There are three separate passes made during a computer draw. The first is for hunters with maximum bonus points for first and second choices, the second is the “regular pass” for first and second choices, and the third is for third, fourth and fifth choices. Each application is assigned a random number. A person receives an additional random number for each bonus point for that particular genus (bonus points for group applications are averaged). The lowest of all random numbers is the one assigned to the application for that genus for the draw. When the computer draws a group application, it first determines whether there are enough permit-tags available for all members of the group. If there are not enough permit-tags for everyone in the group, the application is rejected and the computer draw goes onto the application with the next lowest random number. Amending the rule to allow more persons to apply on a group application could result in all persons not being drawn. However, a large group can apply for hunts by submitting multiple applications.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees that were amended or adopted, based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. Some tag fees were increased, while others were reduced. In addition, fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value to eliminate the possibility of rejecting an application because the applicant failed to include the odd cents with the application. The Commission anticipated increasing some fees will most significantly affect persons regulated by the rule, both resident and nonresident. However, hunting is a voluntary recreational activity and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity requiring the necessary permit-tag or nonpermit-tag will pay the increased fee. The Commission did not anticipate the fee increase would significantly affect a person's ability to practice an activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The effective date for the license fee increases is January 1, 2014, which is seven years from the time of the last over-all fee increase.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes that a person may apply for a hunt permit-tag in accordance with R12-4-104 and at the times, locations, and in the manner established by the hunt permit tag application schedule that the Department publishes at www.azgfd.gov or a license dealer. The public benefits from a rule that establishes permit-tag and non-permit tag requirements. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish apprentice license privileges and mentor requirements by rule to comply with the recent statutory amendments. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The apprentice license is a tool for recruitment that provides both youth and adult novice hunters the opportunity to hunt under the supervision of a licensed hunter; these programs allow apprentice hunters to receive hands-on experience. Apprentice license privileges and mentor requirements were previously prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333. The apprentice license is a complimentary license and is valid for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game birds. The apprentice license is valid for the take of migratory game birds and waterfowl provided the license holder also possesses the applicable state and federal stamp. The apprentice license is not valid for the take of big game.

The apprentice license is free of charge to eligible applicants.

The Department issues an average of 50 resident and 25 nonresident complimentary apprentice licenses on an annual basis.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. The Commission's objectives for amending the license rules were to simplify the license structure and remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers. The apprentice license is a tool for recruitment that provides both youth and adult novice hunters the opportunity to hunt under the supervision of a licensed hunter; these programs allow apprentice hunters to receive hands-on experience. This concept is called "Try Before You Buy." However, the Department believes certain persons are using the apprentice license to avoid buying a hunting license. To date, the Department has issued 293 apprentice licenses. Of those licenses: five nonresidents were issued an apprentice license each year for three consecutive years at the start of dove season; eleven nonresidents were issued an apprentice license two consecutive years at the start of dove season; and three residents were issued an apprentice license twice in a three year period, also at the start of dove season. To prevent the abuse of this complimentary license, the Department proposes to limit the number of apprentice licenses a person may obtain to two per the person's lifetime. The Department believes the short-term combination hunting and fishing license is a valid option for persons who may want additional low cost opportunities to hunt and fish in Arizona. The Department also proposes to limit the number of hunters a person may mentor at any one time to two persons to promote hunter safety.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes apprentice license privileges and mentor requirements. The Department issues an average of 100 resident and 190 nonresident complimentary apprentice licenses on an annual basis. Apprentice license privileges and mentor requirements were previously prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333. The apprentice license is a complimentary license and is valid for the take of small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game birds. The Department believes the concept of an apprentice license would be beneficial to persons who would like to try fishing before buying a fishing license. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish an Apprentice Fishing License to assist in the recruitment of both youth and adult novice anglers by providing an opportunity to fish under the supervision of a licensed angler. The public benefits from a rule that establishes a complimentary license that allows a person to experience hunting without having to purchase a license first. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department benefits from a rule that encourages hunter recruitment. The Department proposes to amend R12-4-214 as follows:

- Establish an apprentice fishing license to provide both youth and adult novice anglers the opportunity to fish without a license under the supervision of a licensed angler.
- Limit the number of apprentice licenses a person may obtain to two per the person's lifetime to maintain the intent of the license. The short-term combination hunting and fishing license is a valid option for persons who may want additional low cost opportunities to hunt and fish in Arizona.
- Limit the number of hunters a person may mentor at any one time to two persons to promote hunter safety.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by April 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish youth group two-day fishing license privileges and requirements by rule to comply with the recent statutory amendments. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. Youth group two-day fishing license privileges were previously prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333. The youth group two-day fishing license is issued to a nonprofit organization that sponsors adult supervised activities for groups of no more than 25 youth, ages 10 through 17. The youth group two-day fishing license is valid for taking all aquatic wildlife.

Fee for the youth group two-day fishing license is $25.

The Department issues 55 youth group two-day fishing licenses on an annual basis.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Commission anticipated establishing new license classifications and prescribing fees for those licenses, as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-333, would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. It is important to note, the fee for the youth group two-day fishing license was not changed. Fishing is a voluntary recreational activity and only those persons who choose to participate in the activity will pay the fee. The Commission did not anticipate the rulemaking would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in the activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this state related to that activity. The license fee increase was effective January 1, 2014, which was seven years after the last over-all fee increase.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted January 1, 2014.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish youth group two-day fishing license privileges and requirements by rule to comply with the recent statutory amendments. The Department issues 55 youth group two-day fishing licenses on an annual basis. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The youth group two-day fishing license privileges were amended to lower the minimum age for eligible youth from 14 to 10 and increase the maximum age for eligible youth from 14 to 17 to increase consistency between Commission fishing license rules. The public benefits from a rule that establishes a low-cost fishing license that allows a nonprofit organization or governmental entity to take up to 25 youth fishing. The Department benefits from a rule that promotes angler recruitment. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

- 13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule requires a general permit and is in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

R12-4-216. CROSSBOW PERMIT

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(3), 17-332, 17-301(D)(2), and 41-1005

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish eligibility requirements, conditions, and restrictions for the crossbow permit. The permit allows a person who cannot draw and hold a bow to use a crossbow during an archery-only hunt. The rule was adopted to provide a mechanism that afforded persons with a disability the opportunity to participate in hunting.

The crossbow permit (both temporary and lifetime) are free of charge to eligible applicants.

The Department issues an average of 1 lifetime crossbow permit and 85 temporary crossbow permits on an annual basis.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticisms of the rule:

Written Comment: July 16, 2013. The Department should allow the use of crossbows for all archery hunting opportunities. Many Arizonan's are getting older and having more difficulty drawing a compound bow back to full draw at the minimum draw weight. This would also provide more opportunity to hunters and generate more revenue for the Arizona Game and Fish Department.

Written Comment: April 14, 2014. I would like to suggest that people 70 years of age and older be permitted to use a crossbow during archery seasons.

Written Comment: July 28, 2014. It would be nice to allow the use of a crossbow for a person 70 years and older during bow season.

Written Comment: January 7, 2015. Arizona should allow deer hunting with a crossbow during archery season for everyone. The current crossbow disability rules are ridiculous. Stop forcing us to go to the many other states that allow crossbow hunting and spending our money there instead of at home.

Written Comment: January 7, 2015. Crossbows for Archery. Some of us do not qualify for the handicapped rules but with shoulder injuries that still cannot draw even today's 80% drop off compounds.

Written Comment: July 1, 2015. I think crossbow should be able to be used during archery seasons for senior citizens over 65.

Written Comment: November 8, 2016. I would like to see those that have Pioneer License be able to use a crossbow when hunting without a physical exam for disability.

Agency Response: The Department disagrees. Crossbows generally fire with higher levels of kinetic energy, more speed and greater accuracy, providing an advantage to a hunter who uses a crossbow over one that uses a bow and arrow. At this time, crossbows may be used during general season for the take of big game, small game, predators, furbearers, nongame, and the handgun, archery and muzzleloader (HAM) season for the take of javelina. In addition, a person with a crossbow permit issued under R12-4-216 may use a crossbow during an archery-only hunt. The Department does not believe that any class of individuals (persons of a certain age) should be afforded preferential treatment.

Written Comment: February 1, 2016. You may have already heard about the new arrow shooting airgun from Crosman, called the Benjamin "Pioneer Airbow" (press release copied below). It made its debut at ATA show just after the first of the year, and set social media ablaze for a few days, then at SHOT last week the interest was almost overwhelming. The weapon is basically an adaptation of the .35 cal. Bulldog PCP airgun. It shoots a full-length 26-inch 375 grain arrow at 450 feet-per-second, each and every shot due to an internal metering system. And, it actually shoots arrows more accurately than the Bulldog shoots slugs - "robin hoods" are a common occurrence out to 50 yards. I have been testing a prototype of the airbow that is very close to what the final production model will be. They are scheduled to start shipping in April, and Crosman has a pile of pre-orders. I showed the airbow to Dan Diamond and Dave Cagle in the Pinetop office, with somewhat mixed reaction. It's my contention that since it is a .35 cal. PCP airgun adapted to shoot arrows, and since AZ regulations do not specify requirements for the projectile, that this should be legal for hunting where PCP airguns are allowed. Dan questioned that it is not marked .35 cal. externally, and Crosman says this will be corrected on the final production version. I have a general javelina hunt later this month, and I hope to use this remarkable new weapon on that hunt. We also discussed that Crosman is targeting crossbow seasons with this new weapon, as it is more accurate, faster and more lethal, easier to load, unload and handle, and much safer than a crossbow. I believe this weapon to be an excellent alternative for disabled hunters or those with physical limitations that prevent them from cocking and using a crossbow (at least in a safe manner). I spoke with Celeste Cook regarding the possibility of clarifying the legality of this new weapon, since article 3 is open once again for changes. Here's what I would like to see addressed: 1) clarification so it's easily understood that the airbow is legal for use where PCP airguns are legal. 2) consideration for classification of the new airbow as a crossbow, so it can be used by disabled hunters with a legitimate crossbow permit. 3) modification of rule 3

(and also rule 2 if necessary) to allow the take of elk with the airbow (during general hunts, where .35 cal. PCP airguns are not currently legal). You may recall the EEE chart we developed in 2012 when regulations for hunting with airguns were being developed. I have attached an updated version of this chart, which includes both the airbow and modern crossbow. Finally, I would welcome the opportunity to demonstrate the airbow for you, as well as any of the other commissioners and G&F personnel that may be interested. There's a good possibility that I will have a couple of airbows available for hands-on demonstration at the Outdoor Expo at Ben Avery April 1-2. Rob Potter with Shoot Right American club has invited me to do so at his booth, and I should have an actual production model by then. Additional Follow-up Comment: August 8, 2016. I sent the email copied below back in February regarding the new arrow shooting airgun, and intended to follow-up since I did not hear back from you. Unfortunately, we were unable to get the necessary approvals to demonstrate the Pioneer Airbow at the Expo in April, and time flies by... I see the Commissioners will be meeting in Pinetop this month (8/26-27), and I plan to submit a blue card to speak about the Airbow and current airgun hunting regulations at this meeting. I will have one at the meeting on Friday for the Commissioners to review, and possibly shoot -- if we can get this cleared with the Pinetop office (we can probably set up a 20-30 yard range behind the office if anyone wants to try the Airbow, possible at the lunch break or after the meeting). And, I can be available for demonstrations/questions, etc. on Saturday as well if necessary. I think addressing this new weapon class is important for several reasons. There are now more than a dozen arrow shooting airguns marketed in the US, and some have greater utility as hunting weapons (safer and more lethal) than others. Also, last week Air Venturi announced they are now marketing specially adapted arrows that can be launched from virtually any .50 caliber airgun. Thus, there's no question AZGFD will be encountering more arrow launchers in the field.

Agency Response: The Commission is currently amending rules within Article 3, which addresses the taking and handling of wildlife, to allow a Crossbow Permit holder to use a pre-charged pneumatic weapon, as defined under R12-4-301, using bolts or arrows and with a capacity of holding and firing only one arrow or bolt at a time during an archery-only season. This change is proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

Written Comment: February 10, 2015. I am not handicapped but my father is. I have had the pleasure of hunting with him my entire life and have seen how hard it has become for him to even get within shooting range with a rifle. In one particular year we had the chance meeting with a father and son hunter, where the son was severely handicapped and was not expected to live another three years. That young man was 16 at the time and I suspect that he has now passed as it was five years ago. Both of these hunts were right after a major muzzleloader hunt in 6A and even seeing an animal was rare as both parties were confined to road hunting. The boy was completely chair bound and my father can walk a couple of hundred yards at best in an hour. How do we as hunters and humans expect these people to have half a chance if we don't even give them a 10% chance to start. I would like to see these hunts moved in front of the rifle hunts and give them that half a chance. It also wouldn't hurt if you allowed the animals a few days to settle down after each hunt either. So many other states have hunts that do this, why shouldn't we. It seems only fair to game more so than the hunters.

Agency Response: The Department appreciates your comments and suggestions. Your comment relates to the Department's hunt guidelines and was forwarded to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Branch for consideration during the next hunt guideline evaluation process.

The rule was amended to define "healthcare provider" to reduce the regulatory burden on the applicant; establish a temporary crossbow permit for applicants who are temporarily disabled to reduce the regulatory burden on the applicant; allow the Department to issue a crossbow permit to a person who holds a valid Challenged Hunter Access/Mobility Permit (CHAMP); and expand the list of qualifying medical conditions. The Commission anticipated persons who apply for a crossbow permit would benefit from the proposed amendments that expand the medical eligibility criteria and allow a person to apply for a temporary crossbow permit. The Commission anticipated the amendments would result in an overall benefit to persons regulated by the rule, members of the public, and the Department.

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish eligibility requirements, conditions, and restrictions for the Challenged Hunter Access/Mobility Permit (CHAMP). The permit allows a disabled person to perform activities while hunting normally prohibited under A.R.S. § 17-301. The rule was adopted to provide a mechanism that afforded persons with a disability the opportunity to participate in hunting.

The CHAMP is free of charge to eligible applicants.

The Department issues an average of one CHAMP on an annual basis.

7. Summary of written criticisms of the rule received in last five years including any written analyses submitted to the agency questioning whether the rule is based on valid scientific or reliable principles or methods.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: August 20, 2013. I think the CHAMP rule needs to be looked at. There are people who enjoy hunting and are very limited too. They should be able to qualify for the CHAMP; such as people who have COPD, CHF, and other similar limiting health issues. Imagine a person who takes an deer or elk, they could die trying to get it back to their truck on foot, but if they were missing a foot, arm, or leg - they could use their quad to retrieve that deer or elk. The requirements are not fair. The CHAMP should cover more than just handicapped hunters. Just because I have both arms and legs, does not mean I am not just as limited. I used to walk 15 to 20 miles a day, scouting and hunting. Now it takes me all day just to cover a couple of miles. I called the Department to ask about the CHAMP and the person I spoke to told me to get one of my children to take me hunting. That is the last thing I want; to have lean on or burden my children. My daughter is 15, if something happened to me - how would she drag me out of the woods. The second person I spoke to suggested that I write in and bring this to the Department's attention. Maybe no one has ever looked at it this way before, maybe it could be put on the agenda and voted on when considering new regulations.

Agency Response: On January 3, 2015, the CHAMP rule was amended to expand the list of qualifying medical conditions to include one or more permanent physical or mental disabilities resulting from amputation, arthritis, autism, blindness, burn injury, cancer, cerebral palsy, cystic fibrosis, intellectual disability, muscular dystrophy, musculoskeletal disorders, neurological disorders, paraplegia, pulmonary disorders, quadriplegia and other spinal cord conditions, sickle cell anemia, and end stage renal disease or a combination of permanent disabilities resulting in comparable substantial functional limitations.

The rule was amended to define "healthcare provider" to reduce the regulatory burden on the applicant; expand the list of persons authorized to complete the medical certification portion of the application; and expand the list of qualifying medical conditions. The Commission anticipated persons who apply for a CHAMP would benefit from the proposed amendments that expand the medical eligibility criteria. A certificate of noncompliance with a child support order issued pursuant to section 25-518 invalidates any license or proof of purchase issued to the support obligor for taking wildlife in this state and prohibits the support obligor from applying for any additional licenses issued by an automated drawing system under this title.

C. On receipt of a certificate of compliance with a child support order from the court pursuant to section 25-518 and without further action:

1. Any license or proof of purchase issued to the support obligor for taking wildlife that was previously invalidated by a certificate of noncompliance and that has not otherwise expired shall be reinstated.
2. Any ineligibility to apply for any license issued by an automated drawing system shall be removed.

17-332. Form and content of license; duplicate licenses; transfer of license prohibited; exceptions; period of validity.

A. Licenses and license materials shall be prepared by the department and may be furnished and charged to dealers that are authorized to issue licenses. Each license shall be issued in the name of the department and signed in a manner provided by rule adopted by the commission. With each license authorizing the taking of big game, the department shall provide such tags as the commission may prescribe, which the licensee shall attach to the big game animal in the manner prescribed by the commission. The commission shall limit the number of big game permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing to ten percent or fewer of the total hunt permits, but in extraordinary circumstances, at a public meeting the commission may increase the number of permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing if, on separate roll call votes, the members of the commission unanimously:

If a child with a physical disability is under fourteen years of age, the child must satisfactorily complete the Arizona hunter education course or another comparable hunter education course that is approved by the director.

Each month, on notification by the department, the state treasurer shall pay all of the monies in the clearing account to an account designated by a multi-county county water conservation district established under title 48, chapter 22 to be used solely for the lower Colorado river multispecies conservation program and for no other purpose.

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION (F19-0615)

Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 1, Definitions and General Provisions

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: ARIZONA GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT
Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 1, Definitions and General Provisions

This five year review report (5YRR) from the Arizona Game and Fish Department (Department) relates to all Sections of Title 12, Chapter 4, Article 1 related to definitions and general provisions.

In its prior 5YRR, approved by this Council on April 1, 2014, the Department stated it anticipated submitting final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action by undergoing an exempt rulemaking in October 2013 and regular rulemaking which was approved by this Council on November 3, 2015 and became effective December 4, 2015.

Proposed Action

The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by April 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in the Department's report to the Council by July 2020.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Department has cited to both general and specific authority for the rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The Commission has determined that the economic impact of Article 1 does not differ significantly from what was originally determined by the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement (EIS) from the most recent rulemaking in 2015. The Commission notes that R12-4-122 and R12-4-123 were last amended in 2006, and no EIS was available.

The stakeholders include the Commission, the Department, the General Accounting Office, the Department of Revenue, outdoor recreation businesses, and the public.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Commission indicates that the rules require numerous amendments. Once the amendments are completed, the rules will impose the least burden and costs to those regulated by the rules.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

Yes. The Department has received numerous written criticisms of the rules over the last five years. These written criticisms are listed in more detail in the Department's report. The Department has adequately responded to these written criticisms.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

The Department indicates that the rules are generally clear, concise, and understandable except for the following:

R12-4-101:

- The terms "import" and "export" typically mean something being brought into or taken out of the country. For the purposes of the Department's rules, "import and export" mean something is being brought into or taken out of the State. The Department proposes to amend the rules to define "export" and "import" to reduce regulatory ambiguity.
- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "animal" with "wildlife" to make the rule more concise.
- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

R12-4-102:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

R12-4-104:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website URL and simply reference “Department’s website” to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department’s URL should change.
- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “buffalo” with “bison” to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website URL and simply reference “Department’s website” to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department’s URL should change.

R12-4-118:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website URL and simply reference “Department’s website” to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department’s URL should change.

R12-4-124:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to define “current address” and clarify rule language to make the rule more concise

The Department indicates that the rules are generally consistent with other rules and statutes except for the following:

R12-4-101:

- Because the terms “cervid,” “nonprofit organization,” and “person” are used in multiple rules, the Department proposes to amend the rules to define these terms under R12-4-101.

- The Department proposes to define “Arizona Hunter Education Certification” and “Hunter Education Certification to reflect amendments proposed to R12-4-107 and increase consistency between rules.
- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “antelope” with “pronghorn antelope” to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

R12-4-102:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “antelope” with “pronghorn antelope” to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

R12-4-104:

- The Department proposes to amend this rule to reflect changes made to R12-4-107 (bonus point system)

R12-4-105:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove language referencing the 5% commission and allow license dealers to collect and retain a reasonable fee to align the rule with amended A.R.S. § 17-338.

R12-4-106:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the references to “permit” with “license” for the aquatic wildlife stocking license to increase consistency between Commission rules.

R12-4-107:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “antelope” with “pronghorn antelope” to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

R12-4-114:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “antelope” with “pronghorn antelope” to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

R12-4-116:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to “antelope” with “pronghorn antelope” to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.
- The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish the reward payments to be paid for information received regarding attendant acts of vandalism pursuant to A.R.S. § 17-315(B)(1).

R12-4-120:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference the hunt permit-tag transfer established under R12-4-121.

The Department indicates that the rules are generally effective in achieving its objective except as follows:

R12-4-101:

- The Department proposes to amend rule to define “bow,” “crossbow,” and “handgun,” which are used in multiple Department rules and Commission Orders.

R12-4-107:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify that any bonus point that is fraudulently obtained, whether purchased or accrued, shall be removed from the person’s Department record.

R12-4-120:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify the organization shall submit the winning bidder’s license information to the Department within 90 days of the close of the raffle or auction.
- In an effort to maintain the integrity of the auction and raffle and make the auction and raffle process more transparent, the Department proposes to amend the rule to establish measures designed to prevent the abuse of tags sales and transfers.

R12-4-122:

- The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the donation of bear and mountain lion meat to public institutions and charitable organizations in compliance with A.R.S. § 17-240 and to ensure edible game meat is not wasted.

R12-4-124:

- The Department is aware of instances where a person has attempted to sue outdated documents to prove residency. For example, because the rule does not specify the document needs to be current and contain a valid address, an expired driver license with an old address may be used as proof of domicile. This makes residency requirements more difficult to enforce. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to present a valid document that contains a current address.
- There are times where more than one document is needed to fully establish a person’s domicile. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that more than one document may be required to fully establish the persons’ domicile.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Department indicates that the rules are enforced as written. However, the Department proposes the following amendments to increase enforcement:

R12-4-105:

- A person may purchase hunting and fishing licenses online, using the Department's online license sales system. This means any person can sell the Department's licenses, which is unlawful under A.R.S. § 17-334. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a person who is not authorized to sell licenses on behalf of the Department is prohibited from selling Department-issued hunting and fishing licenses.

R12-4-110:

- The Department is aware of ongoing issues with illegally locked gate in certain areas of the state. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that, although a person may close State Land to hunting, fishing, and trapping; a person may not deny lawful access to State Land.

R12-4-124:

- When a person is cited by a member of law enforcement, the officer writes down the address given by the person. There is no follow-up action taken to ensure the address is valid and this address may continue to be used throughout the court process. For this reason, the Department proposes to remove a certified copy of a court order from the list of acceptable proof of domicile.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

To the extent federal law is applicable to these rules, the rules are not more stringent than federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

The rules require a general permit and are in compliance with the requirements prescribed under A.R.S. § 41-1037.

9. Conclusion

The rules are generally clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective. However, the Department's proposed amendments will make the rules more clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective. While the rules are generally enforced as written, the Department has identified several amendments that would improve enforcement. The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by April 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in the Department's report to the Council by July 2020. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

REPORT: ARTICLE 1. DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

Under A.R.S. § 41-1056, every agency shall review its rules at least once every five years to determine whether any rule should be amended or repealed. Each agency shall prepare a report summarizing its findings, its supporting reasons, any proposed course of action, and obtain approval of the report from the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (G.R.R.C.).

G.R.R.C. determines the review schedule. The Arizona Game and Fish Commission's rules listed under Article 1, Definitions and General Provisions, are scheduled to be reviewed by April 2019.

The Arizona Game and Fish Department (Department) tasked a team of employees to review the rules contained within Article 1. The Department prepared a report of its findings based on G.R.R.C. standards. In its report, the review team addressed all internal comments from agency staff as well as comments received from the public. The team took a customer-focused approach, considering each comment from a resource perspective and determining whether the request would cause undue harm to the state's wildlife or negatively affect the Department's wildlife objectives. The review team then determined whether the request was consistent with the Department's overall mission, if it could be effectively implemented given agency resources, and if it was acceptable to the public.

The Department anticipates requesting an exception to the rulemaking moratorium by April 2019 and submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking for actions proposed in this report to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

With this report, the Department also certifies its compliance with the requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1091:

1. The Department publishes an annual directory summarizing the subject matter of all currently applicable rules and substantive policy statements;
2. The Department maintains a copy of the directory and all substantive policy statements at the Arizona Game and Fish Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086;
3. The Department includes the notice specified under A.R.S. § 41-1091(B) on the first page of each substantive policy statement; and
4. The Department provides the directory, rules, substantive policy statements, and any other material incorporated by reference in the directory, rules or substantive policy statements. These documents are open to public inspection at the Department Headquarters, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086.

R12-4-101. DEFINITIONS

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish definitions that assist the persons regulated by the rule and members of the public in understanding the unique terms that are used throughout 12 A.A.C. Chapter 4. The rule was adopted to facilitate consistent interpretation and to prevent the persons regulated by the rule from misinterpreting the intent of Commission rules.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to define terms used in multiple Game and Fish Commission rules and Commission Orders: "bow," "crossbow," and "handgun." Defining these terms will aid in facilitating a consistent interpretation of Commission Orders and rules.

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

Because the terms "cervid," "nonprofit organization," and "person" are used in multiple Game and Fish Commission rules, the Department proposes to amend the rule to define these terms under R12-4-101.

The Department proposes to define "Arizona Hunter Education Certification" and "Hunter Education Certification" to reflect amendments proposed to R12-4-107 (bonus point system) and increase consistency between Commission rules.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The Department enforces this rule through proper administration. The rule is currently being enforced as written. Providing definitions for the unique terms used within Commission rules assists the public, Department personnel, and members of law enforcement in understanding the content and intent of Commission rules.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The terms "import" and "export" typically mean something is being brought into or taken out of the country, respectively. For the purposes of Game and Fish Commission rules, "import" and "export" mean something is being brought into or taken out of the State. The Department proposes to amend the rule to define "export" and "import" to reduce regulatory ambiguity. These changes are proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.

The Commission proposes to amend the rule to replace references "animal" with "wildlife" to make the rule more concise.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: August 11, 2013. Has the Department defined "edible portions of game meat" and

"waste"? I cannot locate a definition for either anywhere in the regulations. Also, if the Department has not already defined these terms, please do so in order to inform hunters, Department officers, and court personnel of what is meant? Wyoming seems to have very useful definitions for these two terms that could be considered for adoption within Arizona.

Agency Response: A.R.S. 17-340(A)(7) defines edible portions of game meat; however, this definition does not address edible portions of mountain lion or bear. The Commission is pursuing rulemaking to amend R12-4-301 to define "edible portions of game meat" as part of the Article 3. Taking and Handling of Wildlife rulemaking: "Edible portions of game meat" means, for: Upland game birds, migratory game birds and wild turkey: breast. Bear, bighorn sheep, bison, deer, elk, javelina, mountain lion, and pronghorn antelope: front quarters, hind quarters, loins (backstraps), neck meat, and tenderloins. Game fish: fillets of the fish. Most dictionaries define "waste" as "to fail or neglect to use." The Department believes the common definition of the term "waste" is sufficient.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to clarify the Commission's interpretation of "day-long;" define "person," "proof of purchase," "adult bull buffalo," "adult cow buffalo," "rooster," and "yearling buffalo;" and remove the text, "excluding male lambs." The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule and the Department would benefit from the rulemaking that creates or refines terms referenced throughout Commission rules as they help to clarify the Commission's intent and foster consistent interpretation of Commission rules.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The public benefits from a rule that defines terms referenced throughout Commission rules as they help to clarify the Commission's intent and foster consistent interpretation of Commission rules. Providing definitions for the unique terms used within Commission rules assists the public, Department personnel, and members of law enforcement in understanding the content and intent of Commission rules. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-101 as follows:

- Define "Arizona Hunter Education Certification" and "Hunter Education Certification" to reflect amendments proposed to R12-4-107 (bonus point system) and increase consistency between Commission rules.
- Define terms used in multiple Game and Fish Commission rules and Commission Orders: "bow," "cervid," "crossbow," "export," "handgun," "import," "nonprofit organization," and "person" to clarify the Commission's intent and foster consistent interpretation of Commission rules. These changes are proposed as a result of customer comments received by the Department.
- Replace references to "animal" with "wildlife" to make the rule more concise.
- Replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.
- Replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-102. LICENSE, PERMIT, STAMP, AND TAG FEES

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-333, 17-335.01, 17-342, 17-345, and 41-1005

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to prescribe fees for licenses, tags, stamps, and permits within statutory confines to meet Department operating expenditures and wildlife conservation. The rule was adopted to provide the persons regulated by the rule with a comprehensive listing of license, permit, stamp, and tag fees and to ensure consistency between the fees collected by the Department and license dealers.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

The Department received the following written criticism(s) of the rule:

Written Comment: June 12, 2013. I would like the Department to institute a pricing plan for seniors. This would include a prorated fee, provided the Department maintains the January through December licenses. For example, it is mid-June and I would like to buy a fishing license, but do not want to pay the full fee for half the benefits. I cannot afford to buy a fishing license and the annual Tonto parking pass in January.

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. The current fee structure serves the best interest of the public and the Department for preserving and protecting Arizona's wildlife. In 2014, the rules were amended to offer licenses that are valid for one-year from the date of purchase. Previously, most licenses were valid for the calendar year (January 1 through December 31), which gave the perception that the license had less value when purchased later in the year. The Department and Commission are currently reviewing requests such as yours and contemplating the best way to offer benefits to seniors and maintain the critical funding necessary to properly manage the state's wildlife. The Commission will again seek public input before making any change to the current license structure or fees. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Comment: October 8, 2014. I previously lived in Oregon where a resident with five or more years of residency and over the age of 70 was eligible to purchase a combination hunting and fishing license for one-half the usual cost. I would like to see the Arizona Game and Fish Department offer a reduced license or complimentary license to eligible persons who meet the criteria I described above.

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. The Department offers a variety of inexpensive fishing opportunities: a one-day fishing license, a group license, fishing clinics, and Free Fishing Days. These are all no cost or low cost opportunities for persons to fish in Arizona. When the new license structure was established, the Commission also increased the value of the fishing license. For example, the resident general fishing license includes trout, two-pole, community fishing privileges and Colorado River privileges for a $37 fee. Previously, a resident had to purchase all of these additional privileges separately for a combined total cost of $69.75 (class A fishing license $23.50, Urban fishing license $18.50, trout stamp $15.75, two-pole stamp $6, and Arizona/California and Arizona/Nevada Colorado River stamps $6). The Department and Commission are currently reviewing requests such as yours and contemplating the best way to offer benefits to seniors and maintain the critical funding necessary to properly manage the state's wildlife. The Commission will again seek public input before making any change to the current license structure or fees. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Comment: October 9, 2014. Since crayfish are an invasive species, I suggest the Department remove the fishing license requirement or offer a low cost option for harvesting them. I would love to help out with this but the fishing license is too expensive. Can you help?

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. When the new license structure was established, the Commission also increased the value of the fishing license. For example, the resident general fishing license includes trout, two-pole, community fishing privileges and Colorado River privileges for a $37 fee. Previously, a resident had to purchase all of these additional privileges separately for a combined total cost of $69.75 (class A fishing license $23.50, Urban fishing license $18.50, trout stamp $15.75, two-pole stamp $6, and Arizona/California and Arizona/Nevada Colorado River stamps $6). When you consider crayfish sell for an average of $5 per pound, the ability to catch them year-round for only $37 is a great value. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Comment: January 8, 2015. Tag fees keep increasing each year, while I understand this is needed to keep the Department funded; the increase is starting to price out lower waged workers who do not have the extra funds to afford to hunt. While this does not apply to me, I know people who cannot afford to hunt because of the cost of the tags. Licenses should run calendar year, not from date of purchase year. Increase predator hunting awareness and offer bounties for specific species in areas where predators are a large problem. Increase black powder hunting opportunities, I have watched the numbers of available permits decrease each year for hunting black powder to the point where it's almost not worth owning a black powder anymore. Even offering a ten % increase in black powder hunts and taking that ten % from the other hunts would greatly increase black powder hunting opportunities. Due to very high demand for Kaibab deer hunts, when someone has a successful draw for Kaibab or the Strip they should be excluded from putting in for five to seven years. I know someone who has put in for the past nine years and been drawn three times, while others have put in for over 20 years and never been drawn. Require Hunter Education for all hunters going into Kaibab. Wolves do not need to be here, none the less managed by the federal government. If they are in Arizona, they need to be managed by the Department not the federal government.

Agency Response: The fee increase in 2014 was the first increase since 2007; and when those fees were established, the Commission made a commitment to sportsmen not to raise fees again for five years. The Commission exceeded that commitment despite having to navigate the challenges posed by the economic downturn and increasing costs. License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. In 2014, the rules were amended to offer licenses that are valid for one-year from the date of purchase. Previously, most licenses were valid for the calendar year (January 1 through December 31), which gave the perception that the license had less value when purchased later in the year. This change was made as a result of customer comments received by the Department. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states. The Department conducts public outreach (awareness campaigns) regarding all game animals that may be lawfully taken on an almost daily basis throughout the entire state. The Commission does not have the authority or desire to offer bounties for any game animal. Department biologists and Regional offices responsible for the management of a specific unit submit data concerning wildlife and wildlife habitat to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Program. The Terrestrial Wildlife Program then uses this data to formulate hunting seasons, which are included in the hunt recommendations provided to the Commission. Commission Orders establishing hunt structures are based on hunt recommendations resulting from an extensive public process. Your comment regarding muzzleloading hunts (black powder) was forwarded to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Branch for consideration during the next hunt guidelines review process. In 2014, the Department evaluated waiting periods (one, eight, and ten year) and determined that, except for youth hunts, implementing a wait period resulted in a projected increase in draw odds of .26 % (elk) to 6.3 % (late season deer) per applicant. The Commission determined implementing a waiting period would not be beneficial to persons who hunt in Arizona. Arizona has one of the lowest hunting accident rates in the country. The Department proactively encourages hunter education by requiring young hunters to complete a hunter education course and by providing a bonus point for adult hunters who complete the course. The Department believes the current mechanisms in place to encourage the completion of Arizona hunter education courses are sufficient and appropriate to maintain hunting safety in the field. The purpose of the Endangered Species Act (ESA) is to protect and recover imperiled species and the ecosystems upon which they depend. The Mexican Gray wolf is listed as endangered on the ESA Threatened and Endangered Species List; "endangered" means a species is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. Under 16 U.S.C. § 1531 et seq., the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is responsible for administering the ESA as it applies to terrestrial wildlife. The Department is involved in the wolf recovery program to ensure federal agencies coordinate their activities with the Department, which ensures the best management outcome possible for all of Arizona's wildlife.

Written Comment: February 5, 2015. We are headed to Arizona for a few weeks this month and I thought I might fish for a few days. I checked online to purchase a nonresident short-term fishing license. It was too expensive and not competitive with all other western states; $20 per day is too much. Short term licenses in most surrounding states are one half to two thirds the cost for the first day and then a minimal charge for the second and third day. I will not fish in Arizona and Arizona will miss out on my license fee and what I would spent on bait, lures, flies, boat rentals, etc.

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. Previously, the Department offered a nonresident one-day fishing license for $17.25, a five-day nonresident fishing license for $32, and a four-month nonresident fishing license for $39.75, all of which included the trout stamp. In 2014, the nonresident short term license structure was simplified to one nonresident combination fishing and hunting license for $20 per day to make the system simpler, easier to understand, and more user friendly. While the cost of the daily license was increased by $2.75, the value of the license was enhanced by including two-pole, community, and Colorado River fishing privileges and small game, fur-bearing animal, predatory animal, nongame animal, and upland game bird hunting privileges. Previously, a nonresident had to purchase all of these additional privileges separately for a combined total cost of $109 (class D fishing license $17.25, Urban fishing license $18.50, two-pole stamp $6, Arizona/California and Arizona/Nevada Colorado River stamps $6, and nonresident three-day hunting license $61.25). The idea behind offering a single-day combination license is to encourage persons to hunt and fish in Arizona; with a combination license, a person visiting Arizona for the purpose of participating in the Yuma Dove Hunt may also enjoy spending an afternoon at a local fishing spot. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Comment: January 5, 2016. I am concerned about the increase in the lion population. Over the past three years, I have noted a significant rise in the lion population. While the Department's deer management reports notes deer population levels remain somewhat the same year after year, I cannot help but wonder why a substantial increase in mule deer numbers would have an adverse effect on Arizona's economy, wildlife habitat, or water consumption. An increase in deer numbers would allow more nonresidents an opportunity to hunt, increasing the Arizona's revenue from additional permits sold. Nonresidents pay higher fees for the opportunity to hunt in Arizona. Each year, a few lions are harvested north of the Colorado River and I would suggest they were harvested by bordering nonresidents. Who does the control of predators benefit the most? A resident who has a 90 % chance to draw a deer tag or a nonresident with a 10 % chance? Travel time, economic consideration, and a lack of knowledge may be the reasons residents do not take advantage of the recreational opportunity placed before them, it's only a $15 tag fee to hunt a lion. Arizona needs to encourage more nonresident recreational participation to hopefully keep the lion population from increasing. I suggest the Department reduce the nonresident lion fee to $15 (same amount residents pay). Arizona could also benefit from an increase in the nonresident class G licenses being sold, which would make up for the loss in revenue due to the lack of nonresidents hunting in Arizona. A fee reduction may also result in more nonresident mule deer draw permits, adding an additional $15 for each application requested. Consider how many nonresidents live within twenty miles of the Utah/Arizona border.

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. In 2014, the Department reduced the nonresident combination license to $160 (from $225) and the mountain lion tag to $75 (from $225). The Commission believed the fee reductions would encourage nonresidents, especially those closest to the Arizona border, to take advantage of the great recreational opportunities available in Arizona. The Commission also amended the nonresident license structure to only offer a nonresident combination license. For only $160, a nonresident can fish in all water bodies and hunt small game, fur-bearing animals, predatory animals, nongame animals, and upland game birds. For $75 more, the nonresident can purchase a mountain lion tag and still pay $215 less for that experience than they would have in 2013. Although nonresident fees are higher than resident fees, the Commission holds that it is in its best interest of the State to maintain opportunities for the resident community not only to generate revenue, but to instill a sense of ownership in the local wildlife resource and to maintain consistently available participation in the management of that resource. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Comment: February 15, 2017: I have a 26 year old developmentally delayed daughter that "loves" to fish. Well, once we get to the lake her love of fishing is over in about 30 minutes. It gets very expensive indulging in a license for her "very limited" time of having her pole in the water. Consider a free or reduced rate for these "special" individuals can enjoy this outdoor activity.

Agency Response: License, permit, stamp, and tag fees are set, through the Commission, utilizing a public process. The Department offers a variety of inexpensive fishing opportunities throughout the year: a one-day fishing license, a group license, fishing clinics, and Free Fishing Days. These are all no cost or low cost opportunities for persons to fish in Arizona. Still, a resident fishing license that is valid for one-year and includes trout, simultaneous fishing, community fishing, and Colorado River privileges for a $37 fee is an incredible value when you consider the average cost for one night at the movies for only one person is $18 (ticket $8, drink $4, and popcorn $6). The Department and Commission are currently reviewing requests such as yours and contemplating the best way to offer benefits to persons with disabilities and maintain the critical funding necessary to properly manage the state's wildlife. The Commission will again seek public input before making any change to the current license structure or fees. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

Written Criticism: August 3, 2018. The one negative aspect of the free Pioneer License is that the licensee must have been a resident of Arizona for 25 years. Most states have a provision for a senior license with no prescribed term of residency. In Kentucky, a person who is 65 can get a combination hunting and fishing license for only five dollars. In view of the fact that Arizona is reimbursed by the federal government for each license sold, and considering that many retirees moving to Arizona may want to fish but are unable to pay for the license as currently priced, I suggest Arizona establish a low-cost senior fishing license. I think many more licenses would be sold if seniors found the price more affordable and the community fishing program would be extensively utilized because many retirees have access to the municipal locations of these ponds. Retirees come from all over the nation and many of them would love to take their grandchildren fishing if they could obtain a low-cost license. I see no good reason a person over 70 years of age, such as myself, having retired in Arizona, being an avid fisherman and supporter of the Department in all its endeavors, should not be able to afford access to our magnificent fishing opportunities because of the cost of a necessary license. Perhaps a fee of five or ten dollars would be sufficient. I am certain many more licenses would be sold, adding to the revenue for the Department. Our seniors deserve a break even if they have not lived in Arizona for 25 years, as other states have recognized.

Agency Response: The requirements for the complimentary pioneer license are prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333(C)(1) effective August 3, 2018, which states an eligible applicant is a person seventy years of age or older. A legislative amendment is required before the Department may change the age requirement referenced in the rule. The Department and Commission are currently reviewing requests such as yours and contemplating the best way to offer benefits to seniors while maintaining the critical funding necessary to properly manage the state's wildlife. The Commission will again seek public input before making any change to the current license structure or fees. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

The following comments pertain to the Notice of Exempt Final Rulemaking, see 19 A.A.R. 3225, October 18, 2013:

Written Comment: July 7, 2013. The only thing the Department is accomplishing is charging more. I am not impressed with any of the changes.

Written Comment: July 14, 2013. I am an avid outdoorsman and have hunted and fished in Arizona my entire life. I have seven children and all of my kids like to hunt and fish. However, the cost to apply for licenses and tags are going up so much that I do not think I will be able to hunt in this state much longer. Nor will I be able to keep my kids (the future for wildlife) involved in hunting and fishing. Please consider other methods and keep the costs for hunting down. Maybe the Department could not buy and drive brand new vehicles as often as it does? If I can drive a vehicle that is a little older, why can't the Department? There has to be a way the Department can get more money to support wildlife without constantly making hunters pay more.

Written Comment: July 25, 2013. I think the longtime residents who have paid their dues deserve more consideration when it comes to tags and fees over someone who has been here only six months or is a nonresident with a lot of money. Being on disability and with a fixed income I am afraid I will not be able to hunt the "king's deer" any more.

Written Comment: August 1, 2013. I have suffered through an anemic economy for the past six to seven years. I am not pleased to see the potential fee increases considering how my personal livelihood has suffered. Before the Department considers any type of increase, it should do its best to “tighten the belt,” just as I have had to do these past years. As an alternative, I would like to suggest increases to nonresident fees as a way of covering any necessary increases to the Department's budget.

Written Comment: August 1, 2013. As a more than ten year resident of Arizona and an avid outdoorsman, I think the proposed changes are solid. The simplification makes sense, not only from the business perspective, but it makes it much simpler for Wildlife Manager who will no longer have to concern themselves with the multiple, optional fishing stamps and licenses. I am thankful the Department removed the proposed premium fee structure for elk tags from the rulemaking. I also appreciate the Department's efforts to keep me informed in an easily accessible manner and for listening to our thoughts and opinions. I look forward to seeing the final implementation of the proposed changes.

Written Comment: August 1, 2013. I oppose using the application fee as a revenue stream. The Department has other funds that can be used to secure hunter access and habitat enhancement. A $10 application fee is acceptable, provided it costs that much to process an application. Habitat enhancement should be paid for by the permit tag fee for each species and by successful applicants. The deer, elk, and turkey permit increases are too high and I oppose them as proposed. I could support an overall ten % increase for all permits, rounded up to the nearest whole number to make it easy. The short-term combination hunting and fishing license is too high. I have taken visitors to buy a license and they say the fee is too high and they would rather watch than hunt or fish. A short-term license should be like a "trial license," - cheap. Then, if quality hunting and fishing opportunities are available, they will return as paying customers. The resident short-term license should be $5 and the nonresident $10. The White Mountain Apache Tribal reservation one-day license is only $9 and we are all nonresidents to them. Our state should run like a business and be competitive.

Written Comment: August 1, 2013. Why do I have the feeling that I will soon be priced out of my ability to hunt in Arizona? Follow-up Comment: August 9, 2013. My income has not gone up in eight years; how about rolling the fees back to the 2006 prices?

Written Comment: August 2, 2013. I can barely afford a combination hunting and fishing license. If the Department keeps raising the costs, hunting in Arizona will be only for those who have money. The Department needs to keep the playing field as even as possible to ensure that all persons will have a chance at fair chase. It is already hard enough to compete with the hunters who have optics worth thousands, ATVs, or side by sides. Give the working man a break so I do not have to save for five years to hunt for one-year. Follow-up Comment: August 6, 2013. All of that is well and wonderful, but the bottom line is the across the board fee increases to tags surpass any potential savings provided by the combination hunting and fishing license. I guess big game animals will only be available to the people with money, leaving the small game to us poor folks. I hoped the Department would move forward in the years to come and make concessions for all. These increases will only promote poaching and other illegal activity in the field, which will only raise fees to support more law enforcement. The new headquarters sure are nice. Once you create the monster you have to feed it until it is no longer sustainable and then it dies. Follow-up Comment: August 9, 2013. Can the Department tell me what the revenue from the fee increases will be used for and why are the increases necessary?

Written Comment: August 4, 2013. Arizona is a great state; unfortunately, I work and live in California. I visit friends and family every year to hunt archery deer. I have yet to take a deer, but that is okay as I have a great time. Many of the Department's proposals are hunter friendly, but if nonresident deer tags are raised to $300 I will not buy them. The Department states that due to the economy you need to raise prices, I disagree. The economy is harder on the private citizen than the government. I cannot raise my salary whenever I want to. By raising prices, will more hunters be more likely or less likely to return? Not only will the Department lose revenue, but the state will also lose tax revenue generated by gas stations, restaurants, and motels. This can even hurt guides and sporting goods dealers who rely on income generated from out-of-state hunters such as myself. The proposed tag increase has far reaching unintended consequences. I am sure there are many other states that would appreciate my business. I can go out hunting many more times right here in California for $500 and not have to worry about the cost of fuel lodging etc. Do not raise prices it is not productive.

Written Comment: August 9, 2013. I honestly do not have an issue with the new pricing, except that I believe the Department should make nonresident licenses much more difficult and expensive. The Department should take care of Arizonans. The one-year license being valid from the date purchased is not a bad idea at all. The fishing license changes are ridiculous; essentially an angler who does not use the urban lakes and ponds is paying for an urban license. Common sense approaches, not monetary gains, should be the "norm." Please keep the "common" person in mind. Politicians make a bad habit of being so far out of touch with their constituents that their decisions are just jaw dropping. I would be happy to further extrapolate this for the Department, from a computer instead of my phone, and give the Department some facts.

Written Comment: February 14, 2014. I am angry regarding the increase of the cost of an elk tag ($27), deer tag ($15.75) and all other tag rates that were increased. Please explain to me the justification of these extreme increases. The Department states it wants sportsmen to bring in new hunters, yet places financial barriers in the way. The Department is turning what used to be an American and family tradition into a financial burden, for most Arizonans. If one did not know better, it appears the Department is purposely edging the average hunter out of the picture, thereby opening it up for the more affluent customer who can readily afford the cost. Yes, I am angry and I have a right to be. If the Department cannot figure out how to keep the cost of hunting down for the hunter, then it must be placing profit in front of everything else. Hunting is going back to the way it was in England, when only the rich could hunt on the King's land. Honestly, after looking at the biographies for the Commission panel, it appears most have good retirements coming in and can afford the cost increase as it is more than likely in their personal budget. The Department may say I have no right to judge the Commission members, and I am not, I am simply stating my first impression of the Commission members. I can guarantee I am not the only one who sees it this way. Just remember, the rest of us are not as fortunate as you. We have not gotten to that point in life. Some of us still work two jobs to give our families a little more financial "breathing room." Try thinking about that the next time the Department feels the need to raise tag fees.

Agency Response: The Department simplified its license structure by reducing more than 40 hunting and fishing licenses to just six. This resulted in a license structure that was simpler, easier to understand, and more user friendly. The Department utilized an extensive public process that included approximately 80 meetings (Commission meetings, sportsman's organization meetings, and regional community meetings. The new license structure took effect on January 1, 2014; at that time, tag prices had not increased since 2007. While most tag fees were increased, the fees were still well below the previous statutory cap and well below the rate of inflation. The increase was not about profit, but rather about ensuring the Department can continue doing business. License and tag fee increases had been put off for a long time, but increasing them was necessary as license and tag revenues are a large element of the Department's budget. It is important to note, the Department does not receive general fund appropriations (Arizona tax dollars) and operates only on those funds that the Department raises or generates. Those funds are used to put game wardens in the field to enforce game laws and protect the public, keep our hatcheries in operation to grow sport fish, support research and conduct active on-the-ground wildlife biology (such as big game surveys and management plans) so that big game animals and non-game wildlife persist in healthy numbers across the state, hunter education, community fishing, information and educational activities and so many more of the Department's programs. The Commission and the Department are committed to managing today for wildlife tomorrow. The Department and Commission are currently reviewing requests such as yours and contemplating the best way to offer benefits to those who served and maintain the critical funding necessary to properly manage the state's wildlife. The Commission will again seek public input before making any change to the current license structure or fees. It is important to note, sportsmen are the nation's oldest conservationists and provide more direct support for wildlife than any other group. The purchase of a license is the cornerstone of the user pay public benefit model, not only providing direct revenue for conservation but factoring in to other constructs such as the apportionment of Wildlife and Sportfish Restoration dollars to the states.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to remove barriers for recruitment of new hunters and anglers due to the simplified the license structure, bundled privileges, and reduced costs for youth licenses. The following licenses and their fees were repealed: resident and nonresident Class A fishing license, nonresident Class B four-month fishing license, nonresident Class C five-day fishing license, resident and nonresident Class D one-day fishing license, nonresident Class E Colorado River-only fishing license, resident and nonresident Class F Combination hunting and fishing license, resident and nonresident Class G hunting license, nonresident Class H three-day hunting license, Class I, J, and K resident family licenses, resident and nonresident Class L Super Conservation fishing license, resident Class M Super Conservation hunting license, resident Class N Combination Super Conservation hunting and fishing license, and Class U Urban fishing license. The following stamps and their fees were repealed: Sikes Act Habitat Management (Unit 12A) stamp, trout stamp, all Colorado River Special Use permits and stamps, Lake Powell stamp, state waterfowl stamp, two-pole stamp, and resident and nonresident additional fishing day stamp. The privileges associated with these stamps and permits were included in the new license structure, as described above, to enhance the value of those items. The rule is amended to combine the State Waterfowl ($8.75) and Migratory Bird stamp ($4.50) privileges and fees into one State Migratory Bird stamp ($5). The rule was amended to establish fees for the new licenses and a $3 surcharge by rule. The surcharge was not a new fee, it was previously authorized under A.R.S. § 17-245 and was rolled into the license fee. The Department applied a common equation to almost all fees based on factors such as value, principles of the North American Model, customer input, and Commission direction. Fees were also rounded to the nearest dollar value. Special license fees were placed under Article 4 Live Wildlife in a new rule, R12-4-412 (special license fees). The rule was amended to increase the application fee to recover resources expended by the Department for the purpose of funding access, habitat conservation, and hunter/angler recruitment/retention projects. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would generate revenue sufficient to enable the Department to address rising operational expenses, carry out its duties effectively in managing the state's wildlife resources, and provide quality recreational wildlife opportunities and access for the persons regulated by the rule. Although the rulemaking resulted in a 19.1 % increase in revenue, the Department's operational costs and responsibilities have also increased or expanded and the Department continues to make budget adjustments to address rising costs, such as keeping positions vacant and making cuts to program budgets.

At the time of the rulemaking, the Department focused its efforts on analyzing and evaluating hunting and fishing licenses, stamps, and tags with the intent that other licenses would be reviewed at a later date. The Commission directed the Department to develop fees that recover the costs of providing a service now and into the future.

In 2007, the Department increased the duplicate license and tag fee from $3 to $4. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, inflation is expected to pick up moderately with an annual growth rate of 2.8%. In establishing this fee, the Department conducted a transaction cost analysis, multiplied the cost for that transaction by 28%, and then rounded the sum to the nearest dollar amount. The Department proposes to amend the rule to increase the duplicate fee from $4 to $8, which is in line with fees charged by other Western states. It is important to note, a person who purchased their license online may obtain a duplicate (re-print) of the license by simply accessing the Department's website.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Exempt Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3225, October 18, 2013.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The Department receives no appropriations from the general fund and operates primarily with the revenue it generates from the sale of licenses, permits, stamps, and tags. Purchasing a license, permit, tag, or stamp is voluntary and a person who chooses to purchase a license, permit, stamp, or tag will incur those costs associated with that license, permit, stamp, or tag. The public benefits from a rule that provides a comprehensive listing of license, permit, stamp, and tag fees. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department's customers are a voluntary constituency who determine if, and at what levels, they choose to participate; they are not required to participate and have the ultimate vote with their hard-earned dollars. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-102 as follows:

- Replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.
- Replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.
- Increase the duplicate license and tag fee to $8.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-103. DUPLICATE TAGS AND LICENSES

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-331(A) and 17-332

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for the issuance of a duplicate license or tag when the original license or tag was not used and was lost, destroyed, mutilated or is otherwise unusable or was placed on a harvested animal that was subsequently condemned and surrendered to a Department employee. The rule was adopted to ensure consistency between the Department and license dealers when issuing a duplicate license or tag.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to establish that the license will expire on December 31 of the current year when the license expiration date cannot be verified. The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule would benefit from the rulemaking that established an expiration date for duplicate licenses that are not recorded in the Department's database. Persons whose original license expired before December 31 would gain a period of time, while persons who purchased an original license before December 31 would lose a period of time. However, the person could choose to provide proof of when they purchased the original license and they would not lose any time.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The public benefits from a rule that establishes the requirements for the issuance of a duplicate license or tag when the original license or tag was not used and was lost, destroyed, mutilated or is otherwise unusable or was placed on a harvested animal that was subsequently condemned and surrendered to a Department employee. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

- 13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

No action

R12-4-104. APPLICATION PROCEDURES FOR ISSUANCE OF HUNT PERMIT-TAGS
BY COMPUTER DRAW AND PURCHASE OF BONUS POINTS

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 25-320(P), 25-502(K), and 25-518

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to prescribe application requirements for the purchase of a bonus point and the issuance of hunt permit-tags; meaning a permit-tag for which the Commission has assigned a hunt number. The rule was adopted to provide the persons regulated by the rule with the information necessary to successfully submit an application for the computer draw or for the purchase of a bonus point.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department's Hunter Education Program has implemented two new processes: a person may take the National Rifle Association (NRA) Online Hunter Education course instead of the Arizona Hunter Education Online course; and an NRA Instructor may complete the Arizona Hunter Education Exemption Checklist for students ages 9 through 14 who need to complete the hands-on field-day portion of the course in order to receive their hunter education certification. The Department proposes to amend this rule to reflect changes made to R12-4-107 (bonus point system).

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Overall, the rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

Written Comment: October 7, 2013. The license simplification is not simple for a person who lives in rural Arizona and has no access to a computer or the Internet. What is the problem with providing a license through a license dealer? Without access to a computer or the Internet some persons will have to drive a long distance to Department office to purchase a license just so they can apply for the spring draw. I do not think a lot of thought was put into this new system. Please remember, not everyone in Arizona lives in a major metropolitan area.

Follow-up Comment: October 8, 2013. The dealer at Wal-Mart in Payson said the Department did not issue them any 2014 license for the early draw and that I would have to purchase them from the Department at an office or online. It was very difficult to get the license because my computer is down and I cannot print a license from my phone.

Agency Response: While there is comfort in doing things "the way we used to," online channels have proven they are the way of the future. For an agency to operate like a business, it must have the ability to keep up with its customer needs in a timely manner. The Commission launched the online license application system in January 2010. Since then, approximately 707,790 licenses have been purchased using the online system. The Commission launched the online draw application system in October 2011. Since then, approximately 95.5 % of draw applicants apply using the online system. The online system increased the Department's efficiency in processing applications and greatly reduced the number of application errors, resulting in fewer rejected applications. In early December 2014, due to inventory issues, the contracted vendor notified the Department that they would not be able to provide the licenses on the due date. The Department was able to find another vendor who had the required materials on hand and could print the license books. The Department either hand-delivered or express mailed those licenses to its license dealers before January 1, 2015 (at that time, all hunting and fishing licenses expired on December 31). The Department is developing an online license dealer portal that will allow a license dealer to log-in and issue hunting and fishing licenses on demand.

Written Comment: March 9, 2014. I am aware that there will be a change made to the nonresident part of the draw going into effect in 2016. That is fantastic news and should really encourage nonresidents to continue to, or start, applying for tags. Each year, I talk with prospective hunters; most are nonresidents with few or no bonus points. They are disappointed when I tell them they have little chance of ever drawing a "premium" archery or early firearms elk tag. From one who truly understands the draw and studies the statistics, this is the unfortunate truth for the elk hunts held in Units 1, 3C, 7W, 8, 9, 10, 23N, 23S, 27, etc. and the deer hunts on the Strip and the Kaibab units. I feel that not only should the tags issued to nonresidents in the 20% bonus point pass of the draw be limited to 50%, but that the remaining 50% should be set aside only for nonresidents in the first and second choice pass of the draw. Otherwise, we will get a draw that issues even more tags to the residents, which I do not think is the Department's intention. If the remaining 50% are not designated as nonresident tags, then residents are going to draw 91%-95% of them due to the fact that there are more residents applying for the hunts. This would further discourage nonresidents from applying. If these tags cannot be reserved for the nonresidents, then I think a better split would be 75% for the bonus point pass, and 25% for the random pass. I feel the current draw system works against nonresidents, especially the younger hunters who are just getting into the sport. If something is not done soon, this problem will only get worse and may result in fewer hunters applying at all. In this Internet age, nonresidents are being educated about this flaw in the draw through chat forums. I do not think we can truly measure the negative impact and lost revenue to the Department if left unchanged. I am confident the Department has the ability to make this adjustment so that it encourages everyone to apply. I know with proper planning, this idea could be implemented into the draw. It would only help the Department to generate more funds due to many more nonresidents applying because they would have a legitimate chance at a great tag without having to wait 20 or more years. If my idea is out of line, I hope that some type of adjustment will be made to the current draw system since it is flawed and will only get worse in its bias against nonresidents as time goes on. By making this adjustment, the Department and nonresident hunters would both benefit. Typically, change is resisted most by the residents, but this idea would have zero impact on the residents and their draw odds.

Agency Response: The first phase of the current draw system issues available tags to those persons with the maximum number of bonus points. The computer draw system monitors the number of nonresidents drawn for tags and once the 10% nonresident cap, required under A.R.S. § 17-332, is reached it will eliminate all other nonresidents from the draw pool. Because nonresidents typically carry higher bonus point totals than residents, the 10% nonresident cap is sometimes reached in the first phase of the computer draw, which means a nonresident with no or few bonus points may never have the opportunity to draw a tag (this is especially true for high demand hunts). Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag; even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. The current computer draw system brought the draw process back in line with the original intent and ensured all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, would have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt. Most state wildlife agencies charge nonresident applicants higher license and tag fees than residents. It is important to note, 17-332(A) states, "The Commission shall limit the number of big game permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing to 10% or fewer of the total hunt permits." The Department is unable to increase the percentage of tags allocated to nonresidents as the statute governing tag allocation to nonresidents (A.R.S. § 17-332), is very specific and states, "The commission shall limit the number of big game permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing to ten per cent or fewer of the total hunt permits,..." A legislative amendment is required before the Department may amend the rule as suggested. To control and protect the wildlife populations, state wildlife agencies limit recreational hunting by limiting permits and imposing higher fees on nonresident hunters. This provides nonresident hunters with the opportunity to contribute to the state wildlife agency funds that are used to protect and manage wildlife. Resident hunters pay local and state taxes to support the wildlife and wildlife habitat in their areas. The higher fees for nonresidents help compensate for the taxes that residents pay. Therefore, nonresident fee and license regulations provide state wildlife agencies with funds to manage the wildlife, which in turn benefits both resident and nonresident hunters. Fee differentials for residents and nonresidents have been upheld in other areas. In Baldwin vs Fish and Game Commission of Montana, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a higher hunting license fee imposed upon nonresidents by the State of Montana. The Court stated that, where the opportunity to enjoy a recreational activity is created or supported by a state, where there is no nexus between the activity and any fundamental right, and where by its very nature the activity can be enjoyed by only a portion of those who would enjoy it, a state may prefer its residents over the residents of other states or condition the enjoyment of the nonresident upon such terms as it sees fit.

Written Comment: May 29, 2014. I was a long-time resident of Arizona and have had to move several times due to my position in the military. I love Arizona and hope to come back, be employed, and possibly retire there. I would like the Commission to consider allowing all military members currently in active status or "honorably" retired (to include Active Duty, Reservists and Army National Guard members) located in any state be considered a "resident applicant" for all species during the draw process. That would be an excellent way to honor our military members for their service to our nation. I am unsure of how this may impact the draw process across the board, but I believe it will be worth the effort to show all of our military members that Arizona appreciates the sacrifice they make to keep our nation safe.

Agency Response: Under A.R.S. § 17-101, "a nonresident, for the purposes of applying for a license, permit, tag or stamp, means a citizen of the United States or an alien who is not a resident; and a resident, for the purposes of applying for a license, permit, tag or stamp, means a person who is: a member of the armed forces of the United States on active duty and who is stationed in: this state for a period of thirty days immediately preceding the date of applying for a license, permit, tag or stamp; another state or country but who lists this state as the person's home of record at the time of applying for a license, permit, tag or stamp; domiciled in this state for six months immediately preceding the date of applying for a license, permit, tag or stamp and who does not claim residency privileges for any purpose in any other state or jurisdiction." The suggestion to allow any military member in any state to be considered a resident for the purpose of the computer draw would be problematic to implement and unenforceable; it would also complicate the definition of what constitutes a resident and provide an unfair advantage to a select group of people.

Written Comment: January 9, 2015. I hunt with a great group of guys; there are usually 8 to 10 of us in camp. Last year, we all put in for the same hunt on two different applications; we were not drawn. Then we applied for the second draw on two different applications with the same hunt numbers. We were drawn for the same hunt, but unfortunately our normal group of 8 was now split up because one application was drawn for a different unit. We had the same hunt, but in different units. My suggestion is to allow more than four applicants to apply on any one application to ensure bigger hunting parties get to hunt together.

Agency Response: Before each of the three passes in the drawing, each application is processed through a random number generator program which assigns one random number for the group application plus an additional random number for each group bonus point. The lowest random number generated for an application is used in the drawing process. An application receives a new random number for each pass of the computer draw. When an application is read and the hunt choices are checked for available hunt permit-tags, there must be enough hunt permit-tags available in a hunt choice for all applicants on the application; if there are not enough hunt permit-tags, the application is passed and the next one is read. Expanding the number of persons allowed on an application can lower the groups potential for being drawn. In addition, current trends indicate the Department receives fewer applicants per application, not more.

Written Comment: August 8, 2015. I am a Nevada resident and am familiar with the dynamic of resident vs. nonresident tag allocation in a state where tags are precious and highly sought after. Take the tags the Department is proposing to put into the general draw and keep them as nonresident tags to be drawn by nonresidents, only, on a random basis. This will not benefit residents, but will blunt legal challenges and increase the interest of the many younger nonresidents who do not apply because they do not think they will live long enough to draw a tag in Arizona. I hope the Department will reject the proposal in favor of a fairer plan, which can also be a win-win solution.

Agency Response: The first phase of the current draw system issues available tags to those persons with the maximum number of bonus points. The computer draw system monitors the number of nonresidents drawn for tags and once the 10% nonresident cap, required under A.R.S. § 17-332, is reached it eliminates all other nonresidents from the draw pool. Because nonresidents typically carry higher bonus point totals than residents, the 10% nonresident cap is sometimes reached in the first phase of the computer draw, which means a nonresident with no or low bonus points may never have the opportunity to draw a tag (this is especially true for high demand hunts). The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag; even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission amended the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent and ensure all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt.

Written Comment: February 10, 2016. The rule should be amended to allow parents to determine when a child is mature enough to hunt big game. As a hunter education instructor and Game Ranger, I have observed many children pass through the courses I have taught and spoken with hundreds of hunters in the field. Some children were not ready to hunt until 16 years of age and others were clearly able to hunt big game at much younger ages. The determining factor should be the child's ability to pass a hunter education before being allowed to pursue big game. It clearly should be the parent's decision rather than an arbitrary minimum age. There may be those hunters who object to opening up more competition for tags to young hunters, but it is critically important that we have new hunters fill the ranks of those who are reaching an age where they are no longer able. If we are to have wildlife for future generations funded by hunters, we must increase the number of youngsters annually becoming hunters. Making this simple change would help accomplish that objective. I might suggest, if that is not acceptable to the Commission, I suggest it might be possible to allow younger hunters to hunt with their parents or grandparents tag. Currently an animal cannot be tagged by someone who has not harvested the animal. So, a grandparent or parent cannot let a young aspiring hunter shoot an animal the parent or grandparent possesses a tag to hunt. If that change was accomplished, the same objective could be met as changing the minimum age. Another way to make the change more acceptable is to allow younger children to at least hunt turkeys and javelina. Both are excellent animals for young beginner hunters. I would appreciate the Commission consider changing the current rule during the next rules review process to remove another barrier to recruitment.

Agency Response: The Department benchmarked with all other states and learned that there are only two states that allow a person under the age of 10 to hunt big game: Arkansas and Texas. It is true, some children mature faster than others, but for the majority of children, the Department believes the age of ten is an appropriate threshold for permitting children to hunt big game. Although big game hunting is exciting, hunting for small game and game birds, such as squirrel or cottontail rabbits can increase the chance of harvesting an animal and be just as exciting because small game is quicker and involves more movement. In addition, even though a child under the age of ten cannot hunt big game themselves, they can still go on a big game hunt and enjoy the hunting experience.

Written Comment: January 6, 2017. Curtail the system allowing persons to pay for their application using credit cards. Go back to requiring persons to send the tag money at the time of application. Then place the money in a 30-day money market account. Use the interest for hunting and fishing purposes.

Agency Response: The current application/draw time-frames provide the public with greater flexibility in managing their funds and hunt choices. The Commission believes offering both the paper and online application process best serves our constituency.

The following comments express displeasure with the requirement that a person purchase a hunting or combination hunting and fishing license in order to participate in the computer draw:

Written Comment: January 7, 2015. I do not think it is fair that I have to buy a license every year just to apply for a tag. I used to only buy a license when I was drawn. I do not set foot in the state if I do not draw a tag, so having a license is useless to me. Having to pay $160.00 for something you never plan to use is not right. Being a nonresident and having to pay the higher tag fee, I think is more than adequate to sustain the funds to manage wildlife. I think Arizona does an excellent job of managing wildlife. I live in Idaho where you can buy elk tags over the counter. This sounds great until you hit the hills and spend days on end trying to catch a glimpse of one; and finding a mature bull is next to impossible, the competition from too many hunters is frustrating beyond belief. Idaho should take note of Arizona practices to rebuild the herds and do something to sustain the maturity of the bulls.

Written Comment: January 8, 2015. My son and I apply once a year to hunt javelina with a resident friend in Arizona. I must purchase a hunting license at full price for a $160 in order to apply. If not drawn it cost my son and I $320, because we will not be coming down to Arizona with no tag to hunt with. If Arizona were more like Montana, where you purchase a $10 conservation tag and pay a nonrefundable application fee, Arizona is more likely to get nonresidents to apply.

Agency Response: The Commission, through an extensive public process, amended the rule to require both residents and nonresidents to purchase a hunting license in order to be considered during the hunt draw process. This requirement was put in place with the understanding that the ultimate beneficiaries are Arizona's wildlife resources and hunters (both resident and nonresident), since license fees go directly into wildlife conservation, development, and management. The Commission and Department hold that over time, the increased costs will create a benefit to all hunters who enjoy Arizona's wildlife opportunities by providing greater revenue for Department wildlife management objectives. Ultimately, this will enable the Department to maintain the nationally-recognized wildlife populations for which Arizona is known. In addition, several other western states require draw applicants to purchase a hunting license in order to participate in their limited draws: Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming. Furthermore, while unsuccessful applicants may not have the opportunity to hunt the big game animal of their choice in Arizona, the license they purchase will allow them to participate in many other hunting and fishing opportunities within the state including over-the-counter archery deer hunts, population management hunts, and multiple small game and waterfowl hunting opportunities, to include cottontail rabbits, tree squirrels, upland game birds (quails, chukar, grouse, and pheasants), and migratory game birds (ducks, geese, swan, sandhill, cranes, coot, gallinule, common snipe, mourning and white-winged doves, and band-tailed pigeon).

The following comments express displeasure with the Department's process for handling declined charges for online computer draw applications:

Written Comment: July 19, 2015. Why is the Department calling applicants five days after the draw to get updated information after all of the notices the Department sent asking customers to update their payment information? These tags should be issued to the hunters who complied with the rules.

Written Comment: July 20, 2015. I understand that Department employees are calling applicants back whose cards failed for the fall deer hunt and giving them a chance to correct their payment issue. I hope the Department realizes how much this upsets the people who do apply with valid cards or accounts. It is also a huge waste of time for the Department's employees. This is a waste of state funds and a potential waste of my application fee.

Agency Response: In 2012, when the Department started the online application system again, many people voiced their frustration with the declined credit card rejection process. The majority of those persons stated the charges were declined because their banking institution thought the tag charges were fraudulent. Based on the number of complaints, the Department determined those persons whose charges were declined would be contacted by telephone and given the opportunity to provide updated payment information for those tags. If the person did not answer the call, the Department gave the person three business days to respond to its request for information. As a result, the posting of the computer draw results was delayed by one to two weeks until all persons whose charges had been declined were contacted. As people became more familiar with the online application process, the numbers of declined charges decreased; this was due to persons taking the time to ensure their payment information was up to date. Because the instances of charges being declined had dropped so drastically, the Department determined it was no longer necessary to delay posting the draw results and ended this practice in early 2017.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to replace references to "Department-approved" with "Department-sanctioned;" prohibit a person, who has reached the bag limit for a specific genus, from applying for another hunt permit-tag for that genus during the same calendar year; establish the Commission's authority to determine the times, locations, and manner in which an applicant may apply for a hunt permit-tag; require all applicants submitting an application to the Department to certify the information provided on the application is true and correct; clarify the differences in how the Department processes fees submitted manually (paper application) and electronically (online application); establish overpayments of $5 or less will not be refunded and are considered a donation to the Arizona Game and Fish Fund; allow a customer to retain any accrued loyalty and bonus points and be awarded a bonus point for that computer draw when the payment submitted is less than the required fees, but is sufficient to cover the application and license fees; and allow the Department to issue a license and award a bonus point, provided the funds submitted are sufficient to cover the application and license fees. The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule and the Department would benefit from the rulemaking, mostly from the amendments implementing customer-service-oriented processes that allowed applicant to retain their bonus points under certain circumstances.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule prescribes application requirements for the purchase of a bonus point and the issuance of hunt permit-tags; meaning a permit-tag for which the Commission has assigned a hunt number. The public benefits from a rule that provides the information necessary to successfully submit an application for the computer draw or for the purchase of a bonus point. The Department benefits from a rule that helps reduce the number of returned applications. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-104 as follows:

- Reflect changes made to R12-4-107 (bonus point system).
- Remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.
- Replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-105. LICENSE DEALER'S LICENSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-332, 17-333, 17-334, 17-338, and 17-339

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish definitions, eligibility criteria, application procedures, license holder requirements, authorized activities, and prohibited activities for a license dealer's license. The rule was adopted in order to provide better customer service to the public, while protecting the Department's license sales revenue, by authorizing businesses to sell hunting and fishing licenses.

The Department issues an approximately:

- Ninety license dealer's licenses on an annual basis.
- One-hundred eighty dealer outlet licenses on an annual basis.

The fee for the:

- License dealer's license is $100.
- License dealer outlet license is $25.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

Overall, the rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

However, during the Second Regular Session of the 53rd Arizona State Legislature, the Legislature amended A.R.S. § 17-338 to remove the five % commission license dealers were authorized to retain as compensation for selling Game and Fish licenses to the public and allow license dealers to collect and retain a reasonable fee as determined by the license dealer. The Department proposes to amend the rule remove language referencing the five % commission and allow license dealers to collect and retain a reasonable fee to align the rule with statute.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

A person may purchase hunting and fishing licenses online, using the Department's online license sales system. This means any person can sell the Department's licenses, which is unlawful under A.R.S. § 17-334. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish a person who is not authorized to sell licenses on behalf of the Department is prohibited from selling Department-issued hunting and fishing licenses.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to define "License Dealer Portal;" establish a license dealer may be given authorization to issue online licenses through the License Dealer Portal; specify the deadline in which the license dealer shall transmit license and permit fees to the Department; and add a subsection to address duplicate affidavit requirements. The Commission anticipated the Department, GAO, and the Attorney General's office would benefit from the rulemaking that established a deadline for the transmittal of license and permit fees. The Commission also anticipated the Department would benefit from the rulemaking that clarifies duplicate affidavit requirements through increased efficiency by allowing the Department to better utilize its resources.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes eligibility criteria, application procedures, license holder requirements, authorized activities, and prohibited activities for a license dealer's license. The public and the Department benefit from a rule that authorizes businesses to sell hunting and fishing licenses at multiple locations throughout the state. The Department has six offices located in various cities throughout the state that sell hunting and fishing licenses to the public. License dealers sell approximately 194,105 licenses annually. The Department benefits from a rule that enables it to provide better customer service to the public, while protecting the Department's license sales revenue. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037. The License Dealer's License described in the rule falls within the definition of "general permit" as defined under A.R.S. § 41-1001(11).

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-105 as follows:

- Establish a person who is not authorized to sell licenses on behalf of the Department is prohibited from selling Department-issued hunting and fishing licenses.
- Remove language referencing the five % commission to align the rule with statute.
- Allow license dealers to collect and retain a reasonable fee to align the rule with statute.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-106. SPECIAL LICENSES LICENSING TIME-FRAMES

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 41-1072 and 41-1073

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the time-frame during which the agency will either grant or deny a special license subject to the requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1073. The overall time-frame consists of both the administrative review time-frame and the substantive review time-frame. The rule was adopted to comply with the requirements established under A.R.S. § 41-1073 and to provide the regulated community with a definitive timeline for the review of applications submitted to the Department.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

In 2015, the Commission amended the Article 4 rules (live wildlife) to replace all references to "permit" with "license" for the aquatic wildlife stocking license. The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace the references to "permit" with "license" for the aquatic wildlife stocking license to increase consistency between Commission rules.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

However, the Department proposes to make minor grammatical changes to make the rule more concise.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to clearly indicate the rule applies only to special licenses issued by the Department and does not include hunting or fishing licenses or permit- and nonpermit-tags; to define "license" and "administrative," "overall," and "substantive" review time-frames; describe when a time-frame period begins and ends; and specify how an applicant may withdraw an application; specify possible outcomes that may occur when a person submits an application for a special license; allow the applicant and the Department to extend the over-all time-frame; address scenarios where an applicant either demonstrates they are not eligible for the license prior to the substantive review or fails to respond to Department correspondence; establish time-frames for the Authorization for Use of Drugs on Wildlife; reflect changes made to R12-4-414 (all four game bird license rules were combined into one rule); and remove references to special license-tags. The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule and the Department would benefit from a rulemaking designed to clarify the rule and reduce the regulatory burden.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the administrative- and substantive-review time-frame during which the Department will either grant or deny a special license. If an agency fails to comply with the established time-frame for that special license, the agency must refund the special license fee and, provided the applicant meets the required criteria, issue a no-fee special license to the applicant. The public benefits from a rule that establishes the time-frames in which the Department must review and determine whether a special license may be issued. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-106 as follows:

- Make minor grammatical changes to make the rule more concise.
- Replace the references to "permit" with "license" for the aquatic wildlife stocking license to increase consistency between Commission rules.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-107. BONUS POINT SYSTEM

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2) and 17-231(A)(8)

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for applying for and maintaining bonus points, which may improve an applicant's draw odds for big game computer draws. The rule was adopted in response to customer comments requesting the Department implement a method that would reward loyal applicants and improve the drawing odds for a previously unsuccessful computer draw applicant. The "bonus point" system is used in lieu of other point systems, because it does not preclude a person who has not accrued any bonus points from having a chance at being drawn for an available hunt permit-tag.

In general, there are two types of bonus point systems, the "bonus point" system used by the Department and a "preference point" system. The "bonus point" system increases the number of chances for an application to receive a low random number in the computer draw. Bonus points are accumulated by failing to draw a hunt permit-tag or by buying a bonus point. Applications are assigned a random, computer-generated number. Applications that are assigned the lowest random number draw a tag first. A "preference point" system awards a tag to the person who has the highest number of preference points in the first computer draw and, if any tags are left, a second computer draw is held for those in the next highest point category. Over time, a preference point system guarantees a person a tag, provided they apply for the same species every year. In a preference point system a person with zero or very few points will not have any chance at drawing a tag. In some states, bonus points are squared when an application is submitted. For an application with 5 bonus points, the computer will generate 25 random numbers. It is important to note, having the greatest number of points does not guarantee a person will draw a tag. However, it does provide a better chance of being assigned a low random number in the computer draw.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective. While the Department has received a number of written criticisms in regards to the current bonus point system, the Commission determined through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters that a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. Implementing a preference point system that awards hunt permit-tags based solely on accumulated points would have a negative impact on the recruitment of new hunters. The bonus point system rewards loyal applicants and provides new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw.

In 2013, the rule was amended to state it is unlawful for a person to purchase a bonus point by fraud or misrepresentation and any bonus point so obtained shall be removed from the person's Department record. to increase consistency between statute and rule. Under A.R.S. § 17-341, it is unlawful for a person to knowingly purchase, apply for, accept, obtain or use, by fraud or misrepresentation a license, permit, tag or stamp to take wildlife and that a license or permit so obtained is void and of no effect from the date of issuance. The amendment inadvertently failed to address bonus points accrued by fraud or misrepresentation. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify that any bonus point that is fraudulently obtained, whether purchased or accrued, shall be removed from the person's Department record.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department is aware that there is some confusion as to when a child may take the hunter education course. A youth under the age of 10 may take wildlife, except big game species, without a license when accompanied by a person 18 years of age or older holding a valid hunting license during an open season. A license and the appropriate tag are required to take big game. No one under age 10 may hunt big game in Arizona; this is consistent with other states practices (the average age is 14). An applicant who is under the age of 14 and applying for a big game hunt must complete a hunter education course before the beginning date of that hunt. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that a person who is 9 years of age or older may take the Arizona hunter education certification course and, upon successful completion of the course, be awarded one permanent bonus point for each big game species.

The Department's Hunter Education Program has implemented two new processes designed to decrease burdens and costs and increase customer-service: a person may take the National Rifle Association (NRA) Online Hunter Education course instead of the Arizona Hunter Education Online course; and an NRA certified rifle, shotgun, or hunter clinic instructor may complete the Arizona Hunter Education Exemption Checklist for students ages 9 through 14 who need to complete the hands-on field-day portion of the course in order to receive their hunter education certification. The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove references to "Department-sanctioned" to reflect changes made to the Department's Hunter Education Program.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

Written Comment: September 3, 2014. I was injured on May 27, 2014 and I am unable to walk or bear my own weight without assistance. I finally drew my first elk tag and tried to return it to the Department so I could get my expended bonus points back as well as obtain another point for the current draw year. The current rule allows me to surrender a tag, but I do not qualify. I have to be active within a military branch or a state worker deployed for emergency purposes. The alternative is to sign over my tag to an "eligible child or grandchild of my own." First, I feel discriminated because this rule places lesser significance on my life as it does not validate any circumstances that have affected my life. Second, the ability to sign over my tag to one of my children or grandchildren also affects me deeply because my wife does not have the ability to bear children. The tag I drew is an archery tag; I am unable to walk, so I am unable to stand or practice shooting consistently or retrieve my arrows. I opted to surrender my tag and was refused. I offered to give my tag to the Department for exchange of my bonus points and was denied. The Department exerted zero energy to aid me in finding a way to resolve my situation and I just want to document confirmation of such actions.

Agency Response: The Department understands your disappointment and frustration with not being able to use your 2014 archery elk tag. The Arizona legislature passes legislation, signed into law by the governor and the Commission establishes rules, respectively. We are bound to abide within the limits of those laws and rules and apply them consistently and fairly to all our customers. The Department does not currently have a rule that allows surrender of a tag and restoration of bonus points or for the transfer of a tag to anyone except a family member. However, in addition to transferring the tag to a minor child or grandchild, a person who holds a hunt permit-tag may donate it to a nonprofit organization for use by a minor child who has a life threatening medical condition or a veteran of the armed forces of the U.S. who has a service connected disability. The Arizona Hunting Regulations explicitly states, "The issuance of any big game permit has no express or implied guarantee or warranty of hunter success. Any person holding a valid permit assumes the risk that circumstances beyond the control of the Arizona Game and Fish Department may prevent the permit holder from using the permit. In such situations, the Arizona Game and Fish Department disclaims any responsibility to reissue or replace a permit, to reinstate bonus points or to refund any fees, except under specific circumstances, such as activation of military or emergency personnel." The Commission Petition Packet was provided to this commenter. Also, in January 2016, the Commission adopted R12-4-118 (hunt permit-tag surrender), which deals with tag surrenders, transfers, donations, and use of bonus points.

The following comments address ways to increase responses to the Hunter Questionnaire (used by the Department to estimate harvest for each species, along with other vital information that helps lay the groundwork for next year):

Written Comment: October 10, 2013. The Department would get a better response to its surveys if it offered bonus points to fill them out, especially when a hunter comes up empty-handed or upset because of hunt interference.

Written Comment: January 6, 2017. As results are vital to your forecasting and species management, I suggest that any hunter that does not provide harvest information for a drawn hunt, would not be eligible to draw any tags for the following year. We as hunters should be held accountable to help in the management process.

Agency Response: The Department is in the process of developing an online hunter survey; the Department believes a simpler, easier to use survey will result in a larger response. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of persons and not to provide an advantage to certain classes. As a result, the Commission does not believe that any class of persons should be awarded bonus points for which others are not eligible.

The following comments address the ability to gift, transfer, or will their bonus points to another person:

Written Comment: February 14, 2015. I would like to propose allowing hunters to pass on bonus points to family members through a will upon death or maybe through gift.

Written Comment: April 13, 2015. I am disgruntled with how the bonus point system works. For three consecutive years, an acquaintance has drawn an elk tag. At this point, I have 16 points for antelope, 15 for bighorn sheep, and 12 for elk. I do not believe I will ever get another tag in my lifetime. Is it possible to give my bonus points away? If not, can legislation be created so that this option can be used in the future?

Written Comment: June 1, 2015. My friend says he has 15 bonus points for pronghorn and 15 for elk, but he is not sure he will be able to hunt either species anymore. He does not want to lose those bonus points and would like to give them to family or friends, or to a conservation organization to raffle off to raise money for conservation. He has a friend in Mississippi who has also been applying for 15 years; he would like to be able to give his points to someone like that who has been contributing for 15 years.

Written Comment: August 25, 2016. With social media, information gets around very quickly. Every year, people post how they got a tag with one or no bonus points and it completely infuriates me. I do not believe I will ever get a tag, other than deer, in my lifetime. I share this information with you because I want the option of giving my bonus points away in-lieu of losing them.

Agency Response: The Commission determined through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters that a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. The computer draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all persons and not to provide an advantage to certain persons; a bonus point is awarded to an applicant who submits a valid application and is either unsuccessful in the drawing or the application is for a bonus point only. As a result, the Commission does not believe that persons should be able to give their bonus points to another person.

The following comments were received in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, see 21 A.A.R. 1001 July 10, 2015:

Written Comment: November 18, 2014. I am writing in regards to information I received stating the Commission is cutting half of the allotted deer tags from maximum bonus point holders to as low as first year applicants. It would not be fair to hunters like me who have been loyal to Arizona and bought tags and applied for 17 or 18 years, drove 15 hours to take the hunter safety class, spending thousands of dollars and not getting a deer tag to be outdrawn by someone who applied one or two times. Please rethink this as maximum bonus point holders should not be treated like this.

Written Comment: December 13, 2014. I have been a loyal customer for many years. My father and I have spent a tremendous amount of money over the years to become a maximum bonus point holders for the deer draw. My father and I bought a license every year so we could build up our points toward what was supposed to be our dream hunt. We traveled to Arizona and took the hunter safety course to accrue extra points to keep us in the maximum bonus point pool. It is my understanding that the Commission is decreasing the number of tags that go to maximum bonus point holders. I understand why the Commission may want to do this, to keep people buying the licenses who are not in the maximum pool, but this seems unfair to the loyal customers who have paid year in and year out for the opportunity to get into the tag pool. My father and I are not wealthy men. We have dreamed for many years of hunting on the famous "Arizona Strip." We have played by the Commission's rules and now our dream is slipping away from us. My father is now 73 years old and I do not know how many years he has left that he can really enjoy a hunt like this. I beg you to stand with us as we have stood by you. Please consider limiting the tags to the maximum bonus point holders or putting together some program so we can have the same opportunity to hunt that we thought we had when we spent so many years and so much money applying for.

Written Comment: December 23, 2014. I am a nonresident with 20 elk bonus points and maximum deer bonus points for Arizona. I hope Arizona does not change the draw system for nonresidents. All nonresidents have a chance to deer hunt the Strip if they buy raffle tickets for the state-wide mule deer tag. I do not know if a similar tag for elk exists, but they could be created to give all nonresidents a chance at the best elk hunts. I hope the rules are not radically changed for me, after 18 years of applying in Arizona.

Written Comment: December 27, 2014. I am writing to voice my displeasure with the new changes to the big game draw system. I have been applying for a 12AW late tag since 1994. The Kaibab was my first out-of-state hunt as a kid with my dad and grandpa, and my last hunt with my grandpa. I realize I will have only one more chance to hunt it in my lifetime, but because of the changes, it is likely I will never draw a tag. I have applied every year and bought a nonresident license that sits in a drawer, just to be able to someday go back and hunt where I have such fond memories. My dad and brother gave up on the Arizona draw system, but have been rooting for me to draw a tag so that we can all go. I apply for mule deer in most western states and have drawn some great tags, but the one tag that I have dreamt of, the one tag I would choose over any other, has been just beyond my reach. And now, with the changes, drawing that tag is close to impossible. I feel like the Department has pulled the rug out from under me and I am sure I am not alone in that thinking. If anything, I thought the Department would have found a way to increase the chances for those loyal applicants who have applied for so many years, but the Department has done the opposite. I am asking the Department to reconsider the changes. It is not a perfect system and there is no perfect solution, but please do not make it worse.

Written Comment: January 8, 2015. As a nonresident my hunting opportunities in Arizona are reduced when compared to many other western states. The current system employed only allows "up to 10%" of big game tags to the nonresident. There is no set quota of tags for the nonresident hunter. This means that it is possible that zero nonresidents could obtain a tag, it could also be possible that nonresidents could obtain the full 10% of tags allocated for any hunt unit. Arizona allows "at least 5%" of tags be available to the youth hunter. Similarly it should change its nonresident rules to a set a finite number of tags for nonresidents. I have applied to hunt in Arizona for the past 15 years. At the cost of $151.50 each year to first purchase a hunting license prior to being able to apply for a hunt. That amounts to over $2,272 I have spent in the state of Arizona over that 15 years and yet I am still not in a position to successfully draw a big game tag. It could be argued that Arizona has been successful in generating almost $2,300 from one individual with absolutely no cost to the state. It could also be argued that the state of Arizona is losing out on potentially greater revenues if it issued more nonresident tags that generate more funds than that of the resident hunter. In any event this system is very discouraging to the young hunter or the hunter that cannot play the waiting game both in years or funds. I would like to see a change to the nonresident tag allocation to a set number of "at least 10%" of those tags available be set aside for the nonresident. I realize that I am a tiny percentage of hunters. That is because I have played by the Department's rules for 15 years. I know that others will have no chance of ever drawing a "strip tag." I will never have a chance to draw an antelope, buffalo, bighorn, or elk tag. That is my fault and I live with it. That still does not justify others cutting to the front of the line.

Written Comment: January 11, 2015. As a nonresident big game hunter, I have 18 bonus points in Arizona for deer, elk, bighorn sheep, and pronghorn. Despite my good fortune, I believe all preference point and bonus point systems should be abolished. These systems disadvantage young hunters and individuals without the means to afford nonresident hunting licenses and applications. I have applied for 16 years and have not drawn one permit but continue to religiously pursue the dream at considerable expense. Abolishing the Arizona bonus point system would greatly reduce my opportunity to draw but I would be okay with that. Realizing that abandoning the current system in Arizona is not probable, I accept it for what it is. The Misconceptions: 1) To kill a trophy mule deer in Arizona, one has to hunt the Arizona Strip. More typical mule deer grace the record book from Coconino County than any other county in Arizona. This is the home of the Kaibab where arguably the best genetics in the country for mule deer reside. 2) Only maximum point holders can draw an Arizona Strip tag. This is false. There are archery tags available for hunting units 13A and 13B, and these permits have gone to applicants with less than maximum points. There is also a mule deer raffle that enables a hunter to hunt any unit in the state for 365 days. 3) Changing the point system to a 5% instead of 10% maximum point draw on the first pass will greatly improve the odds for non-maximum point holders. At first blush this change sounds like a great improvement over the current draw process. In reality the chance to draw one of these coveted tags will still be abysmal. If the change is enacted in Unit 13A, there will be potentially three deer permits available for 1,750 applicants in the second pass. That "improves" the odds for any applicant to .0017 percent or one in 583. In Unit 13B the odds are even bleaker with 3,645 applicants "improving" the odds to .0008 or one in 1,215. This is all a best case scenario as there is a high likelihood that some of these tags, if not all, will not get into the hands of nonresidents. With a dearth of resident applicants these tags will likely be issued to residents, effectively not improving the draw odds at all for non-maximum point holders. The resultant change will also penalize maximum point holders who have invested thousands of dollars in hunting license fees and travel expenses to and from Arizona for a hunter education course. This is not the right thing to do. It would be interesting to know if the vocal few requesting this change are doing it for the greater good or for selfish reasons. Have they already drawn one of these coveted tags and now want to change the system for the benefit of themselves? Do the requestors truly have a worthy mission in making a change to the current system?

Agency Response: The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag - even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission proposes to amend the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent of ensuring all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt. While the Department is sensitive to your frustration and appreciates the time and effort put into building bonus points, the Department believes providing opportunity to all applicants is the right thing to do. The Department appreciates your support for the tag surrender program.

The following comments suggest establishing a special bonus point of some type:

Written Comment: July 1, 2015. I believe in the bonus point system. I have been putting in for desert bighorn sheep for over 40 years and I am in the maximum bonus point pool. The problem is, the mountains are getting taller and I am getting older. There should be some way to give an advantage to people in my situation. I know I am not the only one. I think there are around 120 people left in the maximum bonus point pool; at 20 per year that would make me 71. I cannot even transfer it to my son or grandsons as they are too old. A suggestion would be to give anyone 65 or older another bonus point. Do it only for the once in a lifetime hunts.

Written Comment: January 6, 2017. I am a 73 year old guy with not that many more hunts left to enjoy. I have been a hunter since I was 12 years old. Each year when the hunt draw is completed I wonder if it will be my last hunt. Not getting drawn is a huge disappointment. I have a pioneer hunting license. My proposal would be to give a pioneer license holder an extra bonus point. This would give the person one additional chance to get drawn for their possible final hunt.

Agency Response: In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of individuals and not to provide an advantage to certain classes. As a result, the Department does not believe that any class of individuals should be awarded bonus points for which others are not eligible.

Written Comment: December 20, 2014. I believe the Department should consider making a person's hunter education bonus points effective on a new hunter's first draw application, rather than on his or her tenth birthday. As it stands now, a child is allowed to take the course at nine years old, but they do not get the point until their tenth birthday. Often, children are nine years old when they apply for hunts that will take place after their tenth birthday. These kids are at a disadvantage as compared to other kids who have already completed the course but happen to turn ten before the draw deadline. Given the difficulty in scheduling the hunter education courses, the Department should encourage early completion, before a tag is drawn. One way to do that is to ensure that the youngest hunters get the benefit of the permanent bonus point from the very start of their application history.

Agency Response: A youth under the age of 10 may take wildlife, except big game species, without a license when accompanied by a person 18 years of age or older and who has a valid hunting license during an open season. A license and the appropriate tag are required to take big game. No one under age 10 may hunt big game in Arizona; this is consistent with other states practices (the average age is 12). The Commission, through a public process, determined that bonus points should be awarded to eligible, not future, Arizona hunters. If a youth is nine at the time of application and selects the bonus point-only hunt number, they are electing not to hunt during that season; therefore they are not eligible to apply. In addition, the Department offers a wide variety of youth-only hunting and shooting programs. These programs are designed to get children in the field with a parent, guardian, or mentor who can focus completely on the child and provide the guidance needed to teach the next generation of hunters and stewards how to be responsible and ethical conservationists.

Written Comment: July 8, 2015. Other states only deduct bonus points when first choice big game draw selections are successful; not any other successful choices. Arizona is losing money because people will only hunt if their first choice is successful; not putting in any other hunt choices because they do not want to lose their points. So, they end up not hunting and the state loses money. The state loses licensing and tag fees as well as gas taxes. The people lose revenue generated from needed hunting expenditures. Only reduce bonus points if first choice draw is successful, so people will want to apply and/or add additional hunt choices.

Written Comment: June 7, 2017. Please consider squaring the bonus points instead of adding a bonus point with each unsuccessful draw. I have seen friends year after year, draw the same tags I apply for with less bonus points. A squared bonus point system would eliminate this problem.

Agency Response: Doubling, tripling, or squaring each person's bonus points benefits hunters only when applied at the beginning of a system. With as many hunters with a high number of bonus points as Arizona has, squaring bonus points does not have a significant effect on decreasing the number of hunters with maximum bonus points. It is important to note, having the greatest number of points does not guarantee a tag; however, it does provide a better chance of being assigned a low random number in the computer draw.

Written Comment: October 26, 2017. Department should award a loyalty point to a youth putting in for a certain unit. Then, at age 15, if they have not been drawn, they get a tag for that unit.

Agency Response: In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of individuals and not to provide an advantage to certain classes. As a result, the Department does not believe that any class of individuals should be awarded bonus points for which others are not eligible.

Written Comment: February 13, 2018. I was a resident of Arizona until seven years ago and accrued elk bonus points. Now, I am a nonresident and do not want to lose my bonus points, but the computer draw system is a scam. Why am I forced to buy a combination license when I will only visit the state if I am drawn? Why am I forced to buy a combination license when I am only buying a bonus point? I hunt in other states with draw systems that do not require a license and do not charge these insane fees for a point. Arizona is charging ten times as much as other states. Arizona has made itself a state to avoid for big game hunting.

Agency Response: The requirement to purchase a license with a big game draw application was put in place for hunt year 2005. The Commission, through an extensive public process, amended the rule to require both residents and nonresidents to purchase a hunting license in order to be considered during the hunt draw process. This requirement was put in place with the understanding that the ultimate beneficiaries are Arizona's wildlife resources and hunters (both resident and nonresident), since license fees go directly into wildlife conservation, development, and management. The Commission and Department hold that over time, the increased costs will create a benefit to all hunters who enjoy Arizona's wildlife opportunities by providing greater revenue for Department wildlife management objectives. Ultimately, this will enable the Department to maintain the nationally-recognized wildlife populations for which Arizona is known. In addition, several other western states require draw applicants to purchase a hunting license in order to participate in their limited draws: Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming. Furthermore, while unsuccessful applicants may not have the opportunity to hunt the big game animal of their choice in Arizona, the license they purchase will allow them to participate in many other hunting opportunities within the state including over-the-counter archery deer hunts, population management hunts, and multiple small game and waterfowl hunting opportunities, to include cottontail rabbits, tree squirrels, upland game birds (quails, chukar, grouse, and pheasants), and migratory game birds (ducks, geese, swan, sandhill, cranes, coot, gallinule, common snipe, mourning and white-winged doves, and band-tailed pigeon).

Written Comment: March 5, 2018. The youth hunt bonus point drawing needs to be cleaned up. The 30-day hold on bonus points is <expletive redacted>. My sons successfully completed their hunter education course in January 2017. We applied for the elk hunt in February, but they were not allowed to use their bonus point because it had not been 30 days yet. It is 2017, the Department should be able to input the information for 200 children in three hours. In March, I asked if my sons would get to use their bonus point for the computer draw and was told "the rule is 30 days before the application;" even though it was still two months before the draw. This means children who meet the requirements to put in for the draw, do not get to use their bonus point due to administrative bureaucracy. Let me supervise the "input department" for just one day and I will have all 200 children who passed hunter education course in last 60 days input into the system and award their bonus point for their first hunt. Better yet, give me four hours and access to the Department's system and I will have all the kids in the system.

Agency Response: Upon successful completion of a qualifying hunter education course, the Department awards the person who completed the course one permanent bonus point for each big game species. It is difficult to quantify the value one places on bonus points; however, the Department believes it can be significant. The Hunter Education Course consists of a classroom course and a field day. Both the classroom and field day courses are taught by a team of certified Arizona Game and Fish Department Volunteer Instructors. A volunteer is a person who, of their own free will, provides goods or services (time and experience) without the expectation of financial gain. Once a class is completed, in addition to certifying a specific person has completed the course, volunteer instructors are required to submit information regarding the course they taught: the hunter education course itself (curriculum), the time and resources spent conducting the course, etc. The instructors are required to submit this information within ten days; when reviewing the information errors may be found that need to be corrected before proceeding or one of the volunteer's information may be missing. While these situations do not occur every time, they occur often enough for the Commission to establish the requirement that the class be completed no less than thirty days prior to the computer draw. While your sons were not able to use their permanent hunter education bonus points for the 2017 elk hunt, those points will be available to them for their use for their entire lifetime.

The following comments address loyalty bonus points:

Written Comment: January 7, 2015. About four years ago, I made an error on the paper application and was rejected for the computer draw. I could live with that; I bought a leftover tag. The real problem was that my three buddies and I lost our loyalty point for the next five years. My objection was that it was not a matter of loyalty, but of perfection. I was loyal, but imperfect. I strongly urge the Commission to make a rule change such that if an applicant is rejected in the draw for a technical reason, they do not lose their loyalty point. In my own case, I am due to receive my loyalty point again in a year or two, but I just believe it is fundamentally fair to all the other applicants to make this change in the rules going forward.

Written Comment: January 7, 2017. A loyalty bonus point is given after 5 years of putting in for a species. Why not give an additional loyalty point at 10 years, 15, and 20? Or just an additional point at 10 years? Reward those who continue to support and put in for the draw especially for bighorn and antelope. Keep it strictly for Arizona residents.

Written Comment: April 16, 2018. I have a question and comment about nonresident loyalty points. Why do nonresidents only get awarded a loyalty point after five years of continuous applications for elk draws or points? Would not 10 years continuous applications be just as, if not more loyal than five? What about fifteen and twenty? Just for your information I have applied for the past twelve years and will continue to apply until I am drawn.

Agency Response: The current draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all hunters. Reserving a percentage of tags for loyal applicants will only take opportunity away from others. The Department currently awards a loyalty bonus point to those persons who have submitted an application for a genus at least once annually for five consecutive years. The Department's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunities to all classes of persons and not provide an advantage to certain classes of hunters.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to specify a person shall expend any accrued bonus points for that genus when purchasing a surrendered hunt permit-tag by any method other than first-come, first-served; establish the Department shall restore expended bonus points when a person donates or surrenders an unused, original hunt permit-tag in compliance with R12-4-118 or R12-4-121; clarify that a hunter education bonus point is awarded to a person who completes the Arizona Hunter Education Course and remove language relative to hunter education instructors; specify which hunter education course qualifies a person for the hunter education bonus points; allow a customer to retain any accrued loyalty bonus points when the payment submitted is less than the required fees, but is sufficient to cover the application and license fees; simplify the process by which a military member may request the reinstatement of a bonus point; specify that the tag surrender requirements established under the proposed R12-4-118 do not apply to a person who is requesting the reinstatement of expended bonus points due to mobilization, activation or required duty in response to a declared national or state emergency, or required duty in response to an action by the President, Congress, or a governor of the United States or its territories; clarify the Department will not refund any fees paid for a license or hunt permit-tag when the person applies for reinstatement of their bonus points; and specify that any bonus point fraudulently obtained shall be removed from the person's Department record. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons regulated by the rule and the Department due to increased customer-service and from the amendments that allow a person to retain their loyalty point and accrue a bonus point for that draw when the payment submitted by the applicant is less than the total sum of all required fees, but is sufficient to cover the application and license fees.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements for applying for and maintaining bonus points, which may improve an applicant's draw odds for big game computer draws. In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. It is difficult to quantify the value one places on bonus points; however, the Department believes it can be significant. The public benefits from a rule that establishes requirements for applying for and maintaining bonus points, which may improve an applicant's draw odds for big game draws. The bonus point system was chosen over other systems because, while it rewards those persons who have supported wildlife management and have submitted applications regularly; it does not deny others the opportunity to be drawn. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-107 as follows:

- Replace references to "buffalo" with "bison" to reflect terminology used by the scientific community.
- Replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.
- Clarify that a person who is nine years of age or older may take the hunter education course and, upon successful completion of the course, the person's hunter education completion card and certificate shall become valid on the minor's 10 birthday.
- Remove references to "Department-sanctioned" to reflect changes made to the Department's Hunter Education Program.
- Specify any bonus point fraudulently obtained, whether purchased or accrued, shall be removed from the person's Department record.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-108. MANAGEMENT UNIT BOUNDARIES

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(B)(2) 17-234, 17-241, 17-452, 17-453, 17-454, and 17-455

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish Game Management Unit boundaries for the preservation and management of wildlife. The Commission divides the state into 76 units for the purpose of managing wildlife. These units are known as Game Management Units and are composed of state, federal, military, and private land. These units define legally huntable areas and are essential to the Department's licensing, hunt permit-tag and law enforcement operations. Department biologists and Regional offices responsible for the management of a specific unit submit data concerning wildlife and wildlife habitat to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Program. The Terrestrial Wildlife Program then uses this data to formulate hunting seasons. Hunters purchase tags that authorize the person to participate in a specific hunting season in a Game Management Unit, portion of a unit, or group of units that are open to hunting. It is illegal for a person to take wildlife, specified on the tag, in any area other than the unit specified on the tag and hunters rely on the unit boundary descriptions provided in R12-4-108 to ensure that they are in compliance.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The Department enforces this rule through proper administration. The rule is currently being enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

However, because landmarks change over time due to environmental factors, as local opinion changes regarding its destination, or the names of places and things change due to political or historical factors, the Department proposes to amend the rule to address boundary description changes and update Game Management Unit boundaries to provide additional clarity and maintain recreational opportunities for the public (both hunters and outdoor recreationists).

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

Written Comment: February 15, 2015. Make permanent that the yearly designation for Region 3, Unit 20A that "Within the following described area, those portions of Unit 20A within one-fourth mile of an occupied residence or building are closed to archery-hunting of all animals during hunting season: beginning at the eastern junction of Hwy 69 and Central Ave in Mayer; west on Central Ave to Miami St, to Main St, to First St; south to Fair Mist Ave; east to Jefferson St; southwest on Jefferson St which becomes Goodwin Rd (County Rd 177); continue south and west to Senator Hwy (FR52); to Wolf Creek Rd; west on Wolf Creek to Indian Creek Rd; north in Indian Creek to Hwy 89; south on 89 to Copper Basin Rd; West to Iron Springs Rd (County Rd 10); north and east to Miller Valley Rd; south on to Grove Ave; south on Grove; south to Gurley St; east to Hwy 69; east and south to the eastern junction of Hwy 69 and Central Ave in Mayer" as describe in the Arizona Game and Fish Department 2014-15 Arizona Hunting Regulations.

Agency Response: This rule addresses game management unit boundary descriptions; because rules are intended to be subject specific, this rule is not an appropriate place to prohibit the use archery equipment. However, the Commission is currently amending rules within Article 3 to prohibit the discharge of an arrow or bolt while taking wildlife within one-fourth mile of an occupied farmhouse or other residence, cabin, lodge or building without permission of the owner or resident, to increase consistency between statute and rules. This restriction will apply to the entire state, once it becomes effective.

Written Comment: February 18, 2016. Think about changing the 5A South boarder to Rim rd 300 versus the Mogollon Rim 2 reasons 1-Hunters will know exactly where the boarder is, there are several spots on the Rim that transition into unit 22. 2-The late Archery hunt in unit 22 is very weather dependent and it will give hunters a chance to hunt High elevation or low elevation depending on the weather and make that late hunt more appealing.

Agency Response: The Department develops game management units to properly manage wildlife in specific areas based on biological factors. In this case, the Mogollon Rim marks the boundary line between the elk's summer and winter ranges; elk migrate down from the rim during the winter, from unit 5A into unit 22. The Department manages these two units for different opportunities based on their geographical locations. Amending the rule as suggested would be counterproductive to the Department's efforts.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to update Management Unit boundaries. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit the Department and persons regulated by the rule.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

Hunters purchase tags that authorize the person to participate in a specific hunting season in a Game Management Unit, portion of a unit, or group of units that are open to hunting; hunters rely on the unit boundary descriptions provided in R12-4-108 to ensure that they are in compliance. A person who purchases a tag for a particular game management unit, portion of a unit, or group of units; will benefit from a rule that clearly described unit boundary descriptions. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-108 to address boundary description changes and update Game Management Unit boundaries to provide additional clarity and maintain recreational opportunities for the public (both hunters and outdoor recreationists).

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-109. APPROVED TRAPPING EDUCATION COURSE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. § 17-333.02

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the maximum fee a person may charge for a trapping education course. The trapping education course fee limitation was previously prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333.02. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with statutory amendments resulting from the Fifty-first Legislature, 1st Regular Session, which amended statutes within Title 17 to authorize the Commission to establish license, permit, tag, and stamp fees by rule. The rule was adopted to establish the maximum trapping education course fee in rule.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the exempt rulemaking filed with the Secretary of State's office and published in the Arizona Administrative Register on October 18, 2013. The rule was adopted to establish the maximum trapping education course fee in rule. The trapping education course fee limitation was previously prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-333.02. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would have no impact on persons regulated by the rule because the rulemaking did not propose a change to the statutory maximum trapping education course fee. Discussions with Trapper Education Instructor's determined there was no need to change the fee because many instructors often offer the course for free to encourage student participation.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable, the rule was adopted January 1, 2014.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the maximum fee a person may charge for a trapping education course. It is important to note, only businesses that provide an approved trapper education course bear any costs or burdens as a result of the rulemaking; these costs are assumed voluntarily by the business because it has determined the benefits of providing the course outweigh any costs. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department has determined that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective. The outcome of discussions with Trapper Education Instructors is that most instructors do not teach the course for the money and often offer the course for free; they do not believe that increasing or reducing the course fee would serve as an incentive for instructors or students.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

No action

R12-4-110. POSTING AND ACCESS TO STATE LAND

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(B)(2) and 17-304

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to prescribe the required conduct on State Trust Lands by licensed sportsmen and also ensure access by such sportsmen is not unlawfully blocked. The rule also sets forth the Commission's criteria for allowing the closure of roads that lead to hunting and fishing areas. The rule was adopted to prevent a person from denying access to or use of any existing road located on state lands by persons lawfully scouting for, taking, or retrieving wildlife and to ensure continued use of state lands while protecting public health and property.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. Approximately 265,000 licensed hunters go afield each year in Arizona and, annually, approximately 25 persons are cited for hunting or taking wildlife in the wrong Game Management Unit and 5 persons are cited for hunting or taking wildlife in areas that were closed to hunting. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

- 4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

- 5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Overall, rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

The Department is aware of ongoing issues with illegally locked gates in certain areas of the state. The Department works with the State Land Department to correct these situations on a case-by-case basis. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that, although a person may close State Land to hunting, fishing, and trapping; a person may not deny lawful access to State Land.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: January 7, 2017. Units with ranch leased government land should not be allowed to post no hunting signs. They do not own the land or it could be mixed with their privately owned land. It is not right that 10,000 acres of mixed (private and government) land can be posted no hunting by the ranch owner.

Agency Response: While the Department cannot dictate what a private landowner does with their own property, the Department proactively seeks ways to increase access to and through private lands. The Department's Landowner Relations Program focuses on partnering with private landowners and agricultural producers to secure public recreational access to private land. In addition, the Department's Landowner-Lessee/Sportsman Relations Committee works to reduce access issues and improve relations between landowners and the public. The committee is made up of livestock growers, private landowners, sportsmen, recreationists, Department employees, and representatives from state and federal land management agencies.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015.

The rule was amended to provide additional clarity; clearly indicate that an existing road is a road that has not been closed by the Commission; specify that a person must comply with the requirements of A.R.S. 17-304(C) when the Commission has authorized a closure of access to state lands; clarify the Commission's interpretation of the recreational permit exemption provided by the State Land Department; and establish a license holder shall not operate a motor vehicle off-road or on roads that are closed to the public, except to pick up lawfully taken big game animals. The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule and the Department would benefit from the rulemaking that clarified the rule and increased consistency between Commission rules.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule prescribes required conduct on State Trust Lands by licensed sportsmen and helps ensure access by such sportsmen is not unlawfully blocked. The rule also sets forth the Commission's criteria for allowing the closure of roads that lead to hunting and fishing areas. The public benefits from a rule that enables them to access state land for the purpose of hunting and fishing. Landowners benefit from a rule that establishes the required conduct for hunters and anglers who are entering, using, and leaving private land; as well as the ability to close access to their land under certain circumstances with and without the Commission's permission. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-110 to clarify that a person may not deny lawful access to State Land.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-111. IDENTIFICATION NUMBER

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(2), 25-320(P), 25-502(K), and 25-518

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to prescribe the procedures necessary to obtain the number assigned to each applicant or licensee by the Department. The rule was adopted to implement a system that enables the Department to properly identify applicants in the Department's computer draw for hunt permit-tags and various license holders.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to remove the option that allowed a person to use their Social Security Number as the Department Identification Number and replace references to "alias" with "any additional names the person has lawfully used in the past or is known by." The Commission anticipated that no longer allowing a person to use their Social Security Number as their Department identifier would reduce the possibility of someone using the person's Department-issued license to commit identity theft.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the Director's authority to authorize Department employees to condemn a lawfully taken animal that is unfit for consumption and issue a duplicate tag, thus allowing the hunter the opportunity to take another permitted animal. The rule also clarifies that this condition must not be created by the actions of the person who took the animal, and prescribes the procedure for obtaining a tag for the purpose of maximizing hunt opportunities of the state's wildlife resources.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The rule was amended to Arizona Administrative Procedure Act and the Secretary of State's rulemaking format and style requirements and standards. Because the amendments were nonsubstantive in nature, the Commission anticipated the amendments would have no impact on the Department or regulated community.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

The permit is intended to provide short-term relief for small game damage until long-term, non-lethal measures can be implemented to eliminate or significantly reduce the problem. The rule was adopted to establish the person suffering property damage from small game must exhaust all remedies under statute prior to requesting the depredation permit.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-113 to replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

Hunt permit-tags are issued by computer draw and nonpermit-tags are available at any Department office or license dealer. Certain percentages are made available to persons with bonus points and nonresidents. Any tags remaining after the computer draw are made available to the public on a first-come, first-served basis. The information provided in rule also makes the computer draw process more transparent to the public.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: September 17, 2014. This letter is to notify the Department of my intent to longer hunt or fish in the state of Arizona after 2014. I have contributed countless hard earned money towards the Department and I am at a loss of words due to the lack of effort or intent to help me in any way - other than to tell me I can give my tag away and wait another 10 years for a tag. I cannot walk on my own. I chose not to pursue an animal in my condition because I felt it would be criminal to do so because I cannot pack it out in my condition. I Drew my 1st elk tag at 35 years old (took 10 years) and I just calculated my odds. I will not draw another tag until I am 50 years old. Meanwhile, I know a gentleman who drew 19 in a row. I also know of another gentleman who the Department did allow to surrender a tag. This process is neither fair nor consistent, I am disgusted. The Department has neglected to show support to its biggest contributors, the Arizona sportsmen and women, by not providing a service to us in the event of a tragedy. This is a disservice to all of the sportsmen in Arizona and it is discrimination to allow one group to surrender a tag, but not another. I realize the rules are set in place by the legislature, but it is discriminatory. I realize my dollars and volunteer time mean nothing to the Department. However, I do teach the youth of Arizona (via Scouts) and I have always incorporated wildlife and hunting when I mentor. Moving forward, I will tell my story to the scouts and advise them not to support a Department that will not support you. This weekend I will be on an outing with 15 of them and they have all been witness to the events that led to my being confined to a wheel chair. I do not find this to be an unreasonable request as I am not asking for a handout or for the Department to bend over backwards for me, instead support my efforts and at least acknowledge or validate all that I have done for Arizona wildlife.

Agency Response: The Department understands your frustration at not being able to use the tag you drew and the loss of your bonus points for that species. However, at that time the Commission hands were tied, there were only two very specific circumstances that allowed a person to surrender an unused hunt permit-tag and restore expended bonus points under: when a Department-error occurs or when a member of the U.S. Armed Forces or a public agency emergency response employee is mobilized, activated, or experienced a change in duty status that precluded the applicant from using the hunt permit-tag. In response to situations like this one, the Commission adopted R12-4-118 (hunt permit-tag surrender) which allows any hunter to surrender their unused, original hunt permit-tag and have their bonus points restored provided the person has a valid and active membership in a Department membership program; "valid and active membership" means a paid and unexpired membership in any level of the Department's membership program.

Written Comment: December 5, 2014. Current Environment: Reduced hunting opportunities and participation continue to reduce revenues and overall participation in hunting sports. Increased revenues could be used to purchase land and land use rights increasing opportunities and quality for all sportsman in Arizona. Solution: Modified Resident Status (MRS) increase revenue through expanding nonresident participation in the Arizona computer draw. This is accomplished by including MRS candidates in the resident draw pool, but subjects them to nonresident fees which results in a modest increase in participation and a significant increase in revenue. MRS Criteria Minimum Land Ownership and Tax Base: Develop a program to establish a minimum value and tax base for the modified resident status, application process, and terms. The criteria would represent participants with a significant vested interest in the state of Arizona and worthy of the modified resident status: land owning, tax paying persons. Example: MRS candidates will submit an application consisting of an application fee and copies of property tax bills. They would pay the nonresident fees. Benefits: Increased participation and collection of nonresident fees through the MRS program will result in a significant increase in revenue for the Department. Conclusion: Significant additional revenue could be generated through implementation of the MRS program. With only 5% additional participation revenues could increase in excess of one millions dollars annually, based on tag quota. The increased revenue could be used to increase quality and opportunity. Program Overview: 1. Increase the tax revenue potential for state of Arizona; 2. Could increase land ownership and tax base; 3. Increased fees for the Department; 4. Fair for land owning, taxpaying Arizona partners; 5. Could be managed through quotas with a set maximum participation level; and 6. No cost to the Department as it is paid for by the application fee.

Agency Response: The Department appreciates the time and effort put into the commenter's suggestion, but the Department believes every citizen, regardless of economic or social status, has the opportunity to hunt, fish, and trap. The Commission, through a public process, determined the current draw application process best serves our constituency. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of persons and not to provide an advantage to certain classes (landowners). In addition, the suggestion to allow a nonresident who owns land in Arizona to be eligible for resident hunt permit-tags would be unenforceable and problematic to implement; it would also complicate the definition of what constitutes a resident and provide an unfair advantage to a select group of people.

Written Comment: January 7, 2015. This is science based. The Department should exempt seniors over the age of 70 from the computer draw. Proven by science, we are not going to live many more years therefor, give us a chance to hunt.

Agency Response: The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of individuals and not to provide an advantage to certain classes.

Written Comment: January 19, 2015. I am writing to you as a long time applicant to your state with 16 points for four different species and having never drawn a single tag. I see a trend among states to cut nonresident tags in general. I understand the need of hunter recruitment for the future of hunting but, I think the proposal to take the 10% cap, split it and give 5% in the random draw might be okay if the Department was starting out with a new system, but it is not. This is making a major change to the draw system and giving the shaft to the many who signed up on one set of rules, having patiently waited their turn in line, persons who are on the verge of drawing the tag of their dreams. I understand this is proposed because some low point holders are complaining that they cannot seem to draw a tag. I think the real problem is a lack of understanding on their part on how the draw system works. I think the Department could do a few things to help. The Department should be more transparent with the computer draw and show the difference in resident and nonresident drawing odds. The Department should put more effort into educating people how the draw works. The Department should make this change in steps over a period of three to five years and give the people who have been waiting for many years the option of using their points on something. If the Department is going to follow through with this proposal, look at Nevada's system, which is the fairest I know of.

Agency Response: The first phase of the current draw system issues available tags to those persons with the maximum number of bonus points. The computer draw system monitors the number of nonresidents drawn for tags and once the 10% nonresident cap, required under A.R.S. § 17-332, is reached it will eliminate all other nonresidents from the draw pool. Because nonresidents typically carry higher bonus point totals than residents, the 10% nonresident cap is sometimes reached in the first phase of the computer draw, which means a nonresident with no or few bonus points may never have the opportunity to draw a tag (this is especially true for high demand hunts). The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag; even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission amended the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent and ensure all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt.

Written Comment: January 19, 2015. I have 16 bonus points for deer; I have been applying for late Kaibab rifle hunts. I used to apply for the Strip hunts until I learned I would never draw one of those tags with the current draw system and rules in place. I am sure the Department is aware of Nevada's bonus point system of squaring points. What I like about this system is anyone can draw a tag in any given year; regardless of points; yet those near the maximum point pool have an advantage over those who are just starting out. This is the way it should be. Those with more skin in the game should be favored over those just starting out, while still providing a chance for those with low or no bonus points. This system would give newcomers hope for drawing a tag in the future, thus providing a continual stream of revenue for the Department. The current system leaves does not leave newcomers applying for Arizona tags much hope. Here is an example of how the Nevada system worked for me: I drew a tag the very first time I applied in Nevada for a top mule deer unit. I drew two more tags one 11 years later and the other 2 years later after that. Nevada and my home state are the only states I have drawn more than 1 tag in. Would it be possible for Arizona to scrap the current "bonus pass" altogether and start squaring points? I apply for tags in 7 to 8 different states every year, and have come to the conclusion that Nevada's system is the fairest and most equitable.

Agency Response: In Nevada, bonus points are squared when an application is submitted. For an application with 5 bonus points, the computer will generate 25 random numbers. It is important to note, having the greatest number of points does not guarantee a tag; however, it does provide a better chance of being assigned a low random number in the computer draw. While the Department has received a number of written criticisms in regards to the current bonus point system, the Commission determined through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters that a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. Implementing a squared point system that awards hunt permit-tags based solely on accumulated points would have a negative impact on the recruitment of new hunters. The Department's "bonus point" system is used in lieu of other point systems, because it rewards loyal applicants and provides new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw.

Written Comment: February 10, 2015. I live in Utah and have been applying for tags in Arizona for 17 years. I would like to propose a few ideas: Keep the full 10% of tags going to nonresidents in the bonus point pass. This will keep those persons who have invested thousands of dollars happy about their investment. Take 5% of the remaining tags and give them to the rest of the nonresident applicants to give them a chance at a premium tag. This should have minimal effect on the resident permits. Implement a muzzleloader hunt on many of your premium units. Utah has a muzzleloader hunt on all most all the premium elk and deer units. This will give more opportunity to hunt Premium units and unclog the system for nonresidents. Plus the success of the muzzleloader hunt is far less than the rifle hunt. So the Department can still maintain a premium hunt for everyone.

Agency Response: The first phase of the current draw system issues available tags to those persons with the maximum number of bonus points. The computer draw system monitors the number of nonresidents drawn for tags and once the 10% nonresident cap, required under A.R.S. § 17-332, is reached it will eliminate all other nonresidents from the draw pool. Because nonresidents typically carry higher bonus point totals than residents, the 10% nonresident cap is sometimes reached in the first phase of the computer draw, which means a nonresident with no or few bonus points may never have the opportunity to draw a tag (this is especially true for high demand hunts). The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag; even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission amended the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent and ensure all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt. Department biologists and Regional offices responsible for the management of a specific unit submit data concerning wildlife and wildlife habitat to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Program. The Terrestrial Wildlife Program then uses this data to formulate hunting seasons, which are included in the hunt recommendations provided to the Commission. Commission Orders establishing hunt structures are based on hunt recommendations resulting from an extensive public process. Your comment regarding muzzleloading hunts (black powder) was forwarded to the Department's Terrestrial Wildlife Branch for consideration during the next hunt guidelines review process.

Written Comment: July 1, 2015. Increase the bonus pass from 20% to 40%.

Agency Response: In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public.

Written Comment: July 7, 2015. The Department's hunt draws are not set up properly. A person with 11 bonus points should be drawn before someone with lesser points. I do not care about luck of the draw.

Agency Response: In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public.

Written Comment: January 13, 2016. I made a mistake and failed to apply before the last day of the application deadline last year. I had 12 bonus points and would have had 13 points right now, but because I missed the deadline I also lost my loyalty bonus point. I have been loyal to the Department for 12 years, paid around $2,000, and have never even hunted in Arizona. I made an honest mistake and let the drawing deadline pass. Is there any way I can pay last year's license fee and get my elk bonus points for this last year? If not, I understand, but why does the Department have a rule that lets the Department take a person's loyalty point away? I earned that loyalty point five years ago. Does anyone in the Department advocate for nonresidents? It does not seem like it. Nonresidents pay a large portion of the Department's salaries. What if someone had been putting in for your elk draw for 20 years? They have never been drawn and they missed the deadline of the draw? Do you take away their four loyalty points? How does that make any sense at all? Loyalty goes both ways. Why did the Department change the rules in the bonus pass draw for nonresidents? It already took more points for nonresidents to get drawn than residents. Many nonresident hunters with 10 to 20 bonus points were getting close to being drawn for their specific hunt choices. Why take away five% of the tags in the bonus pass draw for nonresidents and put them in the random draw for residents and nonresidents to draw? Nonresident hunters, who have waited for years, and paid good money for years, should get drawn before hunters who have only been waiting for a few years, or less. The overwhelming percentage of hunters will understand this. The hunters who have been waiting the longest should be the hunters who get drawn. If the Department really wants to improve the computer draw, it should copy Colorado. Colorado has a preference point system. They understand hunters who have waited the longest should get drawn earlier. Also, once their drawing closes it does not take three months to get the drawing results. Because Arizona takes so long to do their drawing I cannot put in for a couple other states I may want to.

Agency Response: Bonus points and loyalty bonus points may only be gained or lost through the computerized draw system. The Department understands your frustration; however, if a person fails to apply they cannot be entered into the draw. If an application is not entered into the system, the system cannot award a bonus point. It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure the application is submitted timely. The Department equally considers the desires and needs of both residents and nonresidents. Only one loyalty point is accrued after five consecutive years; the Department does not award additional bonus points every five years. In 2005, Congress enacted Public Law Number 109-13, section 6036, which reaffirmed each state's right to regulate hunting. The purpose of section 6036 was to prohibit courts from declaring nonresident hunting regulations unconstitutional based on the Dormant Commerce Clause. In addition, the statute governing tag allocation to nonresidents (A.R.S. § 17-332), is very specific and states, "The commission shall limit the number of big game permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing to ten per cent or fewer of the total hunt permits..." The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag - even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission proposes to amend the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent of ensuring all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt. While the Department is sensitive to your frustration and appreciates the time and effort put into building bonus points, the Department believes providing opportunity to all applicants is the right thing to do. The Commission directed the Department to reduce the number of days it takes to run the computer draw and post the results. To date, the Department has shortened the time between the end of the draw and the posting of the results from 64 days (the average at the time) to 25 days. The Department posted the results from the last computer draw in only 34 days. The Department will continue to evaluate the computer draw system in an effort to meet the 25 day goal.

Written Comment: October 11, 2016. I think the leftover process is unfair to everyone in rural Arizona. I have to depend on the post office to get my app there on time and it never does when I send it on the Friday before the deadline date. But, if I lived in Phoenix, it would go directly to the Department - on time. My mail has to go to three or four post offices before it gets there. There should be an extra computer draw or the Department should take applications for a week and then randomly pick applications for those left over tags. Even better, do not take away bonus points for a person's third, fourth, and fifth hunt choices.

Agency Response: The Department understands your frustration; however, if a person fails to apply they cannot be entered into the draw. If an application is not entered into the system, the system cannot award a bonus point. It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure the application is submitted timely. In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. When a person is drawn for a hunt permit-tag, the bonus points for that species are lost through the computerized draw system. Running two separate computer draws for the same hunts would be problematic to the Department and confusing to the public.

Written Comment: December 3, 2016. I am watching the live stream broadcast of the Commission meeting. As a 53 year old native born Arizonan, I am happy that the Department did not pass the recommendation as presented. However, I think there is some opportunity for the people that fit into this group. I recommend offering one permanent bonus point to anyone over the age of 69 who holds a pioneer license. The Department should also offer one bonus point for anyone over 69 who holds a pioneer license and was born in the state of Arizona; must prove age with a birth certificate. This would allow each person to enter the draw with up to four points assuming they have their hunter safety permit and loyalty point. I think people who choose this route should not be able to transfer their tag to a minor grandchild or child. If they want the opportunity to transfer tag they can opt out of the recommendations I propose. This could be done at the application process. I believe my recommendations would be much easier to administer and not near as expensive to Department.

Agency Response: In 1990 through an extensive public process and a random survey of hunters, the bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the draw; a bonus point system was preferred by the regulated public. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of individuals and not to provide an advantage to certain classes.

Written Comment: February 9, 2017. I am a nonresident who has accumulated 20 points for elk and mule deer; one of the points involved a trip to Arizona to complete the hunter education course. I have a great deal of time and money invested in your state. The latest rule change reduces the maximum bonus point pool draw from 100% of the available nonresident tags to 50% is a major setback to people like me, who have followed the rules and spent their time and money to draw a coveted Arizona tag. To make matters even worse, I was told by Department staff that there was a mistake made in the rule change that says when only one nonresident tag is available in a particular unit; it will not go in the bonus point pass. My question is, since this was not the intent of the Department, why has it not been corrected? Reducing the chances of your most loyal participants by 50% is one thing, but to not afford them a stronger chance because of an unintended error is another matter.

Agency Response: The Department believes the commenter was misinformed. In the computer draw, when only one tag available to nonresidents, it is awarded in the bonus point pass of the computer draw. The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag - even for the high demand hunts. Therefore, the Commission proposes to amend the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent of ensuring all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt. While the Department is sensitive to your frustration and appreciates the time and effort put into building bonus points, the Department believes providing opportunity to all applicants is the right thing to do.

Written Comment: June 14, 2017. This is the second time I have appealed to the Department requesting a family tag (deer, elk, etc.) be made available to hunters. I never received a response. When asking for input from the public, please include an email address on the announcement where we can respond in the event we are unable to attend the public hearings.

Agency Response: The Commission does not support this suggestion as it eliminated the family license classifications in 2014 because they were underutilized. At that same time, the Commission established an exemption to the hunting and fishing license requirement for youth under the age of 10 and a $5 combination hunting and fishing license for youth ages 10 to 17. This change was made to promote hunting and fishing in families and youth. It is important to note, while the Department does not issue a "family tag," a person may submit one or more group applications and have the opportunity to draw a tag for each person listed on the application(s).

The following comments suggest the Commission establish antler point restrictions.

Written Comment: January 12, 2015. This comment was received during the Department's Hunt Guidelines public comment period. The portions of the comments relating specifically to hunt guidelines are not included below (signified by ellipses). The number of hunters is increasing along with the amount of tags that are being issued for the decreasing number of animals to be hunted. The Department needs to regulate the deer population more stringently. There should be a point minimum for deer; spikes and young fork horns should not be harvested. Too many young deer are being harvested here and not giving the herds a chance to grow. I hunted in several different states that have a higher population of deer and those states have minimum point requirements for harvesting. ... As far as the left over deer tags are concerned, a person who does not get drawn in the regular draw and chooses to purchase a left over tag should not be awarded a bonus point for that year. It is getting harder to be drawn for the prime hunts due to more applicants and the left over tag strategy. ...

Written Comment: January 20, 2015. It seems the Department is more worried about making money. I have never seen as many tags sold and areas over hunted. Too many people are shooting the little spikes and small two point bucks. Soon the old ones will begin to die off or be shot or taken by predators and there will not be enough small ones to replace them. I have personally passed up many small bucks because I feel it is the right thing to do. I would like to see a point restriction of maybe three point or better except for the youth hunts.

Agency Response: Antler point restrictions are another approach that is often described by hunters as a good method by which to regulate take. The idea seems straightforward and promising; if we just don't allow hunters to harvest young bucks, they will grow older and bigger and be available for harvest later. Most western states and provinces have, at one point in time, employed some type of antler point restriction attempting to increase the number of "trophy" bucks in their herds. After decades of use and many evaluations reporting disappointing results, most western states and provinces have discontinued statewide antler point restrictions. The two main reasons for abandoning widespread antler point restrictions are: (1) unacceptable accidental-illegal kill, and (2) harvest mortality was increased (focused) on the very age classes they intended to promote. Available data and experience suggest antler point restrictions result in no long-term increase in either the proportion or number of mature bucks, or the total deer population. A few jurisdictions still have limited areas with antler point restrictions, due to hunter preference not a biological need. The use of antler point restrictions in a combined strategy with general open seasons is used in at least one case to maximize hunting opportunity. Most western states and provinces have concluded that sustainable improvements in buck:doe ratios and the number of mature bucks can only be realized by reducing harvest through: 1) a limited quota license system that decreases overall total buck harvest (as we do here), or by 2) setting a very short hunting season in early fall when mature bucks are less vulnerable. While antler point restrictions may increase the proportion of bucks in certain populations with low buck:doe ratios, there is no evidence they substantially increase the total number of adult (mature) bucks. The Department does not recommend any change to guidelines based on this comment.

The following comments suggest variations of a waiting period after being drawn for a hunt.

Written Comment: January 8, 2015. If a person is drawn for elk, that person should not be able to put in for elk the next year. This would give other people the opportunity to hunt instead of the same people being drawn all the time. I like the idea of improving my chances and other hunters and if I were drawn, waiting one year to put in again would not bother me.

Written Comment: March 22, 2015. We all know the specific species in hunting big game that are in high demand, which is why a bonus point system has been put in place. Some may wonder if the draw is fair because some have incredible luck. For big game species like elk, antelope, and bighorn sheep it can be incredibly hard to get drawn. Those that have been putting in for a long time feel cheated when someone with fewer points or no points is drawn. Why not set a limit for species points that are required in order for a person to receive a tag? Perhaps, requiring a person to have one species point at the time of application would prevent people from getting drawn back to back, especially for elk. This would also give those with more points a better chance of being drawn. I am suggesting a method that would help balance the draw system for high demand species and specific hunts. For the person waiting five or more years to get drawn, they may have a better chance due to the number of people who are not eligible. Revenues for the Department would stay the same and more people who have been waiting to get drawn will have a better chance.

Written Comment: September 05, 2015. The Department should develop a draw system where if I am drawn for elk, deer, antelope, etc. this year, I will not be eligible to draw a tag next year unless there were leftover tags. This would be a more fair system than the one currently in place. There are some hunters in this state that never get drawn while others get drawn almost every year. With the computer systems that are available, I feel that this could be easily done.

Written Comment: October 27, 2015. When I lived in Alaska, there was a rule that if you were successful hunter for a brown bear you could not apply for four years and in addition, in certain areas, if you were drawn you could not apply to that same area the following year. These regulations are still intact for Alaska brown bear and grizzly bear hunts today. Perhaps some combination of these ideas may improve the odds for the pronghorn draw.

Written Comment: April 7, 2016. As more people want to hunt the limited resource, it is harder than ever to draw an elk tag, unless you are willing to settle for a poor unit or cow hunt. I am getting old and may never get a bull tag again no matter how many points I have. Has the Department ever considered implementing a waiting period where if a person who is lucky enough to draw a bull tag cannot apply for another one for three years? This would not apply to cow hunts, just the early hunts that are high demand.

Written Comment: July 3, 2017. It is absurd how long it takes for a person to draw an antelope or bull elk tag. One solution to this issue may be only opening those two species to nonresidents every other year. I understand there may be a loss in revenue; however, Arizona seems to be in great fiscal shape right now and that should be taken into consideration as well.

Agency Response: The Department reviewed a variety of waiting period options in response to customer comment; such as one-, three-, and eight-year waiting periods for general and specific hunts. The analysis indicated that, except for youth hunts, implementing a waiting period would not substantially improve the odds of being drawn for those species that currently have low draw odds. For example, the projected increase in draw odds of .26 % (elk) to 6.3 % (late season deer) per applicant. The Commission determined implementing a waiting period would not be beneficial to persons who hunt in Arizona.

The following comments suggest various changes be made to the computer draw system:

Written Comment: February 10, 2015. I have 10 elk, 8 deer, and over 20 antelope bonus points. My brother-in-law has only been in Arizona 18 years and he was drawn for unit 19B twice? My other brother-in-law was drawn three times in the past 20 years. The Department should ensure all hunters get the opportunity to hunt. I apply in the same areas as my friends and family; and they draw a tag multiple times and even consecutively. When the bonus point system was introduced, we were led to believe that once a person accrued seven bonus points they were guaranteed a tag, but that has proven otherwise. Looking back, the old three year system was much better.

Written Comment: January 6, 2017. I would like the Department to make more tags available via age preference points or special seasons dedicated to those resident hunters age 65 or even 70 years of age and up. More than likely, those hunters have supported Arizona wildlife for many years and the years they have left to hunt are very limited. Having to acquire numerous bonus points to draw a deer or elk tag puts the elderly at a disadvantage of not being physically capable or dying before getting a tag for their last cow elk or deer hunt.

Written Comment: January 6, 2017. I find it frustrating how the preference point system works. I put in for specific species and hunts every year, but fail to draw a tag even with numerous preference points while others with no points draw a tag for the same hunt. There has to be a better system that gives more preference to those with preference points. It just does not seem right that many people fail to draw tags, year after year, while others applying for the same hunt with few or no preference points draw the tags ahead of them. I know many other hunters who feel the same way.

Written Comment: January 7, 2017. Arizona residents of 55 years cannot draw one Desert Bighorn Sheep Tag. I am 57 years old with 23 bonus points and there is a good chance I will not draw one sheep tag in my lifetime. I have a possible fix: Hold 40% of the tags for hunters with 20 or more bonus points. Hold 10% of the tags for hunters with 15 or more bonus points. Hunters age 14 to 21 are not eligible to apply for a tag, but can purchase bonus points each year. By the time they reach their 21st birthday they could have 7 bonus points to use when they apply for a tag.

Written Comment: May 12, 2017. I am not in favor of the draw changes being brought to vote on by the Commission. I might favor them if at least 10% were be allocated to nonresidents, not up to 10%. I feel that 10% should be the minimum going to nonresidents considering the millions of dollars made each year off of the nonresident application fees.

Written Comment: June 1, 2017. I am 77 years old and was born and raised in Arizona. Other than during my military service, I have lived here most of my life. I have a pioneer license and the only thing it has been good for is fishing, why can't I get drawn for elk? I ask the Department change the draw and place pioneer license holders first to be considered. I don't have many years left for hunting; I would like to kill an elk before I leave this wonderful State.

Written Comment: July 4, 2017. This fall I will turn 75 years old and I do not have another 5 to 20 years to wait for another big game tag. I propose the Commission set aside an allotment of big game tags dedicated for the pioneer residents only; similar to the designated allotment for nonresident tags. This tag would be issued only to a pioneer license holder and would not transferable.

Written Comment: July 18, 2017. As I understand it, 10% of all tags got to nonresident hunters and 20% of those go into the bonus point round. I believe there should be a higher percentage of tags going into the bonus point round. I do like the way the bonus point system is set up because it gives everyone a chance at a tag, whether a person has a bonus points or not. The problem I see is that the bonus point holders are not issued their fair share. There are many hunters that have 15, 20, or more bonus points. They may be holding out for one of those coveted tags they have always wanted but it should never have taken 20 years to get. I believe it is fair to allocate at least 50% of the tags to the bonus point round. This would reduce the amount of bonus points a person has to carry to earn a coveted tag, but still give a fair amount of tags to the general draw. If you wait 15 to 25 years to draw a coveted tag, by the time you get it you may not be able to enjoy it due to age and health issues. I do not believe there should be anyone with more than 10 bonus points for any animal, except for bighorn sheep because there are only a tags allotted each year.

Written Comment: November 28, 2017. I propose the nonresident tag allocation be application specific and match the fraction of resident and nonresident hunters on any given application when the application has resident hunters applying with nonresident hunters who are immediate family members.

Written Comment: November 30, 2017. I understand how the draw works, but realize that many hunters do not. I seek to change the draw limitations for nonresidents who hunt with immediate family members living in Arizona. Is there a forum or mechanism for proposing my change so that it can be heard and voted on? Do Arizona hunters get to have a say in whether suggestions put forth by other hunters can be given consideration by the Department? (This commenter was provided a Rule Petition Packet)

Agency Response: The Department is unable to increase the percentage of tags allocated to nonresidents as the statute governing tag allocation to nonresidents (A.R.S. § 17-332), is very specific and states, "The commission shall limit the number of big game permits issued to nonresidents in a random drawing to ten per cent or fewer of the total hunt permits,..." A legislative amendment is required before the Department may amend the rule as suggested. In 1990, the public through a public process rejected a waiting period system in favor of the bonus point system the Department currently uses. Few hunters are lucky enough to be drawn more often than others and it is understandable that those who are not drawn want to improve their chances. However, because the draw is based on probabilities, there is no way to eliminate this possibility without undue complication to the draw process. Generally, hunts that take place in high quality Game Management Units or that occur close to the rut have poor draw odds. For example, a summary of 2016 draw odds seems to indicate little advantage to having many bonus points. Further analysis, however, reveals that applicants with the largest number of bonus points are applying for hunts with the poorest draw odds, which obscures the benefits of having multiple bonus points. For example, elk applicants without any bonus points applied for hunts with draw odds that averaged 17.9 percent, while those with 23 bonus points applied for hunts with draw odds averaging less than 0.60 percent. This tendency held true for their second choices as well. If a person only wants one of these hunts, here are a few tips that may help: Never apply for any unwanted hunts; if a person is drawn, they lose their non-permanent bonus points. Realize it may be years before a person is drawn, be patient and persistent. Do not submit an invalid application. One way of minimizing mistakes is to apply online. A hunt with good draw odds often means it is considered by some hunters to be a "less desirable" hunt. On the other hand, many other hunters have the philosophy that any opportunity to hunt, get outdoors, and spend time with friends and family is highly desirable. So, if a person just wants to go hunting and is not as concerned about where or when, here are two tips: Pick a higher-demand hunt for the first choice, but choose a hunt with better draw odds as the second choice. For the best chances of being drawn, pick hunts with good draw odds for both first- and second-choices.

The following comments pertain to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, see 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015:

Written Comment: January 20, 2015. I am a proponent for an adjustment to the draw system due to the fact that nonresidents without high bonus point totals have no chance to draw a high quality deer or elk tag in Arizona. I understand the 20% bonus point pass that was added to the draw system added an element of fairness and an element of randomness that we have with the first and second choice pass of the draw. But this ended up creating a "preference point" draw system for nonresidents for all of the sought after hunts. I was in favor of a fifty-fifty split with half of the available tags being issued in the bonus point pass with the second half being set aside for the first and second choice pass of the draw. But now I have changed my opinion: I feel nonresidents who have paid their dues and accumulated bonus points for years, maybe decades, should be treated fairly and the fifty-fifty split would not be fair. A fifty-fifty split may cause a bottleneck of high bonus point holders, resulting in a much longer wait for tags. Nonresidents without lots of bonus points would still be encouraged to apply with a reasonable split of the tags. Maybe something like eighty-twenty would be more equitable when taking into account the dedication and money nonresidents with high point totals have invested in the computer draw.

Written Comment: January 27, 2015. I am writing to voice my support for the proposed change where half of the 10% of tags allocated to nonresidents will go to nonresidents with maximum bonus points and the other half to all nonresidents with low or no bonus points. I have been applying for the draw in Arizona intermittently for the last 7 years; knowing that I have no chance at drawing a tag for some of the more desirable units made it difficult to decide whether to apply or not. As a result, I have not acquired a loyalty point. This rule change will guarantee my application goes in every year, even with the knowledge that it is still a long shot. While I can understand that other nonresidents who are close to reaching the maximum bonus point pool will not be thrilled by this proposal, it seems to me that they are missing the main point, which is they are all one tag away from being a zero bonus point holder. Once that happens, this rule change allows them to jump right back into the game and not feel that they are condemned to applying for another 10, 15, or 20 years before their bell rings again. I do not play Utah, Nevada, or any other elk-state draws with the exception of New Mexico (they have a true lottery system, so I always feel like I have a chance). The Department needs to address the "up to 10%" stipulation in the draw. If the draw is changed, I believe it is important that nonresidents receive that 10% instead of residents. I think the absolute best scenario would be issuing residents 85% of the total tags for any given hunt, with the remainder going to nonresidents. The first 10% would be issued during the 20% bonus point pass phase of the draw and the other 5% would be issued during the first and second choice pass of the draw. I believe this is the best solution because it addresses the problem of point creep for the nonresidents and the draw would truly have the element of fairness and randomness it was intended to have. I believe we are on the verge of having the best draw system out there and with a couple of slight adjustments - it can be accomplished.

Written Comment: February 2, 2015. I will start off by saying I understand the Department's situation and believe changes are necessary. However, the effect of the proposed changes to a long-time applicant, such as myself, are penalizing and certainly not rewarding. I am a nonresident who has been applying for Arizona tags for 25 years. During this time, I drew two elk tags which resulted in two guided hunts - one resulted in the harvest of an elk and both thoroughly enjoyable. I traveled to Arizona to take the Hunter Education Course to increase my chances of being drawn. Even though license fees have gone up, I thought it was still a good investment. I also apply to other states and come from a province where the 'resident vs nonresident' debate is a very hot debate. If the proposed changes are put in place, I will eventually give up the desert bighorn dream and continue to enjoy the wonderful opportunities I have in British Columbia.

Written Comment: February 2, 2015. The reality that none of the nonresident tags make it out of the bonus point pass in a growing number of units is becoming common knowledge. Where this is a reality, it can be said that Arizona is running a pure preference point system with all of the tags for high demand hunts being issued in the bonus point pass. Calling it a bonus point system implies there is a chance to draw a tag and I think that is misleading to the general public. I agree this issue needs to be corrected. I appreciate the way the Department has treated nonresidents during my 15 years of applying there. During this time, many other states have chosen to dilute nonresident points by diverting tags to outfitters and auction or raffle tags. The Department maintained the “up to 10%” nonresident quota and I think the nature of the Department bringing this proposal to the table speaks volumes of the Commissioner's goodwill and sense of fairness. Although the proposal would hurt me personally (I have 13 elk points), I do not think this is a bad idea. However, I have two major suggestions: I think it is critical to have the change postponed to begin in the 2018-2019 hunting season rather than the 2016-2017 season to allow current high point holders a fair opportunity to spend their points prior to the change taking place. It would also provide some consolation to those people who are vested in the current system and have patiently played the game by existing rules. I do have a problem with the idea of distributing the newly available 5% of the nonresident tags via the totally random draw. This is a disservice to those vested hunters, as it would immensely devalue their hard earned points. These two changes to the original proposal would result in immediate interest from new nonresidents buying into the system, knowing points bought next year would enhance their chances of drawing when the rule kicks in, but it would do so in a more gradual transition. To me, this would be a fair compromise and good long term solution to this tag allocation situation. I hope you will consider my opinion during final decision making process. If these changes to the draw system are made, I strongly suggest scrapping the entire concept of a confusing 20% pass in favor of a very simple 10% nonresident set aside; straight 50% preference and 50% bonus.

Written Comment: February 5, 2015. I support Utah's draws system because it gives everyone a chance to draw, a person does not have to have the maximum bonus points to draw a tag. I do not have maximum bonus points in Arizona, but I want to have the same chance to draw a tag as the people with maximum points. There has to be a way the Department can make the draw system work like Utah does.

Written Comment: February 5, 2015. I would support a system similar to Utah's where half of the nonresident tags are awarded to maximum bonus point holders and the other half is put into a draw where all nonresidents have an opportunity to draw a tag.

Written Comment: February 7, 2015. I am writing about the proposal to split nonresident tags fifty-fifty in the draw. I believe this will reduce nonresident opportunity as many tags will be drawn by residents by simply removing them from the maximum bonus point draw. A better solution would be to allocate 10% tags to nonresident and draw nonresident separately, allocating tags fifty-fifty. This would guarantee nonresidents a chance in both draws.

Written Comment: February 8, 2015. I am writing to express my opinion on the current status quo that is the nonresident bonus point allocation issue; specifically how nonresident tags might be distributed in and after the bonus pass portion of the computer draw. I am sure the Department will agree that for the sake of Department's budget and continued hunter recruitment efforts, it is critical to maintain the interest of those persons who apply for elk and deer permits but have low or no bonus points. The reality that none of the nonresident permits make it out of the bonus pass in a growing number of units is becoming common knowledge. Where this is a reality, it can be said that Arizona is effectively running a pure preference point system with 100% of the nonresident tag assignment within the bonus pass. Calling it a bonus point system implies that there is a chance to draw when in fact there is no chance. I think this is misleading to the general public. I think the nature of the Department wanting to bring this to the table speaks volumes of the Commissioner's goodwill and sense of fairness. But, with regard to the proposed fifty-fifty split allocation, I disagree with the concept. The same sense of fairness should be maintained when considering the people who are vested in the current system. By mandating a full half of the available permits to the lower draw passes, the Department essentially diluted the value of those persons with higher point totals. This will elongate the draw timetable for those who have patiently played the game under the existing rules. The proposal will reduce the overall number of tags going to nonresident hunters. I ask the Commission to consider keeping the current bonus pass allocation system and allow up to an additional 5 to 10% of remaining tags (or one tag) to go to nonresident hunters. This would keep current nonresident maximum bonus point holders happy and provide hope to nonresidents with low or no bonus points. It would reduce the number of tags available to residents, but because of the "up to" wording, overall resident tag reduction would be less than the additional 5 to 10% granted.

Written Comment: February 23, 2015. I have the maximum bonus points for nonresident deer in Arizona. I disagree with the proposed bonus point draw change. For all practical purposes, this change reduces the nonresident tag allotment by half. Please consider the following: I have followed the Department's regulations since 1998. I have driven to Phoenix to attend the hunter education course for that bonus point. I have purchased a nonresident hunting license and paid the application fee every year. The cost for those licenses to date is $2,470. Any proposal to reduce my opportunity by half and allow three individuals with no history of commitment or loyalty to cut to the front of the line would be unethical and immoral. However, changing the regulations because of sound game management or a biological reason is acceptable to me.

Written Comment: December 24, 2015. I want to believe that average Joe nonresidents were the engine behind changing the first pass of the draw, but I continue to read that politics were involved. Did the review occur because of one or a few noteworthy nonresident persons who wanted it changed? The Department stated the change had to happen because bonus point holders in the top pools were the only ones reaping the benefits in the Units 13A and 13B. Then why was the change instituted for elk? In the 2015 draw, the maximum point holders had 25 points. If there was a bias, why would applicants with 20 points draw tags for the early muzzy hunt in Unit 9 and the early rifle hunt in Unit 10? These have been and still are regarded as two of the most highly coveted elk hunts in the U.S. There is no bias toward maximum bonus point holders in the elk draw like what we see in the Strip deer hunts. Why would the Department reduce the opportunity for the nonresident elk upper point holders? To me this is unconscionable when you consider that these are the same persons that have provided loyalty and support to the Department for twenty years.

Agency Response: The first phase of the current draw system issues available tags to those persons with the maximum number of bonus points. The computer draw system monitors the number of nonresidents drawn for tags and once the 10% nonresident cap, required under A.R.S. § 17-332, is reached it will eliminate all other nonresidents from the draw pool. Because nonresidents typically carry higher bonus point totals than residents, the 10% nonresident cap is sometimes reached in the first phase of the computer draw, which means a nonresident with no or few bonus points may never have the opportunity to draw a tag (this is especially true for high demand hunts). The bonus point system was established to reward loyal applicants while providing new applicants an opportunity to successfully participate in the computer draw; the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a tag, even when the odds are very low. The bonus point system has been successful in meeting its objective to improve odds for long-term participants, but not successfully enough for everyone. Over the years, the Department received numerous comments from the public suggesting the Department modify the draw process to ensure all nonresidents, even those with no or low bonus points, are afforded an opportunity to draw a tag; even for the high demand hunts. As it is now, there are some hunts for which a nonresident applicant with no or low bonus points will never have a chance of drawing a tag due to the number of nonresident applicants with maximum bonus points. Therefore, the Commission amended the rule to bring the draw process back in line with the original intent and ensure all applicants, regardless of residency and number of bonus points, will have an opportunity to draw a tag in any given hunt.

Written Comment: January 18, 2015. I am a nonresident who supports the proposal of only issuing half of the nonresident tags in the maximum point holders. I believe this is a better way to provide all nonresidents who apply the opportunity to draw while still giving those that have been in the system some advantage. I know several younger individuals who feel they have no hope of ever drawing a premium tag in Arizona simply because they were not old enough or did not have the opportunity to apply at the beginning of the point system. The proposal seems to address both as well as allowing those who are yet to be old enough to participate in the draw process the opportunity to draw a premium tag sometime in their future.

Written Comment: February 4, 2015. I support changing the draw system to allow half the tags to max point holders and half to applicants that do not have maximum points.

Written Comment: February 4, 2015. As a nonresident I support the proposed changes to the nonresident pool. Most nonresidents I know have quit applying for anything in Arizona because of the current system. All of them would begin applying again if there was a chance, even though slim, they would draw a tag. As a side note, the only other idea would be to consider a square root system like the state of Nevada does.

Written Comment: February 5, 2015. I support the change for the nonresident tag allocation system to better the chances of ever drawing a strip tag.

Agency Response: The Department appreciates your support.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule is amended to remove descriptive language relating to tag features; increase consistency between Commission rules by updating application requirements; remove javelina from the list of game subject to the 10% nonresident cap; establish the Department shall make available one hunt permit-tag when a hunt number has less than five, but more than one available hunt permit-tag; describe all phases of the computer draw process to provide a more complete description of the computer draw system; clarify that a person may possess the same number of hunt permit-tags equal to the applicable bag limit; prohibit a person who has reached the bag limit for a specific genus from applying for another hunt permit-tag for that genus during the same calendar year; establish in rule that the Commission may, at a public meeting, increase the number of hunt permit-tags issued to nonresidents in a computer draw when necessary to meet management objectives; and establish the Department shall not issue more than 50% of the hunt permit-tags available to nonresidents with the highest number of bonus points through the initial bonus point pass of the computer draw. The Commission anticipated the regulated community and the Department would benefit from a rule that establishes hunt permit- and nonpermit-tag requirements; prospective vendors would benefit by being able to submit a proposal and possibly be awarded a bid; the regulated community and the Department would benefit from the amendment that allows a person to possess the same number of permit- and nonpermit-tags as allowed for the bag limit of that genus; and the Department will benefit from increased tag sales.

The typical response is, "The Department has determined that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective." State how the rule benefits the public, persons regulated by the rule, Department, and other agencies (as applicable). If the rule imposes unnecessary burdens, state how the rule will be amended to make it less burdensome and finish with, "The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule." IF the rule is amended to place additional burdens on the public, persons regulated by the rule, Department, and other agencies, explain the reason and anticipated benefits resulting from the proposed amendments.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. The Department proposes to amend R12-4-114 to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-115. RESTRICTED NONPERMIT-TAGS; SUPPLEMENTAL HUNTS AND HUNTER POOL

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-239, 17-331(A), and 17-332(A)

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the Commission's authority to implement a supplemental hunt when necessary to achieve management objectives when those objectives are not being reached through the regular season structures, take depreddating wildlife, or address an immediate threat to the health, safety, or management of wildlife or its habitat, or to public health or safety. The rule also establishes the requirements for the supplemental hunter pool, comprised of persons who may be called upon to receive restricted nonpermit-tags when a supplemental hunt is authorized by the Commission. Under A.R.S. 17-239(D), the Commission may establish special seasons, special bag limits, and reduce or waive license and tag fees to crop that wildlife. The rule was adopted to establish an application process and hunter pool to enable the Department conduct those authorized activities.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to define "companion tag" and "emergency season;" replace the term "supplemental hunt" with "restricted non-permit tag;" enable the Commission to approve a supplemental hunt by Commission Order; separate the processes and requirements specific to restricted nonpermit-tags and companion tags; update application requirements; clarify who is eligible to receive companion tag; and clarify that a person purchasing a restricted nonpermit-tag must either possess or purchase a license that is valid at the time of the supplemental hunt. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons regulated by the rule by creating more opportunities for the use of wildlife resources, with few costs, and maintaining hunting opportunity.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

Under A.R.S. 17-239(D), the Commission may establish special seasons, special bag limits, and reduce or waive license and tag fees to crop that wildlife. The public benefits from a rule that provides additional opportunity to hunters outside of the established seasonal structure. The Department benefits from a rule that establishes a fair process to offer additional permit-tags when the Commission determines a supplemental hunt is necessary. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-116. REWARD PAYMENTS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(7) and 17-315(B)(1)

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements necessary for reward payments to include the schedule of reward payments. The reward program is established to motivate persons to report violations and provide information that will result in the arrest of a perpetrator when a case cannot otherwise be resolved. The rule was adopted to protect future populations and keep the state's wildlife resources available and abundant for the long-term. Reward payments have successfully been distributed on wildlife law enforcement cases that meet certain criteria since the inception of the OGT in 1979. Through OGT, a person can receive a reward when a tip they provided results in an arrest. The illegal take of game or fish is known as poaching; poaching reduces opportunities to hunt and fish in Arizona. Game laws are in place to restrict hunting limits and protect the numbers of animals available year after year. When poachers take wildlife out of season or kill more than state bag limits, they can jeopardize the health and longevity of the herd and interrupt breeding seasons. If the information provided is enough to warrant a citation or physical arrest, reward payments are paid immediately. Reward payments of $50 to $1,000 are offered in certain cases for information leading to the arrest of wildlife violators. Many states require a conviction before a reward payment may be offered. However, in Arizona, if the information provided is enough to warrant a citation or physical arrest, reward payments are made immediately. If desired, the reward is offered confidentially. Funding for reward payments comes from fines and civil penalties assessed to the poachers.

The Department typically offers cash reward payments between $6,000 and $20,000 (or more) annually to individuals who report wild life crimes. Under Arizona law, a caller can remain anonymous and their confidentiality is protected. Operation Game Thief reward payments are funded by fines collected for criminal and civil violations of Title 17. Because the program is funded in this manner, there is no specific annual amount of funding made available by the Department to the program.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.

Under A.R.S. § 17-315(B)(1), reward payments may also be to persons who report attendant acts of vandalism. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish the reward payments to be paid for information received regarding attendant acts of vandalism.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to increase the reward value to $500 for big game, eagles, and threatened and endangered species. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit the regulated community by creating more opportunities for the use of wildlife resources, with few costs, and maintaining resident hunting opportunity.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements necessary for reward payments to include the schedule of reward payments, which is intended to motivate persons to report violations and provide information leading to the arrest of a perpetrator. The illegal take of game or fish is known as poaching; poaching reduces opportunities to hunt and fish in Arizona. Game laws are in place to restrict hunting limits and protect the numbers of animals available year after year. When poachers take wildlife out of season or kill more than state bag limits, they can jeopardize the health and longevity of the herd and interrupt breeding seasons. If the information provided is enough to warrant a citation or physical arrest, reward payments are paid immediately. If desired, the reward is offered confidentially. Funding for reward payments comes from fines and civil penalties assessed to poachers. The public benefits from a rule that future populations and keep the state's wildlife resources available and abundant for the long-term. The Department benefits from a rule that encourages the public to report information regarding wildlife violations. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable.

The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-116 as follows:

- Replace references to "antelope" with "pronghorn antelope" to reflect language used in Commission Order and public outreach materials.
- Establish the reward payments to be paid for information received regarding attendant acts of vandalism.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-117. INDIAN RESERVATIONS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-211(E)(4) and 17-309(A)(19)

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to specify that a state license, permit, or tag is not required to hunt or fish on any

Indian reservation, that any lawfully taken game or fish may be transported and/or processed anywhere in the state if it can be identified as to species and legality pursuant to statute, and that all wildlife transported in this state is subject to inspection. Under A.R.S. § 17-102, wildlife found in this state are property of the state. Under A.R.S. § 17-211(E), a Game Ranger or Wildlife Manager may inspect all wildlife taken or transported in this state. Wildlife pose a unique "property" issue as it does not recognize land boundaries and frequently moves onto and off of state and tribal lands. When found on an Indian reservation, the wildlife are property of that reservation. When found on state land (includes private land), the wildlife are property of the state. The Department recognizes wildlife found on an Indian reservation belong to the tribal government and are under tribal jurisdiction. While the tribal government may require a tribal license, permit, or tag for the take of wildlife; the state may not impose any requirements on a hunter or angler who is taking wildlife on an Indian reservation. The rule was adopted to provide notice to members of the public that, even though wildlife may have been lawfully taken on an Indian reservation, all wildlife transported anywhere in this state is subject to inspection.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to correct a statutory reference and clarify that an inspection may be required when a person transports wildlife taken on an Indian reservation anywhere in this State. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit the regulated community by creating more opportunities for the use of wildlife resources, with few costs, and maintaining resident hunting opportunity.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

- 11. No action.

R12-4-118. HUNT PERMIT-TAG SURRENDER

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(8), and 41-2752

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to enable the Department to implement a tag surrender program, to include the establishment of a membership program and the requirements and limitations for the surrender of an unused hunt permit-tag. The rule was adopted in response to Commission direction to as a means to encourage participation in recreational activities and generate additional revenue for the Game and Fish Fund as well as provide the public with a way to stay up-to-date on the latest hunting, angling, volunteer, and Department activities. In addition, the Commission also directed the Department to establish a satisfactory remedy to address the scenario where a person who applied for the wrong hunt (e.g., hunter meant to apply for a bull elk hunt, but entered a cow elk hunt number on the application) or is unable to use the hunt permit-tag due to unforeseen circumstances and is requesting the restoration of those bonus points expended for the hunt permit-tag. At that time, the current statutes and administrative rules did not provide a remedy when a person is unable to use the hunt permit-tag for any reason.

Since the membership program was implemented in January 2016, approximately:

- 57,470 memberships were purchased.
- 445 hunt permit-tags were surrendered to the Department in compliance with the rule.
- 90 hunt permit-tags were donated to nonprofit organizations in compliance with the rule.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to remove the Department website Uniform Resource Location (url) and simply reference "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

The Department received the following written criticism of the rule:

Written Comment: July 7, 2014. Could the program that allows a person to surrender their unused hunt permit-tag be changed to also allow a person who participates in a work project directed toward wildlife enhancement surrender their hunt permit-tag? Projects like maintaining fences for the recently captured and transplanted Bison when they are turned loose onto the House Rock Buffalo Ranch. This could help to fill the volunteer "gap" in projects that need to be completed but the Department does not have the workforce to complete them.

Agency Response: The tag surrender program is specific to hunt permit-tags issued through the computer draw. The Commission's draw process is designed to provide equal opportunity to all classes of individuals and not to provide an advantage to certain classes; this intent is also applied to the membership program's tag surrender benefit. As a result, the Department does not believe that any class of individuals (including volunteers) should be able to surrender an unused hunt permit-tag without having purchased a membership.

Written Comment: April 7, 2015. I have thought a lot about the rule not allowing the return of a drawn tag. How do you feel when you try to return something you have bought and the return is accepted? How about if you are turned down? Even if the item is in perfect condition and easily sold to someone else. It is the American way; good will toward all. I do not understand why I cannot donate my tag to a disabled veteran, forfeit my money, and get my points back. Follow-up comment: April 8, 2015. I support the a new rule that allows a tag holder to surrender their tag and have their points reinstated. I think that if someone would like to donate a tag they have drawn to a disabled veteran or handicapped youth they should be able to get their points back. This creates a win/win situation. Everyone is happy and the system works for the people it is set up for, hunters. Everyone has tried to return something they have purchased for some reason. How do you feel when you are allowed to return? How do you feel when you are turned down, even if the returned item is easily sold to someone else? It is a matter of courtesy and contributes to the American way; goodwill towards all.

Agency Response: The Department appreciates your support.

Written Comment: June 27, 2016. Here are my concerns: Was the Department aware that someone offered their bonus points for sale on E-bay? The idea being the seller had the maximum bonus points and would apply for a hunt with the highest bidder to increase their bonus point average. This has created a lucrative “points market.” I have found nothing in the literature that says selling points is unlawful. Although I do not agree with it, a person would be stupid not to sell their points once before they draw. Some of the guides have indicated they have maximum point holders who plan to draw a hunt permit-tag, wait to see what caliber bucks the guides find; and then, if they do not find a large enough buck, they would simply surrender their hunt permit-tag. This is unfair to the average hunter who cannot afford the additional funds needed to pay for someone else's bonus points. People with money can simply pay to apply with maximum bonus point holders and hunt their favorite units every year. Is this fair? This will also create noticeable point creep. I know a person can only surrender a hunt permit-tag once, but I cannot believe this is what the program was intended for. The fact that a person can turn a hunt permit-tag back in for any reason combined with the fact that the person will also get an additional bonus point as if they were unsuccessful. The last part is what I believe is most disturbing and just makes this new program ripe for abuse. I recommend the Commission take another look at this and at least stop adding that additional point. In essence, the Department is letting people change their application after the draw. When a person in a group application wants to return their tag and removing that person from the group lowers the groups bonus point average, everyone in the group should have to surrender their tag. What will the Department do about this abuse? If the Department does nothing, it will be clear this program is based on revenue alone. This would be very easy to fix, let folks retain their bonus points, but do not give them that additional point. The group averaging is easy to fix as well.

Agency Response: The Department is not aware of any situation where bonus points being auctioned to the highest bidder. Under the proposed rule, a person is limited to a single surrender with a reinstatement of bonus points. Once the person surrenders their tag and their bonus points are restored, they must expend those bonus points before surrendering another hunt permit-tag. The Department believes this sufficient to prevent abuse of the tag surrender program. While a fee is associated with the membership program, membership in the program is voluntary and enrollment will have no impact on the persons odds in any computer draw held by the Department. The tag surrender program has been in effect for two full cycles of the computer draw and there is little evidence that abuse is occurring. Since the tag surrender program was implemented in January 2016, the participation rate in the membership program has averaged 3% across all species, with the highest level of participation occurring for the elk, deer, sheep, and pronghorn computer draws and lowest level of participation occurring for the fall seasons. Participation in the program is increasing each year with the expectation that participation will increase as more persons learn about the tag surrender program. Of the four maximum bonus point holders who purchased a membership and subsequently surrendered their unused hunt permit-tag, none of them applied for their hunt with another person. Applying for a hunt with someone who has fewer bonus points lowers the maximum bonus point holder's odds of being drawn, especially in hunts with low permit numbers. In addition, because the Department uses a bonus point system instead of a preference point system, the intent has always been to allow every applicant a chance of drawing a hunt permit-tag, regardless of residency and number of bonus points.

Written Comment: June 28, 2016. When the Department solicited comments on the amendments that would include options for tag surrender, there was discussion about potentially allowing for the surrender of a tag in order to allow for the transfer of another tag for the same genus in the same year. The example proposed was when a child draws a tag, but a parent or grandparent draws a premium tag that they would like child to have the opportunity to use. I believe there was discussion about allowing a child in that situation to surrender her tag (either before or after their own hunt) in order to allow for such transfers to take place. Did that proposal ever get any traction?

Agency Response: Once you surrender a tag, you receive your bonus points back and your record is changed to a not drawn status. A youth hunter can surrender their tag and be eligible to have a parent or grandparent transfer a tag to them, but only if they surrender the youth's before the first day of their hunt. The concept the commenter described was discussed with the Commission, but the Commission chose to keep the rule as simple as possible, implement the rule, and then re-evaluate at a later date. At this time, the Department does not recommend making any changes to the program.

Written Comment: June 7, 2017. Do not allow a group application to use of the tag surrender program. This will prevent abuse such as using other person's bonus points to get tags and then allowing the person to turn their tag back in and keep their bonus points. Only single person applications can use the tag surrender program. I would like to see any person to be able to turn in a tag they cannot use every year, not once per lifetime per species.

Agency Response: Under the proposed rule, a person is limited to a single surrender with a reinstatement of bonus points. Once the person surrenders their tag and their bonus points are restored, they must expend those bonus points before surrendering another hunt permit-tag. The Department believes this sufficient to prevent abuse of the tag surrender program. The tag surrender program has been in effect for two full cycles of the computer draw and there is little evidence that abuse is occurring. Since the tag surrender program was implemented in January 2016, the participation rate in the membership program has averaged 3% across all species, with the highest level of participation occurring for the elk, deer, sheep, and pronghorn computer draws and lowest level of participation occurring for the fall seasons. Of the four maximum bonus point holders who purchased a membership and subsequently surrendered their unused hunt permit-tag, none of them applied for their hunt with another person. Under the rule, a person is not limited to only using the tag surrender program once per lifetime per species. A person must expend any bonus points that have been restored before they may surrender another hunt permit-tag for that specific species, but once expended a person may begin accruing bonus points for that species and use the hunt permit-tag surrender program again.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was adopted to establish a membership program and the requirements and limitations for the surrender of an unused, original hunt permit-tag as well as the criteria for the re-issuance of a surrendered hunt permit-tag. Basically, the tag surrender program provides hunters with peace of mind in knowing they can surrender their tag for any reason without losing their bonus points. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons regulated by the rule and the Department by establishing a membership program, to include the limitations and requirements for surrendering a tag and restoring the bonus points expended for the surrendered tag. It is difficult to quantify the value a person places on their bonus points; however, it can be significant. The Commission did not anticipate the membership fee would significantly affect a person's ability to participate in an activity or have a significant impact on a person's income, revenue, or employment in this State related to that activity. While a fee is associated with the membership program, membership is voluntary and enrollment would have no impact on a person's odds in any computer draw held by the Department.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable; the rule was adopted on January 2, 2016.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the Department's tag surrender program, to include the establishment of a membership program and the requirements and limitations for the surrender of an unused hunt permit-tag. The public benefits from a rule that encourages participation in recreational activities and establishes a satisfactory remedy that addresses scenarios where a person is able to surrender an unused hunt permit-tag and request the restoration of those bonus points expended for the hunt permit-tag. While it is difficult to quantify the value a person places on their bonus points, it can be significant. Becoming a member of the Department membership program is voluntary and only those persons who choose to participate in the program will pay a membership fee. The Department benefits from a rule that encourages participation in recreational activities and generates additional revenue for the Game and Fish Fund and engages the public in volunteer, and Department activities. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-118 to replace references to the Department website url with "Department's website" to ensure the rule remains concise in the event the Department's url should change.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-119. ARIZONA GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT RESERVE

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(1) and 17-214

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to prescribe requirements and duties for commissioned reserve officers and noncommissioned reserve volunteers for the purposes stated under A.R.S. § 17-214(B). The rule was adopted to further the Department's resources by allowing qualified individual's to assist in conducting Department enforcement and non-enforcement activities, as applicable.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to Arizona Administrative Procedure Act and the Secretary of State's rulemaking format and style requirements and standards. Because the amendments were nonsubstantive in nature, the Commission anticipated the amendments would have no impact on the Department or regulated community.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.

- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements and duties for commissioned reserve officers and noncommissioned reserve volunteers for the purposes stated under A.R.S. § 17-214(B). The public and the Department benefit from a rule that furthers the Department's resources by allowing qualified individual's to assist in conducting Department enforcement and non-enforcement activities. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

No action.

R12-4-120. ISSUANCE, SALE, AND TRANSFER OF SPECIAL BIG GAME LICENSE-TAGS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(A)(8), 17-331(A), 17-332(A), and 17-346

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish procedures for the application and issuance of special big game license-tags, including the selection criteria for choosing applicants who are awarded such tags as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-346. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with the requirements of A.R.S. § 17-346.

The Commission is authorized to issue three special big game license-tags each year for each species of big game to 501(c)(3) organizations. The Commission reviews applications submitted by eligible wildlife conservation organizations and, through a public process, awards those tags to selected organizations to raise funds for wildlife. Tags are awarded to eligible wildlife conservation organizations in June and are valid from August 15 of the year in which they were purchased until August 14 the following year; a separate hunting license is not required.

The year round season allows a special big game license-tags winner the time to pursue a big game animal, many of which can only be found in the southwest and some only in Arizona: Gould's wild turkey, desert and Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep, Coues white-tailed deer, and Kaibab mule deer.

The selected organizations market and sell the special big game license-tags. These tags are typically made available to the public through auctions or raffles. Every dollar raised from each species tag goes directly to the management of that species through wildlife and habitat management in coordination with the Arizona Habitat Partnership Committee. Projects range from water improvements, wildlife friendly fencing, wildlife studies, game surveys, translocations, habitat restorations, land acquisitions and more. Many of these projects are matched and further leveraged with other funding sources, labor, or supplied materials, stretching every dollar spent even further. Administrative and marketing costs are covered by the wildlife conservation organization.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

However, there are concerns over the length of time it takes for the auctioning organization to provide the winning bidders license information. This causes problems because the licenses are valid from August 15 of the year the special big game license-tags was won until August 14 the following year. When the organization waits to provide the required information to the Department, the winning bidder loses hunting days. The Department proposes to amend the rule to specify the organization shall submit the winning bidder's license information to the Department within 90 days of the close of the raffle or auction.

In addition, there are concerns over events that take place after the raffle or auction is completed: when the winning bidder decides not to purchase the special big game license-tags; when the winning bidder wants to re-sell the tag to another person; and when the winning bidder is a guide who is unsuccessful in obtaining a client and wants to continue to be able to offer the tag and guided hunt for sale. In an effort to maintain the integrity of the auction and raffle and make the auction and raffle process more transparent the Department proposes to amend the rule to establish measures designed to prevent the abuse of tags sales and transfers. The Department intends to coordinate with wildlife conservation organizations who have received tags in the past in determining appropriate measures, which may include but is not limited to allowing the winning bidder to transfer the tag to a member of their family (i.e., spouse, natural child, adopted child, foster child, stepchild, natural parent, stepparent, adoptive parent, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, aunt, uncle, nephew or niece); prohibiting a guide or outfitter from buying a tag in the name of their business; requiring a commercial entity bidding on behalf of a private person to designate that person in advance of the auction.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to reference the hunt permit-tag transfer established under R12-4-121.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to establish that an organization cannot resubmit a corrected proposal but may submit a proposal again the following year because proposals are reviewed after the May 31 proposal deadline. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would not have a significant impact on persons regulated by the rule.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the procedures for the application and issuance of special big game license-tags, including the selection criteria for choosing applicants who are awarded such tags as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-346.

The public benefits from a rule that Arizona's wildlife; dollars raised through the public auction or raffle of tags goes directly to the management of that species through wildlife and habitat management in coordination with the Arizona Habitat Partnership Committee. Projects range from water improvements, wildlife friendly fencing, wildlife studies, game surveys, translocations, habitat restorations, land acquisitions and more. The Department benefits from a rule that enables the Department to further leverage other funding sources to benefit wildlife and wildlife habitat. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-120 as follows:

- Specify the organization shall submit the winning bidder's license information to the Department within 90 days of the close of the raffle or auction.
- Reference the hunt permit-tag transfer established under R12-4-121.
- Establish measures designed to prevent the abuse of special license tags sales and transfers that occur after the auction or raffle ends, which may include but is not limited to:
 - Allowing the winning bidder to transfer the tag to a member of their family (i.e., spouse, natural child, adopted child, foster child, stepchild, natural parent, stepparent, adoptive parent, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, aunt, uncle, nephew or niece).
 - Prohibiting a guide or outfitter from buying a tag in the name of their business.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-121. BIG GAME TAG TRANSFER

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-231(A)(2), 17-231(A)(3), 17-231(A)(8), 17-331(A), 17-332(A), and 17-346(D)

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements for an unused big game tag transfer as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-332, which allows a parent, guardian, or grandparent to transfer their unused big game tag to a minor child or grandchild; or a person to transfer their unused big game tag to a 501(c)(3) organization that provides hunting opportunities and experiences to a minor child with life-threatening medical conditions or physical disabilities or a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces who has a service-connected disability. The rule was adopted to ensure compliance with A.R.S. § 17-332.

The Department processes approximately 700 transfers on an annual basis, this figure includes transfers to a minor child or grandchild and transfers to a 501(c)(3) organization.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

Written Comment: April 4 and August 1, 2013. There is a growing segment of people that do not have children who live in Arizona, children under the age of 18, or grandchildren old enough to hunt. I suggest the Department allow a person to transfer a tag to family member; verified through birth records and/or a signed statement. In the past, I offered a HAM season tag to a charity but was turned down due to short notice. I would enjoy taking my adult children, nieces, and nephews hunting. I really do not need to kill an animal, just getting out is reward enough. Seeing my son, daughter, nephew, or niece get buck fever would be a memory that would last two lifetimes (the rest of mine and the rest of theirs). This would expand hunting experience and opportunities and help to pass on the hunting tradition to family and friends. It would also increase revenue due to the additional license sales (for the one getting the tag). This would allow a grandfather to use his Pioneer license to make applications and hunt with his family so he can still enjoy the thrill of the hunt. Rather than waste a tag, one could transfer it to a family member who either did not get drawn or could not afford the tag at the time of application.

Written Comment: July 30, 2014. My son, brother-in-law, and I were all drawn for an elk hunt. My brother-in-law was unable to go on the hunt because he has to undergo dialysis. My other son wanted to go on the hunt in his place, but we were told that he could not transfer the tag to another adult family member. If my son buys a license, why can't he have the tag transferred to him? My brother-in-law already paid for it. This should be allowed as long as all other legal requirements are met. Follow-up Comment: August 13, 2014. The tag we want to transfer would be given to my son, who has a 10% disability due to hearing loss resulting from two tours in Iraq. I would hope the Commission would be more open minded. If my other son has a hunting license, he should be allowed to hunt using the tag my brother-in-law cannot. What should matter is there is 100% legality. This is an example of why citizens get disgusted with government overregulation, instead of understanding legal people? How can this narrow-minded over regulated matter be changed?

Agency Response: The requirements for tag transfers are prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-332(D)(2), which states, "A parent, grandparent, or legal guardian may allow the parent's, grandparent's or guardian's minor child or minor grandchild to use the parent's, grandparent's or guardian's big game permit or tag to take big game pursuant to the following requirements..." . A legislative amendment is required before the Department may amend the rule to allow a person to transfer their tag to an adult child or other family member.

Written Comment: August 10, 2015. The Department should allow a tag holder to surrender a tag during or after a hunt, but in those instances, bonus points should not be restored. This would allow a person to transfer their tag to a minor during the same calendar year if the minor failed to harvest an animal with their own tag. The Department should allow an unsuccessful archery javelina hunter to obtain a remaining leftover draw permit tag. The Department should allow a youth hunter who obtained a youth deer tag, but was unable to fill it, to receive a deer tag for a later hunt and give the youth hunter another opportunity in the same calendar year.

Agency Response: Under A.R.S. § 17-332(D), "No license or permit is transferable, nor shall such license or permit be used by anyone except the person to whom such license or permit was issued, except that . . ." allow a person to transfer the person's big game permit or tag to a qualified organization for use by . . ." A legislative amendment is required before the Department may amend the rule to allow a person to transfer their tag to an adult child or other family member. In 2013, R12-4-114, was amended to allow a person to purchase hunt tags equal to the bag limit; the current bag limit for javelina is two. The Department believes providing youth with hunting opportunities is a valuable tool to recruit new hunters; however, the Department believes the youth hunters should be subject to the same regulations that are applicable to all hunters.

Written Comment: October 14, 2015. It is a very nice thing for the Department to help youth get involved in hunting, fishing, and the outdoors. One area of concern is the process of allowing parents and grandparents to pass their permits on to youth for highly sought after permits. There are people who have no intention of hunting, but have family members place them in the computer draw just to pass on their permit. With the high volume of hunt applications, this rule should be changed because it is the "right thing to do," not for additional monies due to added applications. I have witnessed many young children obtain sheep permits and other highly valued permits through this process.

Agency Response: The requirements for tag transfers are prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-332(D)(2), which states, "A parent, grandparent, or legal guardian may allow the parent's, grandparent's or guardian's minor child or minor grandchild to use the parent's, grandparent's or guardian's big game permit or tag to take big game". . . Because the statute does not limit which tags may be transferred, a legislative amendment is required before the Department may amend the rule to prohibit the transfer of transfer highly sought after permits to a minor child or minor grandchild.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to to allow a person to donate a tag to a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces with a service connected disability; establish an application process for a qualified nonprofit organization; define "authorized nonprofit organization;" replace "Department-approved" with "Department-sanctioned;" clarify a tag may not be transferred to a person who has reached the applicable annual or lifetime bag limit for that genus; allow a person to request the reinstatement of bonus points after donating an unused, original tag to a qualified 501(c)(3) organization; and establish application requirements for a nonprofit organization. The Commission anticipated a nonprofit organization that provides outdoor experiences to children with life-threatening medical conditions or with permanent physical disabilities or to veterans with service-connected disabilities and a person who donates an unused big game tag will benefit from a fair and equitable application process that authorizes a nonprofit organization to accept donated tags. The Commission anticipated persons who donate their tag to a nonprofit organization and claim their donation as a deduction for tax purposes will benefit from the rulemaking. The Department would benefit from a rulemaking that aligned the rule with recent legislative changes. The Commission anticipated persons who donate an unused big game tag to a 501(c)(3) organization that provides hunting opportunities and experiences to minors with life-threatening medical conditions or permanent physical disabilities or a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces with a service connected disability would benefit from the amendment that allows a person who donates a tag to be able to have the bonus points expended for that tag restored. The Commission anticipated persons regulated by the rule would benefit from the amendment that establishes an application process for a qualified nonprofit organization.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the April 1, 2014 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by June 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements for an unused big game tag transfer as authorized under A.R.S. § 17-332, which allows a parent, guardian, or grandparent to transfer their unused hunt permit-tag to a minor child or grandchild; or a person to transfer their unused big game tag to a 501(c)(3) organization that provides hunting opportunities and experiences to a minor child with life-threatening medical conditions or physical disabilities or a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces who has a service-connected disability. Eligible nonprofit organizations benefit from a fair and equitable application process. Persons who donate their tag to an eligible nonprofit organization benefit from the rulemaking by being able to claim their donation as a tax deduction and the ability to have the bonus points expended for that tag restored. A person who chooses to transfer their tag to their minor child or grandchild benefit from the ability to transfer a tag they cannot or do not want to use to their family member. A person who receives a tag through the tag transfer program benefits from the additional opportunity to hunt. The Department and public benefit from a rule that is understandable. In the last rulemaking for this rule, the Department established an application process to implement recent legislative amendments resulting from Laws 2014, 2nd Regular Session, Ch. 55, Section 1; which allowed the Commission to establish an application process for a qualified nonprofit organization. The rule was amended to establish an annual application process. The Department has determined an annual process to ensure a nonprofit organization meets the qualifications prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-332(D)(1)(b)(ii) is unnecessary because a review of applications indicate the information provided on consecutive applications and the documentation presented with the applications has not changed from year to year. The Department proposes to amend the rule to establish that once it is determined the nonprofit meets the statutory qualifications, the authorization to receive donated unused tags will remain in effect until revoked by the Department. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-121 to establish that once it is determined the nonprofit meets the statutory qualifications, the authorization to receive donated unused tags will remain in effect until revoked by the Department.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-122. HANDLING, TRANSPORTING, PROCESSING AND STORING OF GAME MEAT GIVEN TO PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS AND CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-102, 17-211(E)(4), 17-233, 17-239(D), and 17-240(A)

2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish requirements for game meat that can or cannot be donated to a public institution or charitable organization, to include who is authorized to determine when game meat is safe and appropriate for donation. The rule was adopted to provide a mechanism that prevents game meat from going to waste by allowing the Department to donate game meat to public institutions and charitable organizations, which includes but is not limited to soup kitchens and prisons.

Instead of discarding or wasting game meat harvested, the Department donation program was developed with the purpose of distributing surplus meat to put healthy meals onto the tables of those in need, which help to maintain the historical role of hunters as food providers and ensure game meat is not wasted.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The Department proposes to amend the rule to allow the donation of bear and mountain lion meat to public institutions and charitable organizations in compliance with A.R.S. § 17-240 and to ensure edible game meat is not wasted.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

Not applicable, the rule was last amended in March 2006 and has undergone the review required under A.R.S. § 41-1056 since then.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable, no action was proposed for this rule in the previous five-year review report.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements for game meat that can or cannot be donated to a public institution or charitable organization, to include who is authorized to determine when game meat is safe and appropriate for donation. The public benefits from a rule that provides a mechanism that allows the donation of game meat to public institutions and charitable organizations. The Department and public benefit from a rule that prevents the wasting of game meat harvested through depredation permits and surplus harvests. The Department and public benefit from a rule that enables the distribution of surplus game meat to put healthy meals onto the tables of those in need. Hunters benefit from a rule that help to maintain the historical role of hunters as food providers and ensure game meat is not wasted. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. The Department proposes to amend R12-4-122 to allow the donation of bear and mountain lion meat to public institutions and charitable organizations in compliance with A.R.S. § 17-240 and to ensure edible game meat is not wasted.

R12-4-123. EXPENDITURE OF FUNDS

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(6) and 17-231(A)(8)

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the Director's authority to expend funds from specific sources within prescribed guidelines, and to require that the Director ensure that Department infrastructure complies with those guidelines. The rule was adopted to formalize the processes used by the Commission for the expenditure of funds arising from appropriations, licenses, gifts, and other sources in a manner that is consistent with the goals and objectives of the Commission.

- 3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

Not applicable, the rule was last amended in March 2006 and has undergone the review required under A.R.S. § 41-1056 since then.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable, no action was proposed for this rule in the previous five-year review report.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The objective of the rule is to establish the Director's authority to expend funds from specific sources within prescribed guidelines, and to require that the Director ensure that Department infrastructure complies with those guidelines. The Department and the public benefit from a rule that formalizes the processes used by the Commission for the expenditure of funds arising from appropriations, licenses, gifts, and other sources in a manner that is consistent with the goals and objectives of the Commission. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

- 13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

No action.

R12-4-124. Proof of Domicile

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. § 17-101

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the documents a person may be used to provide acceptable "proof of domicile." In law, "domicile" is the status or attribution of being a lawful permanent resident in a particular jurisdiction. In creating this list, the Department reviewed lists of documents considered to prove residency for the purposes of registering a motor vehicle, attending state college, and applying for a hunting or fishing license in other states. The rule was adopted to comply with statute.

According to the Department's records, since 1999 - 335 citations were issued for license fraud, which resulted in a minimum of $36,000 in lost revenue for license purchases. This amount does not include the amount of revenue lost for the big game tags that were purchased fraudulently. The dollar amount for the lost revenue pales in comparison to the amount of resources spent investigating these violations due to the labor-intensive process needed to follow the paper trail.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

Overall, the rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. In addition, the Department has not received any written comments in regards to this rule. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

The Department is aware of instances where a person has attempted to use outdated documents to prove residency. For example, because the rule does not specify the document needs to be current and contain a valid address, an expired driver license with an old address may be used as proof of domicile. This makes residency requirements more difficult to enforce. The Department proposes to amend the rule to require a person to present a valid document that contains a current address.

In addition, there are times where more than one document is needed to fully establish a person's domicile. The Department proposes to amend the rule to clarify that more than one document may be required to fully establish the persons domicile.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

Overall, the rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

When a person is cited by a member of law enforcement, the officer writes down the address given by the person. There is no follow-up action taken to ensure the address is valid and this address may continue to be used throughout the court process. For this reason, the Department proposes to remove a certified copy of a court order from the list of acceptable proof of domicile.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

Overall, the rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

While there are persons who seek to take advantage of the system by claiming residency in Arizona in order to purchase a resident license instead of the nonresident license (offered at a higher cost), there are more persons who are simply confused as to what constitutes residency. For purposes of jurisdiction, “domicile” means a legal residence which is the place where a person has fixed dwelling with an intention of making it their permanent home. As the term domicile includes residence, the scope and significance of the term domicile is larger than the term residence. Generally residence is referred to as a place where a person lives; it is also a building that is used as home. Residence is of a more temporary nature compared to domicile; a person’s present physical location of stay. It can even be one among several places where a person may be present (such as a person who owns a home in two states). A person may have several residences, but only one domicile.

There is also some confusion between a military service member's "home of record" and "state of legal residence." The military considers the military service member's home of residence to be the place from which they entered the military; it is not necessarily their domicile. For example, a person was born in Maryland and lived there until then went to college in Florida; then they entered the military in Florida. Florida is that person's home of record. Military spouses do not have a home of record. The military considers the person's state of legal residence to be the place where the service member thinks of as home; the state where military service member's intends to make their permanent home after leaving the military.

For these reasons, the Department proposes to amend the rule to define "current address" and clarify rule language to make the rule more concise.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

- 8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the rulemaking filed with the Secretary of State's office and published in the Arizona Administrative Register on December 4, 2015. The rule was adopted to establish acceptable proof of residency. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons who are unsure of their domicile.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

Not applicable, the rule was adopted January 2, 2016.

- 11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the documents a person may use to provide acceptable "proof of domicile." In creating this list, the Department reviewed lists of documents considered to prove residency for the purposes of registering a motor vehicle, attending state college, and applying for a hunting or fishing license in other states.

The public benefits from a rule that helps increase understanding as to how the Department determines a person's true domicile for the purposes of establishing residency. The Department benefits from a rule that clearly indicates acceptable proof of domicile. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes that once the proposed amendments indicated in the report are made, the rule will impose the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

- 12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

- 13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

The Department proposes to amend R12-4-124 as follows:

- Define current address to make the rule more concise.
- Clarify rule language to make the rule more concise.
- Require a person to present a valid document that contains a current address.
- Remove a certified copy of a court order from the list of acceptable proof of domicile. Clarify that more than one document may be required to fully establish the persons domicile.

The Department anticipates submitting the Notice of Final Rulemaking to the Council by July 2020, provided the current moratorium is not extended or the Commission is granted permission to pursue rulemaking.

R12-4-125. PUBLIC SOLICITATION OR EVENT ON DEPARTMENT PROPERTY

- 1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rule, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

Authorizing statute: A.R.S. § 17-231(A)(1)

Implementing statute: A.R.S. §§ 17-231(A)(1), 17-231(B)(13), 17-231(B)(14), and 41-2752

- 2. Objective of the rule, including the purpose for the existence of the rule.

The objective of the rule is to establish the requirements and procedures the public shall use to request permission to conduct a solicitation or event on Department property, and to provide guidance to the Department for the review and management of public solicitations and events on Department property. The Department has received requests from organized groups for the use of Department facilities for the benefit of private interests or for solicitation purposes. The rule was adopted to ensure all solicitations and events are subject to the same regulatory measures that are intended to protect Commission-owned and/or -managed property.

3. Effectiveness of the rule in achieving its objective, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached.

The rule appears to be effective in achieving the objective stated above. At the beginning of each rule review, Department employees are asked to provide comments and suggested rule changes for any areas of concern, etc. Responses indicate the rule is understandable and applicable. No external public comments or complaints regarding the rule have been received. The Department believes this data indicates the rule is effective.

4. Consistency of the rule with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency.

The rule is consistent with and is not in conflict with statutes and rules. Statutes and rules used in determining consistency include A.R.S. Title 17 and A.A.C. Title 12, Chapter 4.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rule is currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement.

The rule is enforced as written and the Department is not aware of any problems with the enforcement of the rule. All peace officers of the state (including city and county) are charged with enforcement. Officers can check for rule compliance during routine patrols. Officers may issue a warning order or a citation.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rule.

The rule is clear, concise, and understandable. The rule is logically organized and generally written in the active voice so it will be understood by the general public.

7. Summary of any written criticism of the rule received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report.

No written criticisms were received.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rule or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rule, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rule.

The rule has resulted in the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impacts as stated in the final rulemaking package approved by G.R.R.C. on November 3, 2015. The rule was amended to renumber R12-4-804 to R12-4-125; allow mid-level managers to approve minor, incidental solicitations on Department properties; replaces the term "applicant" with "sponsor;" allow the consumption of alcohol at a solicitation or event and require a person who intends to serve alcohol to provide the Department with a copy of a current and valid license issued by the Arizona Department of Liquor Licenses and Control to the sponsor and vendor, as applicable, and a liquor liability rider, included with the insurance certificate; require an applicant to provide proof of insurance no less than ten business days before the solicitation or event; remove the ability for the Department to waive a requirement due to an applicant's inability to pay a deposit, an insurance premium, or a service provider; establish the Department shall deny an application when the sponsor is unable to demonstrate adequate compliance with local, state, or federal ordinances, codes, or regulations; remove "rights of appeal" language; require a vendor who is working under a sponsor to provide certificates of insurance to the Department, when applicable; and establish a sponsor shall not allow the unlawful possession or use of drugs at the solicitation or event site. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking would benefit persons regulated by the rule and the Department would benefit from the rulemaking because it allowed mid-level managers to approve minor, incidental solicitations on Department properties result in a more efficient approval process. Most of the amendments made in the last rulemaking were intended to better protect the Commission's, Department's, and states assets. The Commission anticipated the rulemaking could impact small businesses looking to conduct a solicitation or special event on state property in cases where a special event had to be cancelled due to small business's inability to pay costs for deposits, insurance coverage, medical support, security, and sanitary services. However, the Commission anticipated these requirements would not result in an increased burden on the small businesses because the amendments implemented standard requirements applicable to most facility rentals.

- 9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rule's impact on the competitiveness of businesses in this state as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states.

The Department did not receive any analyses.

- 10. If applicable, how the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report.

The Article 8 report was approved by G.R.R.C. at the May 5, 2015 Council Meeting, which stated the Department anticipated submitting the final rules to the Council by April 2016. The Department completed the course of action indicated in the previous five-year review report as follows:

- Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening: 21 A.A.R. 1409, July 10, 2015.
- Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: 21 A.A.R. 1001, July 10, 2015.
- Public Comment Period: July 10, 2015 through August 10, 2015.
- G.R.R.C. approved the Notice of Final Rulemaking at the November 3, 2015 Council Meeting.
- Notice of Final Rulemaking: 19 A.A.R. 3025, December 4, 2015.

11. A determination after analysis that the probable benefits of the rule within this state outweigh the probable costs of the rule and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective.

The rule establishes the requirements and procedures the public must follow in order to request permission to conduct a solicitation or event on Department property, and to provide guidance to the Department for the review and management of public solicitations and events on Department property. The Department has received requests from organized groups for the use of Department facilities for the benefit of private interests or for solicitation purposes. All Department property is designated as non-public and is closed to solicitations and events unless opened by the Director. However, the Department recognizes Department properties provide a benefit to the general public by providing quality space for solicitation and event purposes, which can draw visitors into local communities and businesses. The rule provides balance to protect and ensure public access to and use of these properties, while also affording protection to the properties, the public, and the Department. The public benefits from a rule that affords them the opportunity to hold a solicitation or event on Commission-owned and/or -managed property. The public benefits from a rule that protects and ensures public access to and use of Commission-owned and/or -managed property. The Department benefits from a rule that ensures all solicitations and events are subject to the same regulatory measures intended to protect Commission-owned and/or -managed property. The public and Department benefit from a rule that is understandable. The Department believes the rule imposes the least burden and costs to persons regulated by the rule.

12. A determination that the rule is not more stringent than corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

Federal law is not directly applicable to the subject of the rule. The rule is based on state law.

13. For a rule adopted after July 29, 2010, that requires the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

The rule does not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

- 14. Course of action the agency proposes to take regarding the rule, including the month and year in which the agency anticipates submitting the rule to the Council if the agency determines it is necessary to amend or repeal an existing rule or make a rule. If no issues are identified for a rule in the report, an agency may indicate that no action is necessary for the rule.

No action.

R12-4-107. Bonus Point System

A. For the purpose of this Section, the following definitions apply:

“Bonus point hunt number” means the hunt number assigned in a Commission Order for use by an applicant who is applying for a bonus point only.

“Loyalty bonus point” means a bonus point awarded to a person who has submitted a valid application for a hunt permit-tag or a bonus point for a specific genus identified in subsection (B) at least once annually for a consecutive five-year period.

B. The bonus point system grants a person one random number entry in each computer draw for antelope, bear, bighorn sheep, buffalo, deer, elk, javelina, or turkey for each bonus point that person has accumulated under this Section.

- Each bonus point random number entry is in addition to the entry normally granted under R12-4-104.
- When processing a “group” application, as defined under R12-4-104, the Department shall use the average number of bonus points accumulated by all persons in the group, rounded to the nearest whole number. If the average number of bonus points is equal to or greater than .5, the total will be rounded to the next higher number.
- The Department shall credit a bonus point under an applicant's Department identification number for the genus on the application.

4. The Department shall not transfer bonus points between persons or genera.

C. The Department shall award one bonus point to an applicant who submits a valid Hunt Permit-tag Application provided the following apply:

- The application is unsuccessful in the computer draw or the application is for a bonus point only;
- The application is not for a hunt permit-tag leftover after the computer draw and available on a first-come, first-served basis as established under R12-4-114; and
- The applicant either provides the appropriate hunting license number on the application or submits an application and fees for the applicable license with the Hunt Permit-tag Application, as applicable.

D. An applicant who purchases a bonus point only shall:

- Submit a valid Hunt Permit-tag Application, as prescribed under R12-4-104, with the assigned bonus point hunt number for the particular genus as the first-choice hunt number on the application. The Department shall reject any application that:
 - Indicates the bonus point only hunt number as any choice other than the first-choice, or
 - Includes any other hunt number on the application;
- Include the applicable fees:
 - Application fee, and
 - Applicable license fee, required when the applicant does not possess a valid license at the time of application; and

Game and Fish Commission

3. Submit only one Hunt Permit-tag Application per genus per computer draw.
- E. With the exception of the hunter education bonus point, each accumulated bonus point is valid only for the genus designated on the Hunt Permit-tag Application.
- F. With the exception of a permanent bonus point awarded for hunter education and a loyalty bonus point which is accrued and forfeited as established under subsection (L), a person's accumulated bonus points for a genus are expended if:
 1. The person is issued a hunt permit-tag for that genus in a computer draw;
 2. The person fails to submit a Hunt Permit-tag Application for that genus for five consecutive years; or
 3. The person purchases a surrendered tag as prescribed under R12-4-118(F)(1), (2), or (3).
- G. Notwithstanding subsection (F), the Department shall restore any expended bonus points to a person who surrenders or transfers a tag in compliance with R12-4-118 or R12-4-121.
- H. An applicant issued a first-come, first-served hunt permit-tag under R12-4-114(C)(2)(e) after the computer draw does not expend bonus points for that genus.
- I. An applicant who is unsuccessful for a first-come, first-served hunt permit-tag made available by the Department after the computer draw is not eligible to receive a bonus point.
- J. The Department shall award one permanent bonus point for each genus upon a person's first graduation from a Department-sanctioned Arizona Game and Fish Department Hunter Education Course.
 1. Course participants are required to provide the following information upon registration, the participants:
 - a. Name;
 - b. Mailing address;
 - c. Telephone number;
 - d. E-mail address, when available;
 - e. Date of birth; and
 - f. Department ID number, when applicable.
 2. The Arizona Game and Fish Department-certified Instructor shall submit the course paperwork to the Department within 10 business days of course completion. Course paperwork must be received by the Department no less than 30 days before the computer draw application deadline, as specified in the hunt permit-tag application schedule in order for the Department to assign hunter education bonus points in the next computer draw.
 3. The Department shall not award hunter education bonus points for any of the following specialized hunter education courses:
 - a. Bowhunter Education,
 - b. Trapper Education, or
 - c. Advanced Hunter Education.
- K. The Department provides an applicant's total number of accumulated bonus points on the Department's application web site or IVR telephone system.
 1. If a person believes the total number of accumulated bonus points is incorrect, the person may request proof of compliance with this Section, from the Department, to prove Department error.
 2. In the event of an error, the Department shall correct the person's record.
- L. The following provisions apply to the loyalty bonus point program:
 1. An applicant who submits a valid application at least once a year for a hunt permit-tag or a bonus point for a specific genus consecutively for a five-year period shall accrue a loyalty bonus point for that genus.
2. Except as established under subsection (N), once a loyalty bonus point is accrued, the applicant shall retain the loyalty bonus point provided the applicant annually submits an application, with funds sufficient to cover all application fees and applicable license fees for each applicant listed on the application, for a hunt permit-tag or a bonus point for the genus for which the loyalty bonus point was accrued.
3. An applicant who fails to apply in any calendar year for a hunt permit-tag or bonus point for the genus for which the loyalty bonus point was accrued shall forfeit the loyalty bonus point for that genus.
4. A loyalty bonus point is accrued in addition to all other bonus points.
- M. A military member, military reserve member, member of the National Guard, or emergency response personnel with a public agency may request the reinstatement of any expended bonus points for a successful Hunt Permit-tag Application.
 1. To request reinstatement of expended bonus points under these circumstances, an applicant shall submit all of the following information to the Arizona Game and Fish Department, Draw Section, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086:
 - a. Evidence of mobilization or change in duty status, such as a letter from the public agency or official orders; or
 - b. An official declaration of a state of emergency from the public agency or authority making the declaration of emergency, if applicable; and
 - c. The valid, unused hunt permit-tag.
 2. The Department shall deny requests post-marked after the beginning date of the hunt for which the hunt permit-tag is valid, unless the person also submits, with the request, evidence of mobilization, activation, or a change in duty status that precluded the applicant from submitting the hunt permit-tag before the beginning date of the hunt.
 3. Under A.R.S. § 17-332(E), no refunds for a license or hunt permit-tag will be issued to an applicant who applies for reinstatement of bonus points under this subsection.
 4. Reinstatement of bonus points under this subsection is not subject to the requirements established under R12-4-118.
- N. It is unlawful for a person to purchase a bonus point by fraud or misrepresentation and any bonus point so obtained shall be removed from the person's Department record.

R12-4-110. Posting and Access to State Land

- A. For the purpose of this Section:
1. "Corrals," "feed lots," or "holding pens" mean completely fenced areas used to contain livestock for purposes other than grazing.
 2. "Existing road" means any maintained or unmaintained road, way, highway, trail, or path that has been used for motorized vehicular travel, and clearly shows or has a history of established vehicle use, and is not currently closed by the Commission.
 3. "State lands" means all land owned or held in trust by the state that is managed by the State Land Department and lands that are owned or managed by the Game and Fish Commission.
- B. In addition to the prohibition against posting prescribed under A.R.S. § 17-304, a person shall not lock a gate, construct a fence, place an obstacle, or otherwise commit an act that denies legally available access to or use of any existing road upon state lands by persons lawfully taking or retrieving wildlife or conducting any activities that are within the scope of and take place while lawfully hunting or fishing.
1. A person in violation of this Section shall take immediate corrective action to remove any lock, fence, or other obstacle unlawfully preventing access to state lands.
 2. If immediate corrective action is not taken, a representative of the Department may remove any unlawful posting and remove any lock, fence, or other obstacle that unlawfully prevents access to state lands.
 3. In addition, the Department may take appropriate legal action to recover expenses incurred in the removal of any unlawful posting or obstacle that prevented access to state land.
- C. The provisions of this Section do not allow any person to trespass upon private land to gain access to any state land.
- D. A person may post state lands as closed to hunting, fishing, or trapping without further action by the Commission when the state land is within one-quarter mile of any:
1. Occupied residence, cabin, lodge, or other building; or
 2. Corrals, feed lots, or holding pens containing concentrations of livestock other than for grazing purposes.
- E. The Commission may grant permission to lock, tear down, or remove a gate or close a road or trail that provides legally available access to state lands for persons lawfully taking wildlife or conducting any activities that are within the scope of and take place while lawfully hunting or fishing if access to such lands is provided by a reasonable alternate route.
1. Under R12-4-610, the Director may grant a permit to a state land lessee to temporarily lock a gate or close an existing road that provides access to state lands if the taking of wildlife will cause unreasonable interference during a critical livestock or commercial operation. This permit shall not exceed 30 days.
 2. Applications for permits for more than 30 days shall be submitted to the Commission for approval.
3. If a permit is issued to temporarily close a road or gate, a copy of the permit shall be posted at the point of the closure during the period of the closure.
- F. A person may post state lands other than those referenced under subsection (D) as closed to hunting, fishing, or trapping, provided the person has obtained a permit from the Commission authorizing the closure. A person possessing a permit authorizing the closure of state lands shall post signs in compliance with A.R.S. 17-304(C). The Commission may permit the closure of state land when it is necessary:
1. Because the taking of wildlife constitutes an unusual hazard to permitted users;
 2. To prevent unreasonable destruction of plant life or habitat; or
 3. For proper resource conservation, use, or protection, including but not limited to high fire danger, excessive interference with mineral development, developed agricultural land, or timber or livestock operations.
- G. A person shall submit an application for posting state land to prohibit hunting, fishing, or trapping under subsection (F), or to close an existing road under subsection (E), as required under R12-4-610. If an application to close state land to hunting, fishing, or trapping is made by a person other than the state land lessee, the Department shall provide notice to the lessee and the State Land Commissioner before the Commission considers the application. The state land lessee or the State Land Commissioner shall file any objections with the Department, in writing, within 30 days after receipt of notice, after which the matter shall be submitted to the Commission for determination.
- H. A person may use a vehicle on or off a road to pick up lawfully taken big game animals.
- I. The closing of state land to hunting, fishing, or trapping shall not restrict any other permitted use of the land.
- J. State trust land may be posted with signs that read "State Land No Trespassing," but such posting shall not prohibit access to such land by any person lawfully taking or retrieving wildlife or conducting any activities that are within the scope of and take place while lawfully hunting or fishing.
- K. When hunting, fishing, or trapping on state land, a license holder shall not:
1. Break or remove any lock or cut any fence to gain access to state land;
 2. Open and not immediately close a gate;
 3. Intentionally or wantonly destroy, deface, injure, remove, or disturb any building, sign, equipment, marker, or other property;
 4. Harvest or remove any vegetative or mineral resources or object of archaeological, historic, or scientific interest;
 5. Appropriately mutilate, deface, or destroy any natural feature, object of natural beauty, antiquity, or other public or private property;

R12-4-114. Issuance of Nonpermit-tags and Hunt Permit-tags

- A. The Department provides numbered tags for sale to the public. The Department shall ensure each tag:

 2. Clearly identifies the animal for which the tag is valid.
- B. If the Commission establishes a big game season for which a hunt number is not assigned, the Department or its authorized agent, or both, shall sell nonpermit-tags.
 1. A person purchasing a nonpermit-tag shall provide all of the following information to a Department office or license dealer at the time of purchase; the applicant's:
 - a. Name,

Game and Fish Commission

- b. Mailing address, and
 - c. Department identification number.
2. An applicant shall not obtain nonpermit-tags in excess of the bag limit established by Commission Order when it established the season for which the nonpermit-tags are valid.
- C. If the number of hunt permits for a species in a particular hunt area must be limited, a Commission Order establishes a hunt number for that hunt area and a hunt permit-tag is required to take the species in that hunt area.
- 1. A person applying for a hunt permit-tag shall submit an application as described under R12-4-104.
 - 2. The Department shall determine whether a hunt permit-tag will be issued to an applicant as follows:
 - a. The Department shall reserve a maximum of 20% of the hunt permit-tags for each hunt number, except as established under subsection (C)(2)(b), for antelope, bear, deer, elk, javelina, and turkey and reserve a maximum of 20% of the hunt permit-tags for all hunt numbers combined statewide for bighorn sheep and buffalo to issue to persons who have bonus points and shall issue the hunt permit-tags as established under subsection (C)(2)(c).
 - b. For antelope, bear, deer, elk, javelina, and turkey, the Department shall reserve one hunt permit-tag for any hunt number with fewer than five, but more than one, hunt permit-tags and shall issue the tag as established under subsection (C)(2)(c). When this occurs, the Department shall adjust the number of available hunt permit-tags in order to ensure the total number of hunt permit-tags available does not exceed the 20% maximum specified in subsection (C)(2)(a).
 - c. The Department shall issue the reserved hunt permit-tags for hunt numbers that eligible applicants designate as their first or second choices. The Department shall issue the reserved hunt permit-tags by random selection:
 - i. First, to eligible applicants with the highest number of bonus points for that genus;
 - ii. Next, if there are reserved hunt permit-tags remaining, to eligible applicants with the next highest number of bonus points for that genus; and
 - iii. If there are still tags remaining, to the next eligible applicants with the next highest number of bonus points; continuing in the same manner until all of the reserved tags have been issued or until there are no more applicants for that hunt number who have bonus points.
 - d. The Department shall ensure that all unreserved hunt permit-tags are issued by random selection:
 - i. First, to hunt numbers designated by eligible applicants as their first or second choices; and
 - ii. Next, to hunt numbers designated by eligible applicants as their third, fourth, or fifth choices.
 - e. Before each of the three passes listed under (C)(2)(c)(i),(ii), and (iii), each application is processed through the Department's random number generator program. A random number is assigned to each application; an additional random number is assigned to each application for each group bonus point, including the Hunter Education and Loyalty bonus points. Only the lowest random number generated for an application is used in the computer draw process. A new random number is generated for each application for each pass of the computer draw.
- f. If the bag limit is more than one per calendar year, or if there are unissued hunt permit-tags remaining after the random computer draw, the Department shall ensure these hunt permit-tags are available on a first-come, first-served basis as specified in the annual hunt permit-tag application schedule.
- D. A person may purchase hunt permit-tags equal to the bag limit for a genus.
- 1. A person shall not exceed the established bag limit for that genus.
 - 2. A person shall not apply for any additional hunt-permit-tags if the person has reached the bag limit for that genus during the same calendar year.
 - 3. A person who surrenders a tag in compliance with R12-4-118 is eligible to apply for another hunt permit-tag for the same genus during the same calendar year, provided the person has not reached the bag limit for that genus.
- E. The Department shall make available to nonresidents:
- 1. For bighorn sheep and buffalo, no more than one hunt permit-tag or 10% of the total hunt permit-tags, whichever is greater, for bighorn sheep or buffalo in any computer draw. The Department shall not make available more than 50% nor more than two bighorn sheep or buffalo hunt permit-tags of the total in any hunt number.
 - 2. For antelope, antlered deer, bull elk, or turkey, no more than 10%, rounded down to the next lowest number, of the total hunt permit-tags in any hunt number. If a hunt number for antelope, antlered deer, bull elk, or turkey has 10 or fewer hunt permit-tags, no more than one hunt permit-tag will be made available unless the hunt number has only one hunt permit-tag, then that tag shall only be available to a resident.
- F. The Commission may, at a public meeting, increase the number of hunt permit-tags issued to nonresidents in a computer draw when necessary to meet management objectives.
- G. The Department shall not issue under subsection (C)(2)(c), more than half of the hunt permit-tags made available to nonresidents under subsection (E).
- H. A nonresident cap established under this Section applies only to hunt permit-tags issued by computer draw under subsections (C)(2)(c) and (d).

- G. A supplemental hunt application submitted in accordance with this Section does not invalidate any other application submitted by the person for a hunt permit-tag.

 3. The Department may establish terms and conditions for the membership program in addition to the following:
 - a. Products and services to be included with each membership level.
 - b. Membership enrollment is available online only and requires a person to create a portal account.
 - c. Membership is not transferable.
 - d. No refund shall be made for the purchase of a membership, unless an internal processing error resulted in the collection of erroneous fees.

G. The commission may use the services of the office of administrative hearings to conduct hearings and to make recommendations to the commission pursuant to this section.

H. Except for a person who takes or possesses wildlife while under permanent revocation, a person who takes wildlife in this state, or attempts to obtain a license to take wildlife, at a time when the person's privilege to do so is suspended, revoked or denied under this section is guilty of a class 1 misdemeanor.

17-342. Colorado river special use permit

A. A person taking fish or amphibians for purposes other than for profit from or while on a boat or other floating device on all waters of the Colorado river south of the Nevada-Arizona boundary shall have in his possession a valid angling or fishing license issued by either the state of Arizona or the state of California. In addition to one of the above described licenses, such person shall have in his possession a valid California or Arizona-Colorado river special use permit, as provided by sections 17-343 and 17-344, which shall be obtained on payment of a fee to be fixed by the commission at not to exceed four dollars. Such a permit shall not be required to take fish or amphibians from canals, drains or ditches used to carry water from the Colorado river for irrigation or domestic purposes.

B. A person having in his possession a valid Arizona fishing license must have a California-Colorado river special use permit to legally fish the waters described in subsection A of this section. A person having in his possession a valid California angling license must have an Arizona-Colorado river special use permit to legally fish the waters described in subsection A of this section. Such special use permit when accompanied by the proper license will allow the holder to fish in any portion of such waters and permit him to enter the waters from any point.

C. Shore line fishing does not require a Colorado river special use permit as long as the fisherman remains on the shore of the state from which he holds a valid license and does not embark on the water.

17-345. Surcharges; purposes

In addition to any other fees, the commission may impose and collect:

1. A surcharge on a license, permit, tag and stamp as the commission prescribes by rule. Monies collected pursuant to this paragraph shall be segregated from other fees and deposited in the conservation development fund.
2. Surcharges on Arizona-Colorado river special use permits, California-Colorado river special use permits and Nevada-Colorado river special use permits issued in this state as provided by sections 17-342, 17-343 and 17-344. The amount of the surcharges shall be determined by the commission. A surcharge under this paragraph is to be used solely for the purpose of the lower Colorado river multispecies conservation program under section 48-3713.03. Any monies collected pursuant to this paragraph shall be segregated from other revenues and deposited, pursuant to sections 35-146 and 35-147, in a fund designated as the Colorado river special use permit clearing account. Each month, on notification by the department, the state treasurer shall pay all of the monies in the clearing account to an account designated by a multi-county county water conservation district established under title 48, chapter 22 to be used solely for the lower Colorado river multispecies conservation program and for no other purpose.

17-346. Special big game license tags

In addition to any license tags issued under section 17-333, the commission may issue special big game license tags in the name of an incorporated nonprofit organization that is dedicated to wildlife conservation. No more than three special big game license tags may be issued for each species of big game in a license year. Notwithstanding section 17-332, subsection D, an organization that receives special big game license tags issued under this section may sell and transfer them if all proceeds of the sale are used in this state for wildlife management.

17-371. Transportation, possession and sale of wildlife and wildlife parts

A. A person may transport in his possession his legally taken wildlife, or may authorize the transportation of his legally taken big game, provided such big game or any part thereof has attached thereto a valid transportation permit issued by the department. Such wildlife shall be transported in such manner that it may be inspected by authorized persons upon demand until the wildlife is packaged or stored. Species of wildlife, other than game species, may be transported in any manner unless otherwise specified by the commission. A person possessing a valid license may transport lawfully taken wildlife other than big game given to him but in no event shall any person possess more than one bag or possession limit.

B. A holder of a resident license shall not transport from a point within to a point without the state any big game species or parts thereof without first having obtained a special permit issued by the department or its authorized agent.

C. Migratory birds may be possessed and transported in accordance with the migratory bird treaty act (40 Stat. 755; 16 United States Code sections 703 through 711) and regulations under that act.

D. A holder of a sport falconry license may transport one or more raptors that the person lawfully possesses under terms and conditions prescribed by the commission. Regardless of whether a person holds a sport falconry license and as provided by section 17-236, subsection C, the person may transport for sport falconry purposes one or more raptors that are not listed pursuant to the migratory bird treaty act.

E. Heads, horns, antlers, hides, feet or skin of wildlife lawfully taken, or the treated or mounted specimens thereof, may be possessed, sold and transported at any time, except that migratory birds may be possessed and transported only in accordance with federal regulations.

17-452. Restrictions on motor vehicle use; recommendations; agreements; rules

A. When the commission determines that the operation of motor vehicles within a certain area, except private land, is or may be damaging to wildlife reproduction, wildlife management or wildlife habitat of such area, the commission, with the concurrence of the land management agency involved and after a public hearing, may order such area closed to motor vehicles for not more than five years from the date of such closure, provided that all roads in such area shall remain open unless specifically closed.

B. The commission may also recommend that particular areas of land be set aside or made available for the use of recreational vehicles.

C. The commission may enter into agreements with landowners and agencies controlling areas that the commission has made recommendations on pursuant to subsection B. Any such agreement shall stipulate the restrictions, prohibitions and permitted uses of motor vehicles in such area and the duties of the commission and such landowner or agency relating to the enforcement of the terms of such agreement.

D. The commission shall adopt rules pursuant to title 41, chapter 6 to carry out the provisions of this section.

17-453. Notices of restrictions; posting; publication

A. For all areas specified under agreements pursuant to section 17-452, the commission shall cause notices of the restrictions, prohibitions or permitted uses of such area to be posted, prior to the effective date of such restrictions, prohibitions or permitted uses, on the main traveled roads and highways entering such area and such locations that the commission deems appropriate.

B. In addition to the posted notices required by subsection A of this section, the commission shall cause a notice of such restrictions, prohibitions or permitted uses, together with a description of the area, to be published three times in a newspaper of general circulation in the state prior to the effective date of such restrictions, prohibitions or permitted uses.

17-454. Prohibition against vehicle travel

No person shall drive a motor operated vehicle cross-country on public or private lands where such cross-country driving is prohibited by rule or regulation or, in the case of private lands, by proper posting.

17-455. Exceptions

- A. The restrictions, prohibitions or permitted uses established pursuant to section 17-452 shall not apply to:
1. Public employees acting in the scope of their employment.
 2. Valid licensees and permittees of state agencies and land management agencies. Holders of such licenses and permits shall be limited to the specific purposes and areas of travel for which such licenses or permits were issued or granted.
 3. Necessary travel within or across restricted or prohibited land by employees and agents of public utilities, subject to Arizona corporation commission (or any successor agency) or federal power commission regulation, of suppliers of water or power acting as agents of the federal government, and employees or agents of mining companies exercising rights pursuant to any state or federal mining law or regulation. Other persons who are regularly engaged in prospecting or mineral exploration shall upon application be issued vehicular access permits by the director.
 4. A licensed hunter who enters an area solely to pick up a big game animal which he has legally killed.
- B. Emergency situations, such as fire or other disasters, or when otherwise necessary to protect life or property shall not require a permit.
- C. Parking and camping shall be allowed along open roads in closed areas, except that no vehicle shall be parked or operated at a distance greater than three hundred feet from such roads.

17-502. Adoption and text of compact

The wildlife violator compact is adopted and enacted into law as follows:

Article 1

Findings, declaration of policy and purpose

(a) The participating states find that:

(1) Wildlife resources are managed in trust by the respective states for the benefit of all residents and visitors.

(2) The protection of the wildlife resources of a state is materially affected by the degree of compliance with state statutes, laws, regulations, ordinances and administrative rules relating to the management of such resources.

(3) The preservation, protection, management and restoration of wildlife contributes immeasurably to the aesthetic, recreational and economic aspects of such natural resources.

(4) Wildlife resources are valuable without regard to political boundaries; therefore, every person should be required to comply with wildlife preservation, protection, management and restoration laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations of the participating states as a condition precedent to the continuance or issuance of any license to hunt, fish, trap or possess wildlife.

(5) Violation of wildlife laws interferes with the management of wildlife resources and may endanger the safety of persons and property.

(6) The mobility of many wildlife law violators necessitates the maintenance of channels of communication among the various states.

(7) In some states, a person who is cited for a wildlife violation in a state other than his home state:

(i) Is required to post collateral or a bond to secure appearance for a trial at a later date; or

(ii) Is taken into custody until the collateral or bond is posted; or

(iii) Is taken directly to court for an immediate appearance.

(8) The purpose of the enforcement practices set forth in paragraph (7) of this article is to ensure compliance with the terms of a wildlife citation by the cited person who, if permitted to continue on his way after receiving the citation, could return to his home state and disregard his duty under the terms of the citation.

(9) In most instances, a person receiving a wildlife citation in his home state is permitted to accept the citation from the officer at the scene of the violation and immediately continue on his way after agreeing or being instructed to comply with the terms of the citation.

(10) The practices described in paragraph (7) of this article cause unnecessary inconvenience and, at times, a hardship for the person who is unable at the time to post collateral, furnish a bond, stand trial or pay a fine, and thus is compelled to remain in custody until some alternative arrangement is made.

(11) The enforcement practices described in paragraph (7) of this article consume an undue amount of law enforcement time.

(b) It is the policy of the participating states to:

- (1) Promote compliance with the statutes, laws, ordinances, regulations and administrative rules relating to management of wildlife resources in their respective states.
- (2) Recognize the suspension of wildlife license privileges of any person whose license privileges have been suspended by a participating state and treat such suspension as if it had occurred in their state provided the violation which resulted in the suspension could have been the basis for suspension in their state.
- (3) Allow a violator, except as provided in paragraph (b) of article III, to accept a wildlife citation and, without delay, proceed on his way, whether or not a resident of the state in which the citation was issued, provided that the violator's home state is party to this compact.
- (4) Report to the appropriate participating state, as provided in the compact manual, any conviction recorded against any person whose home state was not the issuing state.
- (5) Allow the home state to recognize and treat convictions recorded against its residents, which convictions occurred in a participating state, as though they had occurred in the home state.
- (6) Extend cooperation to its fullest extent among the participating states for enforcing compliance with the terms of a wildlife citation issued in one participating state to a resident of another participating state.
- (7) Maximize effective use of law enforcement personnel and information.
- (8) Assist court systems in the efficient disposition of wildlife violations.

(c) The purpose of this compact is to:

- (1) Provide a means through which a participating state may join in a reciprocal program to effectuate the policies enumerated in paragraph (b) of this article in a uniform and orderly manner.
- (2) Provide for the fair and impartial treatment of wildlife violators operating within participating states in recognition of the violator's right to due process and the sovereign status of a participating state.

The compact administrator shall be appointed by the head of the licensing authority of each participating state and shall serve and be subject to removal in accordance with the laws of the state he represents. Article XI

Title

This compact shall be known as the "wildlife violator compact".

25-320. Child support; factors; methods of payment; additional enforcement provisions; definitions

A. In a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, maintenance or child support, the court may order either or both parents owing a duty of support to a child, born to or adopted by the parents, to pay an amount reasonable and necessary for support of the child, without regard to marital misconduct.

B. If child support has not been ordered by a child support order and if the court deems child support appropriate, the court shall direct, using a retroactive application of the child support guidelines to the date of filing a dissolution of marriage, legal separation, maintenance or child support proceeding, the amount that the parents shall pay for the past support of the child and the manner in which payment shall be paid, taking into account any amount of temporary or voluntary support that has been paid. Retroactive child support is enforceable in any manner provided by law.

C. If the parties lived apart before the date of the filing for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, maintenance or child support and if child support has not been ordered by a child support order, the court may order child support retroactively to the date of separation, but not more than three years before the date of the filing for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, maintenance or child support. The court must first consider all relevant circumstances, including the conduct or motivation of the parties in that filing and the diligence with which service of process was attempted on the obligor spouse or was frustrated by the obligor spouse. If the court determines that child support is appropriate, the court shall direct, using a retroactive application of the child support guidelines, the amount that the parents must pay for the past support of the child and the manner in which payments must be paid, taking into account any amount of temporary or voluntary support that has been paid.

D. The supreme court shall establish guidelines for determining the amount of child support. The amount resulting from the application of these guidelines is the amount of child support ordered unless a written finding is made, based on criteria approved by the supreme court, that application of the guidelines would be inappropriate or unjust in a particular case. The supreme court shall review the guidelines at least once every four years to ensure that their application results in the determination of appropriate child support amounts. The supreme court shall base the guidelines and criteria for deviation from them on all relevant factors, considered together and weighed in conjunction with each other, including:

1. The financial resources and needs of the child.
2. The financial resources and needs of the custodial parent.
3. The standard of living the child would have enjoyed if the child lived in an intact home with both parents to the extent it is economically feasible considering the resources of each parent and each parent's need to maintain a home and to provide support for the child when the child is with that parent.
4. The physical and emotional condition of the child, and the child's educational needs.
5. The financial resources and needs of the noncustodial parent.
6. The medical support plan for the child. The plan should include the child's medical support needs, the availability of medical insurance or services provided by the Arizona health care cost containment system and whether a cash medical support order is necessary.
7. Excessive or abnormal expenditures, destruction, concealment or fraudulent disposition of community, joint tenancy and other property held in common.
8. The duration of parenting time and related expenses.

E. Even if a child is over the age of majority when a petition is filed or at the time of the final decree, the court may order support to continue past the age of majority if all of the following are true:

1. The court has considered the factors prescribed in subsection D of this section.
 2. The child has severe mental or physical disabilities as demonstrated by the fact that the child is unable to live independently and be self-supporting.
 3. The child's disability began before the child reached the age of majority.
- F. If a child reaches the age of majority while the child is attending high school or a certified high school equivalency program, support shall continue to be provided during the period in which the child is actually attending high school or the equivalency program but only until the child reaches nineteen years of age unless the court enters an order pursuant to subsection E of this section. Notwithstanding any other law, a parent paying support for a child over the age of majority pursuant to this section is entitled to obtain all records related to the attendance of the child in the high school or equivalency program.
- G. If a personal check for support payments and handling fees is rightfully dishonored by the payor bank or other drawee, the person obligated to pay support shall make any subsequent support payments and handling fees only by cash, money order, cashier's check, traveler's check or certified check. If a person required to pay support other than by personal check demonstrates full and timely payment for twenty-four consecutive months, that person may pay support by personal check if these payments are for the full amount, are timely tendered and are not rightfully dishonored by the payor bank or other drawee.
- H. Subsection G of this section does not apply to payments made by means of an assignment.
- I. If after reasonable efforts to locate the obligee the clerk or support payment clearinghouse is unable to deliver payments for the period prescribed in section 25-503 due to the failure of the person to whom the support has been ordered to be paid to notify the clerk or support payment clearinghouse of a change in address, the clerk or support payment clearinghouse shall not deliver further payments and shall return the payments to the obligor consistent with the requirements of section 25-503.
- J. An order for child support shall assign responsibility for providing medical insurance for the child who is the subject of the support order to one of the parents and shall assign responsibility for the payment of any medical costs of the child that are not covered by insurance according to the child support guidelines. Each parent shall provide information to the court regarding the availability of medical insurance for the child that is accessible and available at a reasonable cost. In title IV-D cases, the parent responsible pursuant to court order for providing medical insurance for the child shall notify the child support enforcement agency in the department of economic security if medical insurance has been obtained or if the child is no longer covered under an insurance plan.
- K. If the court finds that neither parent has the ability to obtain medical insurance for the child that is accessible and available at a reasonable cost, the court shall:
1. In a title IV-D case, in accordance with established title IV-D criteria, establish a reasonable monthly cash medical support order to be paid by the obligor. If medical assistance is being provided to a child under title XIX of the social security act, cash medical support is assigned to the state pursuant to section 46-407. On verification that the obligor has obtained private insurance, the cash medical support order terminates by operation of law on the first day of the month after the policy's effective date or on the date the court, or the department in a title IV-D case, is notified that insurance has been obtained, whichever is later. If the private insurance terminates, the cash medical support order automatically resumes by operation of law on the first day of the month following the termination date of the policy.
 2. Order one parent to provide medical insurance when it becomes accessible and available at a reasonable cost.
 3. Order that medical costs in excess of the cash medical support amount shall be paid by each parent according to the percentage assigned for payment of uninsured costs.

L. In a title IV-D case, if the court orders the noncustodial parent to obtain medical insurance the court shall also set an alternative cash medical support order to be paid by that parent if the child is not covered under an insurance plan within ninety days after entry of the order or if the child is no longer covered by insurance. The court shall not order the custodial parent to pay cash medical support.

M. In title IV-D cases the superior court shall accept for filing any documents that are received through electronic transmission if the electronically reproduced document states that the copy used for the electronic transmission was certified before it was electronically transmitted.

N. The court shall presume, in the absence of contrary testimony, that a parent is capable of full-time employment at least at the applicable state or federal adult minimum wage, whichever is higher. This presumption does not apply to noncustodial parents who are under eighteen years of age and who are attending high school.

O. An order for support shall provide for an assignment pursuant to sections 25-504 and 25-323.

P. Each licensing board or agency that issues professional, recreational or occupational licenses or certificates shall record on the application the social security number of the applicant and shall enter this information in its database in order to aid the department of economic security in locating parents or their assets or to enforce child support orders. This subsection does not apply to a license that is issued pursuant to title 17 and that is not issued by an automated drawing system. If a licensing board or agency allows an applicant to use a number other than the social security number on the face of the license or certificate while the licensing board or agency keeps the social security number on file, the licensing board or agency shall advise an applicant of this fact.

Q. The factors prescribed pursuant to subsection D of this section are stated for direction to the supreme court. Except pursuant to subsection E of this section and sections 25-501 and 25-809, the superior court shall not consider the factors when making child support orders, independent of the child support guidelines.

R. For the purposes of this section:

1. "Accessible" means that insurance is available in the geographic region where the child resides.
2. "Child support guidelines" means the child support guidelines that are adopted by the state supreme court pursuant to 42 United States Code sections 651 through 669B.
3. "Date of separation" means the date the married parents ceased to cohabit.
4. "Reasonable cost" means an amount that does not exceed the higher of five per cent of the gross income of the obligated parent or an income-based numeric standard that is prescribed in the child support guidelines.
5. "Support" has the same meaning prescribed in section 25-500.
6. "Support payments" means the amount of money ordered by the court to be paid for the support of the minor child or children.

25-502. Jurisdiction, venue and procedure; additional enforcement provisions

- A. The superior court has original jurisdiction in proceedings brought by the department, its agents, a person having physical custody of a child or a party to the case to establish, enforce or modify the duties of support as prescribed in this chapter. All such proceedings are civil actions except as provided in section 25-511. Proceedings to enforce the duties of support as prescribed in this chapter may be originated in the county of residence of the respondent or the petitioner or of the child or children who are the subject of the action.
- B. A proceeding to establish support must originate in the county where the child resides or, if the child resides out of state, the county of this state where the party filing the petition to establish support resides, if either of the following applies:
1. An action does not exist under this title.
 2. Paternity was established without a court order pursuant to section 36-334.
- C. A person or the department or its agent must file a petition to establish or modify a child support order in the superior court in the county of the last order issued under this title if an order exists in this state. If a person wishes the case transferred to the county of this state where the child resides or, if the child resides out of state, the county of this state where the party requesting the transfer resides, the person must file a request for transfer with the clerk of the superior court that issued the last order.
- D. A request for transfer pursuant to subsection C of this section must include a petition or motion regarding support, a statement of payments in default, if applicable, and the transmittal fee prescribed in section 12-284. The responding party may object to the transfer by filing an objection and affidavit within twenty days after service of the request to transfer.
- E. If the clerk does not receive an objection and affidavit pursuant to subsection D of this section, the clerk shall issue the transfer order and transfer the proceeding and all related court files to the other county within thirty days after service of the request to transfer. If the clerk receives an objection and affidavit within the time prescribed in subsection D of this section, the clerk shall notify all parties of the date of the hearing at least ten days before the hearing date. The court may hear evidence relevant only to the issue of the transfer. If after that hearing the court orders the transfer, the clerk shall transfer the proceeding and court files within ten days after the order. The county to which the transfer is made retains the court files and venue for all purposes and the transferring county shall not retain a copy of those files.
- F. The county to which a transfer is made pursuant to subsection D or E of this section shall proceed as if the proceeding was brought in that county originally. A judgment from that county has the same effect and may be enforced or modified as a judgment from the original county.
- G. The party who petitioned for transfer must pay the postadjudication fee prescribed in section 12-284 to the county to which the proceeding was transferred within ten days after the date the clerk of the court mails the notice of the requirement to pay the postadjudication fee. If the party does not pay the fee by that date, the transfer order is automatically nullified and the court clerk shall return the proceeding and all related court files to the original county.
- H. Except as provided in section 25-510, in title IV-D cases the superior court shall accept for filing any documents that are received through electronic transmission if the electronically reproduced document states that the copy used for the electronic transmission was certified before it was electronically transmitted.
- I. On filing of the petition and, if applicable, after a transfer is completed, the court shall issue an order requiring the responding party to appear at the time and place set for the hearing on the petition. Service of the order and a copy of the petition shall be as provided in the Arizona rules of family law procedure. If the responding party receives notice of a hearing but fails to appear, the court may issue a child support arrest warrant as provided in article 5 of this chapter and shall require that the responding party pay at the time of arrest an amount set by the court to secure the responding party's release from custody pending an appearance at the next scheduled hearing. The court also may find the party to be in contempt of court pursuant to section 12-864.01 and set an amount to be paid to purge the contempt. Any purge amount set by the court shall supersede the amount required to be set to secure the responding party's release, and the responding party shall pay only the purge amount as a condition of release from custody. Any amounts paid under this section shall be deposited with the clerk of the court or the support payment clearinghouse and credited first to the responding party's current child support obligation and then to arrearages. The court may grant a default judgment for arrearages on a prima facie showing of the amount due.

J. The department or its agent or a parent, guardian or custodian may file with the clerk of the superior court a request to establish child support. The request must include a proposed order, the worksheet for child support and a notice of the right to request a hearing within twenty days after service in this state or within thirty days after service outside this state. The request, proposed order, worksheet and notice shall be served pursuant to the Arizona rules of family law procedure on all parties, and in a title IV-D case, on the department or its agent. In a title IV-D case, the department or its agent may serve all parties by certified mail, return receipt requested. If a party does not request a hearing within the time prescribed by this subsection, the court shall review the proposed order and worksheet and enter an appropriate order or set the matter for a hearing. In a title IV-D case, the department or its agent shall enforce the order.

K. Each licensing board or agency that issues professional, recreational or occupational licenses or certificates shall record on the application the social security number of the applicant and shall enter this information in its database in order to aid the department of economic security in locating parents or their assets or to enforce child support orders. This subsection does not apply to a license that is issued pursuant to title 17 and that is not issued by an automated drawing system. If a licensing board or agency allows an applicant to use a number other than the social security number on the face of the license or certificate while the licensing board or agency keeps the social security number on file, the licensing board or agency shall advise an applicant of this fact.

25-518. Child support arrearage; license suspension; hearing

A. If a court finds from the evidence presented at a hearing to enforce a child support order that the obligor has wilfully failed to pay child support, continues after notice pursuant to section 25-517, subsection A to wilfully fail to pay child support and is at least six months in arrears, the court shall do either of the following:

1. Send a certificate of noncompliance to the board or agency ordering the suspension or denial of a driver license or recreational license.
2. Send a certificate of noncompliance to the department of transportation that the noncommercial driver license of the obligor be restricted to travel as described in section 28-144.

B. To be eligible for a restricted license pursuant to subsection A, paragraph 2 of this section, the obligor must do all of the following:

1. Be employed for at least thirty hours per week.
2. Have a place of employment or attend a school that is located more than one mile from the obligor's place of residence.
3. Show that the employment or educational endeavor can reasonably be expected to contribute to bringing the obligor into compliance with the support order in a timely manner.
4. Enter into a payment plan with the department of economic security to pay the child support arrearage. If the court finds that the obligor is not in compliance with the agreement at any time, the obligor is subject to license suspension pursuant to this section.

C. If the obligor has complied with the support order since the suspension or denial, the obligor may petition the court for a hearing. If the obligor establishes at the review hearing that the obligor is in compliance with the support order or a court ordered plan for payment of arrearages, the court shall send a certificate of compliance to the board or agency. Except for licenses issued under title 17, the obligor may then apply for license reinstatement and shall pay all applicable fees.

D. In a title IV-D case, the department or its agent may file with the clerk of the superior court an affidavit indicating that the obligor is in compliance with the support order or the child support obligation. Within five business days after the affidavit is filed, the clerk shall send a notice of compliance to the obligor by first class mail. The clerk shall send a copy of the notice of compliance to the department and the licensing board or agency.

E. Except for licenses issued under title 17, the board or agency shall suspend or deny the license of the licensee within thirty days after receiving the notice of noncompliance from the court. The board or agency shall not lift the suspension until the board or agency receives a certificate of compliance from the court. Notwithstanding section 41-1064, subsection C and section 41-1092.11, subsection B, the board or agency is not required to conduct a hearing. The board or agency shall notify the department in writing or by any other means prescribed by the department of all suspensions within ten days after the suspension. The information shall include the name, address, date of birth and social security number of the licensee and the license category.

F. A certificate of noncompliance without further action invalidates a license to take wildlife in this state and prohibits the obligor from applying for a license issued by an automated drawing system under title 17. The court shall send a copy of the certificate of noncompliance to the department of economic security, and the department of economic security shall notify the Arizona game and fish department of all obligors against whom a notice of noncompliance has been issued and who have applied for a license issued by an automated drawing system.

G. Notwithstanding this section, the title IV-D agency or its agent may send a certificate of noncompliance to a board or agency to order it to suspend an obligor's professional or occupational license if the obligor:

1. Has wilfully failed to pay child support, continues after notice pursuant to section 25-517, subsection E to wilfully fail to pay child support and is at least six months in arrears.
2. Requested an administrative review and the determination confirms that the obligor is required to pay child support and has wilfully failed to pay and that either the obligor did not request a hearing on the determination or the determination was upheld after a hearing.
3. Failed to respond to the notice pursuant to section 25-517, subsection E.

H. If the obligor has paid all arrearages or if the obligor has entered into a written agreement with the title IV-D agency or its agent, the title IV-D agency shall issue a notice of compliance to the licensing board or agency.

41-1072. Definitions

In this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

1. "Administrative completeness review time frame" means the number of days from agency receipt of an application for a license until an agency determines that the application contains all components required by statute or rule, including all information required to be submitted by other government agencies. The administrative completeness review time frame does not include the period of time during which an agency provides public notice of the license application or performs a substantive review of the application.
2. "Overall time frame" means the number of days after receipt of an application for a license during which an agency determines whether to grant or deny a license. The overall time frame consists of both the administrative completeness review time frame and the substantive review time frame.
3. "Substantive review time frame" means the number of days after the completion of the administrative completeness review time frame during which an agency determines whether an application or applicant for a license meets all substantive criteria required by statute or rule. Any public notice and hearings required by law shall fall within the substantive review time frame.

41-1073. Time frames; exception

A. No later than December 31, 1998, an agency that issues licenses shall have in place final rules establishing an overall time frame during which the agency will either grant or deny each type of license that it issues. Agencies shall submit their overall time frame rules to the governor's regulatory review council pursuant to the schedule developed by the council. The council shall schedule each agency's rules so that final overall time frame rules are in place no later than December 31, 1998. The rule regarding the overall time frame for each type of license shall state separately the administrative completeness review time frame and the substantive review time frame.

B. If a statutory licensing time frame already exists for an agency but the statutory time frame does not specify separate time frames for the administrative completeness review and the substantive review, by rule the agency shall establish separate time frames for the administrative completeness review and the substantive review, which together shall not exceed the statutory overall time frame. An agency may establish different time frames for initial licenses, renewal licenses and revisions to existing licenses.

C. The submission by the department of environmental quality of a revised permit to the United States environmental protection agency in response to an objection by that agency shall be given the same effect as a notice granting or denying a permit application for licensing time frame purposes. For the purposes of this subsection, "permit" means a permit required by title 49, chapter 2, article 3.1 or section 49-426.

D. In establishing time frames, agencies shall consider all of the following:

1. The complexity of the licensing subject matter.
2. The resources of the agency granting or denying the license.
3. The economic impact of delay on the regulated community.
4. The impact of the licensing decision on public health and safety.
5. The possible use of volunteers with expertise in the subject matter area.
6. The possible increased use of general licenses for similar types of licensed businesses or facilities.
7. The possible increased cooperation between the agency and the regulated community.
8. Increased agency flexibility in structuring the licensing process and personnel.

E. This article does not apply to licenses issued either:

DEPARTMENT OF EMERGENCY AND MILITARY AFFAIRS (F19-0613)
Title 8, Chapter 2, Article 7, Registration of Emergency Workers

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: DEPARTMENT OF EMERGENCY AND MILITARY AFFAIRS (F19-0613)
Title 8, Chapter 2, Article 7, Registration of Emergency Workers

This Five Year Review Report (5YRR) from the Department of Emergency and Military Affairs (Department) relates to rules in Title 8, Chapter 2, Article 7, regarding the registration of emergency workers. As the Department indicates in its report, the rules establish procedures for the state, its agencies, and political subdivisions regarding emergency management activities and for performing emergency functions. Registration as an emergency worker is required under A.R.S. § 26-314 to obtain immunity from liability, exemptions from laws, ordinances, and rules, and other employment benefits that apply to emergency workers.

In the previous 5YRR for these rules, the Department recommended two changes: (1) to amend R8-2-704 to include misdemeanor convictions involving moral turpitude as grounds for the denial or revocation of emergency worker registration and (2) to add a definition section to the rules to ensure further clarity. For the reasons identified in the report, the Department did not act on those recommendations. However, the Department indicates that upon approval of this 5YRR, it plans to take action to make these changes.

Proposed Action

As indicated above and in the report, within 12 months of approval of this report, the Department plans to request an exemption from the rulemaking moratorium to amend R8-2-704 and add a definition section at R8-2-705.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Department cites to both general and specific authority for these rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The Article 7 rules establish procedures for the state, its agencies, and its political subdivisions to register emergency workers in support of emergency management activities or performing emergency functions. The Department indicates that the economic impact of these rules does not differ from what was originally determined when the rules were adopted.

The stakeholders include the Department, emergency workers, and the public.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Department indicates that the rules under review provide the least intrusive and least costly method of achieving their regulatory objectives. The Article 7 rules provide the necessary procedures to register emergency workers. Emergency workers benefit from the employment and legal protections specified in A.R.S. § 26-314. The benefits of these rules outweigh the costs.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

No. The Department has not received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Department indicates that the rules are clear, concise, understandable, and effective.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

Yes. The Department indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

Not applicable. There is no corresponding federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

Not applicable. The rules do not require issuance of a permit or license.

9. Conclusion

Council staff finds that the rules are clear, concise, understandable, and effective. Council staff further finds that once the Department amends its rules as indicated in its 5YRR, the resulting rules will better protect public safety and be more effective. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

Title 8. Emergency and Military Affairs
Chapter 2. Department of Emergency and Military Affairs –
Division of Emergency Management
Article 7

Submitted April 15, 2019

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 41-1056, the Arizona Department of Emergency and Military Affairs (DEMA) submits the following five-year review report.

Overview of Rules

DEMA has published rules that appear in Arizona Administrative Code at R8-2-701 et seq. (Registration of Emergency Workers) that were formally adopted January 31, 2009.

The Registration of Emergency Workers Rules establishes procedures for the state, its agencies, and political subdivisions to register emergency workers in support of emergency management activities or performing emergency functions. Registration of an emergency worker by the state, its agencies, and political subdivisions is required to extend immunity from liability; exemptions from laws, ordinances and rules; all pensions, relief, and disability workers' compensation; and other benefits that apply to the activity of emergency workers of this state or of any political subdivision when performing their respective functions per A.R.S. § 26-314.

Arizona Department of Emergency and Military Affairs
Title 8, Chapter 2, Article 7
Five-Year Review Report

1. Authorization of the rule by existing statutes:

General Statutory Authority: A.R.S. § 26-301 and § 26-314

Specific Statutory Authority: A.R.S. § 26-314(E), which states, “The division shall adopt rules prescribing the procedures for registration of emergency workers.”

2. The objective of each rule:

Rule	Objective
R8-2-701	To provide the public with the scope of applicability for the rules within Article 7. This will prevent confusion on behalf of the state, political subdivisions of the state, and the public regarding to whom the rules and registration process apply, and what protections the registration procedures provide to registered volunteer emergency workers.
R8-2-702	To specify that an individual must be registered with an entity of the state or political subdivision as an emergency worker in order to qualify for the benefits and legal protections provided by A.R.S. § 26-314, which alleviates confusion and direct volunteers to the appropriate place to register as an emergency worker. The objective of this rule is also to make those intending to register as an emergency worker aware that the information they provide may be used to perform a criminal history and driving record background check. Performing criminal history and driving record background checks on individuals who register as emergency workers protects the public health, safety, and welfare from individuals who may either be unqualified to serve or perform certain activities as an emergency worker, or those considered undesirable to serve as an emergency worker to a potentially vulnerable population. Additionally, the objective is to create the mechanism for maintaining a ready reserve of registered emergency workers by requiring annual reviews of registered workers, and to design the mechanism to provide for the registering of temporary emergency workers to rapidly augment those who are permanently registered and manage the public’s willingness to volunteer and assist during an emergency.
R8-4-703	To establish the minimum amount of information required to register with the state or a political subdivision as an emergency worker that imposed the least burden upon the registrant while identifying eligibility to serve and unique skill-sets that could be potentially applicable. This completed information provides the state or a political subdivision with the appropriate amount of information to register an individual as a temporary emergency worker per the procedures identified in R8-2-702 as well as maintaining the individual as a registered emergency worker that is annually reviewed and updated.

R8-2-704	To identify the circumstances under which the registration of an emergency worker, and the benefits and legal protections that designation entails, may be denied or revoked. These procedures are inherently necessary to protect the public health, safety, and welfare from emergency workers who are unable or unqualified to serve, either due to a health condition that limits their ability to serve in an emergency environment, by being untruthful in completing the application process, or by having a history of conviction for a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude.

3. Are the rules effective in achieving their objectives? Yes X No ___

The rules have effectively and efficiently provided the guidance necessary for agencies of the state and political subdivisions to register emergency workers and extend to them the benefits and legal protections prescribed under A.R.S. § 26-314.

4. Are the rules consistent with other rules and statutes? Yes X No ___

These are the only set of rules for registering emergency workers, as defined by A.R.S. § 26-301, and extends the benefits and legal protections prescribed by A.R.S. § 26-314. The Division has no intra-agency or inter-agency consistency issues with its regulations. There are no federal statutes governing registration procedures of emergency workers.

5. Are the rules enforced as written? Yes X No ___

The rules are consistently and fairly applied by agencies and political subdivisions of the state to register emergency workers.

6. Are the rules clear, concise, and understandable? Yes X No ___

The rules are clear, concise, and understandable.

7. Written criticisms received within the last five years? Yes ___ No X

The Division has not received any written or verbal criticisms of these rules.

8. Economic, small business, and consumer impact comparison:

There has been minimal to no economic, small business or consumer impact as anticipated in the 2008 EIS from the original making of the rules. State agencies and political subdivisions incur minimal cost to register emergency workers as compared to the benefits directly received from the ability to utilize those emergency workers during a disaster. There is no economic impact to an individual who registers as an emergency worker with an agency of political subdivision of the state, who in return for registering receives the economic benefit of the worker and legal protections prescribed under A.R.S. § 26-314. The consumer of the services of an emergency worker receives the benefit of those emergency management and response activities, as does a small business.

9. Has the agency received any business competitiveness analyses of the rules? Yes ___ No X

The Division has not received any analysis by another party comparing the impact of the rules reviewed in this report on this state's business competitiveness or to the impact on business in other states.

10. Has the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year-review report?

The prior Five-Year Review Report specified two recommended changes: the first to amend R8-2-704 to include misdemeanor convictions involving moral turpitude as grounds for the denial or revocation of emergency worker registration, and the second to add a definition section to the rules to further ensure clarity. This course of action was not completed with this current review period because an increase in natural disaster activity in other parts of the country over this timeframe led the Division to undertake a separate de novo review of the authorizing statutes and rules to ensure Arizona had the proper policy in place to register and activate emergency workers. The earlier identified changes were thus delayed with the intent to combine any newly identified amendments into one rule-making action so as to best utilize the time of the agency, Council, and Governor's Office. This de novo review identified areas that could benefit for further clarification under statute, but no additional amendments to the rules were identified. The recommended changes in the previous Five-Year Review Report are still planned to be actioned pending Council approval of this Five-Year Review Report and exemption from the 2019 Rulemaking Moratorium by the Governor's Office.

11. A determination that the probable benefits of the rule outweigh within this state the probable costs of the rule, and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to regulated persons by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs, necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective:

As written, the rules impose the least burden and cost necessary for the rules to accomplish their regulatory objective to protect the public's health, safety, and welfare. The only burden and cost that may be incurred on the state and its political subdivisions through compliance of these rules are the cost of forms for registration, maintaining a current database of emergency workers, and for criminal history and driving record background checks required for the registration of emergency workers. These burdens and costs are outweighed by the benefits of registration, including the cost of criminal history and driving record background checks for emergency workers. Criminal background checks ensure registered emergency workers do not have a history of felony convictions or misdemeanor convictions involving moral turpitude, which is a necessary consideration when utilizing an individual's services with a population that is potentially vulnerable during an emergency. Similarly, driving record background checks ensure volunteers with a history of traffic violations or a suspended driver's license are not assigned driving related responsibilities. Maintaining a current database of emergency workers and performing the stated background checks are significantly less expensive for the state and its political subdivisions compared to spending monies to secure outside services and overtime hours of employees during an emergency event.

12. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal laws? Yes ___ No X

Not applicable. There are no federal requirements for the registration of emergency workers.

13. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010 that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rules are in compliance with the general permit requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1037 or explain why the agency believes an exception applies:

Not applicable. The rules do not require issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or authorization.

14. Proposed course of action

As stated in question 10, the Division intends to amend R8-2-704 to include misdemeanor convictions involving moral turpitude as grounds for the denial or revocation of emergency worker registration, and to include the ability of the registering authority to deny or revoke registration of an emergency worker at their discretion. ADEM also intends to add R8-2-705 to create a definitions section in the rules to ensure clarity. These two rule amendments will further ensure consistency within the rule language. ADEM intends to submit a rulemaking moratorium exemption request to the Governor's Office within 12 months of approval of this Five-Year Review Report by the Council.

ECONOMIC, SMALL BUSINESS AND CONSUMER IMPACT STATEMENT
TITLE 8. EMERGENCY AND MILITARY AFFAIRS
CHAPTER 2. DEPARTMENT OF EMERGENCY AND MILITARY AFFAIRS,
DIVISION OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

1. Identification of the rulemaking:

These rules are being established for the Department's operational procedures for registering of volunteer emergency workers with the state and political subdivision. The proposed rulemaking is to create new sections R8-2-701, R8-2-702, R8-2-703, R8-2-704. The proposed operational practices will allow those who may be engaged in authorized emergency management activities or performing emergency functions to be register in accordance A.R.S.§ 26-314 . The proposed rulemaking addresses registration procedures; it is expected these rules will have minimal or no economic impact to small business, consumer or volunteers and state agencies or political subdivisions.

2. Persons who will be directly affected by, bearing the costs of, or directly benefit from the rulemaking:

The rulemaking directly affects the political subdivisions and selective state agencies who will bear the cost of paper forms for registration and maintaining a current database. The database will consist of trained, registered volunteers to fill positions and other duties which may require volunteers with expertise. The state and political subdivisions will directly benefit from this rulemaking by saving monies spent using outside services and overtime hours. This rulemaking will directly affect the Governor's Emergency Fund as well as the political subdivision's budget by saving money spent on additional personnel to perform various tasks. The rulemaking will benefit those volunteers who are registered by allowing individuals to utilize their valuable time and professional experiences. Registering as a volunteer with the state and/or political subdivisions volunteers will be eligible for benefits and legal protection under A.R.S. § 26-314, during an exercise or actual disaster.

3. Cost-Benefit analysis:

a. Cost and benefits to state and political subdivisions directly affected by the rulemaking:

The Department of Emergency and Military Affairs, Division of Emergency Management is the primary state agency directly affected by the rulemaking. It incurred the cost of making the rules and will have the benefit of having rules that are consistent with statute and clearly delineate the registration procedures. Other state agencies and political subdivisions will bear minimal cost to register volunteers. Both the State and political subdivisions will benefit directly from these rules by having a set of guidelines to follow when registering volunteers.

b. Costs and benefits to political subdivisions directly affected by the rulemaking:

Both the state and political subdivisions will benefit by using registered volunteers as a direct savings on local budgets and the state's emergency funds. Over the past four years it has been estimated that state agencies and political subdivisions used three hundred volunteers which save approximately $150,000.00 if paid at $10.00 an hour and thousands of dollars in overtime.

c. Cost and benefits to business directly affected by the rulemaking:

No businesses are directly affected by this rulemaking.

4. Impact on private and public employment:

The rulemaking will have very little to no direct effect on private or public employment. By using trained registered volunteers, the state and political subdivisions will not have to utilize temporary employment agencies to fill required positions.

5. Impact on small businesses:

The rulemaking will have no direct effect on businesses of any size.

6. Cost and benefit to private persons and consumer who are directly affected by the rulemaking:

The rulemaking will have no direct effect to costs on private persons or consumers.

Probable effects on state revenues:

The rulemaking will have no direct effect on the revenues.

7. Less intrusive or less costly alternative methods considered:

Because the rulemaking has no direct effect on businesses, no less intrusive or less costly alternative method was considered.

Responder Awareness Level course or the Hazmat First Responder Operations Level course. The employer of an individual issued Evidence of Completion shall maintain evidence of the individual's competency under 29 CFR 1910.120(Q)(6) and (Q)(8)(ii), published by the United States Government Printing Office and revised July 1, 2001, with no later editions or amendments. This regulation is incorporated by reference and on file with the Division and the Office of the Secretary of State.

ARIZONA HEALTH CARE COST CONTAINMENT SYSTEM (AHCCCS)

Title 9, Chapter 21, All Articles, Behavioral Health Services for Persons with Serious Mental Illness

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: ARIZONA HEALTH CARE COST CONTAINMENT SYSTEM (F19-0612)
Title 9, Chapter 21, All Articles, AHCCCS - Behavioral Health Services for Persons with Serious Mental Illness

This Five Year Review Report (5YRR) from AHCCCS relates to all of the rules in Title 9, Chapter 21 regarding Behavioral Health Services for Persons with Serious Mental Illness. These rules implicate an Independent Oversight Committee (IOC). In August 2018, legislation renamed the previous Human Rights Committees (HRCs) to Independent Oversight Committees (IOCs). IOCs are now located within the Department of Administration. The IOC mentioned in these rules is authorized under A.R.S. § 41-3803. As indicated in that statute, the IOC is established to "promote the rights of persons who receive behavioral health services pursuant to title 36, chapters 5 and 34."

This is the first 5YRR for these rules because they came under AHCCCS's jurisdiction less than five years ago upon the merger of the Department of Behavioral Health and AHCCCS.

Proposed Action

Upon approval of this report, AHCCCS will initiate a rulemaking within 180 days to make the changes identified below and in the 5YRR.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Agency cites to both general and specific authority for these rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The Agency last amended the Chapter 21 rules in July 2016. In the Agency's prior economic, small business, and consumer impact statement (EIS), it indicated that the source of any economic impact were statutes, not rules.

The stakeholders include the Agency, health care providers, social assistance agencies, AHCCCS members, and the general public.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Agency indicates that the rules require minor technical amendments. Once these technical amendments are completed, the rules will impose the least burden and costs to regulated populations.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

No. The Agency has not received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Agency indicates that the rules are mostly clear, concise, understandable, and effective. However, the Agency indicates that in R9-21-101, the term "County Annex" in the definition section should be updated to "MIHS Behavioral Health Annex." The Agency also indicates that in R9-22-401, a reference to the federal IMD rule needs to be added to clarify the reason for rejection of a stay longer than 16 days.

Moreover, the Agency states that to be consistent with statutory changes, the reference to "Human Rights Committees" in Chapter 21 should be changed to "Independent Oversight Committees." The Agency also indicates that the references to "regional authorities" in Chapter 21 should be changed to managed care organizations to reflect ACC integration.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

Yes. The Department indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

No. The rules are not more stringent than corresponding federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

Not applicable.

9. Conclusion

Council staff finds that the rules are mostly clear, concise, understandable, and effective. As indicated above, the Agency plans to make certain necessary changes to the rules upon approval of this report. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

RULES

A.R.S. § 41-1001(17) states: “‘Rule’ means an agency statement of general applicability that implements, interprets, or prescribes law or policy, or describes the procedures or practice requirements of an agency.”

THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE

The Arizona Administrative Code is where the official rules of the state of Arizona are published. The Code is the official codification of rules that govern state agencies, boards, and commissions. Virtually everything in your life is affected in some way by rules published in the Arizona Administrative Code, from the quality of air you breathe to the licensing of your dentist. This chapter is one of more than 230 in the Code compiled in 21 Titles.

ADMINISTRATIVE CODE SUPPLEMENTS

Rules filed by an agency to be published in the Administrative Code are updated quarterly. Supplement release dates are printed on the footers of each chapter:

First Quarter: January 1 - March 31
Second Quarter: April 1 - June 30
Third Quarter: July 1 - September 30
Fourth Quarter: October 1 - December 31

For example, the first supplement for the first quarter of 2016 is cited as Supp. 16-1.

HOW TO USE THE CODE

Rules may be in effect before a supplement is released by the Office. Therefore, the user should refer to issues of the Arizona Administrative Register for recent updates to rule Sections.

ARTICLES AND SECTIONS

Rules in chapters are divided into Articles, then Sections. The “R” stands for “rule” with a sequential numbering and lettering system separated into subsections.

HISTORICAL NOTES AND EFFECTIVE DATES

Historical notes inform the user when the last time a Section was updated in the Administrative Code. Be aware, since the Office publishes each quarter by entire chapters, not all Sections are updated by an agency in a supplement release. Many times just one Section or a few Sections may be updated in the entire chapter.

ARIZONA REVISED STATUTE REFERENCES

The Arizona Revised Statutes (A.R.S.) are available online at the Legislature’s website, www.azleg.gov. An agency’s authority note to make rules is often included at the beginning of a chapter. Other Arizona statutes may be referenced in rule under the A.R.S. acronym.

SESSION LAW REFERENCES

Arizona Session Law references in the introduction of a chapter can be found at the Secretary of State’s website, www.azsos.gov/services/legislative-filings.

EXEMPTIONS FROM THE APA

It is not uncommon for an agency to be exempt from the steps outlined in the rulemaking process as specified in the Arizona Administrative Procedures Act, also known as the APA (Arizona Revised Statutes, Title 41, Chapter 6, Articles 1 through 10). Other agencies may be given an exemption to certain provisions of the Act.

An agency’s exemption is written in law by the Arizona State Legislature or under a referendum or initiative passed into law by Arizona voters.

When an agency files an exempt rulemaking package with our Office it specifies the law exemption in what is called the preamble of rulemaking. The preamble is published in the Arizona Administrative Register online at www.azsos.gov/rules, click on the Administrative Register link.

In the Administrative Code the Office includes editor’s notes at the beginning of a chapter indicating that certain rulemaking Sections were made by exempt rulemaking. Exempt rulemaking notes are also included in the historical note at the end of a rulemaking Section.

The Office makes a distinction to certain exemptions because some rules are made without receiving input from stakeholders or the public. Other exemptions may require an agency to propose exempt rules at a public hearing.

EXEMPTIONS AND PAPER COLOR

If you are researching rules and come across rescinded chapters on a different paper color, this is because the agency filed a Notice of Exempt Rulemaking. At one time the office published exempt rules on either blue or green paper. Blue meant the authority of the exemption was given by the Legislature; green meant the authority was determined by a court order. In 2001 the Office discontinued publishing rules using these paper colors.

PERSONAL USE/COMMERCIAL USE

This chapter is posted as a public courtesy online, and is for private use only. Those who wish to use the contents for resale or profit should contact the Office about Commercial Use fees. For information on commercial use fees review A.R.S. § 39-121.03 and 1 A.A.C. 1, R1-1-113.

Public Services managing rules editor, Rhonda Paschal, assisted with the editing of this chapter.

TITLE 9. HEALTH SERVICES

CHAPTER 21. ARIZONA HEALTH CARE COST CONTAINMENT SYSTEM (AHCCCS) - BEHAVIORAL HEALTH SERVICES FOR PERSONS WITH SERIOUS MENTAL ILLNESS

Editor’s Note: Laws 2015, Ch. 195 provided for the statutory transfer of behavioral health responsibilities from the Arizona Department of Health Services to the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System (AHCCCS). Therefore the Chapter name has been amended from Department of Health Services to the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System at 22 A.A.R. 2019, effective July 12, 2016 (Supp. 16-4).

Editor’s Note: The Office of the Secretary of State publishes all Chapters on white paper (Supp. 01-3).

Editor’s Note: Title 9, Chapter 21 was adopted and amended by the Department of Health Services under the provisions of Laws 1992, Ch. 301, § 61, which provided for an exemption from the rulemaking process as specified in the Arizona Administrative Procedure Act (A.R.S. Title 41, Chapter 6, § 41-1001 et seq.). Exemption from A.R.S. Title 41, Chapter 6 means that the Department did not submit notice of this rulemaking to the Secretary of State’s Office for publication in the Arizona Administrative Register; the Department did not submit these rules to the Governor’s Regulatory Review Council for review; the Department was not required to hold public hearings on these rules; and the Attorney General has not certified these rules. Because this Chapter contains rules which are exempt from the provisions of the Arizona Administrative Procedure Act, the Chapter is printed on blue paper.

Former Title 9, Chapter 21 renumbered to Title 18, Chapter 11.

R9-21-206. Competency and Consent

- A. A client shall not be deemed incompetent to manage the client's affairs, to contract, to hold professional, occupational or vehicle operator's licenses, to make wills, to vote or to exercise any other civil or legal right solely by reason of admission to a mental health agency.
- B. An applicant or client is presumed to be legally competent to conduct the client's personal and financial affairs, unless otherwise determined by a court in a guardianship or conservatorship proceeding.
- C. Only an applicant or client who is competent may provide informed consent, authorization, or permission as required in this Chapter. A mental health agency shall use the following criteria to determine if an applicant or client is competent and the appropriateness of establishing or removing a guardianship, temporary guardianship, conservatorship, or guardianship ad litem for the client:

1. An applicant or client shall be determined to be in need of guardianship or conservatorship only if the applicant's or client's ability to make important decisions concerning the applicant or client or the applicant's or client's property is so limited that the absence of a person with legal authority to make such decisions for the applicant or client creates a serious risk to the applicant's or client's health, welfare or safety.
 2. Although the capability of the applicant or client to make important decisions is the central factor in determining the need for guardianship, the capabilities of the applicant's or client's family, the applicant's or client's living circumstances, the probability that available treatment will improve the applicant's or client's ability to make decisions on the applicant's or client's behalf, and the availability and utility of nonjudicial alternatives to guardianships such as trusts, representative payees, citizen advocacy programs, or community support services should also be considered.
 3. If the applicant or client has been determined to be incapable of making important decisions with regard to the applicant's or client's personal or financial affairs, and if nonjudicial, less restrictive alternatives such as trusts, representative payees, cosignatory bank accounts, and citizen advocates are inadequate to protect the applicant or client from a substantial and unreasonable risk to the applicant's or client's health, safety, welfare, or property, the applicant's or client's nearest living relatives shall be notified with an accompanying recommendation that a guardian or conservator be appointed.
 4. If the applicant or client is capable of making important decisions concerning the applicant's or client's health, welfare, and property, either independently or through other less restrictive alternatives such as trusts, representative payees, cosignatory bank accounts, and citizen advocates, the applicant's or client's nearest living relative shall be notified with an accompanying recommendation that any existing guardian or conservator be removed.
 5. If the client has been determined to require or no longer require assistance in the management of financial or personal affairs, and the nearest living relative cannot be found or is incapable of or not interested in caring for the client's interest, the mental health agency shall assist in the recruitment or removal of a trustee, representative payee, advocate, conservator, or guardian. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to require the Administration or any regional authority or service provider to pay for the recruitment, appointment or removal of a trustee, representative payee, advocate, conservator, or guardian.
 6. The assessment or periodic review shall identify the specific area or areas of the client's functioning that forms the basis of the recommendation for the appointment or removal of a guardian or conservator, such as an inability to respond appropriately to health problems or consent to medical care, or an inability to manage savings or routine expenses.
- D. Mental health agencies shall devise and implement procedures to ensure that suspected improprieties of a guardian, conservator, trustee, representative payee, or other fiduciary are reported to the court or other appropriate authorities.

- A. Responsibilities of the regional authority, clinical team, and case manager.
1. The regional authority is responsible for providing, purchasing, or arranging for all services identified in ISPs.
 - a. The regional authority shall perform all intake and case management for its region. The regional authority may contract with a mental health agency to perform intake or case management but only with the written approval of the Administration, which may be given in its sole discretion.
 - b. Other services may be provided directly by programs operated by the Administration or by the regional authority through contracts with service providers, or through arrangements with other agencies or generic providers.
 2. The regional authority and the clinical team shall work diligently to ensure equal access to generic services for its clients in order to integrate the client into the mainstream of society.
 3. The initial clinical team shall work to meet the individual's needs from the date of application or referral for services until such time as eligibility is established and an ISP is developed.
 4. The assigned clinical team shall be primarily responsible for providing continuous treatment, outreach and support to a client, for identifying appropriate behavioral health services or community services, and for developing, implementing and monitoring ISPs for clients.
 5. The case manager, in conjunction with the clinical team, shall:

- a. Locate services identified in the ISP;
 - b. Confirm the selection of service providers and include the names of such providers in the ISP;
 - c. Obtain a written client service agreement from each provider;
 - d. Be responsible for ensuring that services are actually delivered in accordance with the ISP; and

7. If a case manager is assigned to a client who, at any time, is admitted to an inpatient facility, the case manager shall ensure the development, modification or revision of a client's ISP and the integration of the ITDP according to this Article.
- a. The inpatient facility clinician responsible for coordinating the ITDP shall immediately notify the client's case manager of the time of the admission and ensure that all treatment and discharge planning includes the case manager.

It is the responsibility of the regional authority and its service providers to engage in service planning, including the provision of assessments, case management, ISPs, ITDPs, and service referrals, according to the provisions of these rules for the benefit of clients requesting, receiving or referred for behavioral health services or community services. Clients and the clients' guardians may refuse to participate in or to receive any service planning. In the event of such refusal, service planning shall not be provided unless:

 4. A decision to provide services, including assessment, service planning, and case management services, to a client who is refusing such services, or a decision not to provide such services to such an individual, may be appealed according to the provisions of R9-21-401. If legitimate security requirements of any jail in which a client is incarcerated require a reasonable modification of a specific procedure set forth in this rule, the clinical team may modify the method for preparing the ISP only to the extent necessary to accommodate the legitimate security concerns.

(Pursuant to A.R.S. § 36-522)

The undersigned hereby requests a mental health evaluation to be performed by psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers at

on the following terms:

INPATIENT. I agree to remain as an inpatient in the above agency for a period of not more than 72 hours. I understand that, at the end of that period, the agency must release me or file a Petition for Court-Ordered Treatment, in which case I may be held until the court holds a hearing, which shall be no longer than six days from the date of filing the petition, excluding weekends and holidays. If such a Petition is filed, I will have the right to representation by a lawyer, and the court will appoint one for me if I cannot afford one.

OUTPATIENT. I agree to keep all scheduled appointments required for a complete evaluation, to the best of my ability. I understand that if I fail to appear, a Petition for Court-Ordered Evaluation or Treatment may be filed, in which case I may be detained and required to undergo involuntary evaluation and treatment. If such a Petition is filed, I will have the right to representation by a lawyer, and the court will appoint one for me if I cannot afford one.

I understand that the physician-patient privilege does not apply, and information I give during this evaluation may be used in court in a civil hearing for court-ordered treatment.

I understand that this evaluation may lead to a court hearing to determine if I need further treatment and that such treatment, or an investigation into the need for a guardianship, may be ordered by a court.

I understand that an application for my examination has been filed and I choose to be evaluated voluntarily rather than by court order.

I understand that my evaluation must take place within five days of my application.

I understand that I have a right to require the person who has applied for my evaluation to present evidence of the need for such evaluation to a court of law for approval or disapproval and I waive my right to require prior court review of the application.

I understand that I have a right, upon written request, to be discharged within 24 hours of that request (excluding weekends and holidays) unless the medical director of the evaluation agency files a petition for court-ordered evaluation.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA (F19-0602)

Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7, Self-Insurance Requirements for Workers' Compensation Pools Organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA (ICA)
Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7, Self-Insurance Requirements for Workers' Compensation Pools Organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01

This five year review report (5YRR) from the Industrial Commission of Arizona ("Commission") relates to all Sections of Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7, Self-Insurance Requirements for Workers' Compensation Pools Organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01. In 1997, the Arizona Legislature added "self-insurance pools" as a mechanism for securing workers' compensation. Specifically, A.R.S. § 23-961.01(A) permits two or more employers who are engaged in similar industries to form a workers' compensation pool to provide for the direct payment and administration of workers' compensation claims. Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7, initially adopted in 1998, contains rules concerning self-insurance requirements for employer workers' compensation pools organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01(A).

In its previous 5YRR for these rules in 2014, the Commission anticipated amending rules R20-5-706 through R20-5-708, R20-5-710, R20-5-711, R20-5-713, R20-5-717 through R20-5-721, R20-5-726, R20-5-728 through R20-5-730, and R20-5-739 after completion of Article 2 amendments to maintain consistency. However, at that time, there had been no applications for self-insured pools utilizing Article 7 since its inception. As such, the proposed rulemaking was a low priority.

The Commission did conduct one rulemaking amending R20-5-715, which was approved by this Council in September 2016, to require an employer pool maintain aggregate and specific excess insurance policies and specify policy and retention amounts. This was an attempt by the Commission to reduce the cost to employers seeking to form workers' compensation pools.

The Commission indicates that there still have been no applications for authority to self-insure an employer pool under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 since the rules became effective in 1998.

Proposed Action

The Commission plans to complete a study as to why employers have not availed themselves of the opportunity to form workers' compensation pools under Article 7. Once the Commission has a better understanding of the actual burdens and impediments that prevent employers from forming workers' compensation pools, the Commission intends to initiate a rulemaking to amend the rules in Article 7 by December 2021, as outlined in more detail below. The Commission indicates this should provide approximately 18 months for an internal study related to the rules and 18 months for rulemaking.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Commission cites to both general and specific statutory authority for the rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

Stakeholders include the Commission, employers that wish to join a workers' compensation pool, and employee associations that form a workers' compensation pool. The Commission indicates that rules in Article 7 have not been effective in encouraging the creation of employer self-insurance pools. No comparison of actual versus predicted economic impact is available. The Commission plans to study the reasons why employers have not availed themselves of the opportunity to form pools for the purpose of self-insurance under Article 7.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Commission believes that the current rules may be an impediment to achieving the Legislature's objectives in A.R.S. § 23-961.01: increased competition in the workers' compensation market, motivation for loss control, employer-tailored safety programs, and long-term reduction in the costs associated with workers' compensation insurance. The Commission has identified various potential impediments that may be inhibiting the use of Article 7 by employer groups. Once the Commission has a better understanding of the actual burdens and impediments that prevent employers from forming workers' compensation pools, the Commission plans to make or amend rules that will streamline the rules in Article 7. To the extent that the existing rules create any adverse economic impact beyond that imposed by A.R.S. §§ 23-961 or 23-961.01, the Commission anticipates that the amendments will reduce the burden on employers by aligning Article 7 with current Arizona statutes and providing clarifications that reduce uncertainty for Arizona employers and employees.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

The Commission has not received any written criticism of the rules within the last five years.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Commission indicates that the rules are mostly clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective except as outlined below:

- R20-5-704 - The rule is not clear because it uses the term "self-insurer." The term should be "self-insured employer pool."
- R20-5-735 - The rules should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1129, in Article 11.
- R20-5-736 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1130, in Article 11.
- R20-5-738 - The rules should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule R20-5-1132, in Article 11.
- R20-5-739 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1133, in Article 11.

The Commission notes that employer self-insurance pools are rarely formed. For this reason, the Commission believes that the current rules may be an impediment to achieving the Legislature's objectives in A.R.S. § 23-961.01, namely increased competition in the workers' compensation insurance market, motivation for loss control, employer-tailored safety programs, and long-term reduction in the costs associated with workers' compensation insurance. The Commission indicates that this determination is based on the Commission's experience using the rules, as opposed to data kept on the issue of effectiveness.

The Commission believes it appropriate to reexamine Article 7 to find appropriate ways to encourage small employers to form self-insurance pools as a potentially less costly workers' compensation insurance alternative.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Commission indicates that it has not had the opportunity to enforce Article 7 because there have been no applications for authority to self-insure an employer pool under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 since the rules became effective in 1998.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

There is no corresponding federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

Not applicable. The rules were adopted in 1998. R20-5-715 was amended in 2016, but does not require issuing a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

9. Conclusion

The rules are mostly clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective. However, the Commission has not had an opportunity to enforce the rules as no applications have been received since the rules became effective. As indicated above, the Commission proposes to conduct a study as to why employers have not availed themselves of the opportunity to form workers' compensation pools under Article 7. Once the Commission has a better understanding of the actual burdens and impediments that prevent employers from forming workers' compensation pools, the Commission intends to initiate a rulemaking to amend the rules in Article 7 by December 2021. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

FIVE-YEAR REVIEW SUMMARY

The Industrial Commission of Arizona (the “Commission”) was created in 1925 as a result of legislation implementing the constitutional provisions establishing a workers’ compensation system. From 1925 to 1969, the workers’ compensation system consisted of the State Compensation Fund, which was then a part of the Commission, and self-insured employers which generally comprised the mining and the railroad companies. In 1969, the workers’ compensation system reorganized and expanded to include private insurance companies. The State Compensation Fund was split off from the Commission and established as a separate agency responsible for providing workers’ compensation insurance coverage. The Commission retained both its responsibility as the file of record and its authority over the processing of workers’ compensation claims. Since that time, the role of the Commission has grown to include other labor-related issues such as occupational safety and health, youth employment laws, resolution of wage-related disputes, minimum wage, vocational rehabilitation, workers’ compensation coverage for claimants of uninsured employers, and self-insured employers.

Certification Regarding Compliance with A.R.S. § 41-1091

In the cover letter for this report, the Commission’s Director certifies that the Commission has complied with A.R.S. § 41-1091 by posting directories of its currently applicable rules and substantive policy statements on the Commission’s website, as required by A.R.S. § 23-1091.01(1) & (2).

About Article 7

Until 1997, Arizona law mandated that employers “secure workers’ compensation to their employees” by either: (1) acquiring insurance from a carrier licensed to write workers’ compensation insurance in the state or (2) obtaining authorization from the Industrial Commission of Arizona (Commission) to self-insure. See A.R.S. § 23-961(A). In 1997, the Arizona Legislature added “self-insurance pools” as a third mechanism for securing workers’ compensation. See A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A), 23-961.01. Specifically, A.R.S. § 23-961.01(A) permits two or more employers who are engaged in similar industries to form a workers’ compensation pool to provide for the direct payment and administration of workers’ compensation claims.

Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7 of the Arizona Administrative Code contains rules concerning self-insurance requirements for employer workers' compensation pools organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01(A). The rules have been in effect since September 9, 1998, and were promulgated to allow groups of individual companies and organizations to pool resources for the purpose of self-insurance in the area of workers' compensation (A.R.S. § 23-961.01, which addresses self-insurance pools, was added by Laws 1997, Ch. 194, group self-insurance; workers' compensation, effective July 21, 1997). A.R.S. § 23-961.01, the primary governing statute, has been amended only once in 1999 to remove an exemption from general laws relating to nonprofit corporations and make non-substantive amendments to the statute. A.R.S. § 23-961.01(B) provides broad authority for the Commission to "adopt rules necessary to carry out the purposes of this section." A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F) requires rules for the specific purpose of "safeguarding the solvency of pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive [workers' compensation] benefits as required under this chapter [A.R.S. Title 23, Chapter 6]."

Rulemaking Related to R20-5-715 in 2016

The Commission has conducted one rulemaking since the original adoption of Article 7 in 1998, amending R20-5-715 in 2016. The 2016 amendments allow self-insurance pools to acquire necessary excess coverage more easily and in a cost-effective manner. In lieu of the previous maximum specific retention amount of $250,000, the 2016 amendments authorize a range of specific retention amounts from $100,000 up to $1,250,000. In lieu of the previous maximum aggregate retention amount of "110% of collected premiums," the 2016 amendments authorize a maximum aggregate retention amount of "150% of collected premiums." And in lieu of the previous minimum aggregate excess coverage limit of $5,000,000, the 2016 amendments authorize a minimum aggregate excess coverage amount of $1,000,000. Finally, the 2016 amendments give the Commission flexibility to approve deviations from the authorized specific retention range where a self-insurance pool can demonstrate sufficient financial security and loss control procedures to justify a higher specific retention, consistent with the approval process contemplated in A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A)(2) and 23-961.01(B). Through the 2016 amendments, the Commission has sought to ease the regulatory burden on employers who may be interested in forming self-insurance pools by authorizing excess insurance products that are more accessible in the current insurance market and that are not cost prohibitive.

FIVE-YEAR-REVIEW REPORT
TITLE 20. COMMERCE, FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND INSURANCE
CHAPTER 5. INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA
ARTICLE 7. SELF-INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS FOR WORKERS'
COMPENSATION POOLS ORGANIZED UNDER A.R.S. § 23-961.01

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rules, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules.

The rules in Article 7 have general and specific authorization under A.R.S. §§ 23-107(A)(1); 23-108.03(B)(1); 23-961(G), and 23-961.01(B) & (F).

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 23-107(A)(1), the Commission “has full power, jurisdiction, and authority to formulate and adopt rules . . . for effecting the purposes of [A.R.S. Title 23, Chapter 1, Article 1].” A.R.S. § 23-108.03(B)(1) provides that “[a]ny powers and duties prescribed by law to the commission in [A.R.S. Title 23, Chapters 1, 2 and 6]” may, with certain exceptions (including rulemaking), “be delegated . . . to the director or any of its department heads or assistants.”

A.R.S. § 23-961(G) provides that every “self-insured employer, including workers’ compensation pools, on or before March 31 of each year shall pay a tax of not more than three percent of the premiums that would have been paid . . . during the preceding calendar year.” A.R.S. § 23-1065(A) provides that the Commission may direct payment into the state treasury of not to exceed one percent of the premiums received by private insurance carriers during the immediately preceding calendar year. Finally, under A.R.S. § 23-1065(F), the Commission is permitted to levy an additional assessment of up to a half percent of the premiums, if the apportionment annual reserved liabilities exceed six million dollars. Under A.R.S. § 23-961(G), the Commission has authority to “adopt rules that specify the premium plans and methods to be used for the calculation of rates and premiums and that shall be the basis for the taxes assessed to self-insured employers.”

A.R.S. § 23-961.01(B) provides the Commission with broad authority to “adopt rules as necessary to carry out the purposes of this section.” With respect to rules related to safeguarding the solvency of pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive workers' compensation benefits under Title 23, Chapter 6, A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F) specifies that the rules must "include at a minimum, matters pertaining to classification and rating, loss reserves, investments, financial security including minimum and combined premiums, combined net worth and other indicia necessary for protection from insolvency, specific and aggregate excess insurance, group homogeneity and assessments necessary for participation in and administration of the workers' compensation system."

2. Objective of the rules, including the purposes for the existence of the rules.

The Commission's overarching objectives regarding Article 7, in no particular order with respect to priority, are to: (1) simplify the existing procedural framework for the Commission to authorize groups of employers to pool their resources for the purpose of payment and administration of workers' compensation claims directly, through self-insurance; (2) reduce regulatory burden imposed on employers to attain the objectives of A.R.S. § 23-961.01, which included facilitation of competition, loss control, and an employer-tailored safety program; (3) provide small employers with the same opportunity for a long-term reduction in the costs for workers' compensation insurance experienced by large self-insured employers; and (4) achieve the regulatory objectives prescribed in A.R.S. § 23-961.01, such as safeguarding the solvency of pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive workers' compensation benefits.

- R20-5-727 Requires a pool to maintain a loss control program, which includes written safety requirements and training programs for all employees of members of the pool. In addition, the rule establishes that the pool shall maintain an underwriting program that enables the pool to calculate the workers' compensation premiums due and to discharge the pool's responsibilities under the Workers' Compensation Act.
- R20-5-728. Insufficient Assets or Funds of a Pool; Plans of Abatement; Notice of Bankruptcy
- R20-5-728 Establishes the procedures to be followed in the event the pool has insufficient income to pay benefits under the Workers' Compensation Act. The rule also establishes the pool's responsibility to submit a proposal to achieve 100% funding, and the Commission's duties in the event the pool is insufficiently funded.
- R20-5-729. Arizona Office; Recordkeeping; Records Available for Review

- R20-5-729 Requires that pools maintain an office in Arizona; ensure that financial reports and minutes are signed by an authorized representative; make minutes, financial reports, or other documents concerning payroll, audits, investments, experience rating, or other information concerning the pool available to the Commission upon request; and retain records relating to the formation and operation of the pool.
- R20-5-730. Order for Additional Financial Information; Examination of Accounts and Records by Commission
- R20-5-730 Establishes that the Commission may order the pool to provide additional financial information from the pool's auditor, or may order an independent financial examination of the pool if the Commission questions the pool's financial ability to pay workers' compensation claims.
- R20-5-731. Assignment of Claims Under A.R.S. §23-966; Obligation of Member to Reimburse the Commission
- R20-5-731 Protects the benefits due to injured workers in the event that a pool is deemed financially insolvent and cannot pay its claims. A.R.S. § 23-966 requires claims of a self-insured pool to be assigned to the Special Fund established under A.R.S. § 23-1065. (Note: A.R.S. § 23-966 was not amended at the time of the 1997 legislation establishing employer workers' compensation pools organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01. However, A.R.S. § 23-961, which allows for employer workers' compensation pools, is referenced in A.R.S. § 23-966(C), and A.R.S. § 23-963(4), which addresses how insolvency or bankruptcy of an employer does not relieve a workers' compensation pool from payment of compensation for injuries, were both amended by the 1997 legislation that established self-insurance pools under A.R.S. § 23-961.01)
- R20-5-732. Calculation and Payment of Taxes under A.R.S. § 23-961 and A.R.S. § 23-1065
- R20-5-732 Specifies procedures to calculate taxes to be paid by the pool pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 23-961(G) and 23-1065(A). The rule specifies the different tax plans and the criteria for utilization of each plan. The rule also sets forth the Commission's duties pertaining to the calculation of a pool's tax obligation.

R20-5-733. Review of Initial and Renewal Applications for Authority to Self-insure by the Division

R20-5-733 Establishes the standards and procedures for the Division to review a pool's initial or renewal application to determine whether to recommend approval of the pool's application for self-insurance purposes.

R20-5-734. Decision by the Commission on Initial or Renewal Applications for Authority to Self-insure R20-5-734 Establishes the factors that the Commission reviews in determining whether to approve or deny applications by pools for self-insurance purposes. The rule also sets forth the procedures and time frames the Commission must follow in considering a pool's application for self-insurance.

R20-5-735. Right to Request a Hearing

R20-5-735 Establishes the right of the applicant or pool to a hearing from any findings and order of the Commission. The rule also sets forth the process and relevant time frames for a pool to request a hearing.

R20-5-736. Hearing Rights and Procedures

R20-5-736 Establishes the burden of proof and procedures to be followed in any hearing before the Commission relating to this Article.

R20-5-737. Decision Upon Hearing by Commission

R20-5-737 Establishes the standards to be followed by the Commission at a hearing concerning the application of a pool or revocation of authority to self-insure. The rule also sets forth the Commission's duty to issue a written decision and the finality of the decision absent a request for review.

- R20-5-738. Request for Review
- R20-5-738 Establishes the time limitations and grounds to be considered in a review of a Commission decision under this Article.
- R20-5-739. Revocation of Authority to Self-insure
- R20-5-739 Provides the grounds to be considered in revocation of authority to self-insure. The rule also requires the pool to take certain steps to notify its members of the revocation and gives relevant time frames for the pool to request a hearing.

3. Effectiveness of the rules in achieving their objectives, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached

Although the current rules allow employers to pool resources for the purpose of self-insurance, the Commission’s experience has been that employer self-insurance pools are rarely formed. For this reason, the Commission believes that the current rules may be an impediment to achieving the Legislature’s objectives in A.R.S. § 23-961.01, namely increased competition in the workers’ compensation insurance market, motivation for loss control, employer-tailored safety programs, and long-term reduction in the costs associated with workers’ compensation insurance. This determination is based on the Commission’s experience using the rules, as opposed to data kept on the issue of effectiveness.

The Commission believes it appropriate to reexamine Article 7 to find appropriate ways to encourage small employers to form self-insurance pools as a potentially less costly workers’ compensation insurance alternative.

4. Consistency of the rules with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency

With the exceptions noted below, the rules reviewed are consistent with federal and state statutes and are internally consistent. The Commission is unaware of any conflicting or duplicative rules.

The Commission reviewed A.R.S. §§ 23-107, 23-108.03, 23-901, 23-902, 23-961, and 23-961.01 and the current rules in Article 7 to determine consistency.

The following rules are procedurally inconsistent with similar rules in Article 11 and should be amended to achieve consistency:

R20-5-735 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1129, in Article 11.

R20-5-736 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1130, in Article 11.

R20-5-738 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1132, in Article 11.

R20-5-739 - The rule should be amended to be consistent with a similar rule, R20-5-1133, in Article 11.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rules are currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement

The Commission has not had the opportunity to enforce Article 7 because there have been no applications for authority to self-insure an employer pool under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 since the rules became effective in 1998. If an application were to be submitted, the Commission would use the rules in Article 7 to process the application, being sure to consult the most current statutes.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rules

Except as noted below, the rules in Article 7 are clear, concise, and understandable.

R20-5-704 - The rule is not clear because it uses the term self-insurer. The term should be self-insured employer pool.

7. Written criticisms of the rules received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report

Since the Commission's 2016 rulemaking regarding R20-5-715 became effective (September 7, 2016), and within the five years preceding this report, the Commission has not received any written criticisms of the Article 7 rules.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rules with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rules or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rules, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rules

On September 1, 1998, the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (the "Council") approved an economic, small business, and consumer impact statement ("EIS") (attached) concerning Article 7. Article 7 was subsequently addressed in a Five-Year Review Report that the Council approved on April 1, 2014.

In the 1998 EIS, the Commission stated that Article 7 included new sections addressing each of the [subject] matters specifically listed in A.R.S. § 23-961.01 and that the sections were for the purpose of safeguarding the solvency of the pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive benefits as required under the Arizona Workers' Compensation Act [the specific reference to safeguarding solvency of pools is in A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F)]. See 1998 EIS at 1-2. Although the current rules allow employers to pool resources for the purpose of self-insurance, the Commission's experience has been that employer self-insurance pools are rarely formed. For this reason, the Commission believes that the current rules may be an impediment to achieving the Legislature's objectives in A.R.S. § 23-961.01, namely increased competition in the workers' compensation insurance market, motivation for loss control, employer-tailored safety programs, and long-term reduction in the costs associated with workers' compensation insurance.

In the 2014 Five-Year Review Report, the Commission discussed the then-existing rules describing the actual economic impact generally applicable to all rules as follows:

An employer association that elects to form a workers' compensation pool will incur costs. Direct administrative costs to a pool, incurred on an annual basis will include the following:

- a. Costs of administration;
- b. Costs for specific excess insurance, which will vary depending on the size of the pool;
- c. Costs for aggregate excess insurance, which will vary depending on the size of the pool;
- d. Costs for fidelity insurance;
- e. Costs for a guaranty bond, which will vary depending on the size of the pool;
- f. Costs for audits of the pool's financial statements;
- g. Costs for an actuarial review, which will vary depending on the size of the pool; and
- h. The payment of premium taxes.

In general, the Commission anticipates that the administrative costs listed above will account for 25% of the total costs incurred by a pool. However, the administrative costs incurred by the pool are outweighed by the benefits associated with the administratively necessary items. In general, these items ensure that a pool has the ability to process and pay workers' compensation benefits to injured workers and also serve to protect the solvency of the pool and the solvency of the Special Fund, which is statutorily responsible to pay the claims of a pool that is unable to process and/or pay claims.

Note that these costs are primarily associated with the statutory purpose of safeguarding the solvency of pools. With respect to individual rules the Commission mentioned that the cost of safeguarding features in the rules (examples include securing a fidelity policy under R20-5-712, securing a guaranty bond under R20-5-713, furnishing securities under R20-5-714, and purchasing excess insurance under R20-5-715) was outweighed by the benefit to the Special Fund Division. For other rules that were individually addressed, the Commission found that there was either no economic impact or minimal economic impact on employers or pools.

On September 7, 2016, the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (the "Council") approved an economic, small business, and consumer impact statement ("EIS") (attached) concerning one rule in Article 7: R20-5-715. The Commission made amendments to R20-5-715, which requires that an employer pool maintain aggregate and specific excess insurance policies and specifies policy and retention amounts. The changes made by the rulemaking are described above in the Five-year Review Summary.

The 2016 EIS described economic impacts on employers, employees, insurers, and the Special Fund Division of the Commission. With respect to employers, the Commission predicted that the proposed amendments would ease the regulatory burden on employers who participate in self-insurance pools by authorizing excess insurance products that are cost-effective and more accessible in the current insurance market. Predicted benefits to employers and employees would include increased workplace safety and a reduction in industrial injuries.

With respect to insurers, the Commission pointed out that Arizona employers might elect to participate in a self-insurance pool in lieu of purchasing workers' compensation insurance from an insurance carrier under A.R.S. § 23-961(A)(1). However, the Commission predicted that the economic impact of the amendments would not be significant for any particular insurance carrier.

The Commission predicted that the Commission's Special Fund Division would benefit from the amendments to R20-5-715 because workers' compensation liabilities of formerly-uninsured employers would be shifted from the Special Fund Division to self-insurance pools. The overall impact on the Special Fund Division, however, would be minimal.

Actual or predicted economic impact aside, the Commission's experience has been that the rules in Article 7, even with improvements to R20-5-715, have not been effective in encouraging the creation of employer self-insurance pools. The Commission plans to study the reasons why employers have not availed themselves of the opportunity to form pools for the purpose of self-insurance under Article 7.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency by another person regarding the rules' impact on this state's business competitiveness as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states

No business competitiveness analysis has been submitted to the Commission regarding Article 7.

10. If applicable, whether the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year-review report

The previous five-year review report on Article 7 proposed no action with respect to the following rules, indicating that the Commission had no plans to amend the following rules: R20-5-704, R20-5-705, R20-5-709, R20-5-712, R20-5-716, R20-5-722 through R20-5-725, R20-5-727, or R20-5-731.

The Commission indicated that no changes were planned for other rules, specifically R20-5-701 through R20-5-703, and R20-5-714

The Commission stated that it anticipated amending R20-5-706 through R20-5-708, R20-5-710, R20-5-711, R20-5-713, R20-5-715, R20-5-717 through R20-5-721, R20-5-726, R20-5-728 through R20-5-730, and R20-5-732 through R20-5-739 after completion of Article 2 amendments.

The rules in Article 7 will be amended, consistent with the analysis and schedule presented in this report.

11. A determination after analysis that probable benefits outweigh probable costs and that the rules impose the least burden and costs on persons regulated

The Commission believes that the current rules may be an impediment to achieving the Legislature's objectives in A.R.S. § 23-961.01, namely increased competition in the workers' compensation insurance market, motivation for loss control, employer-tailored safety programs, and long-term reduction in the costs associated with workers' compensation insurance. The review of Article 7 for this report, the Commission has identified various potential impediments that may be inhibiting the use of Article 7 by employer groups. The following is a list of potential amendments under study and consideration by the Commission that would reduce burden and incentivize the creation of self-insurance pools:

R20-5-703 - The form requirements in the rule need to be updated, as they are not consistent with the current business environment.

R20-5-707 - The rule is inconsistent with industry standards. The rule is potentially detrimental, from a safeguarding standpoint, in that it allows some employers to submit internally signed financial statements, in lieu of audited financial statements. The rule does not state that an experience rating must be calculated for each member, but requires an explanation if it exceeds the threshold of 1.10. The rule should provide a specific safety protocol for members with high experience ratings, which allows the Commission to require ADOSH safety consultation training that helps improve the member's safety program.

R20-5-708 - The form requirements in the rule need to be updated. The financial security types are limited and this is potentially burdensome to employer pools and to the Commission.

R20-5-709 – The combined net worth requirement of $1M potentially impedes the formation of self-insurance pools. The minimum requirement could be lowered by requiring excess insurance policies with defined self-insurance retention amounts.

R20-5-710 - The rule needs to be updated with respect to standard industrial classification codes.

R20-5-711 - The rule references the assignment of claims to the State Compensation Fund in the event the pool becomes insolvent and the member does not pay the liability of the claims. All references to the State Compensation Fund need to be removed.

R20-5-712 - The requirement of a fidelity policy, which protects the pool from unlawful actions of individuals appointed to the pool's board of trustees, the administrator of the pool, and employees of the pool, might be seen as burdensome requirement by employers. The protection afforded by the rule could be provided by a general liability policy with provisions that address unlawful actions of the board of trustees, the administrator, or the employees of the pool. The rule could be amended to allow an employer pool to substitute, for the requirements of a fidelity policy, the crime section of a general liability policy.

R20-5-713 - The rule may need to be repealed and replaced because the amount of the bond, $200,000 at minimum, is potentially burdensome to employers. There should be a graduated amount of financial security deposit required up to a $100,000 minimum, based on the risk and prior incurred liability associated with the pool members. Security, in the form of a guaranty bond, is outdated, as are bond forms, insurance company AM Best rating and procedures for obtaining the bond, which are inconsistent with current insurance industry standards. The letter of credit language is also outdated, as well as inconsistent with the needs of the Commission and current banking industry standards. The rule language for United States securities is outdated and is inconsistent with the needs of the Commission and current banking industry standards.

R20-5-714 - The rule should be repealed because the Arizona State Treasurer is unable to hold securities in trust for the Commission, as specified in the rule.

R20-5-716 – The language in the rule is incorrect. Subsection A states a pool shall only use rates and code classifications obtained from a rating organization licensed by the Arizona Department of Insurance. Rating agencies are not licensed, they are approved by ADOI. Furthermore, the rule does not provide sufficient standards for applying a penalty rate.

R20-5-717 - The rule should more clearly explain the experience modification rate. The deviation rate used should be that approved by the Commission. The rule should also state refunds may be available after the pool has posted a sufficient statutory deposit (security deposit) for its most current self-insurance renewal year and paid its taxes for the current year in which taxes are due.

R20-5-718 - The rule should be updated so that it is consistent with current industry standards.

R20-5-719 - The rules should be amended to require Commission approval of trustees elected by members of the workers' compensation pool.

R20-5-720 - The rule should be amended to address other conflicts of interest.

R20-5-721 - The rule should be amended to provide criteria for admission of additional members to the pool without Commission approval. Currently, the requirement that the Commission approve the admission of each new member of the pool is potentially burdensome.

R20-5-722 - The rule should be amended to update criteria for termination of member participation.

R20-5-723 - The rule, requiring that the pool maintain a trustee fund and a loss fund, should be updated to be consistent with needs of Commission and industry standards.

R20-5-724 - The rule should be aligned with Title 35 requirements and require Commission approval of any pool investment manager.

R20-5-725 - The rule should be amended to include criteria for administration of the pool by member employers.

R20-5-726 - The rule should be combined with R20-5-725.

R20-5-727 - The rule should be amended to reflect ADOSH safety programs.

R20-5-728 - The rule should be amended to provide improved safeguards for the Commission.

R20-5-731 - The rule should be amended to update the procedure for claim assignment and remove references to the State Compensation Fund.

R20-5-732 - The rule should be amended to update the tax procedures and required information.

The Commission is planning to study the reasons why employers have not availed themselves of the opportunity to form workers' compensation pools and determine why Article 7 is not being used. Once the Commission has a better understanding of the actual burdens and impediments that prevent employers from forming workers' compensation pools, the Commission plans to make or amend rules that will streamline the rules in Article 7.

The Commission initially promulgated Article 7 in 1998. The amendments to R20-5-715 in 2016 were a recent attempt by the Commission to reduce the cost to employers seeking to form workers' compensation pools. To the extent that the existing rules create any adverse economic impact beyond that imposed by A.R.S. §§ 23-961 or 23-961.01, the Commission anticipates that the amendments will reduce regulatory burden on employers by aligning Article 7 with current Arizona statutes and providing clarifications that reduce uncertainty for Arizona employers and employees.

12. A determination after analysis that the rule is not more stringent than a corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law

The rules in Article 7 implement state law, specifically A.R.S. §§ 23-961 & 23-961.01. There is no corresponding federal law.

13. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, that require issuance of a regulatory permit, license or agency authorization, whether the rule complies with A.R.S. § 41-1037

This analysis applies only to rules adopted after July 29, 2010. It would therefore only apply to the amendments made by the 2016 rulemaking relating to R20-5-715, which became effective on September 7, 2016. R20-5-715 does not require issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization.

14. Proposed course of action

The Commission plans to complete its study and initiate a rulemaking to amend the rules in Article 7 by December 2021. This should provide approximately 18 months for an internal study related to the rules and 18 months for rulemaking.

Title 23. Labor

§ 23-902. Employers subject to chapter; exceptions

AZ ST § 23-902 Arizona Revised Statutes Annotated Title 23. Labor Effective: July 1, 2015 (Approx. 3 pages)

Effective: July 1, 2015

A.R.S. § 23-902

§ 23-902. Employers subject to chapter; exceptions

Currentness

A. Employers subject to this chapter are the state, each county, city, town, municipal corporation and school district and every person who employs any workers or operatives regularly employed in the same business or establishment under contract of hire, including covered employees pursuant to a professional employer agreement, except domestic servants. Exempted employers of domestic servants may come under this chapter by complying with its provisions and the rules of the commission. For the purposes of this subsection, "regularly employed" includes all employments, whether continuous throughout the year, or for only a portion of the year, in the usual trade, business, profession or occupation of an employer.

B. When an employer procures work to be done for the employer by a contractor over whose work the employer retains supervision or control, and the work is a part or process in the trade or business of the employer, then the contractors and the contractor's employees, and any subcontractor and the subcontractor's employees, are, within the meaning of this section, employees of the original employer. For the purposes of this subsection, "part or process in the trade or business of the employer" means a particular work activity that in the context of an ongoing and integral business process is regular, ordinary or routine in the operation of the business or is routinely done through the business' own employees.

C. A person engaged in work for a business, and who while so engaged is independent of that business in the execution of the work and not subject to the rule or control of the business for which the work is done, but is engaged only in the performance of a definite job or piece of work, and is subordinate to that business only in effecting a result in accordance with that business design, is an independent contractor.

D. A business that uses the services of an independent contractor and the independent contractor may prove the existence of an independent contractor relationship by executing a written agreement that complies with this subsection. The written agreement shall evidence that the business does not have the authority to supervise or control the actual work of the independent contractor or the independent contractor's employees. A written agreement executed in compliance with this subsection creates a rebuttable presumption of an independent contractor relationship between the parties if the written agreement contains a disclosure statement that the independent contractor is not entitled to workers' compensation benefits from the business. Unless the rebuttable presumption is overcome, no premium may be collected by the carrier on payments by the business to the independent contractor if a fully completed written agreement that satisfies the requirements of this subsection is submitted to the carrier. The written agreement shall be dated and contain the signatures of both parties and, unless otherwise provided by law, shall state that the business:

AZ ST § 23-961 Arizona Revised Statutes Annotated Title 23. Labor Effective: July 1, 2015 (Approx. 4 pages)

Effective: July 1, 2015

A.R.S. § 23-961

§ 23-961. Methods of securing compensation by employers; deficit premium; civil penalty

Currentness

A. Employers shall secure workers' compensation to their employees in one of the following ways:

1. By insuring and keeping insured the payment of such compensation with an insurance carrier authorized by the director of insurance to write workers' compensation insurance in this state.
2. By furnishing to the commission satisfactory proof of financial ability to pay the compensation directly or through a workers' compensation pool approved by the commission in the amount and manner and when due as provided in this chapter. The requirements of this paragraph may be satisfied by furnishing to the commission satisfactory proof that the employer is a member of a workers' compensation pool approved by the commission pursuant to § 23-961.01. The commission may require a deposit or any other security from the employer for the payment of compensation liabilities in an amount fixed by the commission, but not less than one hundred thousand dollars for workers' compensation liabilities. If the employer does not fully comply with the provisions of this chapter relating to the payment of compensation, the commission may revoke the authority of the employer to pay compensation directly.

B. An employer may not secure compensation to comply with this chapter by any mechanism other than as provided in this section. No insurance, combination or other program may be marketed, offered or sold as workers' compensation that does not comply with this section. An employer violates this chapter if the employer purchases or secures its obligations under this chapter through a substitute for workers' compensation that does not comply with this section.

C. Insurance carriers that transact the business of workers' compensation insurance in this state are subject to the rules of the director of insurance.

D. On application of an insurance carrier, the director of insurance may order the release to the insurance carrier of all or part of the cash or securities that the insurance carrier deposited before the effective date of this amendment to this section with the state treasurer pursuant to this section. In determining whether to order the release of all or part of the deposit, the director of insurance shall consider all of the following:

1. The financial condition of the insurance carrier.
2. The insurance carrier's liabilities for workers' compensation loss and loss expenses in this state.

4. Any other factors the director of insurance determines are relevant to the application for release of the deposit.

E. Except in the event of nonpayment of premiums, each insurance carrier shall carry a risk to the conclusion of the policy period unless the policy is cancelled by the employer or unless one or both of the parties to a professional employer agreement terminate the agreement. The policy period shall be agreed upon by the insurance carrier and the employer.

F. At least thirty days' notice shall be given by the insurance carrier to the employer and to the commission of any cancellation or nonrenewal of a policy if the cancellation or nonrenewal is at the election of the insurance carrier. The insurance carrier shall promptly notify the commission of any cancellation by the employer or failure of the employer to renew the policy. The failure to give notice of nonrenewal if the nonrenewal is at the election of the insurance carrier shall not extend coverage beyond the policy period. An insurance carrier shall notify the commission on a form prescribed by the commission that it has insured an employer for workers' compensation promptly after undertaking to insure the employer.

G. Every insurance carrier on or before March 1 of each year shall pay to the state treasurer for the credit of the administrative fund, in lieu of all other taxes on workers' compensation insurance, a tax of not more than three per cent on all premiums collected or contracted for during the year ending December 31 next preceding, less the deductions from such total direct premiums for applicable cancellations, returned premiums and all policy dividends or refunds paid or credited to policyholders within this state and not reapplied as premiums for new, additional or extended insurance. Every self-insured employer, including workers' compensation pools, on or before March 31 of each year shall pay a tax of not more than three per cent of the premiums that would have been paid by the employer if the employer had been fully insured by an insurance carrier authorized to transact workers' compensation insurance in this state during the preceding calendar year. The commission shall adopt rules that shall specify the premium plans and methods to be used for the calculation of rates and premiums and that shall be the basis for the taxes assessed to self-insured employers. The tax shall be not less than two hundred fifty dollars per annum and shall be computed and collected by the commission and paid to the state treasurer for the credit of the administrative fund at a rate not exceeding three per cent to be fixed annually by the industrial commission. The rate shall be no more than is necessary to cover the actual expenses of the industrial commission in carrying out its powers and duties under this title. Any quarterly payments of tax pursuant to subsection I of this section shall be deducted from the tax payable pursuant to this subsection.

H. An insurance carrier may reduce the amount of premiums paid by an employer by up to five per cent if all of the following apply:

1. The insured employer complies with the drug testing policy requirements prescribed in § 23-493.04.
2. The insured employer conducts drug testing of prospective employees.
3. The insured employer conducts drug testing of an employee after the employee has been injured.
4. The insured employer allows the employer's insurance carrier to have access to the drug testing results under paragraphs 2 and 3 of this subsection.

I. Any insurer that, pursuant to this section, paid or is required to pay a tax of two thousand dollars or more for the preceding calendar year shall file a quarterly report, in a form prescribed by the commission, accompanied by a payment in an amount equal to the tax due at the rates prescribed in subsection G of this section for premiums determined pursuant to subsection G of this section or an amount equal to twenty-five per cent of the tax paid or required to be paid pursuant to subsection G of this section for the preceding calendar year. The quarterly payments shall be due and payable on or before the last day of the month following the close of the quarter and shall be made to the state treasurer.

J. If an overpayment of taxes results from the method prescribed in subsection I of this section the industrial commission may refund the overpayment without interest.

K. An insurer who fails to pay the tax prescribed by subsection G or I of this section or the amount prescribed by § 23-1065, subsection A is subject to a civil penalty equal to the greater of twenty-five dollars or five per cent of the tax or amount due plus interest at the rate of one per cent per month from the date the tax or amount was due.

L. An insurance carrier authorized to write workers' compensation insurance may not assess an employer premiums for services provided by a contractor alleged to be an employee under § 23-902, subsection B or C, unless the carrier has done both of the following:

1. Prepared written audit or field investigation findings establishing that all applicable factors for determining employment status under § 23-902 have been met.
2. Provided a copy of such findings to the employer in advance of assessing a premium.

M. Notwithstanding § 23-901, paragraph 6, subdivision (i), a sole proprietor may waive the sole proprietor's rights to workers' compensation coverage and benefits if both the sole proprietor and the insurance carrier of the employer subject to this chapter for which the sole proprietor performs services sign and date a waiver that is substantially in the following form:

I am a sole proprietor, and I am doing business as (name of sole proprietor). I am performing work as an independent contractor for (name of employer). I am not the employee of (name of employer) for workers' compensation purposes, and, therefore, I am not entitled to workers' compensation benefits from (name of employer). I understand that if I have any employees working for me, I must maintain workers' compensation insurance on them.

§ 23-961.01. Self-insurance pools

The members of each workers' compensation pool shall elect a board of trustees to manage the workers' compensation pool established pursuant to this section. Each member employer shall have been in business for at least five consecutive years before entering into a contract to establish a workers' compensation pool. The total amount of gross workers' compensation insurance premiums paid by the members of the pool in the year preceding the execution of the contract must equal at least seven hundred fifty thousand dollars. The group of employers that makes up a workers' compensation pool shall have been formed for a specific purpose, other than to engage in self-insurance, before the formation of a workers' compensation pool. Employers may establish workers' compensation pools pursuant to this section by one of the following means:

1. On a cooperative or contract basis.
2. Through the joint formation of a nonprofit corporation.
3. By the execution of a trust agreement to carry out the provisions of this chapter directly by the employers or by contracting with a third party.

A.R.S. § 23-1065

§ 23-1065. Special fund; purposes; investment committee

Currentness

A. The industrial commission may direct the payment into the state treasury of not to exceed one per cent of all premiums received by private insurance carriers during the immediately preceding calendar year. The same percentage shall be assessed against self-insurers based on the total cost to the self-insured employer as provided in § 23-961, subsection G. Such assessments shall be computed on the same premium basis as provided for in § 23-961, subsections G, H, I, J and K and shall be no more than is necessary to keep the special fund actuarially sound. Such payments shall be placed in a special fund within the administrative fund to provide, at the discretion of the commission, such additional awards as may be necessary to enable injured employees to accept the benefits of any law of this state or of the United States, or both jointly, for promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons with disabilities in industry.

B. In claims involving an employee who has a preexisting industrially-related permanent physical impairment of the type specified in § 23-1044, subsection B and who thereafter suffers an additional permanent physical impairment of the type specified in such subsection, the claim involving the subsequent impairment is eligible for reimbursement, as provided by subsection D of this section, according to the following:

1. The employer in whose employ the subsequent impairment occurred or its insurance carrier is solely responsible for all temporary disability compensation to which the employee is entitled and for an amount equal to the permanent disability compensation provided by § 23-1044, subsection B for the subsequent impairment. If the employee is determined to have sustained no loss of earning capacity after the medically stationary date, the employer or carrier shall pay him as a vocational rehabilitation bonus the amount calculated under this paragraph as a lump sum, which shall be a credit against any permanent compensation benefits awarded in any subsequent proceeding. The amount of the vocational rehabilitation bonus for which the employer or carrier is responsible under this paragraph shall be calculated solely on physical, medically rated permanent impairment and not on occupational or other factors.

2. If the commission determines that the employee is entitled to compensation for loss of earning capacity under § 23-1044, subsection C or permanent total disability under § 23-1045, subsection B, the total amount of permanent benefits for which the employer or carrier is solely responsible under paragraph 1 of this subsection shall be expended first, with monthly payments made according to the loss of earning capacity or permanent total disability award. The employer or carrier and the special fund are equally responsible for the remaining amount of compensation for loss of earning capacity under § 23-1044, subsection C or permanent total disability under § 23-1045, subsection B. This paragraph shall not be construed as requiring payment of any benefits under § 23-1044, subsection B in any case in which an employee is entitled to benefits for loss of earning capacity under § 23-1044, subsection C or permanent total disability benefits under § 23-1045, subsection B.

C. In claims involving an employee who has a preexisting physical impairment that is not industrially-related and, whether congenital or due to injury or disease, is of such seriousness as to constitute a hindrance or obstacle to employment or to obtaining reemployment if the employee becomes unemployed, and the impairment equals or exceeds a ten per cent permanent impairment evaluated in accordance with the American medical association guides to the evaluation of permanent impairment, and the employee thereafter suffers an additional permanent impairment not of the type specified in § 23-1044, subsection B, the claim involving the subsequent impairment is eligible for reimbursement, as provided by subsection D of this section, under the following conditions:

1. The employer in whose employ the subsequent impairment occurred or its carrier is solely responsible for all temporary disability compensation to which the employee is entitled.
2. The employer had knowledge of the permanent impairment at the time the employee was hired, or that the employee continued in employment after the employer acquired such knowledge.
3. The employee's preexisting impairment is due to one or more of the following:
 - (a) Epilepsy.
 - (b) Diabetes.
 - (c) Cardiac disease.
 - (d) Arthritis.
 - (e) Amputated foot, leg, arm or hand.
 - (f) Loss of sight of one or both eyes or a partial loss of uncorrected vision of more than seventy-five per cent bilaterally.
 - (g) Residual disability from poliomyelitis.

(y) Ruptured intervertebral disk.

4. The employer or carrier and the special fund are equally responsible for the amount of compensation for loss of earning capacity under § 23-1044, subsection C or permanent total disability under § 23-1045, subsection B.

D. The employer or insurance carrier shall notify the commission of its intent to claim reimbursement for an eligible claim under subsection B or C of this section not later than the time the employer or insurance carrier notifies the commission pursuant to § 23-1047, subsection A. Upon receiving notice the commission may expend funds from the special fund created by this section for travel and discovery procedures and for the employment of such independent legal, medical, rehabilitation, claims or labor market consultants or experts as may be deemed necessary by the commission to assist in the determination of the liability of the special fund, if any, under subsection B or C of this section. In the event there is any dispute regarding liability to the special fund pursuant to subsection B or C of this section, the commission shall not delay the issuance of a permanent award pursuant to § 23-1047, subsection B.

E. If the special fund created by this section is determined to be liable under either subsection B or C of this section, the employer or insurance carrier that is primarily liable shall pay the entire amount of the award to the injured employee and the commission shall by rule provide for the reimbursement of the employer or insurance carrier on an annual basis. In any case arising out of subsection B or C of this section, the written approval of the special fund is required for the compromise of any claim made pursuant to § 23-1023. In any such case, written approval shall not be unreasonably withheld by the special fund, carrier, self-insured employer or other person responsible for the payment of compensation. Failure to obtain the written approval of the special fund shall not cause the injured worker to lose any benefits but ends the special fund's liability for reimbursement and makes the employer or carrier solely responsible for the payment of the remaining benefits.

F. The employer or insurance carrier shall make its claim for reimbursement to the commission no later than November 1 each year, for payments made pursuant to subsection B or C of this section during the twelve months prior to October 1 each year. Claims shall be paid before December 31 each year. If the total annual reserved liabilities of the special fund obligated under subsections B and C of this section exceed six million dollars, as determined by the annual actuarial study performed pursuant to subsection I of this section, the commission, after notice and a hearing, may levy an additional assessment under subsection A of this section of up to one-half per cent to meet such liabilities. Any insurance carrier or employer who may be adversely affected by the additional assessment may at any time prior to the sixtieth day after such additional assessment is ordered file a complaint challenging the validity of the additional assessment in the superior court in Maricopa county for a judicial review of the additional assessment. On judicial review the determination of the commission shall be upheld if supported by substantial evidence in the record considered as a whole.

G. In the event the injured employee is awarded additional compensation, under subsection A of this section, the commission retains jurisdiction to amend, alter or change the award upon a change in the physical condition of the injured employee resulting from the injury.

H. On receiving notice that the special fund may be liable under this chapter, the commission may spend monies from the special fund established by this section for expenses that are necessary to assist in the processing, payment or determination of liability of the fund. These expenses may include travel, discovery procedures and employing any legal, medical, rehabilitation, claims or labor market consultant, examiner or expert.

I. The commission shall cause an annual actuarial study of the special award fund to be made by a qualified actuary who is a member of the society of actuaries. The actuary shall make specific recommendations for maintaining the fund on a sound actuarial basis. The actuarial study shall be completed on or before September 1.

J. The special fund of the commission consists of all monies from premiums and assessments, except penalties assessed pursuant to this chapter, received and paid into the fund, property and securities acquired by the use of monies in the fund, interest earned on monies in the fund and other monies derived from the sale, use or lease of properties belonging to the fund. The special fund created by this section shall be administered by the director of the industrial commission, subject to the authority of the industrial commission. The director of the commission with approval of the investment committee, in the administration of the special fund, may provide loans, subject to repayment, budgetary review and legislative appropriation, to the administrative fund for the purposes and subject to § 23-1081, acquire real property and acquire or construct a building or other improvements on the real property as may be necessary to house, contain, furnish, equip and maintain offices and space for departmental and operational facilities of the commission. The commission when using space constructed pursuant to this section shall make equal payments of rent on a semiannual basis, which shall be deposited in the special fund. The investment committee shall determine the amount of the rent, which must be at least equal to or greater than that determined by the joint committee on capital review for buildings of similar design and construction as provided by § 41-792.01.

K. There is established an investment committee consisting of the director and the chairman of the commission and three persons knowledgeable in investments and economics appointed by the governor. Of the members appointed by the governor, one shall be a professional in the investment business, one shall represent workers' compensation insurers and one shall represent self-insurers. The term of members appointed by the governor is three years, which shall begin on July 1 and end on June 30 three years later. The committee shall prescribe by rule investment policies and supervise the investment activities of the special fund.

L. Each member of the investment committee, other than the director of the commission, is eligible to receive from the special fund:

1. Compensation of fifty dollars for each day while in actual attendance at meetings of the investment committee.
2. Reimbursement for expenses pursuant to title 38, chapter 4, article 2.¹

M. The investment committee shall meet at least once every month.

N. The investment committee shall periodically review and assess the investment strategy.

O. The investment committee, by resolution, may invest and reinvest the surplus or reserves in the funds established under this chapter in any legal investments authorized under § 38-718.

P. In addition to the investments authorized under § 38-718, the investment committee may approve the investment in real property and improvements on real property to house and maintain offices of the commission, including spaces for its departmental and operational facilities. Title to the real estate and improvements on the real estate vests in the special fund of the commission, and the assets become part of the fund as provided by this section.

Q. The investment committee may appoint a custodian for the safekeeping of all or any portion of the investments owned by the special fund of the commission and may register stocks, bonds and other investments in the name of a nominee. Except for investments held by a custodian or in the name of a nominee, all securities purchased pursuant to subsection O of this section shall promptly be deposited with the state treasurer as custodian thereof, who shall collect the dividends, interest and principal thereof, and pay, when collected, into the special fund. The state treasurer shall pay all vouchers drawn for the purchase of securities. The director may sell any of the securities as the director deems appropriate, if authorized by resolution of the investment committee, and the proceeds therefrom shall be payable to the state treasurer for the account of the special fund upon delivery of the securities to the purchaser or the purchaser's agent.

ECONOMIC, SMALL BUSINESS, AND CONSUMER IMPACT STATEMENT

TITLE 20. COMMERCE, BANKING, AND INSURANCE

CHAPTER 5. THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA

ARTICLE 7. SELF-INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS FOR WORKERS'

COMPENSATION POOLS ORGANIZED UNDER A.R.S. § 23-961.01

A. Identification of the rulemaking.

In 1997, the Arizona Legislature enacted A.R.S. § 23-961.01 which permits 2 or more employers that meet the criteria of § 23-961.01 to form workers' compensation pools. Workers' compensation pools organized under § 23-961.01 may apply to the Industrial Commission of Arizona for authority to self-insure for workers' compensation. Section G of A.R.S. § 23-961.01 specifically directs the Industrial Commission to promulgate rules to safeguard the solvency of pools organized under § 23-961.01 and to guarantee that injured workers receive benefits as required under the Arizona Workers' Compensation Act. The Legislature mandated that the rules include matters pertaining to classification and rating, loss reserves, investments, financial security, minimum and combined premiums, combined net worth, specific and aggregate excess insurance, pool homogeneity, and assessments necessary for participation in and administration of the workers' compensation system.

In response to A.R.S. § 23-961.01, the Industrial Commission adopted Article 7 to 20 A.A.C. 5. Article 7 includes new Sections addressing each of the matters specifically listed in A.R.S. § 23-961.01 which Sections are for the purpose of safeguarding the solvency of the pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive benefits as required under the Arizona Workers' Compensation Act:

B. Identification of the persons who will be directly affected by, bear the costs of, or directly benefit from the rulemaking.

Employers that meet the requirements of A.R.S. § 23-961.01 and Article 7 and that wish to join a workers' compensation pool for purposes of providing workers compensation insurance coverage to employees will be directly affected by and receive direct benefits from the adopted rules. Employee associations or organizations that form a workers' compensation pool will be directly affected by, bear the costs of, and receive direct benefits from the adopted rules.

Workers' compensation insurance carriers may be indirectly affected by Article 7 because employers may substitute coverage provided by a workers' compensation insurance carrier for coverage provided by a workers' compensation pool. The result is less premiums collected by the workers' compensation insurance carrier.

Other parties indirectly affected include 3rd-party claims processors and administrators who will benefit from contracts established with pools to process claims and administer the operation of the pools.

C. Cost benefit analysis

1. Probable costs and benefits to the implementing agency and other agencies directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the rulemaking.

The Industrial Commission may incur costs associated with this rulemaking because the Industrial Commission anticipates an increase in workload that will need to be handled by adding additional staff (e.g. the processing of new applications for pools and renewal applications of existing pools). The Industrial Commission has established that two positions are necessary to cover the increased administrative duties at an initial cost of $57,400 with an annual cost of $52,400. The Industrial Commission believes, however, that the costs associated with hiring additional staff is the result of the enactment of A.R.S. § 23-961.01, rather than the adoption of Article 7. At this point in time, however, funding has not been authorized for these positions. For this reason, the Industrial Commission has transferred an existing, but vacant grade 17 position from its Ombudsman Division to its Administration Division.

The Industrial Commission also anticipates that it will need additional staff to assist the pools to develop and implement loss control programs. For these additional positions (safety consultants), the initial cost is anticipated to be $114,800. Thereafter, the cost will be $112,600 (annually). The Industrial Commission benefits from hiring additional staff to work with pools to develop loss control programs. An active and effective loss control program leads to fewer workers' compensation injuries. Fewer injuries result in greater employee productivity and decreased costs for workers' compensation expenses. This, in turn, leads to decreased premiums paid by employers. At this point in time, however, funding has not been authorized for these positions.

The Industrial Commission also benefits from the rules because the rules are written to ensure financial solvency of a pool. Protecting the solvency of a pool translates to protecting the assets of the Special Fund, which is a fund administered by the Industrial Commission. If a pool is unable to process or pay workers' compensation claims, ultimately money from the Special Fund would be used to pay the benefits (to the extent the bonds, securities, and assets of a pool do not cover the liability of the pool).

The Industrial Commission also benefits from the rules because the rules provide specific time-frames and criteria for the processing of initial and renewal applications. This specificity will enable the Commission to process applications more efficiently.

The Special Fund of the Industrial Commission is funded through a tax on workers' compensation premiums. The Industrial Commission does not anticipate that state revenue generated by this tax will decrease or increase by the enactment of Article 7. Regardless of whether an employer is insured through a workers' compensation insurance carrier or is self-insured, premium taxes are required to be paid.

2. Probable costs and benefits to a political subdivision of this state directly affected by the implementation and enforcement of the rulemaking.

While it is difficult to state whether the impact is a result of the enabling statute or the addition of Article 7, the State Compensation Fund (SCF), a quasi-state agency, may be affected by the enactment Article 7 because SCF is a workers' compensation insurance carrier that may experience a decrease in revenue caused by the loss of premiums dollars. This loss would be caused by employers choosing to join a pool rather than insuring with SCF. On the other hand, SCF may generate revenue if it markets itself as an entity (3rd-party service company) that can process workers' compensation claims on behalf of a workers' compensation pool.

3. Probable costs and benefits to businesses directly affected by the rulemaking, including any anticipated effect on the revenues or payroll expenditure of employers who are subject to the rulemaking.

An employer must pay a premium to a workers' compensation pool. The premium paid by an employer enables a pool to pay workers' compensation losses and administrative costs of the pool. If, however, the employer did not pay a premium to a workers' compensation pool, the employer would be required to pay a premium to a workers' compensation insurance carrier [see A.R.S. § 23-961(A)]. Therefore, the payment of a premium to a workers' compensation pool does not constitute an additional cost to an employer. Further, depending on market forces, an employer may save money by belonging to a pool. In the first year of operation for a pool, premiums paid to a pool could be between 5-9% below premiums charged by carriers and up to 12% below carrier premiums in future years. On the other hand, workers' compensation insurance carriers may respond to A.R.S. § 23-961.01 by offering competitive premiums. The result is that employers may find it more cost efficient to remain insured with a traditional insurance carrier instead of joining a pool. Either scenario, the Industrial Commission does not believe that employers will incur additional costs associated with the adoption of Article 7.

An employer association that elects to form a workers' compensation pool will incur costs. Direct administrative costs to a pool, incurred on an annual basis, will include the following:

- 1) Cost of Administration. The costs for administration may vary depending on the salary or contract negotiated with an administrator. In general, the experience of the Industrial Commission with other self-insured pools demonstrates that administration costs are approximately 15% of total premiums received with maximum incurred costs being between $150,000 to $200,000 per year. This figure includes claims processing services, loss control services and underwriting services of a pool.
- 2) Specific Excess Insurance with $250,000 self-insured retention. The cost to obtain specific excess insurance will vary depending on the size of a pool. In general, however, specific excess insurance with a $250,000 self-insured retention will cost approximately 5% of total premiums received.
- 3) Aggregate Excess Insurance with a $5 million or 110% of premiums retention. The cost to obtain aggregate excess insurance will vary depending on the size of a pool. In general, however, aggregate excess insurance with the stated retention will cost a 3% of total premiums received.

- 4) One million dollars fidelity insurance. The cost to obtain fidelity insurance (covering of errors and omission involving financial and cash activities) is 3,000 to $7,000.
- 5) Guaranty Bond (minimum amount $250,000). The cost to obtain a guaranty bond will vary depending on the size of a pool. In general, however, the cost for a $250,000 bond is between $3,750 to $5,000.
- 6) Audit of Financial Statements. The cost to obtain an audit of a financial statement will vary depending on the size of a pool. In general, however, the cost for an audit is approximately $10,000.
- 7) Actuarial Review. The cost to obtain an actuarial review will vary depending on the size of a pool and the age, complexity, and number of active and closed workers' compensation claims. In general, however, the cost for an actuarial review is in the range of $10,000.
- 8) Payment of Premium Taxes. Premium taxes will vary depending on the formula used by the pool to calculate its taxes. Taxes are affected by the amount of payroll, losses and premium charged to members. The cost associated with the payment of taxes is not, however, the result of the enactment of Article 7. The obligation to pay taxes arises under A.R.S. § 23-961.

In general, the Industrial Commission anticipates that the administrative costs listed above will account for 25% of the total costs incurred by a pool. The costs to obtain the items listed above is outweighed by the benefits associated with the listed items. In general, the items listed ensure that a pool has the ability to process and pay workers' compensation benefits to injured workers and serve to protect the solvency of a pool as well as the solvency of the Special Fund (fund that is statutorily responsible to pay claims of a pool that is unable to process and pay claims).

Specifically, an administrator ensures that the pool operates lawfully and discharges the duties and responsibilities of a pool. A pool cannot function without an administrator running the daily operations of the pool.

Excess insurance coverage protects a pool from excessive liability that can threaten the solvency of the pool. A specific maximum self-insured retention of $250,000 and an aggregate self-insured retention of $5 million or 110% of premiums collected means that a pool will not pay any greater than $250,000 on any specific claim or any more than $5 million (or 110% of premiums) for all claims. Requiring excess insurance to cover losses over the self-insured retention levels ensures that liabilities of a pool do not become unmanageable. While some claims may never reach the specific self-insured retention level, other claims easily reach that level (e.g. catastrophic claims, burn, head trauma, or back injuries).

Statistics generated from the processing of no insurance claims by the No Insurance Section of the Industrial Commission reveal that 2.2% of 675 active claims reached the $250,000 threshold. On average, these claims reached the $250,000 level within 4-5 years. However, 7 claims reached the $250,000 level as follows:

1 claim	4 months
2 claims	9 months
2 claims	1 year
2 claims	2 years

For those claims that took 1 year or less to reach the $250,000 level, the Special Fund has expended approximately $2,432,200.00. This figure does not include the amount that must be reserved for future costs associated with the processing of these claims (millions of dollars).

Statistics provided by an excess insurance carrier that provides excess insurance coverage for self-insured pools across the country demonstrate that approximately 1.5% of claims processed will exceed the $250,000 self-insured retention level within 3-5 years. The self-insured retention level can be exceeded in days or months for catastrophic injuries (including head, burn or back injuries).

Given the foregoing statistics, the Industrial Commission believes that the maximum self-insured retention levels are high enough to allow a pool to handle the majority of its own claims, but low enough to protect the pool from bankruptcy. The protection afforded by the retention levels adopted by the Industrial Commission also serves to protect the solvency of the Special Fund.

Claims processing services enable a pool to process claims under the Workers' Compensation Act. Loss control services result in fewer work-related injuries which, in turn, saves money for a pool and member employers. Underwriting services ensures the rates and premiums are properly written and charged. Without these services, a pool could not discharge its responsibilities under A.R.S. § 23-901 et seq.

Fidelity insurance provides protection to a pool from the unauthorized acts of pool employees. This protection translates to the protection of the pool, members of the pool, and the Special Fund. Likewise, a guaranty bond ensures that funds are available to pay workers' compensation claims in the event that a pool cannot process or pay benefits. The bond provides protection to the Special Fund.

The costs associated with financial audits and actuarial reviews are likewise outweighed by the benefits associated with the audits and reviews. A pool cannot assess its current financial picture or its future liabilities without these services. The ability to assess present and future solvency of a pool is critical to the existence of the pool.

The remaining costs incurred by a pool include the direct expenses paid and medical and compensation benefits paid to injured workers. The costs incurred for workers' compensation benefits is not a cost that is the result of the enactment of Article 7. The obligation to pay workers' compensation benefits arises under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 and A.R.S. § 23-901 et seq.

All costs incurred by a pool are covered by the premiums charged to members of the pool. In this regard, the costs incurred by a pool represent indirect costs to members of the pool. As previously noted, however, employers are required by law to obtain workers' compensation insurance. Therefore, premiums paid to a pool are not additional costs incurred by an employer.

D. General description of the probable impact on private and public employment in businesses, agencies and political subdivisions of this state directly affected by the rulemaking.

The formation of new workers' compensation pools will generate more business for administrators and 3rd-party service companies which, in turn, will translate to the addition of more jobs. Aside from this possible impact, the Industrial Commission does not believe that the adopted rules will result in changes in employment in the private or public sector.

E. Statement of the probable impact of the rulemaking on small businesses.

1. Identification of the small business subject to the rulemaking.

Small businesses that wish to join workers' compensation pools may be affected by these rules.

2. Administrative and other costs required for compliance with the rulemaking.

The costs to a small business are as described above and therefore will be minimal to none. Small business may, in fact, benefit to a greater degree than other businesses for the reason that small businesses traditionally lack the bargaining power of larger business. As a consequence, small business may pay higher premiums to traditional insurance carriers. Workers' compensation pools organized under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 offer small business a choice. By joining a pool, a small business has the opportunity to save money. On the other hand, traditional insurance carriers may offer better premiums to small businesses to attract and keep the insurance business.

3. Description of the methods that the agency may use to reduce the impact on small businesses.

a. Establishing less costly compliance requirements in the rulemaking for small businesses.

A workers' compensation pool does not meet the definition of "small business" for the reason that a pool is not independently owned and operated. As to members of a pool, Arizona Revised Statute § 23-961(A) requires that every employer be insured for workers' compensation insurance. Therefore, because an employer is required to obtain workers' compensation coverage for its employees, the adopted rules cannot provide a less costly compliance requirement.

b. Establishing less costly schedules or less stringent deadlines for compliance in the rulemaking.

The Industrial Commission does not believe that the time-frames adopted in Article 7 are unreasonable. Further, the time-frames adopted in Article 7 apply to pools that wish to apply for or renew self-insurance authority, not to members that join a pool.

c. Exemption of small businesses from any or all requirements of the rulemaking.

Article 7 governs pools that have organized to arrange for workers' compensation insurance coverage for member employers. As previously noted, a small business may join a pool. The requirements to join (as set forth in A.R.S. § 23-961.01 and Article 7) are for the purpose of ensuring the solvency of a pool and ensuring that workers' compensation claims are processed and paid under the Workers' Compensation Act. For these reasons, if a small business wishes to join a workers' compensation pool, it cannot be exempt from the requirements of Article 7.

4. Probable cost and benefit to private persons and consumers who are directly affected by the rulemaking.

The Industrial Commission does not anticipate a negative impact on private persons or consumers as a result of the adopted rules. The Industrial Commission believes, however, that workers whose employers are members of a workers' compensation pool will benefit from the adopted rules if the pool implements an effective and active loss control program. An active and effective loss control program results in improved work place safety. Improved work place safety means that work place injuries will decline. The Industrial Commission also believes that consumers may benefit from the adopted rules for the same reason. A decline in work place injuries means lower premiums charged to a business. Lower premium costs incurred by a business may mean savings to consumers of the business.

F. Statement of the probable effect on state revenue.

It is not anticipated that tax revenues generated from workers' compensation premiums will increase or decrease as taxes collected for insurance carriers will decrease but taxes collected for workers compensation pools will increase correspondingly.

G. Description of any less intrusive or less costly alternative methods of achieving the purpose of the rulemaking.

The purpose of adopting Article 7 is to develop a process by which employer associations or organizations may form workers' compensation pools for the purpose of providing workers' compensation insurance coverage to member employers. As part of this process, and in recognition of the mandate of A.R.S. § 23-961.01, the Industrial Commission adopted rules to ensure the solvency of the pools and ensure that pools process and pay workers' compensation benefits as required under the Workers' Compensation Act. In adopting these rules, the Industrial Commission also intended to protect the assets of the Special Fund. In light of the foregoing purposes, the Industrial Commission does not believe that there are less intrusive or less costly alternative methods of achieving the purposes of the rulemaking.

ECONOMIC, SMALL BUSINESS, AND CONSUMER IMPACT STATEMENT

TITLE 20. COMMERCE, FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND INSURANCE

CHAPTER 5. INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA

ARTICLE 7. SELF-INSURANCE REQUIRMENTS FOR WORKERS COMPENSATION POOLS ORGANIZED UNDER A.R.S. § 23-961.01

RULE 715. AGGREGATE AND SPECIFIC INSURANCE POLICIES

1. Identification of the rulemaking:

Until 1997, Arizona law mandated that employers “secure workers’ compensation to their employees” by either: (1) acquiring insurance from a carrier licensed to write workers’ compensation insurance in the state or (2) obtaining authorization from the Industrial Commission of Arizona (Commission) to self-insure. See A.R.S. § 23-961(A). In 1997, the Arizona Legislature added “self-insurance pools” as a third mechanism for securing workers’ compensation. See A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A), 23-961.01. Specifically, A.R.S. § 23-961.01(A) permits two or more employers who are engaged in similar industries to form a workers’ compensation pool to provide for the direct payment and administration of workers’ compensation claims.

A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F) directs the Commission to “adopt rules necessary for safeguarding the solvency of [self-insurance] pools and guaranteeing that injured workers receive benefits required under [A.R.S. Title 23, Chapter 6, Workers’ Compensation].” The rules “shall include, at a minimum, matters pertaining to [among other things] . . . specific and aggregate excess insurance . . . necessary for participation in and administration of the workers’ compensation system.” A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F).

“Specific excess insurance,” in this context, refers to insurance coverage purchased from an insurer who will be liable for the payment of any amount of a particular workers’ compensation claim in excess of a retained predetermined amount (the specific retention) paid directly by the self-insurance pool. Once a pool has paid the specific retention for a particular claim, the specific excess insurer would be obligated to pay all remaining amounts due on that claim (with no upper limit). Specific excess insurance mitigates a pool’s risk resulting from any particular claim.

“Aggregate excess insurance,” in this context, refers to coverage purchased from an insurer who will be liable for the payment of any amount of the aggregate of all a pool’s workers’ compensation claims in excess of a retained predetermined amount (the aggregate retention) paid directly by the pool. Once the pool has paid the aggregate retention amount, the aggregate excess insurer would be obligated to pay all remaining claim liabilities on all claims (subject to policy limits). Aggregate excess insurance mitigates a pool's overall risk from all claims.

In 1998, following the enactment of A.R.S. § 23-961.01, the Commission adopted rules (Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7) to implement the new legislation, including a rule (R20-5-715(D)) which established excess coverage and retention requirements for self-insurance pools. Specifically, the maximum permissible retention amounts were set at $250,000 (specific retention) and "110% of collected premiums" (for aggregate retention). The minimum aggregate insurance coverage limit was set at $5,000,000.

In 1998, when R20-5-715 was implemented, the excess insurance required by the rule was widely available in the insurance market at competitive prices. Today, however, Arizona employers have been effectively precluded from forming self-insurance pools because the required excess insurance products are either unavailable in the insurance market or are cost prohibitive. This is evidenced by the fact that no self-insurance pools under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 are currently in operation in Arizona. In short, the excess insurance requirements of R20-5-715(D) have become an impediment to the formation of self-insurance pools, frustrating the intent of A.R.S. § 23-961.01. The Commission seeks to remove these impediments by amending the rule to reflect present economic realities within the excess insurance industry.

The proposed amendments will allow self-insurance pools to acquire necessary excess coverage more easily and in a cost-effective manner. In lieu of a maximum specific retention amount of $250,000, the proposed amendments authorize a range of specific retention amounts from $100,000 up to $1,250,000. In lieu of a maximum aggregate retention amount of "110% of collected premiums," the proposed amendments authorize a maximum aggregate retention amount of "150% of collected premiums." And in lieu of a minimum aggregate excess coverage limit of $5,000,000, the proposed amendment authorizes a minimum coverage amount of $1,000,000. Finally, the proposed amendments give the Commission flexibility to approve deviations from the authorized specific retention range where a self-insurance pool can demonstrate sufficient financial security and loss control procedures to justify a higher specific retention, consistent with the approval process contemplated in A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A)(2) and 23-961.01(B). Each of these proposed amendments seeks to ease the regulatory burden on employers who may be interested in forming self-insurance pools by authorizing excess insurance products that are more accessible in the current insurance market and that are not cost prohibitive.

The proposed amendments are designed to make self-insurance pools a viable and cost-effective option for employers to provide workers' compensation to their employees. The proposed amendments will promote the statutory objectives of A.R.S. § 23-961.01(F), while continuing to ensure that self-insurance pools are financially able to provide for the payment and administration of workers' compensation claims.

2. Identification of the persons who will be directly affected by, bear the costs of or directly benefit from the proposed rulemaking:

EMPLOYERS and EMPLOYEES: Arizona employers that participate in self-insurance pools under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 are the primary entities who will directly benefit from the proposed rulemaking. The proposed amendments ease the regulatory burden on employers who participate in self-insurance pools by authorizing excess insurance products that are cost-effective and more accessible in the current insurance market. The Commission anticipates that the proposed amendments will eliminate certain barriers to participating in self-insurance pools and, in effect, make self-insurance pools a viable option for some employers for securing workers' compensation. Arizona employers, both large and small, who participate in a self-insurance pool will benefit economically from the proposed amendments due to the authorization of more-affordable and accessible excess insurance.

In addition, incentivizing the use of self-insurance pools will indirectly benefit Arizona employers and employees. Similar to individual employers who self-insure, the Commission anticipates that employers who join self-insurance pools will implement more effective safety programs in an effort to control losses and manage costs. Consequently, increasing in the number of self-insurance pools will likely increase workplace safety and reduce the number of industrial injuries. Increased use of self-insurance pools will result in more-educated employers, more manageable workers' compensation programs, and an overall reduction in costs.

INSURERS: As a result of the proposed rulemaking, Arizona employers may elect to participate in a self-insurance pool in lieu of purchasing workers' compensation insurance under A.R.S. § 23-961(A)(1). A shift from workers' compensation insurance to self-insurance pools would result in a decrease in sales of workers' compensation insurance policies and an increase in sales of specific and aggregate excess insurance policies. Although some impact on the insurance industry is expected, the Commission does not believe the impact of the proposed amendments will be significant for any particular insurance carrier.

SPECIAL FUND: The proposed rulemaking may indirectly impact on the Commission's Special Fund Division/No Insurance Section (Special Fund), which provides workers' compensation benefits to injured employees of uninsured employers. If currently-uninsured employers elect to participate in a self-insurance pool as a result of the proposed rulemaking, the Special Fund would benefit because workers' compensation liabilities of the formerly-uninsured employers would be shifted from the Special Fund to self-insurance pools. The Commission, however, believes the overall impact on the Special Fund will be minimal, as it is likely that the majority of uninsured employers will not participate in a self-insurance pool.

3. A cost benefit analysis of the following:

- (a) Costs and benefits to state agencies directly affected by the rulemaking, including the number of new full-time employees at the implementing agency required to implement and enforce the proposed rule:

The Commission is the only state agency directly affected by the proposed rulemaking. In the event the proposed amendments increase the use of self-insurance pools, the Commission will be required to evaluate an increased number of pools pursuant to the approval process contemplated in A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A)(2) and 23-961.01(B). Furthermore, the Commission may be asked to approve deviations from the authorized specific excess insurance retention range, consistent with the approval process contemplated in A.R.S. §§ 23-961(A)(2) and 23-961.01(B). The Commission, however, does not anticipate that any new full-time employees will be necessary perform these administrative responsibilities.

Additionally, the proposed rulemaking may indirectly impact on the Commission's Special Fund Division/No Insurance Section (Special Fund), which provides workers' compensation benefits to injured employees of uninsured employers. If currently-uninsured employers elect to participate in a self-insurance pool as a result of the proposed rulemaking, the workers' compensation liabilities of the formerly-uninsured employers would be shifted from the Special Fund to self-insurance pools. The Commission, however, believes the overall impact on the Special Fund will be minimal, as it is likely that the majority of uninsured employers will not participate in a self-insurance pool.

(b) Costs and benefits to political subdivisions directly affected by the rulemaking:

The Commission does not anticipate that the amended rule will impact political subdivisions. Workers' compensation pools for public agencies are governed by A.R.S. § 11-952.01 and Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 2 of the Arizona Administrative Code.

(c) Costs and benefits to businesses directly affected by the rulemaking:

As discussed above, the proposed amendments ease the regulatory burden on all employers who participate in self-insurance pools under A.R.S. § 23-961.01. Arizona businesses, both large and small, who participate in a self-insurance pool will benefit economically from the proposed amendments due to the authorization of more-affordable and accessible excess insurance. The Commission anticipates that the proposed amendments will make self-insurance pools a viable alternative for some employers for securing workers' compensation.

Moreover, the Commission anticipates that employers who join self-insurance pools will implement more effective safety programs in an effort to control losses and manage costs. As a result, an increase in the number of self-insurance pools will likely increase workplace safety and reduce the overall number of industrial injuries. Increased use of self-insurance pools will result in more-educated employers, more manageable workers' compensation programs, and an overall reduction in costs.

4. Impact on private and public employment in businesses, agencies and political subdivisions:

The Commission does not anticipate that the proposed amendments will impact employment in public agencies or political subdivisions. Workers' compensation pools for public agencies are governed by A.R.S. § 11-952.01 and Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 2 of the Arizona Administrative Code.

The Commission anticipates that the impact on private employment will be insignificant. Financial savings generated as a result of the proposed amendments for employers that elect to participate in a self-insurance pool could result in increases in private employment if employers redirect the savings towards employment.

5. Impact on small businesses:

(a) Identification of the small businesses subject to the rulemaking:

Any small business that qualifies as an employer under A.R.S. § 23-902 and elects to participate in a self-insurance pool under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 would be subject to the proposed amendments.

(b) Administrative and other costs required for compliance with the rulemaking:

No administrative or other costs are directly associated with the proposed amendments. Although administrative and other costs are involved in forming a workers' compensation self-insurance pool and acquiring necessary excess insurance, those costs are attributable to the statutory and regulatory requirements of A.R.S. § 23-961.01 and Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 7 of the Arizona Administrative Code. The proposed amendments are intended to reduce costs associated with obtaining necessary excess insurance.

(c) Description of the methods that may be used to reduce the impact on small businesses:

In the event a small business chooses not to participate in a self-insurance pool, the business will not be impacted by the proposed amendments. In the event a small business chooses to participate in a self-insurance pool, the business will benefit as a result of the proposed amendments. Because the proposed amendments will not negatively impact small businesses, the Commission has not considered methods to reduce the impact of the proposed amendments on small businesses.

(d) Probable cost and benefit to private persons and consumers who are directly affected by proposed rulemaking:

The Commission does not anticipate that private persons or consumers will be directly affected by the proposed amendments. At most, the Commission anticipates that employers who participate in self-insurance pools will implement more effective safety programs in an effort to control losses and manage costs. As a result, an increase in the number of self-insurance pools should lead to improvements in workplace safety and reduce the number of industrial injuries, thereby benefiting Arizona employees.

6. Probable effect on state revenues:

The Commission does not anticipate the proposed amendments will have any impact on state revenues.

7. Less intrusive or less costly alternative methods considered:

The Commission believes that the proposed amendments are the least intrusive and least costly method of making self-insurance pools under A.R.S. § 23-961.01 a more viable option for securing workers' compensation. The Commission did not consider alternative methods.

8. Data on which the rule is based:

No studies were performed to provide a basis for these rules and, therefore, no original empirical data exists. The Commission has explained the impact of the proposed amendments in qualitative terms.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION (F19-0610)

Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 4, Arizona Boilers and Lined Hot Water Heaters

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA (ICA)
Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 4, Arizona Boilers and Lined Hot Water Heaters

This five year review report (5YRR) relates to all Sections in Title 20, Chapter 5, Article 4 related to regulation of boilers and lined hot water storage heaters operated in Arizona. These rules do not apply to boilers and lined hot water storage heaters regulated by the U.S. Government, operated in private residences or apartment complexes of six units or less, and those operated on Indian reservations. The rules also do not apply to hot water heaters where (1) heat input does not exceed 200,000 BTU per hour; (2) water temperature does not exceed 210 degrees Fahrenheit; and (3) nominal water containing capacity is not more than 120 gallons. The rules also establish the requirements and certification parameters for individuals requesting certification as special inspectors of boilers or lined water storage heaters.

In its previous 5YRR in 2014, the Commission indicated it would initiate rulemaking to amend R20-5-411 to provide more clarity regarding the parameters of hydrostatic tests and R20-5-416 to define maximum allowable working pressure. The Commission did not complete the proposed rulemaking as indicated in the 2014 five-year review report. The Commission indicates it did not pursue a rulemaking on Article 4 due to higher priority rulemakings and significant turnover in the legal division during this time period.

Proposed Action

The Commission indicates that, in addition to amending rules R20-5-411 and R20-5-416 outlined above as per the prior 5YRR, it will take action to amend rules R20-5-402(11), R20-5-403, and R20-5-420(C)(1) to ensure consistency with statutory changes completed in 2016 and 2017, described in more detail below. Also, the Commission indicates it will conduct a thorough review of updated National Consensus Standards to determine whether adoption is appropriate in the following rules: R20-5-404, R20-5-406, R20-5-407, R20-5-415, and R20-5-416. The Commission anticipates completing the necessary rulemaking within two years from the approval of this report.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Commission cites to both general and specific statutory authority for the rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

Stakeholders include the Commission and owners or users of a boiler, hot water heater or pressure vessel equipment installed in Arizona. The economic impact of the rules has been consistent with the economic impact set forth in the previously approved five-year review report on August 5, 2014. The rules have a limited economic impact on consumers, while protecting them from the unsafe operation of boilers, lined hot water heaters, and pressure vessels. The adoption of these codes and standards has no bearing on the market cost of this equipment. The current market price is derived from many factors with national code or standard requirements being part of the cost equation. The amendments had no effect to currently installed boilers, hot water heaters or pressure vessels and did not generate an additional cost to business revenues or payrolls.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The probable costs of the rules do not exceed the probable benefits of the rules. The Commission believes the rules impose the least burden and costs on the regulated community.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

The Commission has not received any written criticism of the rules within the last five years.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Commission indicates that the rules are clear, concise, and understandable. The Commission indicates that the rules are generally consistent with other rules and statutes except for the following as a result of statutory changes in 2016 and 2017:

- R20-5-402(11) - Inconsistent with the definition of “boiler” in A.R.S. § 23-471(2);
- R20-5-403 - Inconsistent with A.R.S. § 23-486 with respect to the composition of the Boiler Advisory Board;
- R20-5-420(C)(1) - Inconsistent with A.R.S. § 23-485 with respect to comity of out-of-state inspector qualifications.

The Commission indicates that all the rules are effective in achieving their objectives.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Commission indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

Not applicable. There are no corresponding federal laws.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

Not applicable. None of the rules in Article 4 were adopted or amended after July 29, 2010.

9. Conclusion

The rules are clear, concise, understandable, and effective. The Commission proposes to amend the rules to be consistent with changes pursuant to 2016 and 2017 statutory changes. Also, the Commission indicates it will conduct a thorough review of updated National Consensus Standards to determine whether adoption is appropriate in the following rules: R20-5-404, R20-5-406, R20-5-407, R20-5-415, and R20-5-416. The Commission anticipates completing the necessary rulemaking within two years from the approval of this report. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

FIVE-YEAR REVIEW SUMMARY

The Industrial Commission of Arizona (the “Commission”) was created in 1925 as a result of legislation (Arizona Workman’s Compensation Act) implementing the constitutional provisions establishing a workers’ compensation system. The scope of the Commission includes other labor-related issues, such as occupational safety and health, youth employment, resolution of wage-related disputes, minimum wage, vocational rehabilitation, workers’ compensation coverage for claimants of uninsured employers, and self-insured employers.

Certification Regarding Compliance with A.R.S. § 41-1091

In the cover letter for this report, the Commission’s Director certifies that the Commission is in compliance with A.R.S. § 41-1091 with respect to the substantive policy statements relating to the rules in Article 4, as well as other substantive policy statements and all rules, which are available on the Commission’s website.

About Article 4

These rules regulate all boilers and lined hot water storage heaters operated in Arizona, except for those boilers and lined hot water storage heaters regulated by the United States Government, those operated in private residences or apartment complexes of not more than six units, and those operated on Indian reservations. In addition, lined hot water heaters that meet the following criteria are not within the scope of the rules: (1) heat input does not exceed 200,000 BTU per hour; (2) water temperature does not exceed 210 degrees Fahrenheit; and (3) nominal water containing capacity of not more than 120 gallons. The rules also establish the requirements and certification parameters for individuals requesting certification as special inspectors of boilers or lined hot water storage heaters.

In 2009, the Commission completed a final rulemaking, which included significant changes to the rules, including the repeal of several rules.

2016-2017 Legislative Changes

In 2016, A.R.S. §§ 23-474, 23-475, and 23-486 were amended to reflect changes to the inspection authority of the Division of Occupational Safety and Health and the composition of the Boiler Advisory Board. In 2017, A.R.S. §§ 23-471, 23-473, 23-475, 23-478, 23-485, 23-486 and 23-488 were amended to add definitions of “boiler” and “pressure vessel,” insert the term “pressure vessel” where appropriate, and clarify the Commission’s requirements for certification of special inspectors.

TITLE 20. COMMERCE, FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND INSURANCE

CHAPTER 5. INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION OF ARIZONA

ARTICLE 4. ARIZONA BOILERS AND LINED HOT WATER HEATERS

1. General and specific statutes authorizing the rules, including any statute that authorizes the agency to make rules

The rules in Article 4 have general and specific authorization under A.R.S. §§ 23-107; 23-108.01; 23-108.03; 23-474; 23-475; 23-476; and 23-485.

2. Objective of the rules, including the purposes for the existence of the rules

The Commission's overarching objectives regarding Article 4 are to insure safety with respect to installation, repair, and maintenance of all boilers, lined hot water heaters, and pressure vessels operated in Arizona.

R20-5-401. Applicability

R20-5-401. Defines the scope of Article 4. The rule is necessary in order to provide the scope and parameters of the rules contained in Article 4.

R20-5-402. Definitions

R20-5-402. Defines terms that are utilized in R20-5-403 through R20-5-432. The rule is necessary in order to provide definitions of the terms contained in the other rules of Article 4.

R20-5-403. Boiler Advisory Board

R20-5-403. Establishes the parameters of the boiler advisory board pursuant to A.R.S. § 23-474, and to set forth the term of service for the board's members. The rule is necessary to clarify A.R.S. § 23-474, which requires the Commission to establish a boiler advisory board and to promulgate standards and regulations for boilers, and lined hot water storage heaters.

R20-5-404. Standards for Boilers, Lined Hot Water Storage Heaters and Pressure Vessels

R20-5-404. Establishes the standards with which an owner, user, or operator of a boiler installed, repaired, replaced, or reinstalled, must comply. The rule clarifies that Arizona follows the standards developed by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (“ASME”), and incorporates the provisions of the ASME’s Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code manual. The rule also sets forth compliance standards pertaining to oil-fired lined hot water storage heaters, and gas-fired lined hot water storage heaters. These storage heaters are required to comply with the standards of the American National Standards Institute (“ANSI”), and incorporates the provisions of the ANSI’s American National Standard for Gas Water Heaters manual; the National Standard for Controls and Safety Devices for Automatically Fired Boilers manual; and the National Fuel Gas Code manual. The rule further clarifies the installation, maintenance and repair requirements for boilers and lined hot water storage heaters. The rule is necessary in order to provide specific standards to be followed in the installation, repair, or replacement of boilers and lined hot water heaters. The standards incorporated into the rule benefit the public and consumers in that they prevent accidents from the incorrect installation, repair or replacement of these types of equipment.

R20-5-406. Repairs and Alterations

R20-5-406. Establishes that when a boiler is in need of repair or alteration, the owner, user, or operator of the boiler, shall consult with an authorized inspector before having the repairs or alternations made. The intent of the rule is to have such repairs and alterations made under the supervision and with the approval of an authorized inspector so that all repairs and alterations comply with the provisions of the ANSI’s National Board Inspection Code. The rule also sets forth that no one is permitted to remove or repair a safety appliance of a boiler or lined hot water storage heater in operation, and can only remove or repair a safety appliance not in operation as provided under the ASME Code. The rule further specifies that repairs of fittings or appliances shall comply with the requirements of the National Board Inspection Code and that the replacement of fittings or appliances shall comply with the requirements of the ASME Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code manual. The rule is necessary in order to provide the relevant standards for safety compliance in the removal, repair, replacement, and alteration of a boiler or lined hot water storage heater.

R20-5-407. Inspection of Boilers, Lined Hot Water Storage Heaters, Direct Fired Jacketed Steam Kettles and Issuance of Inspection Certificates

R20-5-407. Establishes standards for compliance by authorized inspectors. The rule also sets forth that failure to comply with the required inspection or testing under this Article will result in the withholding of the inspection certificate until compliance is demonstrated. The rule further specifies that authorized inspectors shall not engage in the sale of any object or device relating to boilers, lined hot water storage heaters, or equipment associated with boilers and lined hot water storage heaters. In addition, special inspectors shall submit inspection reports to the Division on forms meeting the requisites of the National Board Inspection Code.

The rule specifies the time frames and procedures for the Division to issue an inspection certificate, the format for identification tags on steam boilers, the condemnation of an unfit boiler or lined hot water storage heater, and clarifies that for any condition not covered by this Article, the ASME Code applies. The rule is necessary in order to provide the relevant time frames and procedures for safety inspections of a boiler or lined hot water storage heater. The rule is also necessary to give the procedures for “tagging” an inspected boiler or lined hot water storage heater, and for the condemnation of an unfit unit. The rule is also necessary to clarify that in the event there is an issue regarding boilers or lined hot water storage heaters that is not addressed in this Article, the provisions of the ASME Code control.

R20-5-408. Frequency of Inspection

R20-5-408. Sets requirements and procedures for inspections of boilers and lined hot water storage heaters. The rule specifies that authorized inspectors shall perform the inspections and that the Division issues the inspection certificates. The rule establishes very specific factors for safety measurements to be performed by authorized inspectors and the time frames for such inspections. The rule is necessary in order to provide the relevant time frames and procedures for safety inspections of a boiler or lined hot water storage heater.

R20-5-409. Notification and Preparation for Inspection

R20-5-409. Sets the requirements and procedures for inspections of boilers and lined hot water storage heaters to actually occur. The rule specifies the exact requirements that must be completed by the owner, user or operator prior to an inspection. The procedures are necessary for the safety of the inspector and to permit a more effective inspection.

R20-5-410. Report of Accident

R20-5-410. Sets the requirements and procedures for notification of the Division in the event of an explosion, severe over-heating, or personal injury involving a boiler or lined hot water storage heater. The rule specifies the exact things that must be done by the owner, user or operator in the event of an accident involving a boiler or lined hot water storage heater. The procedures are necessary for the safety of the personnel involved in the incident and the general public.

R20-5-411. Hydrostatic Tests

R20-5-411. Establishes the technical requirements and procedures for a hydrostatic test. The rule specifies the exact things that must be done by the owner, user or operator in the performance of a hydrostatic test.

R20-5-412. Automatic Low-water Fuel Cutoff Devices or Combined Water Feeding and Fuel Cutoff Devices

R20-5-412. Establishes the technical requirements and procedures for the use of automatic low-water fuel cutoff devices or combined water feeding and fuel cutoff devices in boilers and lined hot water storage heaters. The rule specifies the procedures to be followed and the standards for installation and operation of low-water fuel cutoff devices or combined water feeding and fuel cutoff devices. The rule is very technical and aimed toward establishing standards for safety to protect the users and operators of such units as well as the inspectors who must inspect such units.

The rule provides technical guidelines and procedures for the use of piping and valve size in boilers and lined hot water storage heaters to effectively handle the blowdown and blowoff. The rule incorporates equipment standards from the National Board Ruled Recommendations for the Design and Construction of Boiler Blowoff Systems and quick-opening valves constructed in accordance with the ASME 1991 edition of Power Piping. The rule specifies the technical procedures to be followed and the standards for implementation regarding installation and operation of blowdown and blowoff piping and valve sizes. R20-5-416. Maximum Allowable Working Pressure

R20-5-416. Establishes that the ASME Code under which a boiler was constructed and stamped determines the maximum allowable working pressure for that boiler. The rule is necessary to determine the maximum allowable working pressure for a boiler.

R20-5-417. Maintenance and Operation of Boilers, Hot Water Heaters and Direct Fired Jacketed Steam Kettles

R20-5-417. Establishes that an owner, user or operator of a boiler constructed under the ASME Code, is required to comply with the manufacturer's maintenance and operation instructions for the boiler. The rule also sets forth additional preventive maintenance schedules and basic knowledge requirements for the operators of a power boiler. The rule is necessary to maintain safety standards in compliance with the ASME Code, to establish preventive maintenance schedules, and to set minimum job qualifications for boiler operators. The rules corresponding by reference to the ASME is used for the purpose of the International Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code to establish rules of safety — relating only to pressure integrity — governing the design, fabrication, and inspection of boilers and pressure vessels, and nuclear power plant components during construction. The objective of the rules is to provide a margin for deterioration in service. Advancements in design and material and the evidence of experience are constantly being added.

R20-5-418. Non-standard Boilers

3. Effectiveness of the rules in achieving their objectives, including a summary of any available data supporting the conclusion reached

All of the rules in Article 4 are effective in achieving their respective objectives.

4. Consistency of the rules with state and federal statutes and other rules made by the agency, and a listing of the statutes or rules used in determining the consistency

As a result of the statutory changes in 2016 and 2017, R20-5-402(11) is inconsistent with the definition of Boiler in A.R.S. § 23-471(2); R20-5-403 is inconsistent with A.R.S. § 23-486 with respect to the composition of the Boiler Advisory Board; and R20-5-420(C)(1) is inconsistent with A.R.S. § 23-485 with respect to comity of out-of-state inspector qualifications.

5. Agency enforcement policy, including whether the rules are currently being enforced and, if so, whether there are any problems with enforcement

The Commission enforces the rules in Article 4 as written.

6. Clarity, conciseness, and understandability of the rules

The rules are clear, concise, and understandable.

7. Written criticisms of the rules received by the agency within the five years immediately preceding the five-year review report

The Commission has not received any written criticisms of the Article 4 rules.

8. A comparison of the estimated economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rules with the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement prepared on the last making of the rules or, if no economic, small business, and consumer impact statement was prepared on the last making of the rules, an assessment of the actual economic, small business, and consumer impact of the rules

The economic impact of the rules has been consistent with the economic impact set forth in the previously approved five-year review report on August 5, 2014. The rules have a limited economic impact on consumers, while protecting them from unsafe operation of boilers, lined hot water heaters, and pressure vessels.

9. Any analysis submitted to the agency completed by another person regarding the rules' impact on this state's business competitiveness as compared to the competitiveness of businesses in other states

No person has submitted an analysis to the Commission regarding the reviewed rules' impact on this state's business competitiveness.

10. If applicable, whether the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year review report

The previous five-year-review report stated that the Commission would initiate a rulemaking to amend R20-5-411 (to provide more clarity regarding the parameters of hydrostatic tests) and R20-5-416 (define maximum allowable working pressure). The agency did not complete the proposed rulemaking as indicated, in the 2014 five-year review report. However, as indicated in Section 14, the Commission plans to conduct a thorough review of updated national consensus standards and will initiate rulemaking as appropriate.

11. A determination after analysis that probable benefits outweigh probable costs and that the rules impose the least burden and costs on persons regulated

The probable costs of the rules reviewed do not exceed the probable benefits of the rules. The Commission believes that the rules impose the least burden on the regulated community.

12. A determination that the rules are not more stringent than a corresponding federal law unless there is statutory authority to exceed the requirements of that federal law.

There are no federal statutory requirements related to the installation, repair, and maintenance of boilers, lined hot water heaters, and pressure vessels.

13. For rules adopted or amended after July 29, 2010 that require issuance of a regulatory permit, license or agency authorization, whether the rules comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037.

None of the rules in Article 4 were adopted or amended after July 29, 2010.

14. Proposed course of action

The Commission will take action to amend the rules previously identified in Section 4 to ensure consistency with the statutory changes completed in 2016 and 2017. This will include the following:

R20-5-402 will be amended to adopt the definition of “Boiler” in A.R.S. § 23-471(2).

R20-5-403 will be amended to conform to the statutory composition of the Boiler Advisory Group in A.R.S. § 23-486.

R20-5-420(C)(1) will be amended to eliminate the acceptance of out-of-state certificates of competency, consistent with A.R.S. § 23-485.

In addition, the Commission will conduct a thorough review of updated National Consensus Standards to determine whether adoption is appropriate in the following rules: R20-5-404, R20-5-406, R20-5-407, R20-5-415, and R20-5-416. The Commission anticipates completing the necessary rulemaking within two years from the approval of this report.

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: ARIZONA DEPARTMENT OF CHILD SAFETY (DCS)
Title 21, Chapter 1, Article 2, Comprehensive Medical and Dental Program

This five year review report (5YRR) relates to all Sections in Title 21, Chapter 1, Article 2 related to the Comprehensive Medical and Dental Program (CMDP). These rules were adopted by exempt rulemaking in November 2015.

The CMDP is the medical and dental health plan for Medicaid eligible children placed in out-of-home care and functions as the integrated health plan (providing medical, dental, and behavioral health services) for children who are not Medicaid eligible. CMDP complies with AHCCCS regulations and covers a full scope of services including immunizations, inpatient and outpatient hospital services, physician services, medications, and dental services. CMDP also covers services for children in out-of-home care who reside outside of Arizona when these children remain in DCS custody and do not qualify for Medicaid in the receiving state.

This is the first 5YRR for these rules.

Proposed Action

The Department does not propose to take any action regarding these rules unless there are statutory changes.

The Department indicates that the 2019 Fifty-Fourth Legislature-First Regular Session includes an introduction to a bill which impacts the services currently being provided by CMDP and the current rules. If the bill passes, the Department indicates it will request an exception to the rulemaking moratorium and, with approval, proceed with rulemaking to address necessary changes to the rules resulting from the statutory change, with the target date of completion of January 2021.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Department cites to both general and specific statutory authority for the rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

There were no economic, small business, and consumer impact statements prepared for Article 2 as part of the exempt rulemaking.

As of January 2019, there were over 13,269 children enrolled in the Comprehensive Medical and Dental Program (CMDP). Within the Department, the CMDP unit employs 67 full-time employees. For fiscal year 2019, CMDP had a total funding of $48 million.

Stakeholders include the Department, physicians, dentists, therapists, medical equipment suppliers, other health care practitioners, other state agencies, care providers, and the children enrolled in CMDP.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Department has determined that the rules under review pose the least cost and burden on businesses, the regulated public, and the general public.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

The Department indicates that it has not received written criticisms of these rules since they were finalized under exempt rulemaking in November 2015. The Department indicates that during the rulemaking activities, it received public comments through public hearings and an on-line survey. The Department indicates comments received included requests to review language to ensure that the rules encompass all settings for out-of-home care; include language describing coverage for young adults if eligible; and expand the language for interpretation and translation services to be available at no charge to the parents, guardians, custodians, or the CMDP member. The Department reviewed and incorporated comments where applicable in the final rule package in 2015.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

The Department indicates that the rules are clear, concise, understandable, consistent with other rules and statutes, and effective.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

The Department indicates that the rules are enforced as written.

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

The Department indicates that the rules are not more stringent than corresponding federal laws.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

Not applicable. The rules do not require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license or agency authorization.

9. Conclusion

The rules are clear, concise, understandable, consistent, and effective. The Department enforces the rules as written. As indicated above, the Department proposes to take no action regarding these rules unless there is a statutory change affecting the rules. The Department indicates that the 2019 Fifty-Fourth Legislature-First Regular Session includes an introduction to a bill which impacts the services currently being provided by CMDP and the current rules. If the bill passes, the Department indicates it will request an exception to the rulemaking moratorium and, with approval, proceed with rulemaking to address necessary changes to the rules resulting from the statutory change, with the target date of completion of January 2021. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

5. Are the rules enforced as written? Yes X No ___
6. Are the rules clear, concise, and understandable? Yes X No ___
7. Has the agency received written criticisms of the rules within the last five years? Yes X No ___

The Department of Child Safety (DCS) has not received written criticisms of the rules subject to this report since they were finalized under exempt rulemaking in November 2015. During the rulemaking activities in 2015, the Department received public comments through public hearings and through an on-line survey. Comments received included requests to review language to ensure that the rules encompass all settings for out-of-home care; include language describing coverage for young adults if eligible; and expand the language for interpretation and translation services to be available at no charge to the parents, guardians, custodians or the CMDP member. The Department reviewed and incorporated comments where applicable in the final rule package in 2015.

8. Economic, small business, and consumer impact comparison:

The Department adopted the rules in Chapter 1 Article 2 under its own title (Title 21. Child Safety) on November 30, 2015. There were no economic, small business, and consumer impact statements prepared as part of the exempt rulemaking.

CMDP is the medical and dental health plan for Medicaid eligible children placed in out-of-home care and functions as the integrated health plan (providing medical, dental and behavioral health services) for children who are not Medicaid eligible. CMDP complies with Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System (AHCCCS) regulations and covers a full scope of services according to the federal mandates of the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis, and Treatment (EPSDT) program. These services range from immunizations, inpatient and outpatient hospital services, physician services, medications, dental services. EPSDT also includes diagnostic, screening, preventive and rehabilitative services. CMDP professional staff and consultants perform consultation, peer review, prior authorization, and utilization and quality management to optimize the delivery of high quality health care services appropriate to the needs of each child. Medical and Dental services are currently reimbursed through a fee-for-service model based upon AHCCCS fee schedules. CMDP also covers services for children in out-of-home care and who reside outside of Arizona when these children remain in DCS custody and do not qualify for Medicaid in the receiving state.

The rules in this article affect small business such as physicians, dentists, therapists, durable medical equipment suppliers, and other health care practitioners. The rules also affect children in out-of-home care, out-of-home care providers, and other state agencies.

Population affected

As of January 31, 2019, there were 13,269 children enrolled in CMDP. Of those children enrolled, approximately 96%, or 12,768 were Medicaid eligible and 4% or 501 were non-Medicaid eligible.

Employees

There are 67 full-time employees working in the CMDP unit within the Department.

Funding

CMDP services are funded through a combination of federal and general fund dollars. Total funding for CMDP is approximately $48 million for state fiscal year 2019. CMDP also seeks funds obtained from the coordination of benefits with third party insurers.

9. Has the agency received any business competitiveness analyses of the rules? Yes ___ No X

10. Has the agency completed the course of action indicated in the agency's previous five-year-review report?

This is the first review of the rules in Title 21, Chapter 1, Article 2. The rules in this Article were made by final exempt rulemaking at 21 A.A.R. 2554, October 30, 2015 and became effective November 30, 2015.

11. A determination that the probable benefits of the rule outweigh within this state the probable costs of the rule, and the rule imposes the least burden and costs to regulated persons by the rule, including paperwork and other compliance costs, necessary to achieve the underlying regulatory objective:

The Department believes the current rules pose the minimum cost and burden on business, the regulated public and on the general public.

12. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal laws? Yes ___ No X

Federal laws 42 U.S.C. Ch. 67, §§ 5101 et seq.; 42 U.S.C. Ch. 7, Subchapters IV/Part B and IV/Part E; and 42 U.S.C. § 670 et seq.

13. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010 that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license, or agency authorization, whether the rules are in compliance with the general permit requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1037 or explain why the agency believes an exception applies:

The Department has determined that A.R.S. § 41-1037 does not apply to these rules because the Department is not proposing a new rule or amendment to an existing rule that require the issuance of a regulatory permit, license or agency authorization.

14. Proposed course of action

The Department has reviewed the current rules and does not plan any additional rulemaking activity for these rules unless there are statutory changes.

The 2019 Fifty-Fourth Legislature-First Regular Session includes an introduction to a bill, which impacts the services currently being provided by CMDP and the current rules. If the bill ultimately passes, the Department will work with the Governor's office to request an exception from the moratorium and approval to proceed with rulemaking to address the needed changes that would result from statute changes, with a target date of completion of January 2021.

GOVERNOR'S REGULATORY REVIEW COUNCIL

ATTORNEY MEMORANDUM - FIVE-YEAR REVIEW REPORT

MEETING DATE: June 4, 2019

TO: Members of the Governor's Regulatory Review Council (Council)

FROM: Council Staff

DATE: May 6, 2019

SUBJECT: ARIZONA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Title 3, Chapter 4, Articles 1-5 and 7-9

This five year review report (5YRR) from the Department of Agriculture relates to all Sections in Title 3, Chapter 4, Articles 1-5 and 7-9 governing the Plant Services Division. The rules address the following:

- Article 1: General Provisions
- Article 2: Quarantine
- Article 3: Nursery Certification Program
- Article 4: Seeds
- Article 5: Colored Cotton
- Article 7: Fruit and Vegetable Standardization
- Article 8: Citrus Fruit Standardization
- Article 9: Biotechnology

In a previous 5YRR for these rules in 2014, the Department proposed to amend a number of rules to address the issues identified therein, but did not proceed with a rulemaking. In the most recent 5YRR for these rules in May 2019, the Department indicated it has submitted a request for an exemption from the rulemaking moratorium to conduct a rulemaking to address the issues identified below and in the report.

Proposed Action

The Department has submitted a request for an exemption from the rulemaking moratorium to conduct a rulemaking to address the issues identified below and in the report.

1. Has the agency analyzed whether the rules are authorized by statute?

Yes. The Department cites to both general and specific authority for these rules.

2. Summary of the agency's economic impact comparison and identification of stakeholders:

The Department has determined that the economic impact does not differ significantly from what was determined in the last economic, small business, and consumer impact statement (EIS) from the most recent rulemaking in 2013.

The stakeholders include the Department, agricultural producers, agricultural importers, and agricultural exporters.

3. Has the agency analyzed the costs and benefits of the rulemaking and determined that the rules impose the least burden and costs to those who are regulated?

The Department has determined that the rules under review provide the least intrusive and least costly method of achieving the regulatory objective. The Department has determined that the costs to regulated persons by the rule, such as paperwork and other compliance costs will be outweighed by the overall benefit of agricultural health and safety.

4. Has the agency received any written criticisms of the rules over the last five years?

No. The Department has not received written criticisms of the rules over the last five years.

5. Has the agency analyzed the rules' clarity, conciseness, and understandability, consistency with other rules and statutes, and effectiveness?

Yes. The Department indicates that a number of the rules are not effective in achieving their objectives. The Department also indicates that a number of its rules are inconsistent with other rules and statutes.

However, the Department states that the rules as they are written are clear, concise, and understandable.

6. Has the agency analyzed the current enforcement status of the rules?

Yes. For the reasons stated in the 5YRR, the Department indicates that the following rules are not enforced as written:

- R3-4-202 (Transportation and Packaging)
- R3-4-204 (Boll Weevil and Pink Bollworm Pests: Interior Quarantine)
- R3-4-218 (Boll Weevil and Pink Bollworm Pests: Exterior Quarantine)
- R3-4-229 (Nut Tree Pests)
- R3-4-231 (Nut Pests)
- R3-4-234 (Nematode Pests)

7. Are the rules more stringent than corresponding federal law and, if so, is there statutory authority to exceed the requirements of federal law?

No. The rules are not more stringent than corresponding federal law.

8. For rules adopted after July 29, 2010, do the rules require a permit or license and, if so, does the agency comply with A.R.S. § 41-1037?

No. The rules do not require a permit or a license. R3-4-301 (Nursery Certification) establishes and sets fees for a voluntary nursery certification program and is not a required permit or license. This rule was adopted and became effective on January 17, 1989.

9. Conclusion

The Department has submitted a requires for an exemption from the rulemaking moratorium to conduct a rulemaking to address the issues with these rules identified above and in the 5YRR. That rulemaking will result in rules that are more clear, concise , understandable, and effective. The amended rules will also be consistent with other applicable statutes and rules. Council staff recommends approval of this report.

PREFACE

Under Arizona law, the Department of State, Office of the Secretary of State (Office), accepts state agency rule filings and is the publisher of Arizona rules. The Office of the Secretary of State does not interpret or enforce rules in the Administrative Code. Questions about rules should be directed to the state agency responsible for the promulgation of the rule.

Scott Cancelosi, Director
ADMINISTRATIVE RULES DIVISION

RULES

The definition for a rule is provided for under A.R.S. § 41-1001. “‘Rule’ means an agency statement of general applicability that implements, interprets, or prescribes law or policy, or describes the procedures or practice requirements of an agency.”

THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE

The Arizona Administrative Code is where the official rules of the state of Arizona are published. The Code is the official codification of rules that govern state agencies, boards, and commissions.

The Code is separated by subject into titles. Titles are divided into chapters. A chapter includes state agency rules. Rules in chapters are divided into Articles, then Sections. The “R” stands for “rule” with a sequential numbering and lettering outline separated into subsections.

Rules are codified quarterly in the Code. Supplement release dates are printed on the footers of each chapter.

First Quarter: January 1 - March 31

Second Quarter: April 1 - June 30

Third Quarter: July 1 - September 30

Fourth Quarter: October 1 - December 31

For example, the first supplement for the first quarter of 2018 is cited as Supp. 18-1.

Please note: The Office publishes by chapter, not by individual rule section. Therefore there might be only a few sections codified in each chapter released in a supplement. Historical notes at the end of a section provide an effective date and information when a rule was last updated.

AUTHENTICATION OF PDF CODE CHAPTERS

The Office began to authenticate chapters of the Administrative Code in Supp. 18-1 to comply with A.R.S. § 41-1012(B) and A.R.S. § 5302(1), (2)(d) through (e), and (3)(d) through (e).

A certification verifies the authenticity of each Code chapter posted as it is released by the Office of the Secretary of State. The authenticated pdf of the Code includes an integrity mark with a certificate ID. Users should check the validity of the signature, especially if the pdf has been downloaded. If the digital signature is invalid it means the document’s content has been compromised.

HOW TO USE THE CODE

Rules may be in effect before a supplement is released by the Office. Therefore, the user should refer to issues of the Arizona Administrative Register for recent updates to rule Sections.

ARIZONA REVISED STATUTE REFERENCES

The Arizona Revised Statutes (A.R.S.) are available online at the Legislature’s website, www.azleg.gov. An agency’s authority note to make rules is often included at the beginning of a chapter. Other Arizona statutes may be referenced in rule under the A.R.S. acronym.

SESSION LAW REFERENCES

Arizona Session Law references in a chapter can be found at the Secretary of State’s website, under Services-> Legislative Filings.

EXEMPTIONS FROM THE APA

It is not uncommon for an agency to be exempt from the steps outlined in the rulemaking process as specified in the Arizona Administrative Procedures Act, also known as the APA (Arizona Revised Statutes, Title 41, Chapter 6, Articles 1 through 10). Other agencies may be given an exemption to certain provisions of the Act.

An agency’s exemption is written in law by the Arizona State Legislature or under a referendum or initiative passed into law by Arizona voters.

When an agency files an exempt rulemaking package with our Office it specifies the law exemption in what is called the preamble of rulemaking. The preamble is published in the Register online at www.azsos.gov/rules, click on the Administrative Register link.

Editor’s notes at the beginning of a chapter provide information about rulemaking sections made by exempt rulemaking. Exempt rulemaking notes are also included in the historical note at the end of a rulemaking Section.

The Office makes a distinction to certain exemptions because some rules are made without receiving input from stakeholders or the public. Other exemptions may require an agency to propose exempt rules at a public hearing.

EXEMPTIONS AND PAPER COLOR

At one time the office published exempt rules on either blue or green paper. Blue meant the authority of the exemption was given by the Legislature; green meant the authority was determined by a court order. In 2001 the Office discontinued publishing rules using these paper colors.

PERSONAL USE/COMMERCIAL USE

This chapter is posted as a public courtesy online, and is for private use only. Those who wish to use the contents for resale or profit should contact the Office about Commercial Use fees. For information on commercial use fees review A.R.S. § 39-121.03 and 1 A.A.C. 1, R1-1-113.

This paragraph does not authorize the associate director to perform inspections solely for the purposes set forth in this paragraph.

3-204. Summary abatement of imminently dangerous nuisance; procedure; expense; lien; public sale; reimbursement costs and penalties to state for certain abatements; civil penalty.

A. If, in the opinion of the director, the danger to the agricultural and horticultural industry of the state is imminent if the nuisance caused by a plant or thing is not speedily abated or suppressed, and if the director finds it is practical to summarily abate the nuisance, either by the destruction of the plant or thing or by the treatment thereof so as to destroy or eradicate the crop pest or disease without actually destroying the plant or thing, the director shall in writing direct the owner or person in charge of the nuisance, if the owner or person is found in the county, forthwith and at the owner's or person's expense to abate and suppress the nuisance in the manner provided in the written direction. If the owner or person in charge fails or neglects to comply with the direction for a period of five days after the date on which the direction was delivered to or served on the owner or person, the director shall summarily abate the nuisance in the manner specified in the written direction.

B. If the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance is a nonresident of the state or cannot, after reasonable diligence by the director, be found within the county where the nuisance exists, the director shall publish the notice and the direction one time in a newspaper published in the county, and shall post a copy at, on or in the immediate vicinity of the nuisance, and after seven days from the first publication and posting, the director shall abate the nuisance in the manner specified in the direction.

C. If the nuisance is abated by the director, the expense shall be borne by the state, but, when the abatement does not involve the destruction of the plant or thing and it has some value after the crop pest or disease has been eradicated, the state shall have a first claim and lien thereon for the payment of expenses incurred in the abatement of the nuisance.

D. The director shall notify the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance of the amount of the expenses, and that unless the amount is paid within ten days after the date of service of the notice on the owner or person in charge, the plant or thing will be sold at public sale, and the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, applied to the payment of the expenses. The notice shall be personally served or posted as required in this section for notices to abate.

E. If the owner or person in charge of the plant or thing fails to pay the expenses within the time specified in the notice, the director shall give public notice of the time and place of sale with a description of the plant or thing to be sold, and the amount of expenses against it, which shall include costs of publication, posting and service of notice. The notice of sale shall be published and posted as provided in this section for the publication and posting of direction to suppress the nuisance.

F. The owner or person in charge of a plant or thing constituting the nuisance may waive in writing the service of all directions and notices in connection with the abatement or sale thereof.

G. If the director is required to abate the nuisance of stub, soca or volunteer cotton following the refusal by the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance to do so, the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance shall reimburse the department for the actual costs of the state's abatement of the nuisance. An injunction shall not be granted to stay this state from abating the nuisance. The director may request the cotton research and protection council to provide monies pursuant to section 3-1085, subsection B to help defray the department's cost of abatement until the owner or person in charge reimburses the department for those costs. If the actual costs of abatement are not paid within ten days after the owner or person in charge receives notice of the amount of the costs, the director may impose a civil penalty of fifty per cent of the costs of abatement. At the director's request, the attorney general shall file an action in superior court to recover civil penalties assessed pursuant to this subsection. All civil penalties collected under this subsection shall be deposited, pursuant to sections 35-146 and 35-147, in the dangerous plants, pests and diseases trust fund established by section 3-214.01.

3-205. Abatement of nuisance not imminently dangerous; procedure; lien; foreclosure; release of lien; reimbursement costs and penalties to state for certain abatements; civil penalty.

- A. If the director believes the danger to the agricultural and horticultural industry is not imminent, or if impractical for any reason to summarily abate the nuisance, as described in sections 3-203, 3-204, 3-206 and 3-207, the director shall not require summary destruction or eradication, but shall set forth the measures required to be taken by the owner or person in charge to control, suppress or eradicate the danger, and shall require the person, at the person's expense, to take and comply with the measures specified in the direction and subsequent directions.
- B. The directions shall be made, given and served as prescribed for summary abatement, and if they are not complied with, the director may proceed as provided by the directions, and the expense shall be charged against the state.
- C. If the plant or thing constituting the nuisance consists only of personalty and is not attached to land or contained in a building, enclosure, vehicle or place belonging to the person, the state shall have the same lien and it is enforceable in the same manner as provided for summary abatement of the nuisance under section 3-204.
- D. If the plant or thing is attached to land or contained in a building, enclosure or vehicle that is the property of the person, the lien shall also attach to the land, building, enclosure or vehicle, and the director shall prepare and file in the office of the county recorder where the property is situated a notice of the lien, setting forth the amount and the name of the owner or person in charge, and stating that the amount of the lien shall be paid within thirty days from filing the notice, or otherwise the property will be subjected to payment thereof.
- E. The lien shall be prior to all other liens against the property except liens for state and county taxes. If the amount of the lien is not paid within the thirty days, the county attorney, on written request of the director, shall foreclose the lien against the property impressed therewith as other liens are foreclosed.
- F. On satisfaction of the lien, the director shall issue a release of the lien to the person against whom the lien was claimed. Such release shall be a document in a form as specified in section 11-480.
- G. If the director is required to abate the nuisance of stub, soca or volunteer cotton following the refusal by the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance to do so, the owner or person in charge or control of the nuisance shall reimburse the department for the actual costs of the state's abatement of the nuisance. An injunction shall not be granted to stay this state from abating the nuisance. The director may request the cotton research and protection council to provide monies pursuant to section 3-1085, subsection B to help defray the department's cost of abatement until the owner or person in charge reimburses the department for those costs. If the actual costs of abatement are not paid within ten days after the owner or person in charge receives notice of the amount of the costs, the director may impose a civil penalty of one hundred fifty per cent of the costs of abatement. At the director's request, the attorney general shall file an action in superior court to recover civil penalties assessed pursuant to this subsection. All civil penalties collected under this subsection shall be deposited, pursuant to sections 35-146 and 35-147, in the dangerous plants, pests and diseases trust fund established by section 3-214.01.

C. When the director finds the danger which caused the establishment of a prohibited zone is no longer present, he shall revoke the order establishing the zone, and may by order change or modify the order establishing a zone or applicable rules without notice or hearing, but no additional territory shall by subsequent order be added to or included within the boundaries of the zone except by notice and hearing as required for establishing the zone.

D. After the date on which the director enters the order establishing a zone, it shall be unlawful to plant, grow or cultivate, or have in, or to transport from or into the district any plant of the kind specified in the order except in accordance with the order or subsequent orders.

Common carriers shall be immediately notified of the declaration of quarantine and are prohibited from transporting quarantined products or pests and diseases associated with the quarantined products from the designated places into the state.

B. Any person who brings or causes to be brought into the state plants, fruits, vegetables or agricultural or horticultural products is subject to either of the following procedures:

The inspector may instruct the person, at a properly signed border inspection station, to hold the shipment at the place where it is to be received, without unnecessarily moving or placing it where it may be harmful, for immediate inspection of the inspector, and shall not deliver the shipment to the person entitled to it until furnished with a certificate of release by the inspector.

C. If a person does not obtain a certificate of release as prescribed by subsection B, the person shall, immediately after arrival in this state, notify the inspector of the place where the shipment will be received, and hold it, without unnecessarily moving or placing it where it may be harmful for immediate inspection of the inspector, and shall not deliver the shipment to the person entitled to it until furnished with a certificate of release by the inspector.

B. The director may bring an action under this section in superior court in the county in which a violation is alleged to have occurred. On finding a knowing violation, the court may assess the civil penalty in an amount it considers appropriate, but not exceeding five thousand dollars for each violation. In determining the amount of the penalty, the court shall consider at least the following items:
